In the Haddington Sheriff Court a retired miner of Glasgow, sued his sons, miners, at New Winton, for payment of ailment on the ground of his poverty. For the defence it was stated that the father and mother were each in receipt of old age pensions, and that they resided with a daughter-in-law, who did not exact the full amount coming in weekly, and the old couple were expending their balance in paying the premium of insurance upon the policy of another daughter who was married to a soldier in India. Sheriff MacLeod intimated that if the old people were in receipt of old age pensions they would get nothing from the court.

Pawnbroker's 1,000 Per Cent.

Mr. James P. Patterson was fined $250 at Omagh, with a recommendation that it be reduced to $60, for having carried on the business of a pawnbroker without a license. Mr. Whitfield, the Supervisor of Inland Revenue, said that in one case the defendant charged over 500 per cent., and in two others over 1,000 per cent. on the articles pawned.

A Mock Sun.

A mock sun of exceptional brilliance and persistence, and accompanied by rare phenomena, was seen at Ayr. The mock sun began to appear faintly before sunrise, directly above the sun, and it brightened as the sun came up, till it was conspicuous as a luminous mass of light on the upper circumference of a large ring round the sun. The mock sun was visible for over two hours.

MOTHER OF THE STAGE

Mrs. Billington is Active, Though in Her 88th Year

Mrs. Billington, the famous actress of the Victoria era has entered upon her eighty-eighth year. Despite her age she is still bright and active, and clearly recalls her association with such great names as those of Macready, Jefferson, Benjamin Webster, Paul Bedford and J. L. Toole.

"I think I can claim to be the 'mother' of the stage," she said, in the course of an interview. For I followed the profession for nearly seventy years. The stage was different in those days. What a contrast in salaries.

"I was at the Adelphi for sixteen years and for the first six of them got $7 a week. In those days the leading actors, with the exception of one or two others, never received more than $60 a week.

"It was at the Adelphi that I once received a great compliment from Charles Dickens. I was playing in 'No Thoroughfare,' which Dickens in conjunction with Wilkie Collins.

"After witnessing the performance, the great author said to the manager, 'I never thought I would have cried or shed a tear at my own work, as I have been made to do by Mrs. Billington's performance.'"

WAR AEROPLANE AT WORK

Seppings Wright sends a graphic description of an Italian war aeroplane at work over a Turkish retirement after a fight in Tripoli. He says: "An aeroplane which had been busy all day now gave us a show and floated over the chief lines of retreat, stimulating straggiers wonderfully. The scene from aloft must have been interesting—a line of hurrying, scurrying dots traversing the sand dunes—an abomination of desolation. Heavy rain and thunder clouds, formed a background against which the smoke of bursting shells showed up white. These aeroplanes, even in their present stage of development, are quite enough to keep hostile camps on the move, and it seems to me that it will be almost impossible for future generals to establish permanent headquarters, unless in an underground, bomb-proof camp. The evening closed i with unusual splendor. The aeroplane darted off like a dragon-fly towards Tripoli, leaving us to the darkness, the silence and the safety of the desert."

IN GOLDEN CITY

A Glimpse of The Life in The Northern Mining Town.

Picture a street of frame buildings, 90 per cent. of which are shops, running from a slight knoll at one end and terminating at a picturesque little lake. Such is the main street of Golden City. The buildings as a rule are one story, many of which have a false front built up to resemble a two-story building. Towards the lake stand a number of log buildings, some of them quite pretentious structures, the logs nicely hewn and fitted together, making a very cosy-looking habitation. Two banks—the Traders and Imperial—are housed in real dinky little log cabins and are certainly a strange contrast to the magnificent homes these same banks do business in in Hamilton, Toronto, and the other large cities of Canada.

Of course this one street does not comprise the whole town by any means, but it is here that most of the business is done, and where most of that is worth while is to be seen.

Mining towns are never slow to provide some form of amusement, and though northern Ontario mining towns are minus that great western place of vice, the music hall, still we generally find a theater, good billiard rooms and a hall that is rented for dance parties.

In one week this hall was occupied by two political meetings, Liberal and Conservative, a dance, a prize fight, and on the Sunday a church service was held. It was also a place of refuge for many fire sufferers who slept there on the floor a few nights until they were able to find more suitable accommodation.

It is against the law to sell liquor within four miles of a mining district in Ontario, but the place is supplied with numerous soft drink saloons, most of which are furnished with pool tables and some do an illicit liquor trade on the side, it is alleged. A piano is generally part of their equipment. As a rule a paid piano player thumps the keys through the afternoon and evening, but anyone who has the ability is at liberty to amuse himself on it as well. Much talent is to be found here. Frequently, a happy crowd gathered around and good old songs are sung again; such pieces as Annie Laurie, Old Black Joe, Swanee River, and many other old-time airs. Old songs bring back old memories. Here are gathered men of all types and nations—the nativeborn, American, English, Scotch, Irish, Dutch, Swede and Latin races, composed of miners young and old, in long boots and tan overalls, and generally coatless if it is summer time. Winter varies the attire to shoepacks, makinaw coat and trousers and heavy cap. Sometimes a prospector just in stands in soiled and faded clothes and several weeks' growth of untrimmed beard. The spick and span travelling man or clerk mixes here and there, but clothes do not count for much and little notice it taken of what you wear.

GIFT OF $300,000

The Czar's Munificent Present to Princess Helene of Servia

The Czar has personally made Princess Helene of Servia, who was recently married to Grand Duke Johann of Russia, a present of $300,000 as her dowry. When the marriage of the Princess was arranged, King Peter of Servia intimated that the people of Servia would give her a dowry of $300,000 and a bill was introduced into the Skuptschina to provide the necessary appropriation, but it met with considerable opposition, not because the legislators were opposed to the grant, but because the Servian Trtasury was almost empty and the people found it difficult to pay their taxes. Finally, however the bill was passed by the scant majority of three votes. In the meantime the story of the difficulties made by the Skuptschina reached the ears of the Czar, who telegraphed his ambassador at Belgrade to ask King Peter to refuse to sign the bill. The telegram was followed by a personal letter to King Peter from Czar Nicholas in which he asked the king to thank the people of Servia for their willingness to present their princess with a suitable dowry, and to ask their permission to let him provide the dowry, as he quite understood that the Servians could not afford to give so large a sum. King Peter thanked the Czar for his generosity in the name of his people.

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

Use Wyeth Sage and Sulphur and Your Gray Hair Will Quickly Vanish

Gray hair is a mark of age, and nothing that can be said as to its beauty will offset the disadvantages of this mark of age set upon your brow.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy darkens the hair and restores it to its youthful beauty. Our grandmothers and their grandmothers before them used sage and sulphur for darkening their hair. Nothing has ever been found more effective for this purpose than these two time-honoured remedies, but Wyeth, a modern chemist, has combined the two with other ingredients, which makes a delightful hair dressing for the hair, and which not only removes every trace of dandruff but promotes the growth of the hair. It also stops the hair from falling out, and makes it beautiful.

All druggists are authorized to refund the money if it fails to do exactly as represented.

Don't neglect your hair and don't resort to old-time hair dyes. Get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist to-day, and notice the difference in your hair after a few days' use.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Asylum In New York State Overcrowded

Albany, Feb. 19.—At the close of the last fiscal year there were in the various institutions of New York State 33,311 committed insane patients, according to the annual report of the State Commission in Lunacy. Of this number, 31,051 patients were confined in state hospitals, of whom 14,569 were men and 16,482 women. There were 711 patients at home on parole at the close of the year, the total number paroled during the year being 783.

The commission reports that new cases requiring commitment totalled 5,573, of whom 2,956 were men and 2,617 women. There were 1,383 relapsed cases requiring recommitment, while 165 persons availed themselves of the provisions of the voluntary commitment law and placed themselves under treatment at the state hospitals.

That the institutions of the state are in an overcrowded condition is shown by the fact that their capacity was exceeded by 3,043.

During the year 1,628 patients were discharged as recovered; 478 were reported as much improved and 885 as improved. The deaths were 2,885. Excluding transfers, the recoveries increased slightly over the previous year, being 23.4 per cent. The death rate also increased, amounting to 75 per thousand, based on the number under commitment.

MORAL AND PHYSICAL HEALTH HINTS

It is a well known fact that in women the vital grasp, tenacity of life, if we may so term it, is stronger than it is in man.

When you educate a boy, you perhaps educate a man; but, when you educate a girl, you are laying the foundation for the education of a family.

Muscle and nerve and intellect do not develop and grow strong upon sensational literature and fancy work, and this is why girls at this age often grow morbid, sentimental and self-conscious.

If, from the exuberance of health and vitality, the girl should chance to make as much noise as a boy, she should not be checked or repressed, while he is sent out of doors to have his frolic out.

Walking, running, horseback-riding, lawn tennis, swimming, rowing, skating, bowling, handball and general gymnastics, are the exercises best adapted to girls, and, for that matter, to any persons who wish a healthful and well-balanced rather than an abnormal physical development.

Relating ghost stories and other frightful tales to children has frequently exercised an injuries influence for life. At the same time remember that they love stories, and delight to have them told again and again. Always give them a moral turn of character. Set before your children exmples of cleanliness, order, punctuality, delicacy, politeness and proper care of manner.

LOSS OF PIGTAILS

Halifax, Feb. 17.—Maybe you have been wondering how those Chinese republicans look since they cut off their queues, according to the following note sent to a friend here by a missionary near Swatow, in China:

"All the world must be thinking a great deal about China just now. Here in the South we are all republicans. This is a country place, and everything is very quiet here. The only sign of the change is that pigtails are going rapidly. One can't help feeling sorry, they are so very picturesque. Now the Chinese look exactly like Japanese, but the loss of the pigtail improves their general appearance. The shaven head was very unbecoming.

"Happily for us, there has been no fighting or disturbance at all here. Swatow was taken possession of by the republicans without any resistance at all. Only a few magistrates felt any difficulties. One was shot, one committed suicide, and one has run away and is in hiding. I am afraid there will be a lot of trouble, and a lot of misery before all is settled, as the royalists seem to be holding their own in Hanvang and farther north.

"Our students and schoolboys are all tremendously excited. Some of the schoolboys ran away to enlist, but the people in Swatow said they had plenty of men, and didn't want them, so they came back crestfallen, and as a punishment have to write out two verses in Proverbs a hundred times about getting into error if they don't obey their teachers."

"That fellow is too slick for me. Sold me a lot that was two feet under water. I went around to demand my money back."

"Get it?"

"Get nothing! Then he sold me a gasoline launch and a copy of 'Venetian Life,' by W. D. Howells."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Miss Virginia Futrelle, daughter of Jacques Futrelle, the author, is noted for her precocity when she was a child. Her father tells this story of her:

One day when she was a little girl Virginia ran into the house and told her mother that there was a lion loose on the beach near their home at Scituate. The mother, thinking to curb what might be a tendency to white lying, reproved her.

"You go right upstairs and get down on your knees," she said, "and 'you see, sah, it's dis way—Ah wears boots.'"—Washington Star.

ABOUT MARRIAGE

Tolerat[illegible] the mother of happiness in married existence. Mutual understanding of their human shortcoming by the contracting parties to a marriage and mutual effort to make allowance for them would avert much of the unhappiness of husbands and wives in society and out of it.

Often have I stood in a church, either as best man or usher, at the wedding of some of my friends, with an almost irresistible desire to warn them against the pitfalls confronting them if they failed to realize the duties imposed upon them by the sacred bond in which they were being united.

"FALSE FOUNDATION"

There, while the pealing organ and the sunlight filtering through the stained glass windows enhanced the solemn beauty of the scene, my thoughts have drifted back to similar holy atmospheres that might have continued in the hearts of the happy couples that have stood there before the altar and pledged eternal love and devotion if they had made a real effort to retain the love, the respect and devotion of the other.

I have recalled how many times instead they have drifted apart, even to the dissolution of their union, because of no other reason than they had builded on a false foundation.

They overlooked the fact that the happiest marriages are often those which are founded upon something more substantial than mere affection; that each of the partners must feel that mutual respect, that desire to do justice one to the other, which constitutes a lasting foundation of happiness.

The man and wife who would find and retain the precious gem of wedded bliss, must realize that they must share alike their troubles and their joys, bearing together the cross, and never attempting to shift its burden entirely upon the shoulders of one of them.

IGNORANT OF LIFE'S BATTLE

So many couples go before the altar of God, radiantly happy, but frequently ignorant of the great battle of life that lies before them. When many years have elapsed, even though the romantic side of love may have vanished to some extent, they will, if their union has a foundation of which the cornerstone is mutual respect and friendship, be enabled to avoid the rocks that bring disaster and woe so often into married life.

Familiarity is said to breed contempt, and certain it is that marriages, although possibly made in heaven, have to be lived on earth. Yet when age has supplanted the beauty and fire of youth, a couple can still hold on to their happiness by cultivating sympathy for each other's feelings, as well as mutual respect and appreciation of each other's good points.

The Best Cough Syrup is Easily Made at Home

Costs Little and Acts Quickly. Money Refunded If It Fails.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup, and saves you about $3.00 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It stops obstinate coughs—even whooping cough—in a hurry, and is splendid for sore lungs, asthma, croup, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Tastes good.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this recipe, although strained honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe. This plan has often been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equaled. Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

EDISON 65

Thomas A. Edison is sixty-five.

"It's a good age to begin your useful years," he said in an interview the other day. "You begin to think you know a few things from experience."

"Once you said a man should live to 150 years"—the questioner began. At once the sage of Menlo Park broke in:

"I'm as active as twenty years ago, and feel as competent. It's a matter of a short time when we will be sure we can live to 150 years. If a community should stop short and follow the teachings of Canarii—or spirillars and bacteria—there is no reason why the life of the coming people should not reach 150 years.

LONG LIVES THROUGH HEREDITY

"Our life is relative to that of our ancestors. If they led a good one it lengthens ours from ten to sixteen years. If we in turn did nothing to shorten it there would be added thirty years more.

"Forms of germ life pro-e ft. Some go on and on and on. There's the sequoia, the big California red tree. It has lived 6,000 years.

"If one form of organism can do that, why not another?

"We humans are up against bacteria, infusoria, spirilars. They're trying to live off us; we're good farms for them. We must adjust ourselves to them or conquer them. They are our balance in nature—in the animal kingdom; enemies to overcome.

"Years ago Minnesota's Legislature offered a bounty for coyotes. Rabbits began to overrun the State. The bounty had to be rescinded and the State began to try to breed coyotes, which are hard to breed. That is what I mean by the balance of nature. This special adjustment the Legislature disturbed.

"Man is balanced against germs. Some are malignant and some are innocuous. As they disappear he flourishes—as those rabbits did.

TALKS OF FALLING DEATH RATE

"To-day the death rate in most cities is much less than it used to be. Our modern knowledge of care of the infectious, isolation and of preventive measures brings it down.

"It will continue to bring it down as politics allows it to. Boards of health do the best they can—politics don't run along equally with science."

"What can the individual do, aside from the community precautios, sanitary and disease prevention, etc., to prolong life?" Mr. Edison was asked. He answered:

"A man can take everything as it comes, calamity—he's not running the universe. If things go wrong, no one need worry about it, for things do go wrong.

"Analyse most of these worriments and you'll find that they're from bad organizations. These usually result from excessive eating.

"Down in Wall Street, if a man asks you to lunch he thinks you ought to have two or three cocktails first.

"Now, cocktails mostly defeat nature's own system of taking care of digestion. I know nothing more devilish than the concoction called a cocktail."

Mr. Edison, being specifically urged, added this:

TELLS OF HIS "WORST HABIT"

"My wife thinks my worst habit is chewing tobacco. I got it when they forbade my smoking in a telegraph office. The trouble with man is that when he takes up morphine or tobacco or whiskey or eating he overdoes it. Especially eating. Eating is too much of a function. If you found out you would probably learn that Harriman died from too much eating for the amount of fuel he needed.

"Children ought to be taught at table to eat little. Four tons of coal should not be piled into a boiler that needs only two tons. As a matter of fact, we take two and a half times more feed than we require—and that adds some to your cost of living. It may feel good to eat more than you need or want, but it's a poor proposition and not scientific."

HOW STAGE LOST DICKENS

There be many reasons why the an author. He would have been but ceremony a tribute to Dickens. He wanted to be an actor before he was stage should pay with all pomp and for a face ache. When he was a lad and a lawyer's clerk he had attained a trial of his power of reproducing "character and oddity" before Mathews and Charles Kemble. But a face ache kept him at home, and soon after he "made a great splash" as a newspaper reporter. Thereafter he reproduced "character and oddity" on paper instead of the stage.

10,000 HUNTERS

OTTAWA, FEB. 20.—During the hunting season last November it is estimated that over 10,000 hunters went into the Highlands of Ontario for deer and moose, according to statistics just compiled. There were 174 non-resident licenses issued, which covered the shooting of deer and moose, 9,500 resident deer licenses, and 640 resident moose licenses. Of course there were a great many more hunters in the woods than are represented by licenses, as every bona fide farmer north and west of Muskoka and Haliburton was entitled to kill one deer for his own use, without having to take out a license. The estimate is that probably 10,000 deer and moose were killed during the open season.

INFORMATION REGARDING TUBERCULOSIS IN CATTLE

Extracts From the Report of International Commission Who Studied the Situation.

AN INTERESTING SUBJECT

In view of the recent discussion, dealing with the inspection of meat and milk, the following excerpts from a treatise prepared by the International Commission on the Control of Bovine Tuberculosis issued at Ottawa, Nov. 1st, 1911, may be of interest to those who are considering the subject:

Tuberculosis is contagious or "catching". It spreads from cow to cow, in a herd, until most of them are effected. This may not attract much notice from the owner, as the disease is slow to develop and a cow may be affected with it for several months, and sometimes, years, before any signs of ill health are to be seen.

This slow development is the chief reason for the great loss it causes the farmer. He does not suspect its presence in his herd until, perhaps, a large number are diseased. Tuberculosis is slow and hidden in its course and thus arouses no suspicion until great damage is done.

The importance of the disease must be estimated from two points of view; first, the loss it entails upon the danger of communication to human beings. The aggregate of the losses among cattle and hogs is enormous, amounting to millions of dollars every year, besides materially decreasing the food supply of the country.

Turning to the other aspect of the case, the danger of infection of human beings with tuberculosis from cattle, we have only to consider a few facts to realize its vital importance to every community.

Milk is the staple food of infants, and young children, and is usually taken in a raw state. If this milk is from a cow affected with tuberculosis it may contain millions of living tubercle germs. Young children, fed on such milk often contract the disease, and it is a frequent cause of death among them.

Meat from cattle so affected is not so likely to convey the infection, for several reasons. It does not so frequently contain the germs; cooking destroys those that may be present, and lastly, meat is not consumed by very young children.

It must be clearly remembered that cattle may be very badly diseased and yet show no symptoms of ill health. They may be sleek and apparently in good health, while their linings and other organs are full of tubercles. Such cases can only be detected by the tuberculin test.

Once the tubercle bacillus, the germ of the disease, has gained lodgment inside the body of an animal, it begins to grow and multiply. It gets longer, and when full grown, divides crosswise, making two out of one. Each of those goes through the same process, the 4 wobecomes four, the four eight, the eight sixteen, and so on, indefinitely.

This multiplication takes place quite rapidly when conditions are favourable, a few hours only being required for the birth of each generation. Nature, however, does not permit this process to continue long without offering some resistance. The forces of the body are aroused to action and a battle begins between the tissues of the body and the army of the invaders.

Nature Combats Germs.

The first line of defence is composed of the white cells of the blood, which hurry to the scene of action, and endeavour to destroy the invaders, by eating them up. Sometimes they are successful, and the bacilli are destroyed and the infection checked. Often they fail in their object and are themselves destroyed, and the multiplication of the germs continues.

The second line of defence is found by the cells of the tissue invaded by the germs. These cells arrange themselves in a circle around the germs, and try to form a living wall between them and the rest of the body. This barrier gradually becomes thicker and thicker, and forms a little hard lump or tubercle, from which the disease gets its name. If this wall is complete and successfully imprisons the bacilli, these gradually die, and the disease, in that particular spot, is arrested.

Frequently, however, both these safeguards are overcome. The germs break through the barriers, and are carried in the blood stream, or lymph channels to other parts of the body. As the tubercles increase in number, the power of the body to grapple with them becomes less and less, and gradually the animal falls a prey to the disease.

The tubercle bacillus does not multiply outside of the body of the animal. It can live for a long time in favourable surroundings, such as dark and dirty stables. Sunlight soon destroys it. Freezing does not hurt it, but it can only stand a moderate amount of heat, exposure to 149 degrees Fahrenheit for twenty minutes destroys it.

Dealing with the question of how the disease spreads, the report says that when the udder is tuberculous, the milk contains the germs in vast numbers.

Such milk may look and taste perfectly good, but readily transmits the disease to young animals. It is very dangerous to children.

The report deals in detail with the manner in which the disease may be spread among cows in a herd.

Tuberculosis develops so slowly that in many cases it is months, and sometimes years, before symptoms are shown. During this period, the infected animals cannot be distiguished from the healthy ones in an ordinary way.

There is a test, however, which does no harm to the healthy cattle, yet detects the diseased ones practically without fail. This is known as the tuberculin test, because the substance used in making it is called tuberculin.

The rest of the report deals with sanitation, ventilation, cleanliness, and other means of prevention and suppression.

A WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE

With Newbro's Herpicide

While there are no thrills in the narration of Mrs. P. T. Nichols, 623 Broad St., Beloit, Wis., her story is nevertheless one of amazing interest. "Stricken with neuralgia and erysipelas, I lost all my hair. My doctor recommended Newbro's Herpicide. I used six or eight bottles, and now have a fine head of slightly curly light brown hair. Not a gray hair in my head. This is the more remarkable as I am middle-aged."

While the results which follow the use of Newbro's Herpicide are always more or less astonishing, they are always natural. Herpicide destroys the dandruff germ, stimulates the flow of blood to the hair follicles and keeps the scalp perfectly healthy. It makes possible a natural and luxuriant growth of hair, except in cases of chronic baldness.

While remedies said to be "every bit as good" as Newbro's Herpicide are frequently offered, one should insist upon having the original germ destroyer, Herpicide. That is genuine. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

For sale at all drug stores. One dollar size bottles are guaranteed. Applications may be obtained at good barber shops. Send 10c in postage for sample to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., or McDermid and Jury, and Payne's Drug Store, Special Agents, Peterborough, Ont.

A GOOD REPUTATION

Any firm's business is largely built up on its reputation for fair dealing. This is particularly true of an Insurance Company. You don't want a policy in a company that, when your fire loss occurs, is going to squeeze you and hold off as long as possible. You want your loss fairly settled and promptly paid. The Company that has earned in the last three quarters of a century perhaps the greatest reputation for liberal and prompt loss settlements is the Liverpool and London and Globe. See that you have its protection. Agent, W. H. Hill.

TO BE ENLARGED

An encouragingly large increase in business has decided the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to enlarge its Fort William elevators at a cost of $500,000. Construction is to be started at once, and according to present estimates, the work should be finished by August 15th. There will be built altogether 116 bins, giving an extra capacity of 2,502,500 bushels of grain, and this, bringing the total up to 6,000,000 bushels, will make them the largest elevators in the world.

PROMISED REIGN OF THE MESSIAH

Glorious Time When All the Nations of the Earth Shall Be Blessed.

Calcutta, Feb. 18.—The Foreign Missions Investigation Committee, appointed by the International Bible Students Association, is here. The Committee expedite their work by each giving special attention to a different feature of their investigation. This is their third week in India and they have already traveled nearly two thousand miles. They are keenly interested in the heathen and in the Bible, but they decline to give in advance any hint of what their report will be as respects the missionaries and their work.

Pastor Russell, Chairman of the Committee, preached twice to-day to large and attentive audiences in our finest Auditorium. One of his addresses, from Jeremiah ix, 23, 24, we report. He said:

Your "City of Palaces" greatly impresses me, as doubtless it does all who visit it. But as I look at its splendor I am reminded of that portion of my text which declares, "Let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth Me, that I am the Lord, which exerciseth loving-kindness, judgment and righteousness in the earth." Wherever we go we perceive that man, by virtue of his creation, is a worshiper. The organs of reverence and spirituality, although only partially developed and much shattered by ignorance and superstition, are to be found in every man and their position is the very highest in his organism. My journey to this city has impressed this thought deeply.

I stopped en route at Juggernaut; the very name called up the stories of my childhood which so greatly aroused my sympathies for the poor heathen. Missionary reports told of how in ignorance the natives would throw themselves before the great Car of Juggernaut, feeling it an honor to thus sacrifice their lives to a false god. And now, here I am on the Ganges River, of which in childhood I heard so much that thrilled my heart with sympathy—how mothers threw their babes into the Ganges, not because they had no sympathy with their offspring, but because they desired to sacrifice to and propitiate their gods. Now that I am here I do thank God that, although the heathen have not been converted to a true knowledge of the great Jehovah, they have, nevertheless, come under the strong hand of the British Government, which, whatever its defects, seeks at least to protect its subjects from the extremes of their own ignorance and superstition.

While it is true that the worst form of government imaginable is preferable to anarchy, and while it is also true that the British Government is amongst the most just in the world, nevertheless, no government that fallen man has ever made or can make can ever satisfy the ideals of the more intelligent. Hence for centuries the heathen world has dreamed of a Golden Age to come and Bible Students have rejoiced in the Divine promise that the Messianic Kingdom will follow our present arrangement and that it will be proved to be "the desire of all nations."

Oh, since we perceive the ignorance and superstition of heathendom, our hearts cry out for the promised reign of Messiah and the blessing that then will accrue to mankind! The very best that we have yet attained, in the most civilized lands, comes far short of the Divine promise of the conditions to prevail as a result of Messiah's rule. Then all ignorance, all superstition, all sin, all sorrow, all pain, all death shall be abolished and finally, with the wilfully wicked destroyed in the Second Death, the time will have come when God's will shall be done on earth as fully, as completely, as it is now done in heaven. When "every knee shall bow and every tongue confess" to the glory of God; when "the knowledge of the glory of the Lord shall fill the whole earth as the waters cover the great deep"; when "no man will need say to his neighbor, know thou the Lord, for all shall know Him from the least of them to the greatest of them"—it is for that glorious Epoch, my dear hearers, that we should all be hoping, longing, praying, and striving to prepare ourselves.

Saint Paul wrote, "Now we know in part, but then we shall know even as also we are known." (I. Corinthians xiii. 12.) Alas! every true Christian must realize how its own knowledge of God and that of his forefathers has so slightly exceeded the knowledge of the heathen and that he found it difficult to "glory" in his understanding of God! Only those who are adherents to the declarations of the Bible that "God is Love," that His mercy endureth ever, that He is like a pitying father, that He is the God of All Grace, the Father of Mercies, the length, breadth, height and depth of whose loving-kindness we cannot measure—only such have the assurances which enable them to offset the horrible theories of our creeds formulated in a darker past and which told us more horrible things respecting our God and His treatment of mankind than our poor heathen brethren ever imagined.

But now the better day is dawning! We are seeing the glorious outlines of the Divine character in the Divine Plan as never before! Our hearts first led the way and rebelled against the dictum of our fallacious reasoning. And now, in God's due time, when nature is yielding up her secrets and chemistry is making the world anew, behold, the key to the Divine Word is thrust into our hands, unlocking its mysteries and explaining its parabolic symbols to our astonished faith! But alas! meantime many of the brightest minds of the world have rejected the Bible, many of them even denying the personality of the Creator; and so far have these gone in the substitution of human wisdom for Divine Revelation that it seems impossible for them to return to the paths of faith.

Now, however, is the time for all of those who have a hungering and thirsting after God and His righteousness to begin afresh the study of His word in the light of the morning of this New Dispensation. Not only is this necessary for our own comfort and establishment, but it is necessary also in the interests of others before whom we stand as bulwarks of the Truth, having on the whole Armor of God, the Helmet of Salvation, the Shield of Faith, the Breastplate of Righteousness, the Sword of the Spirit—necessary for self-protection and for the aid of all who "are feeling after God if haply they might find Him."—Acts xvii, 27.

Our Redeemer declared, "This is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true and living God, and Jesus Christ, whom Thou hast sent." Evidently the great Teacher had in mind the thought of our text—not merely a knowledge about God, but an acquaintanceship with Him, such as can come only through a fellowship of spirit and an understanding of the Divine Program. None, however, are permitted to come to such intimate knowledge except as they shall manifest heart-loyalty. Each step of progress in our loyalty to God brings that attitude of mind which is pleasing to Him and which, when thoroughly demonstrated, will be rewarded with everlasting life. Thus knowledge is intimately bound up with our eternal prospects.

Earth's teeming millions know not God. Even those portions called Christian worship the true God with but slight appreciation of His true character. None of these, therefore, are in the condition to claim everlasting life according to the teaching of the Master. They are the non-elect, in contrast with the faithful few, who are Scripturally styled "God's Elect," "the Very Elect," and who are urged to make their calling and election sure by persevering loyalty even unto death.

In our blindness of the past, assuming that all the non-elect would be consigned to an eternity of torture, we have published in our missionary reports that ninety thousand every day go down into death, into Christless graves—and, by inference, into eternal torture. Alas, how misunderstood and how unintentionally misrepresented has been our gracious Father, the God of All Grace, the Father of Mercies.

Now we read His character in fairer lines as we perceive that the fulfilment of His great and wonderful plan for the salvation of the world is merely beginning—that the election of the Church to be the Bride of Christ and joint-heir with Him in His glorious Kingdom merely marks the time for the setting up of that Heavenly Kingdom, the rule of which is to bring such blessing and opportunities to mankind—the non-elect. Now we perceive that for a thousand years the Elect, on the heavenly plane, invisible to men, "like unto the angels," will live and reign with Christ (Revelation xx, 4) for the blessing of the non-elect—for their uplifting from conditions of sin and imperfection back to the glorious heights of the image of God in the flesh, lost by Adam's disobedience and redeemed by our Saviour on Calvary, and to be restored to Adam and all his children found willing to receive it on Divine terms.

In view of these things, how reasonable that we find the Apostles and Prophets exultingly pointing forward to Messiah's Kingdom as the time when all the families of the earth shall be blessed. How this explains to us the fact that our Redeemer gave so many parables illustrative of His Kingdom—describing the class which would constitute the Royal Family and the trials and difficulties of their way, while proving themselves worthy to share with our Redeemer in glory; and the conditions in which they would be at His second coming, when the "wise virgins" only would be accepted to the glorious honor of becoming the Bride, the Lamb's Wife; and how the "pounds" and "talents" granted us in the present time must be used faithfully if we would hear His words: "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

In the past we have gloried as sects and parties in our various creed-idols of which we are now ashamed. We perceive that creed worship did us almost as much injury, as did idol worship to the heathen. Nearly all these creed-idols declared eternal torment for the thousands of millions who had never heard of the Only Name. Indeed, nearly all of them claimed that only a small minority of Christendom would escape eternal torture. Some of these creed-idols declare that so awful a catastrophe as the torture of twenty thousand millions was foreknown of God and predestinated by Him before the creation of Adam. Others claim the contrary, that God had benevolent intentions toward our race at the start, but that His plans miscarried and would produce the same horrible results, either because of Divine unwisdom or because of lack of power. How such presentations distressed every Christian loyal at heart toward His God and sympathetic toward his fellows!

Our colleges and universities—and, sad to say, our theological seminaries—are busy turning out unbelievers—infidels. Nor are these people wicked or immoral in their unbelief; they are as well-meaning as ever, but have lost their way. They reject the Bible because they believe it to be the foundation of the various inconsistencies in their creeds; they are stumbling for lack of knowledge; they cannot believe that man's hereafter is one of centuries of suffering, or of eternal suffering.

Let us now demolish these idols which so long have misrepresented our gracious Creator and blinded us with ignorance and superstition. Let us receive the Scripture teaching only. Let us rejoice in the election of the Church to be the Kingdom class and let us rejoice in the hope of its Kingdom glory for the blessing of the non-elect. Let us rejoice that "the wilderness shall blossom as the rose, and that the solitary place shall be glad" and that "God will make His footstool glorious," during the thousand years of Messiah's Kingdom. So desiring we will come into line with our text: "Let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth Me, that I am the Lord, which exerciseth loving-kindness, judgment and righteousness in the earth."

Saint Paul declares: "Now we see obscurely." Only by faith can we see God's loving-kindness. The reign of sin and death for six thousand years has been but the natural result of the violation of Divine Law which our first parents transgressed. The beginning of God's work for our reclamation from its consequences was in the sending of His Son to be our Redeemer. Since then He has been gathering an elect few to be Messiah's Bride and joint-heir in His Kingdom. Soon—very soon, we hope and believe—the Church will be completed and the Messianic Kingdom will manifest Divine clemency, mercy, loving-kindness, judgment and righteousness in the earth.

The Bible declares that the penalty for sin is being experienced by humanity at the present time—the death penalty—and that the redemption price of Christ's death is sufficient for the sins of the whole world. It declares that on account of this redemption, ultimately the resurrection of the dead shall take place—"all that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of Man and come forth." It is because of the Divine intention that there shall be a resurrection of the dead that the Bible everywhere, both in the Old and New Testaments, speaks of those who have died, both good and bad, as being "asleep," and the promise is that "They that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake."

Nor will they come forth to similar conditions of sorrow that now surround us all. On the contrary, the First Resurrection is to be composed of the holy, the saintly, and they are to be associated with their Redeemer as his Bride and Consort, to assist in delivering and restoring mankind. Later the imperfect, who have not had their full trial, the great mass of mankind, will be brought forth, that they may learn the ways of righteousness, that they may learn to know God, and Jesus Christ, and in due time be uplifted out of the conditions of sin and death. Then will come the world's opportunity. How joyful is the message, "There shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, nor dying; for the former things have passed away!"

Ah, how different is God's proposition of a general uplift of the worthy and their assistance back to perfection—to all that was lost in Adam! How different is this from the "doctrines of demons," which have perplexed us, which have divided the Church of Christ into numberless sects and parties, and which have almost driven us from Christ and the Bible.

Only those can see the grace of God now whose eyes have been enlightened and whose ears have been unstopped. Thank God, however, for the gracious promise that in due time "all the blind eyes shall be opened and all the deaf ears shall be unstopped"; then "the knowledge of the glory of the Lord shall fill the whole earth as the waters cover the great deep." (Isaiah xxxv., 5; Habakkuk ii, 14.) Then many will respond to the Divine clemency and become children of God, children of the Messiah, and heirs of everlasting, earthly life and its earthly Paradise, even as the "elect" of this Age, who come to a true knowledge of God, will be heirs of life eternal on the spirit plane, far above angels, principalities and powers and every name that is named, as Messiah's Bride and Joint-heir.

THE PRICE OF BEER

A Uniform Rate at all Licensed Houses in London.

The Liverpool Licensing Committee proposes the regulation of the price of beer. In their annual report, the committee says: "For some considerable time the committee has had under consideration the question of the uniformity of the retail price of beer throughout the city. At first sight the matter may seem to be of much importance as far as the justice are concerned, but in practice it is. When the 'long pull' was abolished various means were taken to encourage trade, among others the undercelling by some licensees against their neighbors. The almost invariable result of lowering the prices of beer has been to encourage an undesirable class of customer. After the question of a uniform price had been discussed by the committee and a discussion had taken place with counsel on behalf of the brewers, it was determined to insist upon the insertion in all agreements relating to the license of a clause, the terms of which were agreed upon, whereby it is hoped that a uniform price will be charged for beer at all licensed premises. As this was a matter for negotiation in cases where leases and tenancies were already in existence, the committee did not insist upon the completion of the agreement until the end of the year.

THE GRAND DUCHESS OLGA OF RUSSIA, daughter of the Czar, who is being mentioned as eligible to be the bride of the Prince of Wales, of England. The Grand Duchess is one of the most attractive and beautiful young women in European royal families and she is accomplished in many ways. It is declared by members of both the British and Russian Court that her disposition exactly balances that of the young Prince and that they would make a most happy match.

THE PECULIAR CUTTLEFISH

Little Creatures Kept in Tanks to be Milked of Their Ink

A curious thing is the cuttlefish with its long arms and bulging eyes. At several points on the British coasts there are located cuttlefish farms where the little creatures are kept in tanks to be "milked" of their ink. This ink, which is kept in a little bag or sack, is very valuable and each little cuttle will yield about $3.50 a year. The tank or pond is connected with the sea by a pipe and a thousand or more cuttles are kept in a single one. When it is considered an opportune time the sluices of the ponds are opened and the water is gently agitated. The cuttles then swim around the pond and as soon as one passes through the sluice is closed. The cuttle passes down a small channel into a basin or metal receptacle and as soon as it is securely there the water is drained off. This frightens the fish and at once it squirts its precious liquid into the basin. In this way, one at a time, the "milking" is completed.

WAS SO RUN DOWN

COULD NOT DO ANY WORK.

Thought She Was So Far Gone Nothing Could Cure Her.

MILBURN'S HEART and NERVE PILLS Made Her Strong and Healthy.

Many women get run down, and are unable to look after their household duties, owing to their nervous system becoming unstrung, and when this happens, the heart starts to work in sympathy with the nerves. In Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is combined a treatment that will cure all forms of nervous disorders, as well as act on the heart itself. Mrs. F. McFadyen, Brookside, Sask., writes:—"It is with the greatest of pleasure I write you stating the benefit I have received from using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. This spring I was so run down I could not do any work, and one day a neighbor advised me to try your Pills. I told her that I thought nothing could cure me, as I was too far gone. But she told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did, and before I had finished them, I began to improve, and when I had finished the one box I was as strong and healthy as any person. Anyone who is suffering from heart or nerve troubles should take your Heart and Nerve Pills and they will soon [illegible]."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE HOUSE THAT VALUE BUILT

TO SUBSIDIZE LINE.

Fast Service to Britain Will Get Government Aid.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The establishment of a fast line of transatlantic steamers is the object of negotiations now in progress between the Canadian Government and several strong transportation companies in England and Canada.

The representative of the English capitalists interested in the scheme have been in Ottawa during the past few days, conferring with the Government. It is understood that all the large Canadian transportation interests, the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific, the C.N.R. and the Allans are interested.

The scheme, when it is completed, will mean that the Atlantic journey between Halifax and England will be reduced to four and a half days, and six ships will be in operation. The Government will assist the company by means of an annual subsidy.

One of the striking features about the new steamers will be their adaptability to be converted into ships of war at short notice, and it is understood that the capital behind the scheme is in the neighborhood of $30,000,000.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy was in Ottawa yesterday in connection with the scheme on behalf of the C.P.R.

The Canadian Railways are particularly interested in the scheme because it is hoped that much of the ocean carrying trade will be diverted to Canadian trade routes, principally of the western states.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The Bell Telephone Co. will ask the Railway Commission for leave to increase its rates in Toronto and Montreal.

The Unionist Opposition moved a vote of censure on the Government for neglecting to reconstruct the House of Lords.

Sir Bertrand Dawson, of London, physician to King George, will sail for America within a fortnight to spend several months in surgical studies on this side.

President Taft yesterday sent to the Senate the nomination of Chancellor Mahlon Bitney, of New Jersey, to be an associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Toronto will erect a memorial to Burrell Hescock, the Cleveland lad who lost his life in attempting to save Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Stanton at Niagara Falls.

James Davy, president of the Davy Pulp Co., Thorold, is dead at Niagara Falls. He was born in Kingston 79 years ago, and was counted one of the frontier's wealthiest citizens.

While visiting his brother, a workman employed on the construction of a tower of the new Catholic church in St. Thomas, a man named Carey fell fifty feet, and was seriously hurt.

Arthur Cicero, found guilty of personating at the recent Montreal municipal elections, was yesterday sentenced to six months' hard labor, with a fine of $500, or in default, six months more.

Governor Foss of Massachusetts has broken all records for the use of the pardoning power, having restored 81 prisoners to liberty during his year in office. His pardons include eleven murderers.

Neighbors of Mrs. Favre in Outremont made a pile of snow when she was cut off by flames in her house, and after throwing her infant down she was able to jump. Both landed safely in the snow.

For the first time since the fatality two weeks ago, when three people lost their lives, the Niagara ice bridge was crossed yesterday. Two tourists slipped past guards at the American side and journeyed safely over rough ice to Canada.

Acton Takes Hydro.

Acton, Feb. 20.—The ratepayers of Acton voted yesterday on two bylaws submitted to them, the one bylaw to authorize the council to sign a contract with the Hydro Power Commission for Niagara power, and the other bylaw to issue debentures for $8,500 to equip the municipal line for Hydro power.

Great interest was taken in the vote by the citizens generally, and both bylaws were carried by large majorities. Only three votes were polled against the bylaws. Acton is now ready for Hydro power, and the citizens hope that the commission will start work shortly on the line from Guelph to Acton.

Brockville Wins Railway Fight.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The Railway Commission yesterday settled the long standing public grievance over the C.P.R.-G.T.R. passenger connection at Brockville. The Grand Trunk is ordered to change the time of its No. 6 Toronto eastbound train at Brockville from 2.20 to 2.10 p.m., and the C.P.R. must change its time of departure from Brockville to 2.20 p.m.

If necessary, through the Grand Trunk being late, the C.P.R., on notification by wire not later than 2.15, must hold its train until 2.40, if there are any passengers desiring to make the connection.

Spain May Compensate France.

Madrid, Feb. 20.—It is stated that Spain will compensate France for her sacrifices in Morocco in order to prevent the intervention of Germany in the negotiations.

These compensations will consist of a diminution of the Spanish zone in South Morocco, the present limits of which zone were recognized by the treaty of 1904.

J. A. Johnson, ex-M.P., Dead.

Kingston, Feb. 20.—One of the wealthiest men in this district is dead, in the person of James A. Johnston, grain buyer, who passed away at his home in Cousson, aged 68 years, from heart failure. He was once time a member of Parliament and was a prominent Conservative. A widow survives.

Sir Wilfrid Thrown From Sleigh.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the victim of a carriage accident yesterday morning, which might have resulted seriously.

The Liberal leader was on his way to catch the 8.35 train to Renfrew, in South Renfrew. When at the corner of Rideau and Sussex streets his sleigh upset. He was thrown out, but was not hurt. He walked the remaining distance to the station, apparently none the worse for the accident.

YOUTHFUL DELINQUENT BROKE DOWN UPON RECEIVING SENTENCE OF 2 YEARS IN MERCER

PLEADED FOR LENIENCY

"You are charged, and have been found guilty of vagrancy. While an offence of this character is not a serious one in itself, it is serious in your case. You enticed a young girl from her home near Norwood, and travelled with her throughout the back country, and, I may say, you have ruined her for life. She was not of a very strong mind. You took advantage of this fact, and what you intended to do with her eventually I don't know. You have, however, left her in a very unfortunate condition."

"The sentence of the court is, that you be confined in the Central Prison, Toronto, for a period of six months at hard labour."

In these words, Magistrate Edmison sentenced William James Shaw in the County Court yesterday afternoon.

The prisoner had nothing to say beyond making a plea for leniency, on the grounds that it was his first appearance in court.

"I have got no home, and never had one," he added as he was led away to the cells below.

Two Years in Mercer.

Elsie Park, the second party in the case, was next conducted into the courtroom. The object of sentencing the prisoners separately was to prevent them from knowing what each other's fate was.

"Do you feel tired of the place down below?" said the Magistrate, addressing the sixteen-year-old prisoner.

"Oh, no. I don't mind it a bit. I have an old friend down there, and we get along fine."

"My God! I am astonished. I never thought of the like. It's ridiculous," she said, when faced with the suggestion that she might eventually become a mother, as the outcome of her past relations with Shaw.

The Magistrate then sentenced the youthful delinquent to a term of two years in the Mercer Reformatory.

"I trust at the expiration of your term, you will emerge from the reformatory a better girl," said Magistrate Edmison in passing sentence, and the girl who heretofore had maintained a stoical indifference to the situation in which she was placed, broke down and wept bitterly, a remarkable contrast to the forced laughter of solemnity of the courtroom a few minutes previous to the announcement of the girl, which had punctuated the the sentence.

Prominent Peterborough Couple who are to-day celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their home 600 Water Street

MR. AND MRS. DAWSON KENNEDY CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Happy Couple Receive the Congratulations of a Wide Circle of Friends at Their Home To-day.

An interesting event in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Kennedy materialized to-day in the form of their golden wedding anniversary, which was celebrated in their home, 600 Water street. Surrounded by their sons and daughters and their families, who were all present with the exception of two sons, Mr. H. D. Kennedy, of Indiana, and Mr. S. Kennedy, of British Columbia, and one grandson, Mr. Clifton Kidd, of Regina, they received the congratulations of a wide circle of friends, and incidentally were the recipients of many beautiful presents, testifying to the golden opinions of which the worthy couple were the objects.

Mr. Kennedy and Miss Rebecca Sherin, daughter of the late Mr. Henry Sherin, of Emily, were united in marriage by the Rev. John Cameron on the 20th of February in 1862 in this city. After their marriage they made their home on Mr. Kennedy's farm in the township of Otonabee, where for forty-four years the latter pursued his vocation as an agriculturist. During that time he established for himself the well deserved reputation of being one of the most progressive and successful farmers in the community. Governed by a broad sense of responsibility, in his duty towards his neighbours and fellow citizens, Mr. Kennedy took an active and intelligent interest in all matters pertaining to the promotion and welfare of the community in which he moved, either in an official or social capacity.

He was ably assisted in this respect by the hearty co-operation of Mrs. Kennedy, who, in her domestic relations, discharged the duties of her social life faithfully. Her home life did not monopolize all her interest, however. Mrs. Kennedy was always prominently identified with the work of the church with which she was associated, and her hearty and wholesouled support was always forthcoming in matters concerning welfare of the church and comm

A few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy disposed of the farm, and bought the comfortable home, where they now reside, on Water street, where, in the enjoyment of the fruits of their labours, their lives continue to scintillate as a beacon for those who would follow.

At two o'clock this afternoon about twenty-five relatives and immediate friends of the couple sat down to a sumptuous repast, which was presided over by Mr. H. P. Kennedy.

The daughters present were Mrs. R. J. Kidd, of this city, together with her husband and four children; Mrs. R. A. Ward and husband and five children, all of Toronto. The sons present were Mr. H. P. Kennedy and wife and one child, of Toronto; Mr. F. W. Kennedy and wife and two children, of Lindsay. Twelve grandchildren were present.

An Enjoyable "At Home"

A very successful "At Home" was held in the T. A. S. Rooms last evening under the auspices of the C. O. F., when all the amusements peculiar to such an occasion were indulged in. In the progressive Euchre contest the prize-winners were: Ladies, Miss A. Delaine; gentlemen, Mr. J. Garvey. After refreshments had been served the majority of the assembly indulged in dancing, and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The Misses Doris supplied the music.

JUDGMENT THURSDAY

Judge Charbonneau Announces to Corps of Newspaper Men That His Finding Will be Ready on the 22nd

WITH OTHER JUDGMENTS

MONTREAL, FEB. 20.—A large corps of waiting newspaper men and photographers were summoned to Judge Charbonneau's rooms this morning, and everybody expected that copies of his judgment were to be given out. His Lordship merely announced that he would give judgment on the celebrated Hebert marriage case on Thursday with several other judgments. The newspapermen have been kept on the alert expecting that it would be issued at any time.

May Appeal Higher.

MONTREAL, FEB. 20.—Mr. Lefebre, counsel for Hebert, positively denied this morning that he was acting for or communicating with Roman Catholic church authorities regarding the case, but it is stated here that if the verdict goes against the Church, Victor Geoffreon, K.C., has been retained to carry an appeal to higher courts.

CHINAMEN IN KEGS AND TRUNKS

Special to The Examiner.

NIAGARA FALLS, ONT., FEB. 20.—That a strong organization of immigration smugglers, directed from Toronto, has succeeded during the last few days in getting large numbers of Chinamen across from the Canadian side to the United States, at various border points, on the great lakes and rivers, is stated by Provincial police here. The theory is that the celestials came through from Vancouver, where they are very unpopular just now, and, after being kept in laundries at Canadian border cities were quietly shipped across the ice in sleighs containing apparently empty kegs or some undutiable goods and arriving at U. S. points, were shipped to towns in the interior, in trunks duly checked as baggage. Uited States Federal police are here to-day investigating.

STEEL COACHES PROVE WORTH

PHILADELPHIA, PA., FEB. 20.—The hard luck pursuing the Pennsylvania Railway continued to-day, when an eighteen-hour special between Chicago and New York ran into freight cars near Harrisburg. Fireman F. H. Land had his legs cut off in the debris and will probably die. Others of the engine's crew were seriously injured. Steel passenger cars of the express fortunately withstood the shock and passengers sustained bruises only.

COAL SITUATION APPEARS BRIGHTER

CONFESSION BRANDT SIGNED WAS MERELY FRAMED UP

Further Particulars in the Sensational Case Now Before New York Courts

NEW YORK, FEB. 20.—District Attorney Chas. S. Whitman has confirmed reports that he had secured four letters which detectives found in Foulke E. Brandt's room subsequent to his arrest for burglary at the home of Mortimer L. Schiff five years ago. The letters have been said to have an important bearing on the efforts to free Brandt from a thirty-year prison term, but the District Attorney declined to discuss the contents of the letters. He replied "No" when asked if the examination of the letters had changed his attitude in opposition to the appearance of Attorney Howard S. Gans and Mr. Schiff before the Grand Jury. The District Attorney reiterated that Schiff and his attorney would not be allowed to appear.

John Rogers, a private detective who worked on the case against Brandt, was examined by the Grand Jury yesterday, and is said to have told of Brandt signing a confession that was "framed up." Another witness before the Grand Jury was Leonard Borne, employed as third man in the Schiff household at the time of Brandt's alleged burglary. The witness had been suggested by counsel for Schiff to substantiate the contention that Brandt actually broke into the house.

It is alleged in this case that a conspiracy was entered into between Mortimer L. Schiff, some members of the police force and other officials high up in the public service to railroad Brandt to prison on a thirty-year sentence on a "framed up" case. Brandt was a valet in Schiff's house. The condemned man was, it is alleged, compelled to plead guilty to burglary, although the real charge against him was totally different. Governor Dix recently took action which resulted in the reopening of the case. Letters found in the room of Brndt will play an important part in the coming trial. Some of these are alleged to have been written to Mrs. Schiff by Brandt.

WILL DETERMINE WHETHER THERE IS TO BE LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN

To-night's meeting in the George Street Methodist Church, at eight o'clock, will determine whether or not there is to be a local option campaign this year in Peterborough. Desiring that it shall be recognized as a citizen's movement the meeting to-night is being thrown open to the citizens in order that all who are interested in the cause of temperance may have an opportunity to attend and make their views known. It is understood that the intention this year if a campaign is decided upon, is to confine it to the last four months of the year, and especially to the last three months of the year, instead of extending it throughout the greater part of the year, as was done three years ago.

It is understood that a number of city aldermen and business men will attend to-night's meeting, and that the form of organization to be adopted will be decided upon, to be followed later by the election of officers. A new scheme for raising funds this year is being considered. It is to sell membership tickets for $1.00, leaving it open for those who wish to contribute more to do so. It is believed that by an active canvass through the different churches and temperance organizations fully 2,000 such tickets can be sold and thus the greater part of the expense of the campaign be met. It is thought that many who "cannot" contribute more, but who would like to have a part in the campaign, would be glad to have an opportunity to show their interest and help the cause by buying these tickets.—Com.

ERNIE MARKS CO.

Coming to "The Grand" for Three Days' Engagement

On Thursday evening, at "The Grand," the Ernie Marks Company, headed by that popular comedian, Ernie Marks, opens a 3-days' engagement in "Reaping the Whirlwind." Neither the company nor comedian need any introduction to local theatregoers, as crowded houses always greet their appearance here. Marks Bros. always give bright, pleasing performances, and this season they are carrying a particularly clever line of vaudeville, so that there are no waits between acts, but something doing all the time. The seat sale opened at the Box Office this morning, the same old popular prices of 10-20-30c prevailing.

A TROUBLE MAKER.

Tea and Coffee Poison Breeds Variety of Ills.

A California woman who didn't know for twenty years what kept her ill, writes to tell how she won back her health by quitting coffee: (Tea contains caffeine—the same drug found in coffee).

"I am 54 years old," she says, "have used coffee all my life and for 20 years suffered from indigestion and insomnia. Life was a burden and a drag to me all the time, and about once a year my ailments got such hold upon me that I was regularly 'sick in bed' for several weeks each time.

"I was reluctant to conclude that coffee was the cause of my trouble, but I am thankful that I found out the truth.

"Then I determined to use Postum exclusively—for a week at first—for I doubted my ability to do without coffee for any length of time. I made the Postum carefully, as directed, and before the week expired had my reward in a perceptible increase in strength and spirits.

"Seeing the good that my short experiment had accomplished, I resolved to continue the use of Postum, cutting out the coffee entirely. This I did for nine months, finding, daily, increased cause for gratification at my steadily improving health. My indigestion gradually left me, my sleep returned, I gained 26 pounds in weight, my colour changed from sallow to a fresh, rosy hue and life became a blessing.

"Then I thought I would try coffee again, and did so for a few weeks. The punishment for deserting my good friend, Postum, was a return of old troubles.

"That taught me wisdom, and I am now and shall be all my life hereafter using Postum exclusively and enjoying the benefits it brings me." Name given by Canadian Postum Co. Windsor, Ont.

"There's a reason" and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

NEW ARRIVALS

A party of emigrants arrived in the city to-day. The party consists of about four men and three women, accompanied by several small children. Mr. Howson, the local emigration officer, expects to have them placed in suitable homes by to-morrow.

LOCAL MAN ACQUITTED

Evidence Offered Was Not Very Damaging, Charge Was Therefore Not Substantiated

FREQUENTLY QUARRELED

"Mother wants to get rid of him, and thought that this case would bring about the desired result."

These words all but concluded the evidence given by a little hazel-eyed native of Sunny Italy in the police court this morning. The statement might also be taken as the text or motive of the circumstances leading up to the arrest of Nicholas Martino on a charge of attempted indecent assault, alleged to have been committed on the 9th and 10th of August last.

Crown Attorney Wood appeared for the prosecution and Mr. G. N. Gordon for the defence. There was a large contingent of citizens on hand, prompted no doubt by morbid curiosity to hear the case, but they were barred from the proceedings.

Maria Antonia Vuira, the principal witness in the case, and the party upon whom the attempted assault was alleged to have been committed, was first called to the stand. Giving her age as 10 years and 5 months she said in part:

She had known the prisoner as long as she could remember and was accustomed to designating him as her stepfather, although the prisoner and her mother were never legally married, they having lived together for about nine years. During that time three children were born to them, not including the witness. She then described the details leading up to and concerning the alleged offence of the 9th and 10th of August. Prisoner had used insulting language towards her, and when she had resisted him he had threatened to kill her. The mother also witnessed the incidents referred to.

The prisoner and her mother had quarreled almost daily and on one occasion he had threatened to use a big knife on her.

"Would you like to get rid of him?" asked counsel for the defence.

"Yes."

"How long?"

"As long as I live."

"Are you much happier since he has been in jail?"

"Yes, much happier."

This concluded the evidence of the witness, who with unabashed demeanour stepped up to the Magistrate's desk and attached her signature to the evidence in a manner that brought forth an expression of approval from the Court. The girl, who speaks excellent English, is a pupil of St. Mary's Convent.

The mother was the next witness called. She admitted living with the prisoner for the past nine years, while not legally married. In reviewing the events of August 9th, she told of the prisoner's actions in leaving their bedroom and going into the one where the two children were sleeping, presumably to give one of them a drink of water. When questioned on his return why he had stayed so long, he replied that he was killing bedbugs.

In summing up the case, the Magistrate did not consider the evidence offered of sufficient weight to warrant him in making a conviction. He therefore acquitted the prisoner on the grounds of insufficient evidence.

OTHER CASES

George Alexander, purporting to be from Montreal, sought the glad hand of Detective Newhall, while under the influence of liquor last evening. The officer reciprocated by placing him under arrest, at which the would-be friend became very abusive.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, who appeared for the prisoner, asked for an adjournment in order that evidence for the defence might be secured. But the magistrate could not see it that way.

"A man has a right to be drunk, as long as he is not disorderly," interposed counsel for the defence.

A fine of $3 and costs amounting to $5.75, was then imposed, with the option of ten days in gail. The fine was paid into court under protest.

For stealing a ride on a C.P.R. train, Thomas Jackson was assessed $10, or in default of payment 15 days in gaol. As the prisoner, who hails from Toronto, was without funds, he will reside at the county gaol for the next 15 days.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH DUFF?

We shall have to revise our loudly-asserted claim that Ontario is an agricultural province par excellence. Either our Minister of Agriculture, or our farmers, or both, are not up to the mark. With enough land under cultivation to feed twenty millions of people, we don't grow enough to feed two millions. Why should a province like Ontario have to import butter from Australia; potatoes from Ireland, and eggs from the southern United States? Of course, exceptional seasonal conditions may account for scarcity of the potato crop, but we certainly still have cows that are alive, and our hens should do better than they are, and have been doing. Ontario importing butter, eggs and potatoes is "bringing coals to Newcastle" with a vengeance.

IT IS FINAL, ANYWAY.

With some of the party politicians and journals, there is more rejoicing over the fact of the Privy Council having discredited the opinion of the Laurier Government, its eminent legal advisers, and the learned judges of the Supreme Court, than regret over the additional liability thrown upon the country by its decision. In the matter of the supplementary guarantee of G. T. P. bonds, the Government was simply following out its accepted relation to the railway as guarantor, and it acted in perfect good faith in guaranteeing, not paying, the supplementary bonds. In this it believed it was doing what was right. It acted upon the advice of the best legal knowledge obtainable in Canada. In this it was supported by the Supreme Court of Canada, the court of last resort in this country; and it does not follow that the Government did wrong in following a course which was advised and endorsed by the highest legal intelligence in the Dominion of Canada, because the members of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council decided adversely. The judgment is, after all, not necessarily right, but it has become a custom, a habit, to accept its findings as final not necessarily because they are infallibly right. The great value of a judgment of the Imperial Privy Council is that it is final. If it is right, all the better; if it is not right, it is to be accepted as right.

NOT SATISFIED YET.

Rt. Hon. Mr. Borden's policy of sequestration of the Ne Temere issue raised by Mr. Lancaster's bill does not spell finality nor cessation from trouble. A "monster" as it is called, "anti-ne-temere demonstration" is to be held in Massey Hall, Toronto, on, probably, March 1. It is understood that Mr. Borden will be asked to supplement the Federal test case, to be submitted to the Privy Council, by the enactment of a general marriage law, asserting (as did the Lancaster Bill) the supremacy of the state in the matter of marriage. A demand is also to be submitted to Sir James Whitney, who will be asked to submit a test case to the Ontario Court of Appeal to establish the jurisdiction now possessed by the province and "to carry it to the full extent that may be required".

Mr. Borden is now suffering embarassment from the recrudescence of some of the cries that helped him to power, and is getting into trouble by not acting consistently with them. If he had endorsed Mr. Lancaster's bill and so asserted the authority of the Dominion Parliament to deal with the marriage question, aroused by the Ne Temere decree, he would have been only acting consistently. During the election campaign, and before, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was condemned as a political poltroon and double dealer, because he held that the Dominion Government had no power to deal with the marriage matter, or to annul the asserted effects of the Ne Temere decree by legislation. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was told; the electors were told that the Dominion had power to pass a marriage law and the electors of this riding were told that if they elected the champion of genuine matrimonial conditions that a law would be passed by Mr. Borden to put the Ne Temere decree "out of business" for good and all. Mr. Borden found Mr. Burnham's opinion as to the power of the Dominion, in marriage matters, good enough to get votes upon, but hardly good enough to found legislation upon. A manly thing and a fair thing to those electors, who voted for him and his candidates, on the strength of his power, and, if made Premier, his willingness to pass a marriage law, would have been to adopt Mr. Lancaster's bill, or to have introduced a bill of his own to the same effect. Then, if the authority to pass such legislation were challenged, there would have been something definite and concrete to submit to the courts, instead of an imaginary situation, and Mr. Borden would have tried to implement the pledges that helped him to office. This would have been courageous, and consistent with the position the enemies of Sir Wilfrid Laurier took in condeming and defeating him. He was defeated on—as much as anything else—the cry that he was shirking responsibility in the matter of the marriage question, when he said that the Dominion had not jurisdiction in the matter. Mr. Borden was elected, and, logically, accepted power on the theory that the Dominion Government had power to, and would, annul the Ne Temere decree, by passing legislation.

Sir James Whitney might be left alone, might be considered as out of the running. Except for party purposes there has never been any claim that the decree affected Ontario. It was only in Quebec, where the civil law might be construed in giving countenance to and co-operating with the Ne Temerez decree, that the question arose.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

With signs of a repenting thermometer and less frigid conditions, we can view with equanimity, the rise in price of coal in England.

The growing power and influence of the Suffragette movement, is shown by officials of the Church in England, considering the removal of the word "obey" from the woman's vow in the English Church service. The experience of most married men is that in practice it is a dead letter, anyway; and that a woman, after marriage, will do as she likes in spite of all promises. And some of us married men are manly enough to admit that in many cases the man is the one that should obey.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is not dead yet, either physically, intellectually, or politically. The cab that was taking him from his residence in Ottawa to the railway station, on his way to speak in the South Renfrew bye-election, overturned at the corner of Rideau and Sussex streets, and pitched the ex-Premier into a snow-drift. This experience, which was nothing compared with the cold dip he got last September, did not for a moment deter him. He set off on foot to the station and caught his train.

AS TO THE WOLF.

(Ottawa Journal.)

Announcement is made that the Quebec government will promote special effort to destroy wolves in the Quebec mountain parks, by means of poison. This is well, but both in Ontario and Quebec the bounty against wolves should be increased. The bounty for a wolf's head is $15. This is just not quite enough to make wolf-hunting a seductive pursuit for settlers. Wolves are marvellously wary vermin. But if the bounty were $25 every settler and his boys would be skirmishing to get a wolf every spare moment of his time.

Wolves destroy a very large number of deer and other game. Such destruction not merely injures the attractiveness and usefulness of the great national and provincial parks, in which otherwise the beautiful wild life of the woods multiplies in peace, but also so lessens the attraction elsewhere of seasonable sport that the provincial treasuries and the local settlers lose large profit. The bounties for the destruction of wolves could probably be increased without loss even to the governments which pay them.

TAX REFORM.

(Hamilton Herald.)

Two bills providing for local option in municipal taxation will soon be before the Ontario Legislature. One of them is to be introduced by Mr. Rowell, the Opposition leader, and the other by Mr. Ellis, member for West Ottawa, a Government supporter.

Both of the rival bills provide for a radical change in taxation methods. Mr. Rowell, it is understood, will propose that the municipalities be granted the right to exempt all improvements at once if they want to. The Ellis bill provides for a 40 per cent exemption in the first year and afterwards a further annual exemption of 15 per cent until the whole tax burden is shifted from improvements to the land.

In the Herald's opinion the gradual change is to be preferred to a sudden and drastic one. It took Vancouver several years to reach the point of total exemption of improvements. Therefore, the plan provided for in the Ellis bill is the better one.

Anyhow, tax reform is now squarely before the Legislature. It will not be "laughed out of court" or brushed aside contemptuously any more. The old assessment act has got to be amended.

BANK STATEMENT SHOWS CONTRACTION

Deposits and Note Circulation Both Decreased in January This Year

OTTAWA, FEB. 10.—Generally prosperous financial conditions, but some noteworthy comparative decreases, are indicated in the January bank statement just issued. The total note circulation in the month was $88,085,581, as against $102,037,305 in December, a decrease of fourteen millions, probably due to the holiday trade. Demand deposits aggregated $316,926,968, as aginst $335,080,693 in the previous month. eposits payable after notice totalled $606,847,174 in January and $591,068,933 in December. Deposits outside Canada totalled $77,049,932, a decrease of three millions. Call loans in Canada aggregated $71,263166, a decrease of a million compared with December. Deposits outside Canada totalled $77-049,932, a decrease of three millins. Call loans in Canada aggregated $71,263,166, a decrease of a million compared with December. Outside Canada they totalled $80,871,118, a decrease of twelve millions. Current loans increased from $774,909,172 in December to $775,972,243 in January.

Liabilities amounted to $1,174,323,-431, as compared with $1,143,668,-568 in December, while assets were $1,-363,535,778 and $1,380,080,516 for January and December, respectively.

COST OF LIVING SETS A RECORD

Highest Prices for a Generation and the Maximum Point Not Yet Reached

OTTAWA, FEB. 19.—That Canada will this year establish for herself a high-water record for the generation in the cost of living is the opinion entertained after careful investigation ad compilation of statistics by the Labour epartment. In 1890 the Department selected 261 articles of representative character throughout the entire field of production and consumption, and divided them into thirteen groups. From the average cost of those a standard of 100 was set as the idex figure. That index figure to-day stands at 131, which is the highest record since the standard was formudated, and for many years previous to that time. As a simple indication of the rapid rise it is noted that the retail prices for the last year have averaged 5 per cent. higher than for the previous year.

Though this rise in prices may be taken to indicate increased commercial prosperity to a certain degree, still it is particularly serious from the standpoint of the higher cost of living, and as affecting the consumer dependig upo salary.

Higher cost of materials may probably be attributed to the continued industrial expansion of the age, and the consequent inordinate demand for building and construction materials. As an instance of this the construction of the G. T. P. may be taken, nearly $100,000,000 being spent on construction on that road within recent years. Though the consumer is not immediately affected by this, still he is indirectly affected. Many of the metals have taken a high jump in recent years. Tin, for instance, which was coralled lately by a group of capitalists, has risen considerably. Copper is much higher, though iron has remained steady.

In connection with the rise in prices of foods it is pointed out that the shortgae in the world's crop last year on account of the drouth is one cause. Imported foods are going up rapidly. Despite the heavy crop of apples in the east this year, and the comparatively low prices of fresh fruit of this kind, evaporated apples are 65 per cent. higher than last year This may be attributed to a certain extent to the failure of the crop in Europe. In local production potatoes have jumped from 60 cents last year to $1.50 this year, Irish potatoes being actually sold in the Dominion to-day.

It is pointed out that last year's output of gold and precious metals was the largest on record, and that this may be taken as a strong factor on the rise in prices.

From all indications it would appear that high prices may reign in the Dominion for some years to come, and that they have not yet reached their highest record. It would appear, therefore, that any attempt at higher protection will not meet with support by the consumers.

MAKING FASTING EASY

A number of ladies were discussing what they would deprive themselves of during the Lenten season, in order to meet the self-denying demands of the season. After a rather complicated discussion in which, as at a five o'clock tea, everybody talked and nobody listened, the majority decided in favour of abstaining from butter, potatoes, eggs and milk. These being hard to get, would make the work of abstinence easy and, at the same time satisfy the conscience of the fair penitents.

SHROVE TUESDAY

The three days between the evening of the Saturday before Quinquagesima and the morning of Ash Wednesday are called Shrovetide, because on those days, in preparation for Lent, people were wont to confess their sins and obtain absolution; in other words, to be shriven. The evening of the Tuesday of Shrovetide was called Shrove Tuesday, or Pancake Tuesday, because it was given up to merry-making and the consumption of many pancakes; this, like all carnivals (the name being derived from the Latin carno, carnis, flesh, and vale, farewell) in preparation for a period of fasting.

With regard to the origin of Christian fasts opinions differ, but the common belief is that Telesphorus, Bishop of Rome in the middle of the second century, instituted the forty days' fast, in commemoration of the fast of Jesus in the wilderness, as a rule of the Church. The carnival which preceded it was the Saturnalia of the Christian Romans, who could not forget their pagan festivals and carried on this celebration along the same lines..

Excitement Over The Game Here To-morrow

Hastings and Lakefield Are All Worked Up Over Sudden Death Semi-final Trent Valley Fixture at Brock Street Rink and Both Towns Will Send Excursions Here.

There promises to be all kinds of excitement at Brock Street Rink to-morrow night, when Hastings and Lakefield will play a sudden-death, semi-final Trent Valley League game Both towns are all worked up over the game, and each team will have the support of several hundred rooters, who are coming on special trains. Hastings people are very cocky over their team and from all accounts the Easterners have a team to be proud of, too. It is a long time since a Hastings team has been seen in action here and a lot of Peterborough people will be on hand to see them on this occasion. The Lakefield team is better known on account of its City League career, and the Cementville seven will not want for local supporters. Any way you look at it it should be one of the most interesting games of the season, and a big crowd will be on hand when the teams are sent away. As the T. A. S. will have to play the winners of this game, provided they stow Campbellford away, the result has a local bearing and many people will turn out to get a line on the winning seven.

Half time showed a score of two to one in favour of St. Mary's, and the final whistle found the game a tie, with a score of three to three. Playing a ten minutes' overtime game, Keene secured the winning point. Referee Sarginson kept the game well in hand.

St. Mary's—Goal, Lemieux; point, Farrel; cover, McManamay; rover, W. Keating; centre, "Toby" Keating; right wing, "Dutchy" Dunk; left wing, Farrel.

Anyone having accounts against the Peterborough Hockey Club are requested to send them in at once for settlement to R. H. Glover, Secretary-Treasurer, at the Examiner Office. 6d4t

T.A.S. WON AN EASY VICTORY DEFEATED ALL SAINTS' 13 TO 2

Abstainers Are Sure of a Tie for the District Even If They Were to Lose To-night's Game in Campbellford.

FIFTH STRAIGHT WIN

If the T.A.S. win in Campbellford to-night they will be champions of this district of the Trent Valley League.

The Abstainers made sure of a tie at least by defeating All Saints in their postponed fixture at Brock St. rink last night, in hollow fashion, by 13 goals to 2. Half-way home the cold water brigade were in front 7 to 1, and they won as they pleased, giving a good exhibition in spite of the heavy condition of the ice. They were all over All Saints from start to finish and the result was never in doubt, only good goal-keeping by Wilson keeping the score from being much more lop-sided than it was. The Abstainers had the speed and stickhandling, and in spite of the difficult going showed good combination, while the Saints' work was all individual and outside of the efforts of Anderson and Rose, was not very brilliant at that. A small crowd saw the battle, which was well hadled by Referee Leo Derocher.

The T. A. S., provided they get by Campbellford, and their followers say that they will do that handily, should make a big bid for the Trent Valley silverware. They have a fast, well-balanced team and have improved on every occasion out. McPhee, at rover, is perhaps the fastest man on the team, and his work last night was decidedly spectacular and effective as well. Half the goals were scored as the result of his dazzling rushes. The other forwards were always working. The two Lancefields are a hard-working defence, whose checking is effective all through, and both rush well, Tom, in particular, doing some pretty stick-handling. McFadden had little to do last night.

For All Saints, Wilson in goal, Anderson, at cover, and Rose, at centre, were the pick. Wilson picked off a lot of hard shots and they were generally from close in, too. Anderson contributed some nice rushing and Rose, in centre, although light, is a great worker and shows every sign of being a comer.

The Abstainers have the most important game of the district on their hands to-night, when they play Campbellford in the Eastern town.

T. A. S.—Goal, McFadden; point, E. Lancefield; cover, T. Lancefield; rover, McPhee; centre, Halpin; right wing, Coughlin; left wing, O'Dette.

1—T. A. S., Halpin.
2—T. A. S.—McPhee.
3—T. A. S., O'Dette.
4—All Saints, McMartin.
5—T. A. S.—T. Lancefield.
6—T. A. S., McPhee.
7—T. A. S., McPhee.
8—T. A. S., McPhee.
Half-time.
9—T. A. S., O'Dette.
10—T. A. S. Rose. *
11—T. A. S., Coughlin.
12—T. A. S., Coughlin.
13—T. A. S., Coughlin.
14—All Saints, Rose.
15—T. A. S., O'Dette.

TOOL ROOM DEFEAT CLERKS IN MERCANTILE GAME

The champion C. G. E. Tool Room defeated the Clerks in an interesting Mercantile League game at Brock Street Rink last night by 5 goals to 2. It was a hard fought battle all through, the score reading 1 to 1 at half-time. Primeau scored for the Tool Room thirty seconds after the game opened, with a nice shot from the wing, following a combination rush, but the Clerks evened up a little later when White scored on a shot from the side. There was no further scoring until halftime. In the second half the Tool Room added four, Hall bagging three and Primeau the other, while Mills scored for the Clerks. The Tool Room, which includes three of the Bear Cats, had it on their opponents in team work, playing good combination all the way through, while the Clerks' efforts were individual. Fred Kelly refereed satisfactorily. Frank Barrie of the Tool Room, received a bad gash over the eye as the result of an accidental jab from a stick just before half-time and he had to retire from the game. The teams lined up as follows:

Keene Won At Campbellford

Keene journeyed to Campbellford Friday night to meet St. Mary's seven on their own ice, and after a very fast and exciting game, succeeded in defeating the home team by one point.

BERLIN COULD NOT WIN ON HOME ICE

BERLIN, ONT., FEB. 20.—(Special)—Toronto Canoe Club juniors entered the O. H. A. finals last night by holding the local seven down to a two-goal tie, in the presence of a crowd numbering about 2,300. At the intermission the score was one all. Berlin started scoring after 45 seconds of play and from their whirlwind opening were looked upon to sweep the Paddlers off their feet, but the visitors stuck to their guns and the Hollanders were prevented from doing any more damage during the period, although the red-ringed youngsters pierced the net once with an evening tally.

The visitors opened the second half with a counter after eleven miuntes of play, but the locals registered the tieing goal six minutes later. The score in the first game, in Toronto, was 10 to 1 in favour of the Canoe Club, a total of 12 to 3.

JAMES F. GALLAGHER & COMPANY

Present the First Offering of the Stock of

PORCUPINE - FORTUNA GOLD MINES LTD.

Incorporated under Ontario Companies Act.

15c—100,000 SHARES at 15c PER SHARE—15c

Capital Stock $2,000,000, divided into 2,000,000 Shares. Par Value $1.00 per Share. Treasury Shares 1,000,000 Shares. All Shares Common Shares, fully paid and non-assessable. The Company has no Bonds, Preferred Shares or indebtedness of any kind.

The company owns 3 groups containing claims in all, 310 acres, in the Porcupine Mining District of Ontario, described as follows: The Reany Mining Claim in Tisdale, being the southwest quarter of the south half of Lot Number Two, Concession One, Tisdale; the Mapes Claim in Deloro T. R. P. 814 (Called H. R. 986), and the 6 James Claims in Shaw, Nos. 13984 to 13989 inclusive.

GROUP NO. 1

The well-known Reany lies east of the Martin and Dome. The famous Dunn and Steel properties adjoin the Reany on the east and the Rose-Van Cutsem claims, owned by one of the largest mining, engineering and brokerage houses of London (owners of Town Site Mine at Cobalt), adjoin the Reany on the west side. The Dunn and Steel vein runs into the Reany and has been exposed by stripping for a distance of 600 feet on the Reany. This vein has an average width of 20 feet and is heavily mineralized. (See Engineer's Report).

GROUP NO. 2

The Mapes claim in Deloro lies two claims south of Tisdale on the south of the Powell claims. On the east of the Mapes are the now famous Dobie Maidens and McDonald properties. The Boston Development Company, on the west, have made their spectacular strike on this same vein, which is traced through the Mapes property from the Dobie. The Schumacher property lies northwest. The entire property lies in the main Dome ore zone, whose principal trend is northeast by southwest, which is the trend of the Dobie, Maidens, Mapes and Boston Development veins. Two-thirds of the Mapes claim is exposed and easily prospected. The Mapes claim is considered one of the most promising in its neighborhood, and, like the Reany, should develop into a good-paying mine.

Groups 1 and 2 are in famous Dome Ore Zone.

GROUP NO. 3

The six James claims in Shaw are too well known to go into detail in describing. It is sufficient to say that these claims have a well-mineralized ore body 150 feet wide, that with proper development will more than likely prove one of the great ore bodies of the Porcupine District.

SOLICITORS

Day, Ferguson and O'Sullivan. The incorporation, titles and legal matters of the Porcupine-Fortuna Gold Mines, Limited, have been executed by the above firm of Corporation Solicitors.

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT.

The Officers and Directors of this Company are well known bankers, business and mining men, who have proven successful in handling large financial institutions with profit to the shareholders and credit to themselves. Stories of the Mat

BY LLOYD KENYON JONES.

BEELL'S BATTLE WITH THE BUCK.

Fred Beell, the Wisconsin thunderbolt, whose height is 5 ft. 4 in., had one match without a referee, and it was a case of "winner take all."

This was during Fred's halcyon days, when he had gone through all the heavies, and he felt fit and fine, with a storehouse of confidence beneath his coonskin cap that would have helped out Napoleon considerably at a town called Waterloo.

When Beell isn't rearing registered Guernseys or stepping off a lively clip on the mat, he is trailing the trackless forests in search of game. In fine, if Fred can't find anybody to go hunting with him, he goes alone; and this was one of the lone times.

Fred wasn't after anything more ferocious this trip than gray squirrels and cottontails, and the heaviest shells he carried for his shotgun were apexed with birdshot.

He had taken a pot shot at a partridge that moved like a sunbeam when a big buck raised up out of the thick undergrowth and started to raise its flag for the opposite country. "Bang!" the other load went, and Mr. Buck got the charge in the foreleg, coming down after the fashion of a lame salute. But the fighting blood was up, and in that moment Beell essayed to test his strength against something other than a human.

"I bet I can win the fall!" Beell gurgled to himself, as he dumped the gun and sprang to the side of the wounded deer. He slammed his ample hands over the antlers, and then began a battle at which there were no ringside seats, timekeeper, referee or cheering throng.

The animal managed to come to his feet, and kept on going up, with Fred hanging on like "Curfew shall not ring to-night." With his weight as a pendant, and unable to negotiate a first-class strike with one foreleg on the blink, the buck just naturally had to come down to get a fresh start.

Finding that the insistent grappler was not to have his hold broken in that manner, the beast altered his tactics and attempted to rush Beell, and then Fred straightened out and got the leverage he had been waiting for.

It wasn't a case of choice by this time, but a point of the survival of the fittest.

Slowly the antlered head began to turn and the sinewy neck gave just a trifle. It would have been a poor time to develop writer's cramp.

At times it looked like odds on the stag, and again it seemed as though Beell had the decision, because it was pretty much a toss-up between them.

But the corded neck of the buck was relaxing, and inch by inch it yielded. Then, with one supreme effort, Fred threw his muscles into the high gear. There was a sudden turn, a cracking of bones that sounded like the breaking of dry twigs, and the spinal column of the four-footed opponent never posted a forfeit for any more matches of the same kind.

WHEN MIKE TRAINED TEDDY.

During the days Col. Roosevelt was governor of New York, Mike Dwyer had a gymnasium in Albany, teaching the solons how to be strong and healthy.

It was not long before Roosevelt decided that he needed a little conditioning himself, and he accordingly arranged with Dwyer to go through some private stunts.

Day after day, the future president and Mike went to it, with the colonel's circumference melting under the exercise.

"How, Mike—now, honestly, how do you think I'm getting along?" the governor inquired, after the training had extended over several weeks.

"Fine!" Mike exclaimed in truly professional glee. "If you weren't such a prominent man, I'd like to match you with some of the ambitious."

"Really?" Roosevelt inquired, with a touch of suspicion in his voice.

Mike insisted that it was even so—and the men went to it again with renewed vim.

Now, Teddy had a private bunch back in his brain somewhere that he had been nursing for a long time, but he took no partners on his secret. He was feeling his muscles grow, and was gaining mastery over his wind. He had taken to grappling like a duck to a limpid stream, and he gloried in it.

It was never part and parcel of the colonel's make-up to merely practice. Whenever he went into anything it was whole-souled, and so it was with his labours on the mat.

Mike coached him in hold after hold, lock after lock. First it had been "bully good exercise," and now the craving for knowledge included the acquisition of the actual works.

One day, when the political leader and trainer had stripped for action, Mike fancied that he detected an exceptionally bright glint in Teddy's eyes, but he attributed it to pulsing blood and physical fitness.

"Now," said the colonel, "let us suppose we were really, truly opponents and there was a crowd right around us cheering us on. What would you do first?"

They went to it, roughing it to and fro over the canvas, the trainer forgetting that he was manhandling the governor—or trying to.

Then—with an especially dexterous move Roosevelt went back to Dwyer and slipped his ample arms into a full Nelson.

Mike was against it!

His pupil had slipped one over on him and was going to take a fall!

The harder Dwyer worked the harder Roosevelt laboured, and finally Mike felt his heels becoming light. Then they pointed skyward. There and Mike came down on the other side, with both shoulders planted squarely in the mat.

"How's that?" Teddy exclaimed joyfully.

"Well," said Mike, as he arose to his feet and shook himself, "if you weren't Governor of the State I'd say it was a cussed mean trick. Only—mind you—never tell it to anybody."

Teddy promised.

He never told.

But the time came when Mike broke the silence and admitted that he had once met defeat at the hands of a man who occupied the White House.

TIT-BITS

Ham Omelet.

We use the pickings from the ham bone, put through meat chopper, and allow one tablespoonful of ham to each egg. For a large omelet, beat three eggs, yolks and whites together, add seasoning and three tablespoonfuls of cold water and beat well. Into an omelet pan put one tablespoonful of bacon fat or drippings, have hot, pour in the omelet and reduce the heat at once, as the eggs must cook slowly. Keep the pan in motion constantly, lifting the edges so that the soft part will run underneath and still be moist; add the chopped ham, which has been warmed. Double up the omelet. An omelet made as this one is will be light and moist.

This was the note which was handed to one of the grade teachers the other day:

"Dear Mum,—Please excuse Johnny to-day. He will not be at school. He is acting as timekeeper for his father. Last night you gave him this example, if a field is 4 miles square how long will it take a man walking 3 miles an hour to walk 2½ times around it? Johnny ain't no man, so we had to send his daddy. They left early this morning, and my husband said they ought to be back late to-night, tho it would be hard going. Dear Mum, please make the next problem about ladies, as my husband can't afford to lose the day's work. I don't have no time to loaf, but I can spare a day off occasionally better my husband can. LESSONS LEARNED FROM RECENT VISITS TO THE CHURCHES OF PETERBORO'

Roy Gilray Sums Up His Impressions of the Local Churches as Viewed by Him During His Series of Recent Sunday Morning Visits Among the Different Congregations.

(Written for The Examiner by Roy Gilray)

"If a man can write a better book,
Preach a better sermon
Than his neighbour,
The world will make a beaten path to his door."

—Emerson.

Few things are more discouraging to an earnest and aggressive pastor than to face an appalling array of empty pews; and there are few things which cause the church thermometer to sink lower and that paralyse the work of the church more than this same absence of worshippers. Both pastor and people dread an empty church. They regard it as nothing less than a calamity.

Unfortunately there are a few men in the ministry who seem to possess singularly unfortunate temperaments, and somehow they have the unhappy knack of getting on the wrong side of pretty nearly everybody. There are others who seem to think that their calling gives them a kind of divine right to have their own way in everything, no matter whether it is according to constitution or merely a suggestion of their own caprice.

A pastor gains nothing by railroading a thing through either his church or Sunday school in direct opposition to the better judgment of the majority of its members. It may seem to tide over the difficulty for a time, but it is bound to reappear, in many cases to the detriment of the preacher, who invariably loses the confidence of his parishioners.

Let the minister be trained for his work as completely as are the men who enter other professions, and let the church affairs be managed in the same manly business-like spirit as are the affairs of other enterprises, and the Church will take a new place in the world.

A little more human activity among the flock would help some parsons in their preaching; not knowing the people they cannot gain their sympathy. A little less thought of themselves and more of those to whom they are preaching and the realization of the need of practical tenderness and brotherly feeling in sermons, and they will not lack for hearers.

The preachers should forget themselves and realize that they are merely the heralds of One, the latchet of Whose shoes they are not worthy to unloose; their supreme mission is to be as voices crying in the wilderness of human nature, "prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert of your hearts an highway for our God." If they would modestly, in a fifteen-minute talk, deal with the everyday wants of the human soul, its perplexities, and its longings, its hopes and aspirations, and with the untold possibilities for all men and women to rise on the stepping-stones of their dead selves to higher things, their influence would be doubled, and would resemble that power which their predecessors wielded two or three generations ago.

Other ministers preach their congregations into the street by long rigmaroles on theology and petty negatives.

We sometimes wonder why the theatre is gaining such a grip on the world. It is simply because players act fiction as if were the truth, whereas preachers too often preach the truth as if it were fiction.

The pulpit appeals too much to the head and too little to the heart, overlooking the fact that the pew no longer thinks deeply, but will not cease to feel until it is dead.

The work of the ministers is sorely affected by casting upon them the liquidation of a debt that never ought to have been incurred. A preacher cannot do his best if he is turned into a money collector.

People of leisure have time to grow mystical. People in academic circles have means to become learned in ecclesiastical antiquity. But a religion that can only be cultivated in academies and practised in an artistic environment finds no room in the heart of a toiling mechanic, and leaves no time for the private devotions of the modern man of affairs.

It sometimes happens that one man in whom the people in general have little confidence may be the dictator of affairs; or questionable methods may be resorted to in order for a clique to force their will upon the church; or those most prominent in the prayer-meetings may not have the respect and confidence of the community, and people may absent themselves from the meetings rather than hear these persons pray or talk; or some of the best people may have withdrawn from the church thoroughly disgusted with affairs; or there may be bitter jealousies and strife among prominent members who, perhaps, do not speak to one another; or the church may be divided into warlike factions, each determined to rule and to injure the other; or there may be contentions and jealousies in the choir—perhaps some of the singers do not speak to one another; or perhaps the minister may be advised by his church officials to be guarded about what he says in regard to intemperance and gambling, because several sporting characters contribute to the church, provided the minister is not offensive to them.

Some churches pay particular attention to the needs of the poor within their borders; others seem to forget the friendless and live only for themselves. Some cater to the intellectual instincts of their people by holding many literary events, while others seek to cultivate the aesthetic tastes of the educated of their membership by many concerts and musicals. Some strive to improve the spiritual condition of their parishoners by special evangelical services; while others attend simply to the wants of the animal natures of their flock by perpetually feeding their stomachs. Some churches are so notorious for this that workers are often at their wits-end to know what to call the next celebration. What with High Teas, Decimal Teas, Sunday School Teas, Church Teas, Choir Teas, Mission Teas, and Shredded Wheat Banquets the members are being continually "teased" for money, cakes and pies, till association with the church becomes a burden.

I often wonder if these good people who work so hard and spend so much time and money, really enjoy their efforts. I am convinced they do not, if their remarks at the close of each event is any indication.

Suggestions sometimes are odious, but I would venture to intimate that if the same amount of labour, material, money and time were put into a heaping basket for some deserving poor family, more lasting joy and happiness would be the result to the giver, and a green spot created in the lives of the unfortunates, which would be remembered till the day when the Lord shall say, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

Is the Gospel that the church preaches the power of God unto salvation to EVERY ONE that believeth, or is its power limited to those who live in comfortable homes and support the church, or has it also a place in the lives of the poor?

If the Church believes that its Gospel is adaptable to every nation, why does the Church flee when the foreigner comes? For long years the Church has been asking God to open the door to the foreigner, so that it might give Him its message. God has answered the prayer and has sent millions of them to our door that the Church may be spared the expense of sending missionaries to him, so that the members may help answer their own prayers. Shall it now be confessed that this Gospel is good for the foreigner only when it is exported, and that it is non-effective for him in the land which is known as a Christian country?

Is the message of the Church sufficient for the great social problems which confront the people in the factories and the tenements, or must they look to the leaders in social reform outside the Church for their solution?

Indeed, the socialism we are face to face with to-day is the direct result of the churches not doing their duty.

Is the Church ready to confess that the principles which Christ gave, and all the power and influence of Christianity are helpless and hopeless in the presence of questions which others outside the Church are facing and honestly trying to answer?

Is religion losing its grip? We would prefer to think it is not, but it is time the Church did a little thinking.

Now, this is the question that faces the country to-day: Is graft and dishonesty and secret stealing by legal or illegal but concealed methods, and adulterations of foods, and watering of stocks, and misrepresentations, and cheating in quality of goods and quality of work, and by short measures, and by defrauding governments, and by withholding taxes, and by buying special privileges from legislatures, and in a hundred other ways destroying religion?

Since most men have got to stay in business to exist and support their families, is all this becoming so prevalent that it is not going to be possible for conscientious men to stay in the church and in business at the same time?

No doubt some one says, "Oh, that is a pessimistic view." I am sorry it is, but facts are stubborn things.

Men and women are hungering for bread of practical sympathy and help in the problems of the day. The Church must face these everyday perplexities—must prepare to save men's bodies as well as their souls. The worker hungers for the recognition which is his due as a member of the human family, for a full appreciation of his merits as a man and a citizen.

The wicked Baron of ancient times pinched the thumbs of his victims with thumb-screws. The modern Baron pinches their stomachs. Until industrialism has restored to it the personal sense of moral responsibility which the trusts and combines have destroyed—until the worker is regarded as a man, and not as a cog—industrial war will threaten the peace and welfare of society, and will leave moral scars on the soul of the nation.

The pulpits and churches can do much to right the wrong.

"My husband used Gin Pills for Backache and Kidney Disease. The pain in his back was dreadful and the kidneys failed to do their work properly. As he became worse, we found it necessary to begin treatment and unfortunately wasted time and money on remedies that were little or no good. After taking one dose of GIN PILLS, he found them to be exactly what he needed, and after taking two boxes of GIN PILLS, was completely cured. We heartily recommend GIN PILLS, at every opportunity to our friends and relatives". MRS. JAMES B. MILFORD.

Home From China Safe And Sound

The Methodist missionary party from Cheng-tu, western China, have come through great tribulations and landed safely in Toronto. Mrs. H. D. Robertson (Miss Vieva Hunter) and two children, born in the erstwhile Celestial Empire, arrived home in Peterborough to-day, no doubt glad to again sample the sweets of civilization, after a rather stormy period of peril. All are in good health, in spite of the harrassing experiences, and anxieties they have recently passed through—"better fifty weeks of Canada than a cycle of Cathay." Mr. Robertson remains a few days in Toronto, to look after the impedimenta.

After An Absence Of 35 Years

Rev. Henry Cullen, D.D., of Midland, South Dakota, a former resident of the Township of Smith, and a son of the late Simon Cullen, is in Peterborough, renewing old acquaintances, after an absence of thirty-five years.

Mr. Cullen is at present situated as Pastor Evangelist of Reserve Presbytery, South Dakota, covering an area of over 20,000 square miles. During his stay in Peterborough, Mr. Cullen will be a guest of Mr. George McKee, Murray street, and his sisters, the Misses Cullen, Water street. Mr. Cullen left Peterborough about thirty-five years ago, and when he came into the Examiner office this morning, he was met by old friends, who recognized him immediately.

Rev. Mr. Cullen speaks of Dakota enthusiastically, as a North Westerner might of any of the territories, but he insists that the land of sunshine is really South Dakota. Mr. Cullen says he occasionally meets a former resident of the county, and that the number of Canadians in the Dakotas is surprisingly large. In visiting his territory Dr. Cullen says he has to motor, as there are no north and south railways. He frequently travels thirty-five and forty miles through territory occupied by the Red Men, whose lands in that district are still uncultivated. The land has all been appraised and sold, and is said to be as rich as any of the most fertile valleys. The cattle from this territory sell as high in Chicago as the best corn-fed cattle. Dr. Cullen says that Peterborough has made almost unbelievable progress during the past thirty-five years. He would hardly recognize the old city. One of the most striking features is the change that has taken place in the business administration on George street. With but very few exceptions the old merchants on the street have given place to others whose names are not so familiar, with the exception of Mason, Connal, and a few others.

Mr. Cullen's many friends and acquaintances in Peterborough will be glad to see him after so long an absence. His only regret is that he cannot remain longer. He will leave on Thursday for Chicago.

CARRYING IT OUT

Sir James is rapidly carrying out the Liberal platform. First, says the Globe, there was the abandonment of the project to abolish the Hydro-electric Commission, next the adoption of New Ontario development policy, now an eight-hour day for miners. What will come next? Will it be taxation reform?

Another political procrastination, the Manitoba boundaries question, is laid over, like the repentance of Felix, till "a more convenient season."

First Social A Success

Last evening the members of the above class met in the Guild Room for their first social. Business was combined with pleasure, and the whole proceedings were entered into with earnestness and vim. The class has for its objects Bible study, mutual helpfulness, and greater sociability among its members.

These objects were certainly to the front last night. During the evening they had the pleasure of entertaining the Girls' Auxiliary, who paid the class a visit, which was much appreciated.

Refreshments were served, after which the time was taken up by vocal and instrumental numbers contributed by the members. The evening was brought to conclusion by the singing of the National Anthem, everyone voting the social an unqualified success.

A WEAK HEART

When the heart is weak or irregular in action, when the blood is thin and watery, remember the blood-forming qualities of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and by its use flood the system with rich, red, vitalizing blood. This is Nature's way of curing weakness and disease. It is the only way to ensure lasting benefits.

SHOULD GIRL HAVE EMPLOYMENT?

By the time a girl is 15 or 16 the responsibility for her future rests with herself. Parents can give advantages; they cannot compel them to be used. The girl who is not awake to the necessity of making the most of herself, of learning thoroughly everything she studies, and of specialising on the thing she likes most, has only herself to reproach if calamity finds her unprepared.

If only for her own peace of mind a girl should see to it that she is ready to meet reverses. Even the butterfly will have hours when she faces facts and shivers with fear of unsheltered days ahead. Though such days may never come the fear of them is unpleasant.

Sometimes a girl is unready for reverses from lack of means. She knows what she can do, but has no money to go into training. This is unfortunate, but not hopeless.

A girl with grit and ambition can prepare herself for reverses by sheer will power. Sometimes she can borrow money for a technical training; more often she works hard at what she can and on that for which she has talent.

The main thing is for parents and girls both to realise that the girl who faces the future untrained for any one line of work is starting life under a handicap that will leave her far in the rear in the race for success. She may forge to first place, but at the cost of nervous strength and drudgery that early training could prevent.

The saying, "Never trouble trouble until trouble troubles you," is the silliest sort of advice. The girl who would live a comfortable life, free from nervous forebodings, is she who faces the possibilities of trouble, makes ready for it, then refuses to worry about its coming.

"Time For A Change"

Fish for Lent—Hints on Having the Freshest From Spensley Bros'. Sanitary Fish Market

Lent begins to-morrow. A clever cook can make hundreds of tasty dishes out of good fish, that make a pleasing change to the heavy meats so much indulged in just now. Spencley Bros. are fully supplied with lake and sea fish, smoked, dried and salt fish, and delicious oysters, fresh from the briny ocean.

When you once cook and taste our fish, you will be surprised at their fine, light flaky flavour. Avoid cheap, over-salty, coarse fish, and enjoy the fish—food that tastes tender and luscious, and that tempts tired appetites. Some of the daintiest morsels of the sea and lake will always be found in Spensley Bros. fish tanks, during Lent.

WEDDING BELLS

MASTERS—DeLAPLANTE.

At the Sacred Heart Rectory, this morning, Mr. Ora Masters and Miss Georgina DeLaplante were united in marriage by the Rev. Fr. McCauley. The witnesses were Miss Maud Masters and Mr. Arthur DeLaplante. Mr. and Mrs. Masters will reside in Toronto.

BOHN—KENDALL.

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. John's Church on Saturday, Feb. 17th, at 3 p.m., when Miss Alice Kendall was united in marriage to Mr. A. E. Bohn, both of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Davidson in the presence of the immediate friends of both parties. The bride was assisted by Miss Beatrice McAllister, of Port Hope, and was attended by Miss Lillian Naish and Master James Matthews. Mr. Walter Naish was best man. The bride wore a handsome gown of blue and grey check silk, and wore a veil of Brussels net with orange blossoms. Her flowers were white carnations. Miss McAllister wore a white silk blouse with a skirt of blue voile and large blue felt hat trimmed with blue and white silk. Miss Naish was dressed in white silk and carried a basket of pink carnations. The bride was given away by Mr. Walter Naish.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mr. R. J. Devey as the bridal party entered the church, and Mendelssohn's march was played at the conclusion of the ceremony. The chimes were played by Mr. Devey and Mr. J. Butcher. After the service at the church a wedding dinner was served at the home of Mr. Walter Naish. Mr. and Mrs. Bohn will reside at 413 London street. Many beautiful presents were received, some of them being from Mr. and Mrs. Henry Naish, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Naish, Mr. and Mrs. Northcott, Mr. and Mrs. Hensley, Mr. and Mrs. Ford, Miss Eva Naish, Mr. P. Naish, Miss McAllister, Mrs. Middleton, Miss Mary Robinson, Mr. Frank Robinson, Miss Simpson and others.

FITZGERALD—LANEY.

Mr. Ernest Carrol FitzGerald, of the Township of Percy, and Miss Margaret Loretta Laney, of the same Township, were married to-day in Peterborough. The wedding was a quiet one, and on their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. FitzGerald will reside in the Township of Percy.

HIGGINS—KELLEHER.

The marriage took place in Rochester, N.Y., on Thursday, February 15, at the Blessed Sacrament Church, of Miss Elizabeth V. Kelleher, of Rochester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelleher, Peterborough, to Mr. William Higgins, of Buffalo. Miss Kelleher is a graduate of St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, and has been practising her profession in that city for the past three or four years. She was one of Peterborough's most estimable young ladies, and friends here extend their good wishes for the future happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Higgins, who will reside in Buffalo.

LEFAVE—JONES.

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Peter's Cathedral this morning, when Miss Martha Jones, daughter of Mr. Dobert Jones of Peterborough, and Mr. Harry Lefave were united in marriage by the Rev. Fr. oCarthy. The groomsman was Mr. Hubert LeGros, while Miss Virginia LeGros acted as bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Lefave will reside in the city.

Celebrated Their Golden Wedding

The numerous friends in Peterborough of Mr. and Mrs. John Elder, of Alameda, California, will learn with pleasure that they have come to the rarely happy stage accorded to few married couples, of celebrating their golden wedding, on Monday, February 19.

Mr. Elder was married in Toronto on February 19, 1862, and subsequently removed to Peterborough, where he carried on business under the firm name of Macdonald & Elder, drygoods, etc, in the premises now occupied by Messrs. Merrell & Meredith. After the death of Mr. Macdonald, the business was continued by John Elder & Company.

Mr. Elder was a whole-hearted Scotchman, and always took a deep interest in St. Andrew's Society, which at that time was in its palmy days. With the removal of Mr. Elder, and death of the Camerons, the Poet Telford, Robert Bowie, and other enthusiastic Scotchmen, and the removal of Davie Galletly, the Society has practically ceased to exist. Mr. Elder was also an enthusiastic curler, and there was no sport, possessing the least whiff of heather, that did not find in him a vigourous participant and supporter.

Mrs. Elder was well known for her hospitality and graceful qualities as an entertainer, and both were faithful workers in St. Paul's Church.

Their many friends remaining in Peterborough will join in the congratulations the occasion suggests and will be pleased to learn that both Mr. and Mrs. Elder are well preserved, time in passing having touched them with light and kindly hand. They have apparently made also a host of friends in their Western home, if one is to judge from the elaborate newspaper reports and enthusiastic character of their golden jubilee marriage celebration. May they be spared many years in happiness, health and prosperity.

LEFT TO-DAY FOR VANCOUVER

Mr. M. A. Fitzgerald, of the Bank of Toronto, left this morning for Vancouver. Last night the Intermediate Leaders Corps of the Y.M.C.A. presented him with a Bible, suitably inscribed, and signed by the members of the corps. Mr. Fitzgerald has been secretary-treasurer for the last two years, and he takes with him the good wishes of his many friends.

FISH AND OYSTERS

Harry Bradshaw has just received a fine lot of fish, including fresh sea herring, salmon trout, white fish, sea salmon, halibut, smelts, fillets of haddie, finnan haddie, ciscoes—something extra fine. Also fresh sea oysters, just out of the shell. Fresh supplies will be received daily throughout Lent. Orders promptly filled.—Harry Bradshaw, No. 352-354 Charlotte street. Both 'phones 271.

INQUEST ADJOURNED

Belleville, Feb. 20.—The inquest in the case of J. J. Spencely, Grand Trunk brakeman, who was scalded to death as the result of a pitch-in in the Midland division yard here on the morning of the 14th inst., was resumed yesterday before Coroner Dr. Farley and a jury. Conductor Nugent and a number of other railway men testified and the inquest was adjourned until Friday afternoon in order to examine witnesses from Peterborough and Lindsay.

THE RED MILL

Have you heard New York's famous baritone singer at the "Red Mill"? If not, why not? The large crowds that patronize this show daily is a sure criterion that it is a winner. In addition to the singer, there will be a series of pictures, which will appear on the screen for the first time in Canada. They are direct from the Parisian film makers, and must be seen to be appreciated.

SUCCESSFUL CONCERT

All Saints' choir are to be congratulated on their excellent entertainment given in the parish hall last evening, which was much enjoyed by a large audience. Mr. George Chandler, the indefatigable choirmaster, had worked assiduously to make the event a success, and the result was a distinct compliment to his efforts, the part songs and glees being rendered in a manner that denoted careful training. Among these, specially deserving of praise, were Bishop's "Now by Day's Retiring Lamp," Sir A. Sullivan's "Oh, Hush Thee, My Babie,' delightfully rendered, and the unaccompanied "Three Bumble Bees" by men's voices.

"Thou are so near and yet so far" was sung by Mr. Chandler with great feeling and expression, and was very heartily encored. The Aeolian Singers scored a hit with "On the Banks of Allan Water," and for an encore gave "The Story of a Tack," a humorous number, which was keenly relished. The other items on the programme were all very creditably rendered, most of them calling for encores.

The platform was beautifully decorated and presented a pleasing appearance with the forty singers symetrically arranged. Master Cyril Devey very ably filled the role of accompanist.

Following is the programme:

SCHOOLS ON TAPIS

Bilingualism Figures in Debate in Legislature

NEGLECT OF NEW ONTARIO

Toronto, Feb. 21.—New Ontario, its progress and development, was a subject that provided some interesting discussion in the Legislature yesterday. T. R. Atkinson of North Norfolk, in a rather uneventful speech, blazed the way for the French-Canadian members and after that there wasn't a dull moment. Bilingual schools were under the hammer and the discussion extended to nearly every public policy of the Government.

Z. Magean, Sturgeon Falls, is a young French-Canadian member, who bids fair to be an excellent speaker. He is enthusiastic and knows conditions in New Ontario just as they are. Speaking of a Conservative hotelkeeper who lost his license and got it restored again on two occasions when elections were coming on, Mr. Magean said he had no doubt that the Provincial Treasurer knew nothing about it. "I am of the opinion that somebody benefited by these occurrences previous to the elections. I wouldn't say who it might be, but I have my thoughts in French, although I don't express them." (Laughter.)

He maintained that the very fact of the Government spending $5,000,000 at one throw on New Ontario showed that the north had been neglected for the past seven years.

While not complaining of the money spent on education, Mr. Magean stated that the amount of money spent during the past few years on Toronto University was more than all the expenditure for bridges and roads through New Ontario.

Napoleon Champagne, Ottawa East, defended the Government.

"Let us see," said he. "The Conservative party has a majority of 60. At four seats a year it will be 15 years before the leader of the Opposition can sit on this side of the House. Before that time he will either have thrown up the job in disgust or he will have been fired out by his party." (Laughter.)

He paid a compliment to Mr. Rowell for his pre-election statement that the French people should not be deprived of the use of their mother tongue. Mr. Champagne assumed that the Opposition leader was referring to schools in this regard, for "the French mothers will take care of that in their homes. They won't need politicians there."

After the publication of Mr. Rowell's campaign address referring to bilingual schools, The Ottawa Free Press hailed the new leader as a Moses. The Free Press is a Liberal paper and it can call Mr. Rowell a Moses one day and a Judas Iscariot the next." Mr. Champagne warmed up in his recital of N. W. Rowell's vacillating policy on this bilingual school question.

"At that time," he continued, "if the law was against you, you were willing to break the law, if the law should be amended you were willing to trim it to suit your purpose—you were willing to give fair play to the people to whom you were talking.

"To-day it is quite different. To-day you stand up and say to the Attorney-General, who has said that bilingual schools are illegal — observe the law. Doubling and wheeling may be all right for the rank and file, it might do for the satellites, but is unbecoming for a pole star, the general of the great Liberal party."

"There is nothing so cheerful aroound home as trees," said T. R. Atkinson (North Norfolk) in resuming the long-drawn out address in reply to the speech from the throne. He urged reforestration, not only to provide lots of timber land, but also to beautify the country.

It seems to me that the Government's policy in North Ontario for the past few years has been one of 'cut and slash,' said he. "That's a nice place for a settler to try and locate and find a home." He recommended that every tree or sapling under 10 inches in diameter should be protected by the Government and used for reforestration. He urged the appointment of an independent man to administer the $5,000,000 loan for the development of New Ontario.

In reply, R. A. Norman said the speech from the throne was one of the most momentous speeches of modern times.

Nesbitt to Argue Case.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—What the stated case to the Privy Council on the marriage question shall be is still under consideration by the Government.

It is understood that Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., has been asked to argue the case but has deferred acceptance of the brief until the precise terms of the reference have been determined. Some doubt is expressed by those who hold that the Lancaster bill is ultra vires of the Dominion Parliament that the reference may be framed in such a form that the judicial committee of the Privy Council will not have the full facts of the case before them when the case comes up for adjudication.

Hamilton Against It.

Hamilton, Feb. 21.—Hamilton City Council will protest against the compulsory vaccination bill, which is causing such a furore of excitement throughout the city here.

The controllers unanimously agreed to wait upon the Legislature when the bill comes up. They want vaccination authorized only when the parents are willing.

Mayor Lees declared he would rather pay the $25 penalty than issue a proclamation ordering compulsory vaccination.

Shot Father and Self.

Grand Forks, Nd., Feb. 21—Rex Wallace, of St. Paul, Monday night shot and killed his father, H. W. Wallace, a prominent banker, at Drayton, Nd., seriously wounded his brother-in-law and then killed himself. The tragedy occurred in the bank of the elder Wallace.

It is alleged that young Wallace had written a letter some weeks ago to his father, threatening to kill him unless he fulfilled a promise to give him $25,000.

Premier Asquith Invites Conference of Miners

NEGOTIATIONS BREAK OFF

London, Feb. 21.—The Government last night intervened in the coal dispute which threatens to cause a stoppage of work in the mines throughout the United Kingdom, involving not less than 800,000 miners. After the subject had been discussed at a Cabinet meeting, Premier Asquith addressed a letter to the representatives of the coal owners and miners, requesting them to meet him and some of his colleagues at the Foreign Office on Thursday next in order to endeavor to arrange a basis of settlement. He added that the industrial council had advised the convening of such a meeting.

The Premier states that the Government hoped that a means would be found, by direct negotiation between the parties concerned, to avert the disaster of a national stoppage, but the prospects that that would be achieved before the miners' notices of cessation of work expired on March 1, were so small that the Government felt compelled to intervene.

"There is no need for me to enlarge upon the very serious consequences, both to the industries of the country and to all classes of coal consumers, which would inevitably follow an extensive stoppage of the coal trade," adds the Premier.

"If prolonged, it would involve a general stoppage of industry and His Majesty's Government feel that they could not allow such a calamity to ensue without making every endeavor to aid in preventing it."

As a result of the intervention of the Government, the situation is a trifle hopeful, although the prospect is none too promising. Premier Asquith's action followed upon complete failure of the negotiations conducted by the English conciliation board, which has been sitting in Westminster for several days. These negotiations reached the state, where the owners agreed to the principle of a minimum wage, but upon conditions which the miners declined to accept.

On announcement of this failure, the Cabinet held a second prolonged council, with the result that the Premier had invited the disputants to confer with the Ministers. Hopes are now centered upon the proved ability of Sir George R. Askwith, the board of trade representative, in arranging labor difficulties. Both sides are in an angry mood, under the belief that the dispute must now be fought out once for all.

Didn't Reach Agreement.

London, Feb. 21.—The conference between the coal-mine owners and the men's representatives, which has been in session in London for two days, broke up last evening without any agreement being reached. This perhaps is partially attributable to the fact that the International Miners will meet to-day, and the men are waiting to see if their hands will not be strengthened by the decisions reached by that organization.

Negotiations have been commenced between the Board of Trade and both sides in the dispute. Arbitration is strongly urged.

Railway Settles Taxes.

Brantford, Feb. 21.—The Brantford Street Railway Co. officials here yesterday gave security to the city tax officials for several thousand dollars taxes outstanding, and, as a result, the sale of all the movable chattels of the company, which was to have been conducted under the bailiff's auspices on Saturday, was cancelled.

Seizure had been made of the office furniture, copper wire, rails and other unused material, at the instance of Tax Collector Benedict.

It is stated that President Verner is now negotiating a deal in New York, whereby the local street railway and the radial lines will be greatly improved.

Legal action to revoke franchise rights has been commenced by the city, but as yet service of writ has not been made.

Bank Merger Rumors.

Montreal, Feb. 21.—The rumors of the amalgamation of the Bank of Montreal and another are again rife. While the negotiations are said to be on with the Royal, to-day rumor has it that the Union, Quebec and Montreal banks will join forces. So far there seems to be little to any of the rumors.

No Tamare Fight In Kingston.

Kingston, Feb. 21.—A committee of the Evangelical Alliance met and made preliminary arrangements for holding a mass meeting to discuss the matter of a uniform marriage law for the Dominion. The date agreed upon was March 12.

To Extend Brantford Library.

Brantford, Feb. 21.—The Brantford Public Library, to which Andrew Carnegie contributed $30,000 towards construction a few years ago, is already congested with an overflow of books, and the board has decided that a $10,000 extension is necessary.

Troops For Churchill.

London, Feb. 21.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the Commons yesterday Col. Seeley, in reply to a question, said the additional cost of moving troops in connection with Hon. Winston Churchill's visit to Belfast was $13,500, "but," he said, "the right of free speech must be safeguarded at any cost."

W. Moore, M.P., Armagh—"There was no attack on free speech; it was the offensive choice of the hall." (Cheers.)

Col. Seeley—"If the hon. member went to Dublin to make a speech we would take the same measure to preserve his rights."

AVIATOR IS HURT

Earl Sandt Crossed Lake Erie Then Flew Back

FOUND BADLY INJURED

Erie, Pa., Feb. 21.—Earl Sandt, aged 23, an aviator of this city, made a flight from Erie to Port Rowan, Canada, over frozen Lake Erie late yesterday. At 5.50 p.m., he started from the Canadian shore for this place, but up to a late hour last night had not arrived. Searching parties started to cross the lake.

It was reported later that Aviator Sandt had been found at Northeast, near here, on the American shore of Lake Erie, and that he is badly injured.

Sandt is claimed to be the first aviator to cross the inland seas. The trip was made in 34 minutes. It was 2.41 by the aviator's watch when he took to the air here and at 4.30 he telephoned friends from Port Rowan, Canada, that he had landed at 3.15.

In coming to the ground Sandt broke a rib of his Curtiss biplane, but the injury was not serious. Shortly before six o'clock a telephone message from the Canadian shore announced that Sandt had departed for the American shore at 5.50. When over an hour passed and the aviator failed to appear, the huge crowd which had assembled became uneasy. Relatives and friends of Sandt communicated with the Canadian side and verified the report that he had started the return flight.

Later in the night Sandt was definitely heard from. While high in the air, and twenty miles east of his course, the engine of his biplane stopped, he said. For a time he glided toward the ice-covered lake, but suddenly the machine turned turtle and he was buried unconscious in the wreckage. How long he remained in this condition, Sandt does not know. When he recovered he was literally saturated with blood from many cuts. Aided by a pocket compass Sandt walked ten miles to the American shore, landing at Northeast at ten o'clock last night. He was found staggering along the shore by boys who were skating, and later carried to an hotel and word telephoned to this city.

He was brought here from Northeast at midnight in a special car. Thousands of persons, a brass band and loud blasts from shop whistles greeted him.

TO DISTRIBUTE CARS.

Proposed Commission Will Handle the Grain Situation.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—This was exclusively a western day in Parliament. The further consideration of the grain bill occupied the attention of the Commons at both afternoon and night sittings. Western Liberal members placed themselves on record as unanimously opposed to any change in the car distribution clause whereby the farmers would be liable to lose any of the privileges gain through many years of agitation.

Mr. Foster's amendment proposed to give the projected commission authority to control the car situation.

Led by Hon. Frank Oliver, the Opposition took issue with the proposal. The ex-Minister of the Interior pointed out that the car distribution power as decreed by the Laurier Administration under the old Manitoba grain act was a remarkable piece of legislation. It was probably the most extreme Socialistic measure on the statute books for the protection of the individual over the corporation. It was not possible that such strong legislation should have been approved had it not been that there was a dominant public demand. It was the outcome of an irrepressible conflict between the two parties which would never be reconciled. There was only one course to take, in his opinion; either to side with one or the other; either to stand by the legislation and protect the individual, or to remit the legislation and let the corporation have its way.

At 11.30 a division was taken on the clause, which was adopted by a vote of 41 to 29, a Government majority of twelve. Mr. Sharpe of Lisgar voted with the Opposition.

Later in the night Hon. Mr. Foster announced that it was the intention of the Government to ask Parliament at the present session for a grant of money to acquire and operate the elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur. The Minister added, however, that this course would not be followed at any other place. He could not now state the amount which would be asked for. It will, however, likely run up into the millions.

Australasia Getting the Men.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—"I am the most abused man in Canada; but let them abuse; I am satisfied to be judge on my record."

This was the greeting yesterday of Arthur Hawkes, special commissioner of the Immigration Department, who arrived in Ottawa yesterday morning after several weeks' visit to the old country investigating the situation as regards immigration to Canada in the British Isles. Mr. Hawkes will make his report to the Government in two weeks.

Australia or Australasia, he said, is becoming a keen competitor of this country in attracting settlers from the British Isles, according to Mr. Hawkes. Last year 9,000 people left Scotland for Australasia, three times as many as ever before, and they secured 60,000 from the British Isles, twice as many as ever before.

Guards and Prisoners Fight.

Mexico City, Feb. 21.—Twenty-seven prisoners and prison guards were killed Monday at Puebla, in the State of Puebla, in a fight which followed an attempt by the prisoners to escape from jail, according to a special despatch received by The Mexican Herald from that city. Twenty of the men succeeded in escaping.

A force of cavalry, which was hurriedly despatched to the assistance of the prison guards, had a severe fight with the escaping prisoners.

Liverpool, Feb. 21.—The official receiver of wrecks has had no request to detain the nine survivors of the ship Erne, who were picked up at sea by a Liverpool-bound steamer.

It was reported that the South American line to which the Erne belonged, had asked for their detention, pending enquiry into the conduct of the captain, who was said to have taken the only lifeboat and deserted the ship with his wife, the mate and a passenger.

Won't Discuss New Line.

Montreal, Feb. 21.—"I have nothing to say at present," was the remark of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, when asked re the twenty-four knot vessels of which reference was made in despatches from Ottawa.

None of the other officials of the G.T.R., C.P.R., or the C.N.R. would talk, nor the Allans. That there is considerable in it is shown by their attitude towards questions.

C. C. James Looks Over Job.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—C. C. James, who has been appointed by the Government to work out a system of agricultural co-operation between the provinces and the Dominion, was in Ottawa yesterday, and had a conference with Hon. Martin Burrell, when they mapped out the work.

Mr. James will commence his duties with the Dominion Government on April 1.

Mr. Burrell is planning a reorganization of the experimental farms of the Dominion, with a view to making them more practical and useful. At present many of the farms are not up to a very high standard. It is understood that in the supplementary estimates will be placed a considerable sum for improvements to buildings on experimental farms.

"THE SECRET OF PAUL FARLEY"

By JOHN MARCH

"You will do nothing of the sort; you will have your breakfast in bed, and when you come downstairs you will devote your time and attention entirely to me. I forbid you to open a book—unless it be absolutely light reading—add up a figure, or use your brain in any way for the next twelve months. Afterwards—if there isn't a cradle to rock—you shall have a career, Paul, a beautiful, flaming, rampaging career! If I have a cigar," he added, rising and going to the chimney-piece, "will you want a cigarette?"

"No," Paul said, laughing, with his hand over his eyes; "I am going to abstain for three months."

"Good!" he said, drawing his hand caressingly over the thin, dark face; "but I'll show you one, my friend, if you have an inordinate desire that way."

"But you would rather I did not? You don't wish me to smoke, Felix?" he asked, kissing the brown hand.

Felix lighted the cigar, dragged a basket chair to the couch, and, dropping into it, slipped Paul's cigarette case into his hand.

"Of course, I would rather you did not smoke again to-day, because you've been overdoing it, my friend, and—but I don't prohibit it; I don't wish to deprive you of any solace, any nerve soother while you are ill; but I feel satisfied that whatever my dear wife does will be decorous, consistent and in conformity with good taste, with the customs and usages of society."

Paul dropped the case into his waistcoat pocket, and heaved a sigh of perfect happiness and peace.

"I will begin the weaning process at once, and if there is any fretfulness and craving attached to the denial I shall have surmounted a greater part of the evil before you take me in hand."

"I want you to go out with me to-morrow morning," Felix said, after a pause. "Don't hurry up; I shall not be here till eleven." But I want you to go with me to Picadilly Circus, Regent street, somewhere, and help me to choose a costume for Mrs. Fleming. You have some idea of her taste and what she would like. I had thought of a heliotrope frieze, a small seal coat—I don't know which would suit you the better, a toque or a—I thing a large picture hat, don't you, Paulus?"

"I will wear whatever you think becoming," he said laughing, "but you won't like me so well in petticoats, Felix."

"I think I shall like you ten thousand times better, because the change of apparel will ensure my happiness. I couldn't get a parson to marry me to a long, clean-shaven chap like you. By the way, love, there's a summons for you to attend the inquest the day after to-morrow. I couldn't get you off that. You may appear as you are, Paul, and we will get a ready-made costume for you to return in. Agnes and you must stay at the Friar's heel—you can't come up here—until I can make arrangements for our marriage. I say 'must,'" he said, bending over her. "You see, I take it for granted that you are going to do all this, give up your cherished schemes and aims for my sake, for love of me. I think you love me; nay, I am sure. I am not a coxcomb. That afternoon in my bedroom was an eye-opener, my friend. You lost control of yourself, Paulus, and I had a peep beneath the surface of that cold indifference, that quiet boredom; I—well, never mind, I wondered what I was going to do with a fellow who loved me to that unnatural extent. What on earth induced it? Fancy an individual of your mental diameter and circumference choosing to live a lifetime with a man like me. I hope you won't regret it, sweetheart."

"You are more likely to regret it than I, Felix. I am going to confess to Judith; I must make what reparation I can. Things must be made right with Anthony, and ultimately, Felix, it may leak out. The world, your world, may get to know of this little history, and, Felix, I would endure the most grievous misery, I would suffer anything rather than bring discredit upon—"

Felix laid his hand tenderly over the quivering lips.

"I know you would," he said humbly. "We have been excellent comrades; we have lived shoulder to shoulder, and I am bound to have learned something of your forceful character. I know, if you thought your dear love harmful, how you would leave me to face the blank outlook, how, with those eyes like a stricken stag's, you would plod on through the unrewarded struggle. I know you better than you know yourself, Paul. I have seen you with the mask on and with the mask off; I have seen you in happy circumstances and in trying ones. I know what charms me is real; it does not spring from the imagination. A sense of duty where I am concerned, a mistaken sense, and you would welcome a life of purgatory. I believe you would forego your chance of happiness in the next world to promote my welfare in this. Do you think, after petitioning heaven year in and year out to deal with me kindly, to send me a heart that could commune with my own, after imploring heaven to see that this dear wife—if she came—loved me well, I should be such an arrant fool as not to perceive that heaven had answered me, sent me over and above what I had asked?"

He rose, pushed back the creaking chair, and threw the end of his cigar into the fire.

"If you are satisfied that my heart, my life, is bound up in yours," he said more lightly, holding out his hand; "if I have given you some faint idea of my feelings about you, we will go and have some dinner, friend Paulus."

Paul grasped the hand, and was gently raised by it, but hesitated a moment before looking up into the handsome flushed face.

"I was thinking this morning about Guy," he said anxiously. "Felix, what is to become of Guy?"

"Hare will take him. He told me he felt that the boy belonged to him, and he would endeavour to make something of him. And he will do it—he is just the man to have charge of an intellect like that. We won't lose sight of him, love; we will have him at the Manor before long, when we come back home—poor little chap!"

The two men strolled into the hall where Johnson was apparently idling. Felix looked excited, his eyes shone, his handsome face was flushed with the happiness he could not conceal; whereas Paul was grave and quiet.

"We have both been in the wars, Johnson," the squire remarked; "I can't assist Mr. Farley with his coat, nor he with mine. I have a shoulder in pickle and he a hand; we're a precious maimed pair."

"Have you seen Mr. Farley's wound, sir?"

"No; best not to disturb it unnecessarily. Mr. Farley is dining with me to-night, and after dinner we shall hunt up the most skilful surgeon in town, and have it properly dressed."

"Mr. Farley looks better already," Johnson said, standing behind the squire struggling with his coat.

"I have seen an old friend, Johnson," Paul returned pleasantly, "and that has chipped me up."

He was contemplating Felix's beaming face as he spoke, and, catching the quizzing expression in the sparkling grey eyes, instantly lowered his heavy white lids over a very demure smile.

"It's snowing, sir; will you have an umbrella?"

"No, thanks; it's only a step to my place, just across the street."

Felix looked critically at Paul, went behind him and turned up his collar; then slipping an arm through his, they went out into the white starlit night.

EPILOGUE

A small crowd had assembled on Weyberne platform to await the incoming train which had been signalled some three minutes previously.

Strange rumours had been afloat in the village, following closely upon the squire's quiet wedding in town, nor had the dark sayings in any wise dwindled during his protracted honeymoon. On the contrary, as the spring crept on they grew to the most alarming proportions, their herculean growth being suddenly arrested by an urgent cablegram from Jack Hunter to a certain hotel in San Francisco, setting forth the wisdom and necessity of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming's immediate return.

Felix laughed, he was so happy, he did not trouble whether folks said he had married "the young man up at the Hall," or the sphinx, or a baboon from the Zoo. Nevertheless, in twelve hours' time, dating from the receipt of the cable, they had left San Francisco and were en route for the old Manor House at Weyberne.

They were due in two minutes, so Pointer said, who was looking proudly round upon the ever-increasing throng. It was a red-letter day in the annals of his officialdom, because never before in his knowledge had a couple of hundred people collected at one time in the vicinity of Weyberne Station. Moreover, he had been standing for the past five minutes between Sir Thomas and Lady Hargrave—an honour in itself—and had heard from the lips of that good dame how Mrs. Fleming, whose maiden name was Jervois, had been at school in Belgium with Miss Agnes for more than a year and a half. This was news indeed, and more in keeping with common sense and common possibilities than the silly stuff disseminated from the Radler's bar, which they made no attempt to check but rather encouraged, as it brought grist to the Popinjay's mill.

A knot of chosen friends stood apart from the motley gathering of eager well-wishers. Agnes and Jack Hunter kept well to the front, as also did the Hargrave boys, whose main idea was to be conspicuously in evidence. But Judith hid behind Agnes, shrinking from Anthony's possessive touch lest it should be seen he had his hand upon her shoulder and a report of their engagement circulated before it was quite an hour old.

She had come to the station with the rest of the family; it would have been impolite, besides excessively absurd, to stay away. Yet it was something in the nature of an ordeal, this public reception of the whilom "Paul Farley," who was so soon to take up her duties as mistress of the Manor. The nervous dread of the meeting had painted a bright red spot, no bigger than a shilling, beneath the hollow of her violet eyes, the trepidation and long drawn out was moistening her forehead, leaving her hands and feet stone cold.

"Here they are!" someone shouted.

She saw Pointer approach a first-class carriage from where a lady was leaning, her dark, interesting face and glorious eyes, made darker by contrast with the squire's fairness. Mrs. Fleming was eagerly scanning the upturned faces, a wistful smile greeting the bitter-sweet memories the sight of Weyberne brought to her mind. Her roving eyes soon singled out the object of their search. She turned to the squire and whispered quickly. He nodded with a happy sympathetic smile, and stretched out his arm to assist Pointer, who was making a havoc of opening the door. The foremost group pressed forward, but Pauline Fleming, with one object in view, eluded what she realized would be a substantial as well as a very joyous welcome.

She walked straight to where Judith Hargrave was endeavouring to escape observation, took her in her arms, and kissed her tenderly for the first time since they met. A little buzz of satisfaction at their punctual arrival was intended to cover an awkward pause, in which Lady Hargrave, appreciating the motive prompting the happy wife, surreptitiously brushed aside a trickling tear.

From this dreaded meeting rose the structure of a friendship, lasting to grey hairs and comely enough for either world. No words of explanation were needed to lay its foundation stone. It seemed rather to rise from the fragrance of two souls who had been on a perilous journey to acquire the hard-earned wages of experience, and who, remembering the days that were past, felt sad, but secure in the knowledge and wisdom thus gained, beheld scarce a limit to the ocean of happiness lapping their feet.

As she moved away from Judith, Lady Hargrave caught her in a motherly embrace, and held her there quite an unconscionable time. Then the general rush commenced, Mrs. Fleming ultimately emerging, tall, slim and flushed from the affectionate admiration of her friends.

"God bless my soul, Fleming!" Sir Thomas exclaimed, buttonholing the squire, and drawing him to one side, "this has been the deuce of a business for me all round. I've got a secretary fellow yonder," jerking his thumb in the direction of Weyberne Hall, "no use at all. You'll have to lend me your wife, Felix, to get things straight."

"Not I," the squire returned, with his hearty laugh; "I'll have no estimates, no speeches, no Greek exercises, no Herodotus and his kidney, coming betwixt me and my wife."

"Come here, Mrs. Felix!" and the baronet invitingly beckoned the lady.

"You will help me to get my affairs ship-shape, won't you, my dear? Don't trouble about Fleming, he's a terrible bully, and if you ask my opinion," he added teasingly, "that husband of your was more captivated while you were masquerading as my secretary than ever he will be now you have elected to become an ordinary sensible woman."

"You are mistaken, sir," the squire said, dryly.

The End.

Kidney Pains in the Back

Could Not Stand or Even Turn in Bed —Legs Greatly Swollen

All Doctor's Medicine Failed—Cure Effected by Use of

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Again this great medicine has triumphed over kidney disease of a severe type. From a bed of suffering and helplessness Mrs. Walsh was restored to health and strength by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Kidney pains in the back tortured her. Dropsical swellings had set in and she had no reason to hope for cure since the doctor's medicine failed to even relieve her. Read what the husband says about this remarkable cure.

Mr. Thos. D. Walsh, Pictou, N.S., writes: "Two years ago my wife took to her bed after suffering for a long time from kidney pains in the back. She was not able to stand on her feet or even turn herself in bed. The doctor's medicine was no benefit whatever, that we could see. Sometimes her legs would swell considerably. Reading about a woman in similar condition being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, we purchased two boxes, ad when these were used she was able to sit up. With three more boxes she was restored to health and doing her own housework.

"As for myself I also found these pills all that is claimed for them. I give this statement in order that others may obtain the same ease from suffering as that experienced by my wife and myself."

It is Criminal to Neglect the Skin and Hair

THINK of the suffering entailed by neglected skin troubles — mental because of disfiguration, physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft, white hands, and good hair. These blessings, so essential to happiness and even success in life, are often only a matter of a little thoughtful care in the selection of effective remedial agents. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a postal to "Cuticura," Dept. 5M, Boston, U.S.A., will secure a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on Skin and Scalp Treatment.

CALLING A MAN A LIAR

The other day a resident in Louisville, Kentucky, expressed his opinion to another man that he was a dirty liar, and was promptly knocked down. He commenced an action for assault, but lost the case. The judge declared from the bench that to call another man a liar was to deliver him a blow, and honourably discharged the defendant.

It is a justifiable defence in any of the American States to claim that the man you have assaulted has first called you a liar. A bill containing such a provision was introduced in the Texas Legislature some years ago, and has not been repealed. The senator who introduced the bill declared that he based it on a law which makes the offensive use of the word a misdemeanor punishable by a $25 fine.

Calling a man a liar is not only an offence against the law in Virginia; it is a crime. There is a law on the statute books of that state which reads as follows: "If any person shall, in the presence or hearing of another, curse or abuse such a person or use any violently abusive language to such person concerning himself or any of his female relatives in circumstances to provoke a breach of the peace, he shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than $1.25 nor more than $30."

To call a man a liar in Georgia is slander, for which one may be punished by a fine of $1,000, or imprisonment for a year, or both. The defendant has the right, however, to prove his charge and go clear. On the criminal side of the courts the law holds, as it does in Kentucky, that the lie constitutes the first blow and justifies violent response.

In Arkansas the use of the epithet is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine. In Mississippi it is not specifically mentioned in the laws, but all insulting words are made civilly actionable. In South Carolina it is not a crime, but may be used as a basis of civil action for defamation of character.

In North Carolina the user of the epithet and the man to whom it is applied are held equally guilty in cases of assault and battery. But every state is careful to warn the public that "all words which from their usual construction and common acceptation, are construed as insults and tend to violence and breach of the peace shall be actionable."

Twenty-five oysters, two tablespoonfuls butter, two cups of breadcrumbs, one cup milk, one-half teaspoonful salt, a dash of pepper.

Butter four individual baking dishes, cover the bottom with breadcrumbs, lay in six oysters, dust with salt and pepper, and place a small piece of butter on each; cover with breadcrumbs and one tablespoonful milk. Bake ten minutes in a very hot oven.

"You don't meet any bunco steerers or gold-brick men."

"No," replied Farmer Corntossel, "when a man is after your money now, he doesn't take the trouble to be sociable an' show you a good time. He jest adressed a few circulars an' expects you to send him the money by mail."—Washington Star.

RHEUMATISM IN THE SYSTEM

SIX YEARS CURED IN SIX DAYS

TO MFRS. "NERVILINE."

"The suffering I endured for six years with Rheumatism is beyond description. Every time I was exposed to cold or dampness meant that I had to go to bed. My muscles stiffened, my joints swelled, and any attempt at exertion brought on excruciating twinges. The pain shifted from one part to another and I was scarcely ever free from misery and sleeplessness. I took all kinds of liquid medicines, but they nearly all depressed my heart and I had to stop them. Then I was told of the wonderful power of Nerviline.

Nerviline

"If Nerviline had been made specially for my case it couldn't have been more successful. It sank right into the core of the painful part, gave me ease, allowed me to sleep, gave me the use of my arms and limbs—in fact, made a new man of me. I urge all Rheumatics to use 'Nerviline.'

A. E. TRAYONER.
"Justice of the Peace, Lancaster."

The most wonderful pain-subduing substances in the world are in Nerviline—that's why it penetrates so quickly, why it instantly cures pain that other remedies can't even relieve. You'll be surprised how quickly sciatica, lumbago, or rheumatism are cured by Nerviline—seems almost magical the way it will cure a cold or sore throat. When the chest is sore and it hurts to draw a long breath one rubbing with Nerviline is sufficient. So highly valued is Nerviline by those who use it, that many families consider it quite as good as a doctor for aches, pains, and minor ailments of every kind. Large 25c bottles are sold by all dealers.

THE WELLINGTON LEGACY

The Present Duke of Wellington Gets About $48,000 a Year From Belgium

An attempt is contemplated in Belgium to relieve the treasury of its obligations towards the heirs of the Duke of Wellington, in consequence of his great victory at Waterloo. All historians are aware that, after the famous battle, William, King of the Netherlands and afterwards of Belgium, expressed his gratitude of the Iron Duke by conferring on him the title of "Prince of Waterloo," transmissable to all his direct heirs, together with a revenue representing at that time the center-value of a large tract of woodlands situated between Quatre Bras and Nivelles. After the revolution which severed the Netherlands and Belgium in 1830, this obligation was transferred to the Belgium State. The value of the land grant having enormously increased since then, through sales of wood and cultivation, the annual amount paid to the present Duke of Wellington now comes to about $48,000. It is now proposed to approach the Wellington heirs and negotiate an arrangement which would extinguish Belgium's obligation by the payment of a lump sum to the present Duke, in the same way that the French State has settled the dowries willed by Napoleon on the families of many of his generals and friends. Mr. Errera, the late Rector of Brussels University, who has made a special study of the subject, suggests such an arrangement, and the Belgian government seems inclined to act on his suggestion, or, at least, to sound the feelings of the Wellington family on the subject.

THE DUKE D'ABRUZZI

In a conversation, which is being widely discussed, the Duke of Abruzzi has thrown further light on his disposition towards marriage. Speaking of Miss Katharine Elkins, daughter of the late Senator Elkins, of the United States, he called her "as estimable a young woman in every way as could be found." The Duke did not say in so many words, but he left the impression that he had heard from Miss Elkins recently. He said he did not know whether he would ever be married. "A man is better off unmarried unless he is wedded to the one of his choice," he is reported to have said.

RETIRED FROM COURT LIFE

Archduke Henry Ferdinand Succumbed to Great Beauty

Another Austrian Archduke has retired from Court life for the sake of a woman of humble birth. The Archduke Ferdinand, son of the late Grand Duke of Tuscany and brother of the ex-Princes Louise of Saxony, aged thirty-four, has always been noted for his artistic talent. Although a captain of Dragoons, he has shown little interest in a military career, and always had disputes with his brother officers. Without asking for leave of absence the Archduke recently went to Munich to follow a course of studies in painting and modelling. While visiting there he met a woman of inferior birth but of great beauty, with whom he immediately fell in love. Family influence has been brought to bear on the Archduke, and he has promised to abandon for the present the idea of marriage. The Emperor Francis Joseph has granted him indefinite leave of absence from his regiment and permission to pursue his art studies at Munich.

FRAUDULENT BORROWING

Left The Army Because of Hopeless Financial Embarrassment

Many frauds on a large scale have been one of the recent features of German prosperity and the growth of luxury and extravagance. A few days ago an ex-army captain was arrested in Berlin for fraudulent borrowing to the tune of $50,000. He is reported to have pledged his furniture to no fewer than thirty-one different creditors. His success in raising funds appears to have been due to the prestige which the officers' corps enjoys, and partly to false representations that wife, from whom he had actually been for some time separated, was the daughter of the wealthy banking family of Bleichroeder. He was obliged to leave the army in July in consequence of his hopeless financial embarrassments.

GERMANY GROWS STRONG BY PEACE

Why General Von Alten Wants Greater Military and Naval Strength

General von Alten, one of the most distinguished officers in the German army, and famous for his military writings, has become the undisputed leader of the part of the German people who consider military and naval strength the only guarantee of lasting peace, and who, therefore, clamor for a big increase of the Kaiser's army and navy. The General gives his opinion that the regulations with regard to military service should be made stricter, since, although theoretically, every able-bodied man is supposed to serve in the German army, many are not enrolled, on the pretext of keeping down the expenses of the War Office. The result is that France, with her population of thirty-nine millions, is as strong, from the military point of view, as Germany, with her sixty-five millions. But, in spite of this opinion, the General is not pessimistic. "I do not think there will be a war between the great European powers in our days," he says. "If we desire to remain strong it is only because it is the best method of assuring peace. We shall not have another war, unless England and France attack us suddenly, and I don't see why these two countries should do so. As for Germany, she does not want war; she has proved it sufficiently for 40 years, and her people and her Emperor are profoundly pacific. The Reichstag would reject any war which was not the result of questions of vital interest." General von Alten continues to point out that Germany has grown strong by peace, that it is owing to peace that German commerce and industry have increased so as to make Germany one of the richest nations in the world.

The General also denies the fact that Germany wants to become a great colonial empire. In spite of the increase of the population and the low rate of emigration, there is still plenty of room in the country, which is proved by the fact that Germany is always importing foreign workmen. Nearly 200,000 foreign workmen enter Germany every year.

They Didn't Dare to.

What Prince August Wilhelm, the Kaiser's fourth son, who is studying for an administrative career, describes as a "very instructive sitting," took place recently in Berlin, where two surburban municipalities debated the propriety of their amalgamation with the capital. At a subsequent meeting, at which the Prince was not present, opposition suddenly sprang up to the plan, whereupon a Social Democratic councillor asked how it was that no one made any opposition when the Prince, the representative of the Government, was present. A painful silence ensued, broken at last by an elderly councillor naively replying, "We didn't dare to."

FEARFUL TORTURE

Peasants In Their Common Excitement Mesmerize One Another

Auto-suggestion was the defence accepted the other day by a bench of judges at Agram when they acquitted half a dozen peasants who had taken part in a brutal case of lynching.

The inhabitants of the village of Ribnik, in Croatia, had, as appeared from the evidence, been greatly excited by a number of cases of arson in the neighborhood, and as the authorities failed them, they organized a police force themselves, armed with scythes and shotguns, and finally seized an itinerant brushmaker, whom they believed to be the guilty man. He was dragged before the assembled villagers, tortured until he made a confession, and then more than a hundred men and women beat him to death with flails, chopped up the body with scythes, and burned the fragments in a heap of straw.

Though the Public Prosecutor asked for a death sentence, the defending counsel succeeded in persuading the judges that the peasants in their common excitement had, so to speak, mesmerised each other, and were therefore not responsible for their actions.

NOT ONE WOMAN IN TWENTY HAS A STRONG BACK.

THE KIDNEYS ARE TO BLAME NINE TIMES OUT OF TEN.

Women are coming to understand that weak, lame and aching backs from which they suffer are due to wrong action of the kidneys.

The poisons that ought to be carried off are sent back into the blood, taking with them a multitude of aches and pains. There is no use of expecting relief until the kidneys are restored to health.

Doan's Kidney Pills are the quickest and most reliable remedy. Mrs. Ed. Baxter, Upham, N.B., writes:—"I take a good deal of pleasure in telling you what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for me. I was troubled with my kidneys for a number of years, and my back was so lame I could not sweep the floor. A friend of mine advised me to try a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did, and after using three boxes I am as well as ever. I highly recommend them to anyone suffering from lame back or kidney trouble."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

BILLS WERE BURNED

Clear Case of Spontaneous Combustion Inside Trunk

Edith Newton, of Smith's Falls, lost her savings under most peculiar circumstances. She saw some smoke issuing from her trunk, and on raising the lid to learn the cause was surprised to find the contents on fire. The flames appeared to be issuing from a roll of money which she had left there. Water was thrown on the blazing trunk, but only the ends of two ten-dollar bills and a five were saved. The roll had contained $135. The saved portions will be sent to the Government, and may be renewed. The fire is supposed to have started from spontaneous combustion in the money. The bills were old and tightly rolled, while the room was warm.

DISTINGUISHED COAL-HEAVERS

The learned English judge who recently set himself to break stones in order to test a case submitted for his judgment was, after all, only copying the excellent example set by Judge Moss, who on one occasion travelled specially to Betherda to investigate the conditions under which quarrying was done, to help him decide a lawsuit. He seized the trucks and pushed them himself wth both hands. Mr. Justice Warrington of England has also toiled as hard as any coalheaver. A few years ago some eighteen tons of coal near his residence set up combustion, and all his servants there were called upon to remove it urgently to the open. His lordship thereupon took his wheelbarrow and worked vigorously with the rest.

THE DUCHESS OF BEDFORD

The Duke of Bedford, who is one of the most original and, in some ways, progressive of British Peers, has, unknown to the general public, just taken a lease for ninety-nine years of a piece of land upon which he has erected a building containing a furnace from the London Cremation Company. This private crematorium will be for the sole use of the family, both the Duke and Duchess being strongly in favor of cremation. The Duke of Bedford is a model landlord, but neither he nor the Duchess are very popular in Society owing to their great exclusiveness. The Duchess is an extremely capable and clever woman, and both she and her husband are eminent zoologists. The Duchess's private "zoo" is the finest in the country, and all sorts of wild beasts roam about in a sunken pit. On one part of the estate visitors who wish to see the animals at close quarters enter a miniature armoured train, which has several times been unsuccessfully attacked by bisons and cows.

DUELS IN FRANCE

John N. Raphael Says Their Chief Objection is Expense.

The principal objection to the duel as practised in France is its expense, says John N. Raphael, in the "Bystander." The cheapest you can do it for it about $50, and you cannot do it for that unless you know the ropes and have friends in Duelville who book. As a rule, a duel costs each of the principals from $150 to $250, and possibly $100 for "a lesson or two" before going on the field. But the greatest anomaly of the whole business is that if by an unlucky chance a combatant is killed or badly hurt, his adversary and the seconds are liable to penal servitude. So the French duel is not altogether harmless after all.

DAVID LLOYD-GEORGE

Chancellor of the British Exchequer, who has plunged into the thick of the woman suffrage fight by taking up the cudgel for the militant members of the fair sex. The Chancellor, according to word from London, has arranged an extended tour of England "stumping" the country in behalf of "votes for women." He is opposed by almost all the prominent officials of the Government, including his superior, Premier Asquith. Lloyd-George is the only prominent official in any European country who has publicly avowed his sympathy with the cause of equal franchise.

SCHOLARLY POSTMAN

Teaches Himself Seven Languages and Writes a Dream Book.

Mr. W. H. Saunders, a postman, at Rochester, England, is probably the most scholarly member of this branch of the civil service. He has taught himself seven languages, and has written a book, "Kalomera; the Story of a Remarkable Community," which depicts a new world.

He was one of thirteen children belonging to a humble household at Rochester. At fourteen he left the National School, and became a messenger boy. He then read all the books of adventure he could lay his hands on. These gave him a glimpse of ancient history, and when the Rochester Library was opened he eschewed fiction, and devoured works of science and history. The prospect of a visit to Switzerland in 1900 induced him to try and learn French. In six months he could read French with facility. This gave him a taste for other languages, dead and living and since then he has acquired a reading knowledge of Greek, Latin, Hebrew, German, Italian and Spanish.

At present Mr. Saunders' wages are $14 a week. He spends his holidays wandering on fot, and in this manner has been able to see the beauties of Wales, Lucerne, the Bernese Oberland, the Rhine, and the Norwegian fiords.

Story of a Rich Uncle.

At Glasgow Police Court a ship's steward named Malcolm McDougall, twenty-one years of age, a native of Aberdeen, pleaded guilty to having, in a house in Dennistoun, obtained board and lodging to the value of $135, by pretending that his mother had died and left him a large sum of money, and that his uncle had died in Australia, leaving him a cattle ranch and $25,000.

AMERICAN WOMEN VICTIMS OF HINDU MYSTICISM

SWAMI ABHEDANANDA

Where the Swamis Preach to Summer Classes of Women

Unprecedented Activity in Proselytizing by Swamis Throughout the United States Has Caused This Government to Investigate Migration of Converts to India—Women Are Forsaking Fortunes, Homes, Husbands and Children in Their Search for "The Perfect Way."

PATHS OF VEDANTA TO RELIGIOUS GOAL, AS SET FORTH BY THE SWAMI VIVEKANANDA

BHAKTI YOGA.—This is the path for those of an emotional nature. It is the path of devotion and love. It explains the nature of divine love and shows us how to turn human love into divine and thus fulfil the purpose of life both here and hereafter.

KARMA YOGA.—This is the path for the active man. It teaches how to turn our daily tasks into acts of worship. It opens the way to complete self-mastery.

RAJA YOGA.—This is the path of method and concentration and meditation. It covers the whole psychic plane and describes thought reading, clairvoyance, clairaudience, the evolving of the finer perceptions, and displays mental and faith healing as practised by the Yogis in India.

JNANA YOGA.—This is the path of right knowledge and discrimination. It explains the fundamental principles of spiritualism and tells how earthbound souls, being subject to the law of Karma, reincarnate on this earth and take human form again.

GOVERNMENTAL inquiry has been set on foot in an effort to discover how many American women converted by the various occults and Hindu priests have left this country for India in the fond hope of assimilating Oriental mysteries. Governmental agents are now quietly at work investigating the strange spread of these Oriental religions throughout the country.

FROM "somewhere east o' Suez" have come strange religions that are taking firm hold and root in this country. All over the United States are Hindu teachers, or swamis, proselyting and preaching and "educating" pupils, and while in various cities temples are being erected to Krishna, to the Vedas, to Buddha and to other symbols of the Hindu mysteries American women, obsessed by the subtle philosophies of the "wise men of the East," are being taken to insane asylums, or, seeking "the perfect way," are deserting home and husband and children to "follow the light."

Indeed, it is principally to the "weaker sex" that the glamor and alleged mystery of the Oriental religions seem to appeal, as has been witnessed so often in the influence exerted over American and English women by the Chinese and Japanese as well as by the Hindus. But there is something in the mysticism of the religions from Hindustan, whether it be Buddhism, Mohammedanism, Bahaism, Vedaism or what not, that has proved particularly fatal to American womankind.

Among the American women converts made by Hindus there is Mrs. G. W. Hilton, of Lowell, Mass., who is styled "Her Blessedness," as she is the high priestess of the Sun Worshippers.

Miss Sarah Farnum, a New England spinster, gave her entire fortune to found at Green Acre a summer school of Hindu philosophy, and ended her little journey into mysticism by being incarcerated by her friends in a lunatic asylum.

In Chicago Miss Aloise Reuss was taken from the Hindu Mandanan Temple of the Sun so violently insane that she had to be taken to the Illinois Insane Asylum.

Miss Ellis Shaw, of Lowell, Mass., became so obsessed with the teachings of the Hindu mystics that she had to be restrained by law from giving away all her property to the Sun Worshippers.

Mrs. May Wright Sewell, of Indianapolis, a great friend of Mrs. Ole Bull, who was also deep in Oriental mysticism, was made dangerously ill by her devotion to the studies of her Hindu swamis.

The wife of President Winthrop Ellsworth Stone, of Purdue University, at Lafayette, Ind., left her home, her husband and her children to join the Sun Worshippers and find what she thought was going to be the perfect life.

Small wonder that one of the Hindu proselyters, Baba Bharata, was able to boast that he had made more than five thousand converts in this country, most of them women.

The prominent cases cited above are but a few of the more striking instances of the spread that the Hindu religions have been making in this country. How serious the inroads of these strange and mystical religions and philosophies are may be judged from the fact that a governmental inquiry has been set on foot designed to discover how many American women have been induced to leave this country for Hindustan, there to delve further into the "Hindu mysteries."

In New York the centre of these Hindu activities is the Vedanta Society, with headquarters at No. 135 West Eightieth street. Professor H. C. Parker, who has just gone northward on another attempt to scale Mount McKinley, is the president, and the Swami Abhedananda, not unknown to fame, is the founder.

The Swami Abhedananda is at present at the Vedanta Ashrama, or retreat, situated in the heart of the Berkshire range, in Connecticut, about four miles from West Cornwall station.

There, last summer, the Swami, with some of his pupils about him, laid the foundation stone of what is to be some day a Vedantic temple, and deep in the granite stone is engraved the sacred and symbolic word "OM."

Here, too, are Lotus Cottage and Peace Cottage, where, as the prospectus says:—

"In this quiet and retired spot one may live a simple life of absolute peace and undisturbed harmony with Nature, and study practical and spiritual philosophy, as taught by the accredited teachers from India, whose works may be obtained from the library."

The truth is, that while our Christian churches were spending vast sums, coerced from well meaning donors, for the purpose of Christian proselyting in heathen lands, the Hindus executed a flank movement, and one by one the priests of ancient religions from the banks of the Ganges began to come to this country, and without blare of trumpets or attracting too much attention to themselves they have gone their work so well that to-day they have succeeded in establishing the Krishna Temple in Los Angeles, a temple to Mazdaznan in Chicago, a Buddhist temple at Seattle and a Hindu temple in San Francisco.

The latest addition to the ranks of Oriental mystics is Inayat Khan, a Pathan, from the mountain regions of Afghanistan. He is slightly above medium height, very dark, good looking and wears a short, pointed Van Dyke beard and well waxed mustache. He differs materially physically from either the Swamis Vivekananda or Abhedananda. Vivekananda was short, dark, clean shaven, very obese, with large bulbous nose, immense ears and wide, protruding eyes. He possessed a voice of wonderful range, compass and timbre, and was past master of the mystical teachings of the Vedas. The Swami Abhedananda is slightly fairer, but otherwise a replica of his deceased predecessor.

Inayat Khan, in India, is recognized as a clever exponent of Eastern vocal music and voice culture. He preaches a different cult altogether from the Vedanta Swamis with the exception of the love element.

Islamism as the Sunnis, the strictest of the Moslem sects, understand it is readily poured into listening ears by Inayat Khan. In a soft, chanting voice he opens with:—

"There is but one God, and Mahomet is His prophet.

"God is love—boundless—infinite love.

"Love watcheth, and, sleeping, slumbereth not.

"When weary it is not tired.

"When straitened it is not constrained.

"When frightened it is not disturbed.

"But like a vivid flame and a burning torch.

"It mounteth upwards,

"And securely passeth through all.

"Whosoever loveth knoweth the cry of the voice.

An American Convert to Hinduism

PROF. HERSCHEL C. PARKER

"The blackness of the deep grave is lighted by love.

"For God is love.

"Life is love.

"Love is love."

There is a momentary pause and again the voice is heard. The liquid tones are soft, but the words fall distinctly:—

"We are of God. We are the children of the Father. God is not an element. God is not an essence, but a vibrant, sentient being, a being of infinite love. It is impossible to conceive the greatness of this love which overshadows everything. Being of the Father, we are a part of the Father. We are a part of His love. We are love ourselves; therefore we must love."

With almost physical force the insistent cry of "Love, love" dominates all other sensations. The dark, liquid eyes of the preacher are luminous with emotion.

Fair bosoms rise and fall, for a major part of the audience is women—the atmosphere is electrical. A new sensation is experienced; there is something new to think of; an attraction springs up between teacher and pupils and a new religion or new obsession is formed and propagated, with American women for disciples and a dark skinned hierophant from the mountains of Afghanistan as the master.

One of the most potent of the Hindu teachers to come to this country was the Swami Vivekananda, of Calcutta. In his teachings the mystic quality of Hinduism was much emphasized. He told his hearers that the discoverers of the spiritual laws back of the Vedas were called Rishis, and they were honored as perfected beings, and he added significantly:—

"I am glad to say that some of the very best of them were women."

The philosophy of Hinduism as a religion is copious of words, words piled on words, mystic, unfathomable; so that one's brain is bemused in trying to find the truth that the words hide. Said the Swami:—

"Love for Love's Sake."

"It is good to love God for hope of reward in this or the next world, but it is better to love God for love's sake, and the prayer goes:—'Lord, I do not want wealth, nor children, nor learning. If it be Thy will, I will go to a hundred births, but grant me this, that I may love Thee without the hope of reward—unselfishly love for love's sake.'"

All through the Vedantic philosophy will be found this insistence, almost hypnotic in its suggestion, of love for love's sake and the value of sacrifice.

The beauty of Vedanta, according to its advocates, is that it asks no man to give up his religion, whether he be Christian, Jew or Pagan. The Swami Abhedananda says:—

"To whom is the altar of the universal religion of Vedanta dedicated? To the self-effulgent light, the Sun of Infinite Wisdom, which dispels the darkness of ignorance in the human heart, and whose name is the eternal word OM."

Which is an answer that enthusiasts in the new religion might ponder over for a long time and which might well lead seeking but weak minds to the verge of insanity. But the Swami goes on:—

"It is not meant for any individual person, but for the Infinite Spirit which is the Source of all personal manifestations and Divine Incarnations. A worshipper of Christ should think of Christ upon this altar, a worshipper of Buddha, or Krishna, Shiva, Vishnu, Jeova or Allah should think of his Ideal as seated upon this symbolic altar of the heart. In the same manner the worshipper of Sri Ramakrishna, or of the Divine Mother, or of the Supreme Spirit under any other name should place His or Her upon the altar."

A member of the Vedanta Society attempted to explain all this rhodomontade so that it might be comprehensible to occidental intelligence. She said:—

"None of us know what God is. He is known to the different peoples at different epochs of the world under different names. The Hindus, who are called sometimes idol worshippers, are in reality nothing of the sort. The idols before which they bow stand only as symbols of whatever God they have in their hearts. It is the same with our Christian churches. No one contends that the models of Christ on the cross, so universally found somewhere inside the churches and before which Christians prostrate themselves, are idols which the people worship. They stand merely as the symbol of Him, and, being there, they help the worshippers to a realization of the Christ of their inner thoughts to which they pray. If you ask the very Hindu who is praying before the so-called idol if he believes in many gods his answer will be, 'There is but one God.' Every Hindu knows this, however ignorant or superstitious he may appear. Idolatry in India does not mean anything horrible. It is the attempt of undeveloped minds to grasp high spiritual truths. If the Hindu fanatic burns himself on the pyre he never lights the fire of inquisition. The Christian is not to become a Hindu or a Buddhist, nor a Hindu or Buddhist to become a Christian. But each must assimilate the others and yet preserve its individuality and grow according to its own law of growth."

The Vedantists say that Ralph Waldo Emerson was the first great Swami or teacher of the Vedantic faith. In the Katha Upanishad and in the Bhagavad Gita occurs the passage made so familiar in America by Emerson:—

"If the slayer thinks he has slain, or if the slain thinks that he is slain, they know not well that the soul can neither slay nor be slain."

Seek Citizenship.

Because Christianity teaches that the soul of man had a beginning but will have no end the Hindus cannot accept it.

In the sacred writings of the Vedas this quotation is found:—

"I give the earth to Arya."

And, acting on this belief, the Hindus, knowing that they belong to a branch of that great Aryan family to which we ourselves belong, undoubtedly think they have as much right in the United States as the children of other nations. It was not unnatural, either, that some of the Hindus should look to adopting American citizenship as an escape from British rule.

The question as to whether they are entitled to such citizenship has never been definitely settled. On the application of one Hindu for naturalization papers Mr. Charles J. Bonaparte, Attorney General for the United States, issued a ruling declaring that the statutes authorizing naturalization applied only to "aliens being free white persons, and to aliens of African nativity or of African descent." The matter has never yet been carried to the courts, but undoubtedly the ruling of the Attorney General helped materially to discourage Hindu immigration.

And yet to-day the incoming Hindus outnumber all other Asiatic passengers coming this way on transpacific lines, and in San Francisco, which naturally the first big American city to strike, Hindutown is becoming as well known as Chinatown was in the old days, though it is far less picturesque.

In spite of the rigid laws of caste, which all of the Hindus arriving in this country have violated, the immigrants from Hindustan are from all provinces of India and belong to all castes. There are members of the Brahmin caste, the priests; members of the Kshatrya caste, the soldiers—mostly Sikhs from the Punjab and former policemen from Hong Kong and Shanghai; members of the Vaisya caste, the merchants and peddlers, and helpers of the Sudra caste, the servants.

The Hindu as a factor in the labor problem has so far not troubled the Eastern United States, though he has been the cause of some trouble and rioting in the West. In New York city there are probably less than fifty Hindus, and most of these are at Columbia University or other institutions of learning.

The Hindu problem of the East lies in the presence of the Swamis, or teachers, educated and able men, who, with their swarthy faces and dreamy looking eyes, stand in themselves symbolic of the mystery of the Orient. It is their teachings, their appeals for their disciples to try to attain impossible goals by unaccustomed paths, that are largely responsible for the deluded women who give away fortunes to "the cause," who give up home and children, and who, breaking down under the strain, become hopeless lunatics.

Treatment of Throat by Compression of External Ear

IN June of last year Dr. Mark Howell described a method of considerably diminishing the pains accompanying angina by strongly compressing the ears with the palms of the hands against the mastoid process—that is to say, against the bone immediately below the auricle. This method, first pointed out by the London physician, was later confirmed by Dr. Hald, of Copenhagen, who has studied it in his turn.

The latter found that in forty-six cases of affections of the tonsils the pain in the throat was considerably relieved or even caused to disappear in the case of thirty-two patients by one of the two following means:—Either the anterior part of the auditory canal is compressed so as to close it completely or a strong pressure is applied to the upper part of the mastoid process, immediately behind the line of junction of the external ear. The first of these two methods was generally the most effective.

In the case of patients suffering from a unilateral affection, such as abscess, the pressure exerted on the opposite region had little or no effect. Pressure exerted on the side affected had a much better result, but the best results were obtained by bilateral compression.

It is evident that such manipulations cannot be practised at any length with the fingers. Recourse must therefore be had to mechanical compression. Two pads, each affixed to a separate rod, which can be adjusted as required along a horizontal bar, constitute the most simple apparatus. This is preferably applied during meals, in order to diminish the pains caused by deglutition. The compression gives rise to some inconvenience for patients, but they prefer to endure it rather than the pain which they would otherwise experience.

In explaining the action of this process it is impossible to allow that it is due to suggestion, for it is easy to vary the experiment so that this factor is excluded. It may be asked whether the phenomena are not due to pneumatic compression of the membrane of the tympanum, owing to the obstruction of the auditory canal. But by placing a little tube in the latter the air may be admitted to the tympanum, and still the manipulation is found to produce the same relief.

The most natural explanation, accordingly, is that furnished by Dr. Head's theory of zones. On this hypothesis the sufferings of internal organs are projected in certain cutaneous zones owing to reflex action arising in the sympathetic nerve and terminating in the narrow. Inversely—and the therapeutic methods, termed "derivative," seem to prove this—a cutaneous irritation of the same zones may bring about a diminution of internal pains. On this supposition the auricular compression acts as a sort of counter-irritant or diversion in the cutaneous nervous zone, which is the seat of the reflexes arising from the tonsillar region.

Dr. Head's researches have precisely proved that for affections of the tonsils there exists a zone of hypersensibility reaching to the posterior edge of the vertical branch of the inferior maxillary bone and to the posterior half of its horizontal branch. In the case of thirteen patients Dr. Head endeavored to determine the existence of this zone of cutaneous hypersensibility. He found it in only four instances. It does not follow, however, that the preceding theory is false, for reflex cutaneous hypersensibility, when secondary to internal lesions, as has already been observed, is not absolutely constant.

VETERAN TO MARRY

Sir James Crichton Browne to Wed Daughter of Sir Edward Bulwer

Much interest has been aroused by the announcement that Sir James Crichton Browne, the veteran physician, is to marry Miss Audrey Emily Bulwer, eldest daughter of the late General Sir Edward Bulwer, and a great-niece of the famous novelist, the first Lord Lytton. Though Sir James is 71 years of age, he is still an interesting lecturer and keen debater. He is a brain specialist, the eldest son of a noted Commissioner for Lunacy for Scotland, and he has held the position of Lord Chancellor's Visitor in Lunacy since 1875. Fluent of speech and with a ready pen, he can lecture or write trenchantly on almost any social problem or matter concerning health. Although regarded as a profound pessimist, he certainly always contrives to be interesting. Only about a month ago he declared to a London audience that the chief cause of the increase of lunacy is neurasthenia. Four or five years since he attacked rapid motoring. "Rapid locomotion," he said, "is the craze, and that involves blindness to natural beauty, motoring being in relation to scenery what bolting is in relation to food. The flavor is missed in both cases and indigestion results, mental dyspepsia in the one case, stomachic dyspepsia in the other." The confirmed motorist, he considered, must become sluggish in intellect and excitable and jumpy in temper. Sir James loves controversy and among other unexpected questions, he once vigorously took up the cudgels in defence of Carlyle against the statements of Froude. Not so many years ago he declared that we might all be centenarians if we wished. Regular employment, little or no alcohol, no hustling and the minimum of mental worry and anxiety, were just a few of the essential conditions laid down. He is a widower, his wife having died in 1903.

"FAGGERS" MAY STRIKE

A Proposal to Release Eton Lower Form Boys From Some Work.

The latest use in England of the for the telephone is that it shall be be installed in the boys' rooms at Eton College, so that the upper boys can be immediately switched on to the tradesmen. The idea is that of a writer to the "Eton College Chronicle." He says he has no desire to do away with "fagging." On the contrary, he is a strong admirer of the ancient custom, but the lower boys at Eton are now so occupied that they have not the time to do this kind of work. It will come as a surprise to many people to hear that the lower boys at Eton are so overworked, and no doubt the time is not far distant when there will be a general strike amongst the "faggers."

Many lower boys, says the writer, are "fagged" up town when they have not got a minute to spare. An upper boy may want a message taken to his tailor or his hosier, and, not having the time to go, he sends a lower boy, who also has not time. The writer suggests that this inconvenience should be remedied by each house having a telephone. In some houses there are already telephones from one room to the other, which the boys themselves have put in, and if the system were extended, the boys could communicate with the tradespeople by telephone, instead of "fagging' a lower boy, who is probably engaged on some work, but cannot refuse to obey orders to "Fag."

"THE GOOD LITTLE DEVIL"

A Play Which Is Much Talked About in Paris.

There is almost as much talk in Paris of "The Good Little Devil" as there was about "Chantecler." It is a three-act play for children and "grown-ups" by Mme. Rostand and her son Maurice.

The play was written to amuse Maurice Rostand, who was suffering from an attack of scarlet fever. His mother, who nursed him, had been warned by the doctor not on any account to allow her son to read. So they wrote a play together to pass the time, basing the plot on an old story by Mme. de Segur. In the first and last acts the stage represents two floors of the house of an old miser woman, Mme. Mammiche. M. Gallipaux will play the part of the old woman. There are fairies, a charming boy (the "good little devil") and a blind girl in the play, and two of the characters, father and son, are called Nick Senior and Junior.

"Examinations may be brutal, but they are bracing," says Mr. G. S. Albright. No wonder students get "pulled up" by them.

PLOWMEN'S WORK BASIC

Good Tillage Essential to Advancement—Federal Aid Sought.

"If there is to be the forward movement in agriculture that is talked of as necessary in this province, the foundation of it must be a proper cultivation of the soil," declared Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, Superintendent of Agricultural and Horticultural Societies. Mr. Wilson was hopeful of considerable revival of interest in the matches of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, which will hold its annual meeting on February 2 in the Toronto City Hall. The association gets a grant of $250 a year from the Ontario Government and has asked the Dominion to grant a sum of not exceeding $3,000 to each of the nine provinces for the encouragement of agriculture along this line. Very favorable replies had been received to such a request from the Liberal Government, but owing to the change at Ottawa it has been necessary to renew the request.

GIANT SEA WEEDS

Some Unable to Survive in Cold Water Some in Warm

Climate affects the inhabitants of the sea just as it does those of the land. As Arctic land-plants cannot flourish at the equator, so in the Arctic and Anarctic oceans marine plants are found that are unable to survive in warm water. Among the most remarkable of these cold-water plants are the latminariaceae, a kind of sea weed, which sometimes attain a gigantic size, exceeding in length the longest climbing plants of the tropical forests, and developing huge stems like the trunks of trees. Investigation has shown that these plants flourish in the coldest waters of the polar seas, and that they never advance further from their frigid homes than to the limits of "summer temperature" in the ocean. The genial warmth destroys them, just as a polar blast shrivels the flowers of a tropical garden.

SERMONS IN SENTENCES

Short prayers often last longest.

Easy times often account for hard habits.

Big plans do not balance small performances.

Short cuts to fortune are often bottomless cuts.

That soul is truly lost that gathers darkness of the light.

Many think they are going forward bravely because they fear to go back.

There is sorrow without selfishness, but never selfishness without sorrow.

CHINESE IN HONG KONG

They Rejoiced in Successes of the Revolutionists

The ripples of the Chinese revolution are being felt in the British Colony of Hong Kong with its 400,000 Chinese population. When the fall of Pekin was falsely reported, there was a demonstration among the Chinese such as had never before been witnessed. No demonstration in the West could have been more fast and furious. Hundreds of Chinese lopped off their pigtails—the symbol of serfdom imposed by the Manchus—piled them up in a motor car, stuck a revolutionary flag in the midst and made a tour of the city, those on board the car cheering and making frenzied declarations of vengeance on the hated Manchus.

REMARKABLE ADVENTURES

Two Seamen who Survived the Wreck of a Schooner

Two seamen of the Plymouth schooner Pride of the West were found at Cardiff after remarkable adventures. Their vessel bound from Aviles (Spain) to Oporto, lost a rudder and was driven ashore. The crew took to the boat, but it filled and the captain and cook were drowned. Two seamen, Martin Pudifoot and Charles Dean, baled out the water and beached the boat at Cudillero (Spain). After a perilous ascent of the high cliff, they walked to a village, whence they were sent to Bilbao. Here the steamer Falcon took them on board.

DIRIGIBLE AIRSHIPS

A Great Number of Innovations in Zeppelin's Latest

To the persistency of Count Zeppelin in his systematic investigation of aeronautics is due the great improvement in the construction and operation of dirigible airships. His latest production is said to be almost as reliable as any other form of transportation. In this last balloon a great number of innovations have been made and some notions which have long been accepted have been discarded and the efficiency of the machine increased by these changes. The efficiency has also been added to by the increased knowledge acquired by experience in the handling of rigid dirigibles. For instance, the greatest source of danger to the machine has been experienced in the act of housing, when it was necessary to do so, but now there are mechanical docking devices in the new sheds which hold the ship accurately until it is safe in the open air, so that it may enter and leave without danger. A rail on each side of the shed runs far out into the open through each of the doors at both ends. Each length of rail is made of two narrow channel plates, riveted together back to back. Two sets of rollers run on each rail, each set bearing against the under side of the upper flanges. Four steel cables depending from the airship's frame can be made fast to the four sets of rollers and may all be slipped simultaneously. But entering the shed with a brisk wind blowing at right angles to its axis and to the rails is more difficult. In this case the ship is halted in the open over the track, pointing into the wind. One of the front cables is fastened to the rollers nearer the shed on the windward rail. With this set of rollers as a fulcrum the ship is worked around by pulling at the rear end, steadying it along the sides, and simultaneously pulling the lee side down, until it becomes parallel to the rails. It is then a simple matter to fasten the remaining cables, unship passengers and ballast and roll the ship as safely into the shed as though it were a train of railroad cars.

POLICE DOG'S WORK

How It Traced the Man Who Stole the Sausages

A hungry burglar raided the kitchen of a restaurant at Rambach, a village near Wiesbaden, the other day, and the police were notified of the theft of a number of sausages. The village constable at once sent into Wiesbaden for the loan of one of the police dogs. Arrived at the scene of the robbery, the dog was given a sausage to smell, and he immediately took up the scent, leading the officials along the highway until they reached an old stone quarry. Here the dog stopped and barked at some bushes, behind which was concealed a basket containing the stolen sausages. The dog was again put on the trail, and this time followed the track of the man who had stolen the sausages. Going straight back towards the village, he stopped outside the door of an outbuilding and barked. The door was fastened on the inside, and the thief was found hiding behind it.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

A BANTAM PET

The Favorite Bird of a London Society Lady

Fashions in pets among society women are changing. The marmoset and the bear cub hold pride of place for a time, but now it seems, an effort is being made to oust them in favor of the perky little ruler of the farmyard roost.

The other day a lady, who has been seen on several occasions in the streets of London with a pretty little black bantam nestled in her arms, entered a West-end restaurant with her pet. While his mistress removed her gloves and sables, the bird was perched upon her knee, and was afterwards fed from the lady's hand with sugar crumbs. While at home the bantam is permitted to hop about the table but in the restaurant his manners were beyond reproach. The little rooster comes up to town almost daily with his mistress.

This favorite bird is the sole survivor of a brood, the others having been killed by a vicious foster-mother. At the age of two days it was rescued from a similar fate, and for a week or two afterwards was carefully nurtured by the lady, who carried it about with her in a silken bag suspended to her neck by a ribbon.

He has developed wonderful intelligence, answers to the name of chicklet, and follows his mistress about like a dog. He rules over the dogs and cats in the house, and loudly admonishes the parrot when Polly is inclined to be loquacious.

Chicklet sleeps in his mistress's room, perched on the bottom rail of her bed, and joins the family at breakfast each morning. He makes himself at home in houses visited by his mistress, but shows a strong objection to bright-colored carpets and refuses to enter a smoking-room.

Objection to the Term "Pauper."

Mr. J. H. Griffiths, the collector for the Newport Guardians, in his annual report, says: "In connection with inmates of the workhouse, persons of unsound mind, and also persons in receipt of outdoor relief, I would suggest that this Board make an effort to eliminate the word 'pauper.' It is an old term, of no practical value and causes unnecessary pain to relatives, especially in the cases of persons of unsound mind. Possibly 'poor person.' or some such term would do as well. The Rev. W. H. Williams, rector of Langstone, one of the guardians, says he thinks the term "pauper" took a great hold on Dicken's "Oliver Twist."

DOG WAS A RAT

How a Lady With a Craze for Small Dogs Was Deceived

An amusing story is being told on the boulevards of Paris about a fraud perpetrated on a famous society woman who is bitten by the craze for extremely small dogs now prevalent in Paris. A few days ago she bought from a street hawker for a large sum what looked like the smallest griffon ever seen. When she took it home it promptly ran up the curtains and when it was recaptured by the servants it turned out to be a rat sewed into a dog's skin.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 20.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat and oats over the cable were very quiet owing to the limited demand and bids being generally out of line. There was some demand from local buyers for American corn, and a fair volume of business was done. The tone of the market for oats remains steady under a fairly good demand, and small offerings on spot. A firm feeling prevails in winter wheat flour, but the demand is quieter. A good trade continues to be done in spring wheat grades. Demand for bran and shorts is good.

Butter is quieter, but prices rule firm. Owing to more liberal arrivals of fresh eggs prices have declined. Cold storage supplies are now about exhausted and any stock held is to complete contracts with. American eggs are selling at 35c. There is a fair demand from the west for cheese, and a good many car loads are going forward.

SIMPLY A JOKE.

"Bomb Resolution" Referred to Firecrackers In Hall.

Indianapolis, Feb. 21.—Fire-crackers in the hall, not dynamite under nonunion "jobs" were referred to in a resolution submitted to the conference of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers at Rochester, N.Y., in September, 1910, according to a statement by Frank M. Ryan, president of the association, yesterday. Ryan had denied the authenticity of the resolution, the original copy which the federal officials investigating the dynamiting conspiracy assert they have, but yesterday he recalled, he said, that the measure proposing that "no more bombs or explosives of any kind be exploded while this convention is in session," was introduced.

"It was just a joke," said Ryan, "and it came about because P. J. Morin of St. Louis had put bunches of fire-crackers under the chairs of the delegates and set them off. The explosives startled all of us. The resolution went to the resolutions committee and never was reported out. I suppose John McNamara kept it. We did not discuss it because we knew nothing of the dynamiting plot."

The document came into the hands of the Government with other records of the iron workers' association in raids on its offices.

Twenty-five explosions destroyed or damaged property of employers of non-union iron and steel workers in the year preceding the convention, and according to Ortie McManigal, the confessed dynamiter, he was kept particularly busy just before the national meeting.

WAS A GREAT SUFFERER FOR FIVE YEARS FROM DYSPEPSIA.

Dyspepsia is one of the most prevalent troubles of civilized life, and thousands of people suffer untold agony after every meal, for nearly everything that enters a weak dyspeptic stomach acts as an irritant.

The long train of distressing symptoms, which render life a burden to the victim of dyspepsia, may be promptly cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. Mrs. Wm. J. Boyne, Lepreau, N.B., writes:—"I thought I would write and tell you of the good Burdock Blood Bitters has done me and also tell you how thankful I am.

"For five years I had been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, and tried different doctors and proprietary medicines, but could get no relief. One day a friend told me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. C.P.R. Made Proposal.

Montreal, Feb. 21.—It is generally understood here that the proposed new fast line service from Halifax to Great Britain comes from the C.P.R. alone rather than from the three big railways, as mentioned in the morning despatches from Ottawa.

The C.P.R. thinks that its proposition will solve the naval problem of the Government, and money intended for the Canadian navy to be diverted in way of a subsidy to the maintenance of such service. The C.P.R. will build three 24-knot boats and put them on from Halifax to a British port all the year round, making the trip in four and a half days and they will also be built so that the change to armed cruisers in time of war will be quite easy.

St. Catharines, Feb. 21.—A series of races between local horses on the new canal yesterday afternoon were attended by an accident to Jos. Quinn, widely known as a horseman throughout Canada. Quinn was performing the duties of a course judge when he drove in front of a horse being driven by George Houtby of Port Dalhousie. His sleigh was overturned and, in falling, he received a severe wound on the back of his head, which rendered him senseless for several hours, his life for a while being despaired of. He was finally removed to his home, where he is still in a critical condition, but will probably recover.

An Idea That Failed.

In 1870 a Scotchman named Johnston patented a treasure safe for ships designed to render loss of specie and other treasures by wreck impossible. His proposal was that an unsinkable safe should be suspended at the ship's davits, ready to be lowered into the water at a moment's notice, and he invented a contrivance by means of which the safe would detach itself on emergency and float about until picked up by another vessels. Ships' captains, however, declined to entertain the thought of having a safe full of money hanging at the davits ready to the hand of any who cared to trust to a dark night and navigable qualities of the chest to make off with it.

They Didn't Like Games.

Shelley's view of games was approximately Swift's view—that "games are the recreations of people who do not think." The world he felt was so "full of a number of things" that it was absurd to waste time on such trivialities as pegtops and marble. Elderly gentlemen might appropriately play with marbles or pegtops (just as elderly gentlemen nowadays play golf) in order to divert their minds from anxiety as to the price of stocks and shares, but why should a boy do so when life lay like a fairyland, beginning at his door and inviting him to explore?

No More Sea-Sickness.

The new Cunard liner Lakonia, which was launched recently on the Tyne, England, will be unique in the possession of an invention for which is claimed the remarkable virtue that it will practically do away with the seasickness. The vessel will be fitted with a large tank occupying the bottom and sides amidships, and it will be possible by means of a regulator, to counteract the effect produced by the consumption of coal, stores, etc. The water tank, which is divided into compartments, is covered with airtanks, and at the bottom are specially constructed water passages. The tanks are partially filled with water, and the motion of the ship is checked by a contrary movement of the water from one side to the other through the passages. To provide for changes in the movement of the vessel the water which is always under perfect control, can be regulated to suit circumstances. One or two of the compartments can be utilized as required by opening or closing the valves which are affixed to the air tanks, and by completely closing the valves the passage of air from the side of the ship to the other is prevented. In this way the water in the tanks may be thereby keeping the vessel from rolling. The Lakonia will not only be the first Atlantic liner to be fitted with the anti-rolling tanks but also the first British ship to be so equipped.

BLACKSMITHS TO ADVANCE PRICES SOON

New Schedule Will Go Into Effect on March 1st—Convention Will be Held Here Feb. 29th

APPRENTICES SCARCE

On and after March 1st a new schedule of prices will go into force in the blacksmith shops of Peterborough and the surrounding country. The Blacksmiths' Association have had notices published announcing the change and giving a list of the new charges that will be made.

The reason of the advance is due to the increased price of material, of living, and the higher wages that assistants demand, according to a prominent member of the local association. Advances have been made on all sides, but the rates received for horse-shoeing and general work have remained stationary. Coal, horse shoes, and general materials have been steadily increasing in price, and it is felt that a schedule of higher prices must obtain if the blacksmiths are to keep the wolf from the door, to use a phrase a blacksmith mentioned.

A convention of members of this trade will be held in Peterborough on Thursday of next week for the purpose of discussing matters of interest before the prices go into effect. The advances have been approved by the association, and it was arranged to make the changes known to the public.

"We're the worst paid people today," said a local smith. "You can judge the condition of the trade by the fact that 17 blacksmiths went out of business around here during the last year. I have that on good authority. Besides, you can't get apprentices. I think there are only two in this city, and a year ago a traveller who had been instructed by his firm to make the inquiries told me that there were only five apprentices between Montreal and Toronto. Our assistants will not work for less than $2.50 a day, and a few of us are paying more than that I guess. The cost of shoes and coal and, in fact, almost everything you turn to has been going up, but our prices have not changed since April 1st, 1903. Where is there any of us who could stop work to-morrow and retire? We couldn't do it. We have been making nothing more than a bare living during the past year, and when people understand these facts they will agree that we deserve a fair wage for our work."

Out at Selwyn the blacksmith charges are higher than in this city, not to speak of other large centres.

Some of New Prices.

New shoes, Nos. 0 to 5, 35c cash, 40c credit.

New shoes, No. 6 and over, 40c cash, 45c credit.

Hand turned steel shoes, 50c.

New bar shoes, plates, 50c.

New bar shoes, calked, 75c.

Not Confined to City.

The new prices are not confined to Peterborough, but will be changed in Lakefield, Young's Point, Millbrook, and by blacksmiths in the country around the city. The following is the list of names affixed to the notice that has been prepared: W. J. Kennedy, M. S. Donoghue, W. G. Murrow, W. G. Rowland, Geo. Bathgate, John Halpin, R. G. Decher, Joseph Batten, Alex. Walker, Fitzgerald and Co., W. Hetherington, J. Pamment, Jas. B. Isbister, Gerald Fitzgerald, A. J. Kidd, R. A. Charlton, J. D. Tully, W. Nichols, R. Nurse, W. D. A very enjoyable time was spent by the large number present. The affair itself was quite a success, financially.

An order for twenty-five suits has been placed with Mr. George Ball for the conductors and motormen of the local street railway. A LOCAL OPTION CONTEST HAS BEEN DECIDED UPON Plan of Action Was Discussed at the Public Meeting Held in George Street Church Last Night—No Opposition Was Offered.

Resolved — That this meeting authorizes the City Temperance League to conduct a Local Option Campaign with a view to submitting a Local Option by-law to be voted upon by the electors in January, 1913.

The above resolution, which was moved by Mr. S. Might, and seconded by Rev. Mr. Pogue, was the outcome of a meeting which was held in George Street Church last night for the purpose of deciding upon the advisability of carrying on a local option contest during the year.

The meeting, which was open to the public, was presided over by Mr. Lees, and with a representation of about one hundred citizens, considerable enthusiasm prevailed.

A coloured chart showing the wet and dry area of the Province was very effectively displayed. The white portion of the chart indicated the dry area, and represented four hundred and eighty-one municipalities. The red section, indicating the area in which a majority for local option had been secured, but had failed to carry owing to the three-fifths handicap. One hundred and forty-three municipalities were incorporated in this section, while two hundred and four municipalities shown in black represented the area in which local option had failed to secure a majority, or had not been introduced.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham broke the ice for discussion with a brief synopsis of the Dominion Alliance Convention, which was held in Toronto recently. "The convention," said Mr. Cunningham, "was the largest ever held in the history of the Alliance. It was a singular one in many respects, and the actions determined on by the convention were of a very progressive nature. A deputation consisting of several prominent members of the Alliance had waited upon Premier Whitney with a view to ascertaining his attitude towards the temperance movement. But, as was expected, he had nothing to say. They then called upon the leader of the Opposition, who received them cordially, and while unable to announce the position of the Liberal party in regard to the temperance movement, he inferred that something definite would transpire during the present session of the Ontario Legislature. The success of the temperance cause depended on the fundamental principles as guided and controlled by honest voters throughout the country. The consensus of opinion as obtained from men prominent in political circles, is that the goal of the Alliance must be total prohibition for Ontario. The ground for Provincial prohibition is beyond dispute, and it remains for the alliance to arrange plans for the consummation of this work.

"It is not the policy of the Alliance to bring out independent candidates, or to tie up to any political party. Any party or candidate who adopts a temperance platform is worthy of the individual support of the temperance vote. If neither side will adopt a temperance policy, then it is up to the electors to put an independent candidate in the field. Voters ought not to support candidates who will not rise to this level.

"Local Option was given a majority of over five hundred votes in the last contest held in Peterborough, but there was a deficit of two hundred and forty votes necessary to offset the vote polled by the liquor interests, who were favoured by the three-fifths clause," explained Mr. Lees.

Mr. H. B. Cowan thought that the surrounding municipalities would favour a local option contest in Peterborough. Burleigh and Peterborough were the only municipalities in the county that were open to the barroom, and the prospects for putting Burleigh on the dry list next year were very bright.

Ald. Johnston, on being called upon to speak, stated that he was personally in favour of a local option campaign. He had taken a conspicuous part in the last contest, and believed that the prospects for success, should another vote be taken, were good. He had met a number of people who were willing to vote for the local option measure this time who had voted against it on the last occasion. "If all augurs well for success, and I give my word as a member of the City Council, as a man, that any measure which you may bring before the council, you can rely on my support," said Ald. Johnston.

Ald. Morgan also expressed himself as being in favour of a local option contest. He also inferred that the City Council would be favourable to the passing of the petition whenever the temperance party saw fit to present it.

Mr. Riddell favoured local option, and thought that the people who supported the measure last time would be prepared to duplicate the performance should the occasion arise.

Mr. Wilfred Shiner, a member of Murray Street Baptist Church, favoured a campaign, and gave several figurative reasons why it should carry, basing them on the fact that by concentrated effort a certain percentage of the liquor vote might be diverted to the other side.

Mr. J. J. Hartley thought that this was an opportune time to again take up the cudgel against the liquor interest. There has been a large influx of people to the city during the past two years, therefore the vote would be larger, and local option would stand a better chance next January than it did on the last occasion.

A native of Holland, in broken English, elucidated his reasons for supporting a local option by-law. He outlined in a few facts, the terrible havoc wrought by the liquor evil in his native land, and assured the meeting of his whole-souled support in event of a local option campaign being introduced.

Representatives of the Free Methodist Church and the Women's Christian Temperance Union were also present. They voiced the sentiments of the previous speakers as regards a local option campaign, and offered their support and hearty co-operation.

In speaking from the business man's point of view, Mr. Powell thought that the business men of the city could be relied upon to assist the temperance workers in their crusade against the open bars. While they could not be expected to take an open stand upon it at present, he believed they would eventually fall into line.

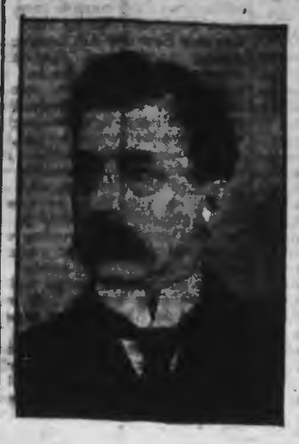
Mr. Yelland declared that he has been a resident of Peterborough for over fifty years, and for fifty-eight years has been a total abstainer. He recounted several stirring incidents in connection with the introduction of the Duncan act, and declared his intention of fighting the bar-room evil to the bitter end.

A motion by Mr. Cowan to increase the membership of the League with a fee of one dollar attached was adopted.

Rev. Mr. Rollins suggested that a citizens' committee, composed of one hundred members or so, be formed.

Mr. Powell moved that the matter be referred to the executive of the organization.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Cunningham, after which the meeting was brought to a close.



J. G. Turriff, M.P., for Assiniboia, who, in opposing the renewal of the charter of the Ottawa, Montreal and Georgian Bay Canal, before the Railway Committee, said that the Canal would never be built by the Company unless the Government put up the money.

INQUIRY INTO DEATH OF LATE J. J. SPENCELY

G. T. R. Trainmen and Telegraph Operators Give Evidence at Belleville

WHO WAS TO BLAME?

BELLEVILLE, FEB. 21.—The inquest into the death of Joseph J. Spencely, who was scalded to death in the G.T.R. yards here on February 14th, was resumed on Monday night, before Coroner Farley. After a session of three and a half hours an adjournment was made until Friday to enable Mr. T. H. Piercey, of Lindsay, despatcher, and Mr. Marsfield, day operator, Peterborough, to be present.

Received no Instructions.

Mr. George Rhymes, night operator at Peterborough, on the Grand Trunk, recollected the freight leaving Peterborough on Wednesday in charge of Conductor Nugent. Witness gave just one order to Nugent, the schedule order. That described the entering of places and the time to be made. He had received no instructions from Belleville that night as to cars being on the "Y." At other times he had received notifications and would put them in the orders. This was not put in the order that night as there was nothing to give. Instructions are received from the despatcher at Lindsay, H. H. Baker, when the line is blocked. Witness that night did not receive instructions as to obstructions. On one previous occasion he had got the notice. It was not true that he had got instructions from Lindsay and not incorporated them in the order to Conductor Nugent.

Despatcher Baker.

Mr. H. H. Baker, train despatcher at Lindsay, remembered the night in question. He relieved Mr. C. H. Piercey at Lindsay and got Conductor Nugent at Peterborough. Witness received no instructions from Belleville as to the train. He controlled the time from Lindsay to Belleville. His jurisdiction covered to the Belleville yard limit board. On Feb. 5th a notice was received at Lindsay that the left leg of the "Y" was blocked. All trains were notified at Peterborough. This train was not notified. Why? It was a precautionary order. It was his duty to send a precautionary order as far as concerned his jurisdiction.

Witness saw the order (now at Peterborough) addressed to all eastbound trains. The order was not delivered to the conductor at Peterborough but the order was already there. Witness did not wire the order as Piercey had put out the order. This order was sent to Mr. Rhymes at Peterborough. Witness himself carried out all the instructions.

Witness did not countermand any orders that night.

Mr. Geo. Rhymes, recalled, said he received instructions on Feb. 5th that the leg was blocked. He did not receive anything on Feb. 13th.

Mr. Baker, recalled, said an order was in force until fulfilled, annulled.

The order as to the leg of the "Y" was in effect on Feb. 12th. He gave copies—on Feb. 13th he had no copies, so this signified the order was annulled. The other night operator had made out copies.

An order from Lindsay would have annulled the order. The other operator might have received the annulling order. Witness had no copies, so he thought it was annulled.

He knew now the order was not annulled.

Charles Moore.

Charles Moore, night yard-master, said there were some cars put on the east line of the "Y" on Feb. 13th by the day staff. On Feb. 11th, notice was

FAMILY DIFFERENCES ARE AIRED IN POLICE COURT

Case Was Heard in Closed Court With Large Quota of Witnesses on Hand—Opinions Differ and a Cross Fire of Arguments Ensue.

An assault case, in which Charles Bradley was charged with abusing his wife while under the influence of liquor a few days ago, received a lengthy hearing in the police court this morning.

Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the plaintiff, while the defendant, who pleaded not guilty, appeared on his own behalf.

Mrs. Bradley told a harrowing tale in the witness box concerning the abuse of which she had been made the object during the past ten years of her life with Bradley. He had struck her and threatened her with violence on different occasions, and several years ago while living in Rochester, she was forced to appeal to the courts for protection under similar circumstances. She was broken down in health, a circumstance which she attributed to the abuse received at the hands of the defendant.

Ethel Bradley and James Bradley were next heard. They corroborated the evidence given by the mother. The boy, who is 15 years old, works at the C.G.E. works, and together with the other children of the family is compelled to hand over the weekly wages to the father, who excuses himself from manual labour on the grounds of being physically incapable.

Dr. Marshall next took the stand, and testified as to the health of Mrs. Bradley, which he considered to be serious. As to whether this condition was caused through the abuse received at the hands of the prisoner, he could not say.

Samuel Conway, a boarder at the Bradley home, on being examined, described the fight which took place in the house on the night of the alleged assault. The fracas took place in the parlour between Bradley and the latter's brother-in-law, and was occasioned by the brother-in-law intervening in the row between Bradley and his wife. He denied that Bradley had even used profane language towards her during his presence or had even attempted to abuse her.

On being cross-examined by Mr. Gordon, who accused the witness of giving evidence that was inconsistent with the facts of the case, he stated that he was in the habit of paying his board money to Mr. Bradley, and sometimes Mrs. Bradley, but as to how many times he had handed the money over to the latter he failed to remember.

After a few heated remarks from both sides, and when the case was about to proceed, Arthur Ash, a brother-in-law of Bradley's, made the request that he be given an opportunity to say a few words. He was invited into the witness box but declined to give evidence according to the rules of the court.

"I just wanted to give a plain talk," said Ash. His request was refused.

Charles Bradley, the defendant in the case, testified to having sold a horse on the day of the alleged assault. A few drinks followed the deal.

"That was to bind the bargain," offered His Worship.

"Yes! that was one on Fred," replied the witness. Fred was the name of the horse.

Bradley then went home and found his wife sick in bed. When he went upstairs to see her he found her coming down. While in the act of passing her in the stairway, he claimed she extracted his pocketbook from his hip pocket. He then went down stairs, and accused her of the act; later he admitted having found his pocketbook in an inside pocket of his coat after he was locked up.

Five witnesses, Violet Bradley, Ethel Bradley, James Bradley, Mrs. Bradley and Andrew Ray, gave evidence to the effect that Conway had on several occasions been a witness to the abuse that passed between Bradley and his wife. This did not coincide with the evidence submitted by Conway in his previous hearing.

This closed the evidence for the case.

In summing up the evidence, His Worship was disposed to dismiss the case and let the parties concerned settle their family troubles among themselves.

Mr. G. N. Gordon took exception to this ruling and pressed his claim for an order of separation, but he was not supported in this by the court who disclaimed to have jurisdiction in the matter. Some heated arguments in regard to the matter followed.

Mrs. Bradley and the children were desirous of a separation from Bradley. The latter was willing to accede to this providing he was given the custody of the children, but as the children were of an age when they could please themselves as to whom they should live with the question was not considered. A mutual agreement as to the division of the furniture and household effects was then decided upon after considerable wrangling on both sides.

Mrs. Bradley will take up her abode elsewhere together with her children, and will be given police protection, if necessary, during the time that she is removing her goods and chattels from the house occupied by Bradley.

A DANCE HALL STOVE STARTED $6,000,000 FIRE

Became Overheated and Got Beyond Control—1000 People Homeless—Some Burned and Injured

HOUSTON, TEX., SUFFERS

HOUSTON, TEX., FEB. 21. — One thousand people rendered homeless, several burned and otherwise injured, and six million dollars damage was the result of a fire which broke out about midnight here and spread rapidly across twenty-five blocks of business and residential sections, consuming everything in its path. For a time it looked as if the whole city would be destroyed. The heaviest losers are the cotton dealers. Nearly all the crop of this district is destroyed, and there is no insurance. The cause of the fire was an over-heated stove in a dance hall.

WHO PAYS FOR THE ADVERTISING?

Wouldn't you prefer, if you had a clothing store, to sell a hundred suits of clothes in a day, making an average profit of $2.00 per suit, to selling ten suits in a day, with an average profit of $5.00 per suit.

Suppose that, to sell the hundred suits a day you should spend, say $20.00 per day in advertising.

Who would be "taxed" for the advertising? Your patrons? Scarcely—when they pay you $3 less than they would have to pay for the identical suits to the merchant who does NOT advertise.

You? Scarcely — when you make a great deal more money than you would if you "saved" your advertising appropriation.

Your non-advertising competitor pays the penalty for not doing so large a volume of business as he COULD do by advertising, and taking a smaller per-sale profit.

Took 13,000 Volts And Lives

Examiner Special:

LONDON, ONT., FEB. 21.—To take thirteen thousand volts through his body, having his hands and arms badly burned with the current and still alive, was the experience of Engineer George McLean at the waterworks pumping station this morning while cleaning the machinery. Somebody turned on the current by mistake. McLean was hurled through the air ten feet, striking Engineer Simmie, thereby probably preventing his dashing his head against a dynamo. His clothes caught fire, but were quickly smothered. His condition is serious from terrible shock.

The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment and am entirely cured—not a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this Ointment enough."

LIBERALS CONFIDENT OF A SOUTH RENFREW VICTORY

Special to The Examiner.

RENFREW, ONT., FEB. 21.—Hon. George P. Graham, this morning, on the eve of a bitter bye-election in South Renfrew, said: "In spite of all the money against them, perhaps unequalled in the history of any riding in the country, every Liberal of South Renfrew is confident of victory.

"The Conservatives have men employed from every part of the Dominion and a few whose residences are not in Canada. Nevertheless the Conservatives who signed the agreement and their friends are remaining steadfast, notwithstandig all the pressure that has been brought to bear upon them."

George Barnet, of Renfrew, one of the Conservatives who signed the agreement, is putting up any amount from $1,000 to $5,000 that Hon. Geo. P. Graham will be elected.

Amprior men have posted bets of $3,000, in three bunches of $1,000 each; one is that Graham will have 200 majority; the others that he will have over 700 majority.

Postmaster Removed

Merely to Make Place for Mr. James Edgar

OTTAWA, FEB. 20.—An order in Council was passed to-day, removing Mr. A. H. Stratton of Peterborough, from the position of Postmaster of that town. Mr. Stratton, who has occupied the position since 1908, is a brother of Hon. J. R. Stratton, former M. P. for West Peterborough. Offensive partisanship is given as the reason for the dismissal.

The same order in Council contains notice of the appointmet of James Edgar, a paper dealer and commission merchant of Peterborough, to the position provided.

DUTCH LUNCH

At St. Luke's Church Last Night Was a Great Success

The Dutch Lunch, given by the Ladies' Aid of St. Luke's church last evening, was a great success, and the audience, who filled the Sunday School, enjoyed the concert following. Those taking part in the programme were Miss K. Leary, pianist, Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald, vocalist; Miss K. Vincent, reader; Mrs. Greenslade accompanist. The grand finale was a humorous Dutch selection given by five boys in Dutch costume. All present pronounced the evening a very enjoyable one.

HIS 10,000TH SERMON.

Bishop Walden Rounds Out Record on His Eighty-First Birthday.

CINCINNATI, FEB. 21.—Bishop John M. Walden of the Methodist Episcopal Church celebrated his 81st birthday by preaching his ten thousandth sermon, and at the same time rounding the sixtieth year of his ministry. Seated close to the altar was the wife of the Bishop. A few months ago they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Bishop Walden took for his text the experiences of the Apostle Paul from the first chapter of Romans and the sixteenth verse: "For I am not ashamed of the Gospel, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first and also to the Gentile."

Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 21, 1912.

THE POSTMASTERSHIP.

The spoils system has had its way in the removal of the Postmaster of Peterborough—appointed two years ago—to make a place for an "offensive partizan". The excuse that the present postmaster was guilty of "offensive partizanship" is merely an excuse. It is, in no sense, a justification, as would have been easily shown, if a fair investigation had been granted. He took no active part whatever in the last general election. the only election since his appointment. In fact he was so anxious to avoid any suspicion of partizanship that he absented himself from the city on September 21st, and spent the day in Toronto. There was no excuse in, nor complaint made of, incompetent fulfilment of the duties of the office. There was no complaint on the part of the public to this effect. In fact there was official testimony that the work of the office was exceptionally well performed. It seems the only reason really acted upon was the outcome of the desire to make a place for a partizan worker, who had been "useful" to the present member in swinging the Protestat Federation in his favour, both before and after his nomination, and in "other ways". The indefensible character of the dismissal of the Postmaster is emphasized by the fact that all the leading Conservatives of the city are, and have been, opposed to the removal of the postmaster; and, naturally, even more opposed to the appointment of Mr. Edgar, who is a comparatively new resident of the city, and has not rendered sufficient service to the Coservative party, no matter what he may have done for an individual who has done the party, to entitle him to the reward of an office, that regarded as a reward for political services, would have met the deserts of one of many Conservatives who have spent their lives in fighting the battles of the party. It is regarded as not only unfair, but humiliating. that a party parvenu should get the plum, while the old war horses have to lie down.

CANADA'S RAILWAY MILEAGE.

The railway mileage of Canada is growing rapidly, the figures of increase of the year 1911 over 1910, being 2,246 miles. In 1836 Canada had 16 miles of steam railway; ten years later this had grown to 54 miles. In 1856 there was a jump to 1,414 miles; in 1866, the mileage had grown to 2,278. In 1876, the mileage was 5,218. In 1886, the figures were 12,184. In the ten years to 1896, the total had advanced to 16,270. In 1906 the total railway mileage was 22,542, and at the present time the total railway mileage of Canada is 26,977 miles, with many more miles under construction and projected. During the past 75 years, the mileage of Canadian railways has shown an average increase of 356 miles per year.

IRON AND STEEL BOUNTIES.

In view of the demand for the renewal by the Dominion Government of the iron and steel bounties, which lapsed last summer, it will be interesting to note to what extent the industries concerned have been aided in this way. Between 1896 and 1911 the Dominion paid the considerable sum of $20,519,000 in bounties. The bounty on pig iron reached a total of $7,097,041; that upon puddled iron ores, $113,674 (but these ended in 1906); that on steel to $6,706,990. that on manufacturers of steel to $2,701,372; upon lead to $1,720,355. on manilla fibre to $255,750; and upon crude petroleum, to $1,923,827. Last fiscal year the iron and steel industry was paid $1,138,748. The late government decided to discontinue these bounties, considering that these industries had reached an independent condition, and were able to do without the bounties.

A COMMENDABLE COMPETITION

The Canadian Club of this city vindicates the aptness of its title. It has done much from time to time to stimulate an interest in Canadian history and concerns, and the medium it has taken in effecting this has tended to cement the bonds of Canadian good fellowship. Though the local club has not a very formidable credit balance in the bank, with commendable national spirit, it donated the sum of $45.00 to be devoted to special prizes for competition among the pupils of the Public and Separate schools and the Collegiate Institute. to be awarded to the writers of the best essays on some subject pertaining to Canadian history. The fact of the prizes being given is of less account than the subject. If Juvenal was right in giving prominence to the injunction, nosce te ipsum—know thyself—it follows that it is a good thing to know one's country. Canada. though young, has a stirring history full of inspiring incident, of noble deeds, patriotic sacrifice and unselfish public service, whose knowledge and study may lead to stronger chisenship, and higher ideals in our growing population. The Canadian Club has done well in opening the way to wider, as well as more intimate fields of study of Canadian history, to our school boys and girls. and the precedent set should become a habit, if not through the club itself, then through the liberality of public-spirited citizens.

BUSINESS FAILURES.

The Monetary Times has compiled some interesting figures relative to business failures in Canada last year: In 1910 there were 1469 failures, with assets of $7,075,347, and liabilities of $16,712,586. In 1911, 1401 failures occurred, involving assets of $6,420,331, and liabilities of $13,086,946. According to Bradstreet's agency, an authority on this subject, the failures were due to the following causes:

	No. 1911.	No. 1910
Incompetence	236	219
Inexperience	41	27
Lack of capital	691	688
Unwise credits	12	13
Failures of others	16	27
Extravagance	12	6
Neglect	68	56
Competition	15	12
Specific conditions	204	274
Speculation	13	8
Fraud	113	139
Total	1401	1469

The figures relating to the number of failures, which it is satisfactory to note were fewer than in the preceding year, may be accepted as correct; but it seems the causes assigned must necessarily be largely founded upon speculation. We may know that a man fails in business, but it is difficult to always assign the exact cause. With the prosperity that has almost unbrokenly prevailed for years, with the temptation to all sorts of persons, incompetent and otherwise, to enter into business, it seems a wonder that the failures are so few. Incompetence, and lacking capital, appear to have been, both this year and last, the predominant causes of failure.

AS TO BANK MERGERS.

Movements in the financial world indicate the possibility of bank mergers, and the question arises whether or not bank mergers would be in the interests of business men and general commercial and industrial prosperity. We object to the effect of cement mergers, agricultural implement mergers, and other combinations of capital, with monnopolistic tendencies. These mergers are alleged to be made in the interest of cheapening production. It is claimed that concentration of management under one head office staff, means lessening of the expenses of management, tends to economy of oporation and consequent cheaper production. Have any of these claims ever been realized in practice? Has the price of cement been lessened to the public, no matter what the lessening of the cost of production may have been? Not at all. It is well known that there has been an increase in the price of cement. We have no very striking proof of any other merger having reduced the price to the public of the commodity affected. In view of these circumstances have we reason to believe that bank mergers, with the necessary lessening of branches, the restriction of accommodation, and the tightening of credits, would be in the interests of the successful operation of commercial and industrial business? In case of a merger of banks, the business man or firm that needs accommodation would probably find accommodation hard to get and might be forced to the wall when a little timely help would overcome the temporary difficulty. With the agencies in a town, or city, reduced from four or five to one, would they not find a lack of the competition that now makes banks inclined to extend accommodation. The remaining branch would be more independent and exercise its power. Human nature is the same in a bank manager as in anybody else. Anybody can see that bank mergers thus operating would add to the difficulties of business men. Such a combination might help the shareholders, and them only—it would not help the general public. The primary object of the establishment of banks is to facilitate the business of the country in which they are given charters to operate, and incidentally afford a profitable mode of the employment of capital; and that capital, consisting largely of the deposits of the people, it seems that the banks owe a duty to the public. Any form of combination that would, to any large extent, eliminate the wholesome principle of competition, would not seem to be in the interests of the public.

THE SEALED PACKAGE.

(Ottawa Free Press)

The western paper which has discovered a new reason for the cost of living in the fact that people now wang everything done up in fancy packages must have had a painful stretch of the imagination. It says:

When you were a boy, sir, and your mother sent you to the grocery to buy a pound of lard, the grocer cut it out of a cake which he had bought from a farmer. When your boy goes on the same errand, he brings home a very attractive-looking tin pail, possibly with pictures on it. TIN PAILS AND PICTURES COST MONEY.

Yes, the pails and the packages do cost money, but that cost is infinitesimal compared with the waste that prevailed in the old days. Similarly, it could be proven that when our forefathers ate off uncovered rough board tables and tin pannikins, they saved the cost of table cloths and laundry and china platters.

The pail and the package cost money—a trifling sum in these times of labour saving machinery—but they keep the food clean and sweet and prevent spoilage. The tablecloths and the china cost money, but they engender self-respect and personal cleanliness.

"The people have become too fussy," this western authority tells us. We undoubtedly have become more particular, and well it is that it is so. But who shall say that we have become "too" particular? The medical health department of the city of Ottawa could a tale unfold that would refute that assertion.

The sealed package has come to stay. It is going to be used more and more. Manufacturers have found that an attractive outside adds to the value of the commodity inside. They are realizing that the people are becoming increasingly discriminating and when firms, like the Canada Sugar Refining Co. buy large newspaper space to advertise the fact that their goods are put up in sealed packages they are showing their appreciation of this public discrimination.

sent to the trainmaster, Mr. Millar, at Lindsay, as to this by Mr. Hatton. Notices of this kind stand until revoked. This order was not cancelled between this date and the 14th and the line was not free at any time. The conductor might come in on the left leg of the "Y" if he did not receive the instruction. The accident certainly would not have happened if the crew had got the order.

To the Coroner — Witness would not have been surprised if the train had come down the west leg of the "Y."

Yardmaster Hatton.

James Hatton, general yardmaster, said the particular cars were put on this line on Feb. 11th on his order. An advice was sent to Lindsay as to the leg of the "Y" being blocked. Witness gave no revocation of this. The advice was good at the time of the accident. The advice is as an extra precaution. It was not his necessary duty to do this. Mr. McMillan at Lindsay might do what he liked with the advice.

The conductor should have known the line was clear or he had no right to enter. In darkness, he should send a brakeman ahead to flag himself in. He might have come in on the west main line. It was not ruleable to have a light on the cars.

In his judgment the brakeman would not have been killed if he had been on the second engine.

Supt. Coleman.

Mr. L. Coleman, assistant superintendent of G.T.R. here, said the order given him by Mr. Nugent was only the schedule. There was no cancellation of the advice.

Witness did not think there was anything to prevent a stopping of the train in the conditions. The entire responsibility except in the case of the first or second class trains rests on the engineer of the leading engine. There might have been somthing in the conditions that would exonerate him. So far as the rules are concerned, the engineer is responsible for striking the cars.

Evidently the fireman and engineer could have seen eight car lengths or nearly so with the aid of the headlight.

Lindsay Trainmaster.

Mr. J. G. McMillan, trainmaster at Lindsay, knew an advice was issued as to the blockade on the 11th. Instructions in this case were to Peterborough. The last was on the fifth. There was no revoking of this. The accident did not occur in his jurisdiction.

The Decision Favours Railway Company

TORONTO, ONT., FEB. 21.—The decision of the Privy Council to-day in favour of the Winnipeg Electric Railway Company in a twenty-five million dollar litigation with the City of Winnipeg is regarded here as a distinct blow at municipal ownership. Mayor Geary and the City Council declined to express an opinion as to how it affected the rights of Toronto and other Ontario cities where street railway companies have franchises.

They said it would still depend largely on the terms of their respective agreements.

FINANCIAL STANDING OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

The public accounts presented to the Legislature yesterday show an aggregate gross expenditure of $13,903,208. One of the items which has a suggestive aspect in comparison with earlier financing is $763,000 interest and sinking fund charges on recent borrowings. It is a recently-developed item, ad seems likely to increase. The Hydro-electric expenditure was $1,358,697, and the advance to the T. & N. O. Railway was $1,412,324. The sale of assets through the Lands, Forests and Mines Department is treated as revenue collected. The next important item in the receipts is $2,261,758 levied by the Dominion and paid as a Provincial subsidy. The loan floated in London, after deducting $75,000 for expenses, amounted to $2,387,805. These two items, together with a million and a half worth of assets sold and half a million from various debentures and securities, make a total of about six and one-half millions out of a gross revenue of $12,229,000.

The liabilities of the Province now make the substantial total of $24,465,922. Of this sum about $16,414,000 represents outlays for T. & N. O. Railway construction. This is an outlay promising good returns if no improvident bargain is made in regard to running rights. The total charges to the railway are $17,535,662. The indirect liabilities of the Province now amount to $9,390,000, the chief item being the $7,860,000 guaranteed to the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway. The items of actual revenue show that game licenses yielded $38,433, and the fisheries $130,267. The succession duties yielded over a million, and the receipts from licenses were $656,363. Under the Supplementary Revenue Act insurance companies were taxed $182,891, loan companies $23,695, banks $73,748, trust companies $9,325, street railways $14,074, other railways $453,345. gas and electric light companies $12,339, telephone companies $11,371, and express companies $41,000. Most of these are indirect taxation on the people of the Province, and as such might at any time be questioned. hThey suggest a tendency to prepare for the time when growing expenditures will no longer be sustained by the sale of Provincial assets.

The Province is large and should be expanding rapidly. If value is obtained for the growing expenditure it will be shown by results. This is of vastly more importance than the counting of a surplus or deficit from year to year. The financial condition of the Province is eminetly sound, and the heritage of natural wealth is so vast that no imaginable mismanagement could make it otherwise. The real revenue collected from the people is small in comparison with the public services made available by the fortunate possession of inherited wealth. The prospect of a rapidly-increasing expenditure should impress the wisdom of providing for a continuous return from the great Provincial estate. Consuming capital without thought of the future will bring increasing demands when the ability to meet them will not proportionately develop.—The Iobe.

BEAR CATS THROW BIG SCARE INTO THE ORILLIA CAMP, ONLY LOSING BY 1 GOAL

WAS GREAT BATTLE

The Orillia hockey team are thanking their stars to-day that they had soft ice when they played in Peterborough. The reason is the awful scare the Bear Cats threw into their camp last night in the return game at Orillia, when the Younkers, instead of beating the Petes fifteen or twenty goals as their supporters loudly declared before the game, had to fight with their backs to the wall every inch of the game, to finally run out by 9 goals to 8, the winning score being made just two minutes before the final whistle. "How did we ever beat you in Peterborough?" was the question most frequently heard among Orillia people after the game. Playing on hard ice where Orillia's much greater weight did not give them the advantage they had in Peterborough, the Bear Cats showed their real form, and their playing was a revelation to the Orillia fans, who came expecting to see a walk-over. They had everything last night, good goalkeeping, a great defence and speed, and team work on the forward line, and gave the Younkers the hardest battle they have had on their own ice since Frontenacs played there last season. It was a grand game all the way, as is shown by the fact that the score was tied no less than seven times. The Bear Cats were in the lead all through the second half, and at one stage were only four goals down on the round. Clancy was penalized just at this moment, and the Younkers took advantage of the opportunity to run in two goals and tie the score. From then on it was just a question of who would get the last goal. It finally went to Orillia on an individual rush by Butterfield with two minutes to play.

The Orillia despatches to the Toronto papers to-day say that Orillia were content to merely win the game and intimate that the Younkers were not trying to run up a score. That is an utterly absurd statement. The Northerners worked every minute of the sixty, but of course they did not look to be going as fast as against other teams, who let them run loose. The facts of the case were that the Bear Cats carried them along so fast that they had no opportunity of doing any juggling with the score; in fact, the result was in doubt until the last ding of the bell. The fast ice suited the light weight Petes, and they tore along at top clip all the way, their team work and back checking being a treat, while they bored right in for their shots. They played grand combination, three or four blue and white striped players going down in a row, and in fact showed so much class that the unprejudiced Orillia fans are admitting that hard ice in Peterborough would have made the result of the round a matter of grave uncertainty. Dwyer played a sensational game in the nets for Peterborough, his work throughout being of the very highest class. He had a host of shots to handle, taking care of the heaves from all ranges with the utmost coolness, while his clearing could not have been improved upon. Milloy at point showed his best game of the year. The little fellow broke up rush after rush, nailing the puss or nipping the rubber away from the man in charge, while his rushing throughout was always effective. Denison was in his old time form—that is enough for Peterborough fans. The crowd pronounced him the best man on the ice, and certainly his work was of the highest order. He scored two beautiful goals on rink length rushes, and was playing great guns all through. Every man on the forward line worked his head off, and all were in the limelight by reason of spectacular and effective work. Clancy looked after the redoubtable Jupp to the Knox taste, and his rushing and clever passes from the side were decidedly useful. The keen ice suited Weir, and the little rover did some of his finest work of the season. He contributed some dazzling individual rushes, on one of which he circled four men in succession for a goal. Hall was always working, his checking and the manner in which he fitted into the combination making him decidedly effective. Kennedy gave his best exhibition of the season on right wing. He had Thornton, the biggest man on the Orillia line, to look after, and he had the big fellow under cover all through, while his work on the attack was decidedly classy.

For Orillia Butterfield, at rover, was perhaps the star. Jupp and Thornton were so closely looked after that they did not shine as usual. Mohan did some classy work around the nets, as the scoring summary shows. MacNab and Cook were a great defence, their work on the attack being of much assistance to their forwards.

Wallie Hern refereed satisfactorily. The teams:

The game was lightning fast from the start. The Orillia people, who came expecting to see a walk away, began to sit back and take notice right off the reel. It was rush and counter rush, with the Bear Cats going right at the purple and white team. It was Peterborough who scored first, Kennedy banging one past Cook from close in, after a combination rush. MacNab being off at the time. Then Milloy drew a penalty for slashing, and while he was off Butterfield evened up for Orillia, scoring from a scrimmage. Then Mohan slammed one past Dwyer on a pass from the corner, and Orillia were in front. The crowd settled back with a smile to wait for the avalanche of goals that the Younkers were going to pile up, but they failed to come. On the other hand, the Bear Cats tore at the Orillia aggregation at a pace that had them backing up. Clancy tied up the game by a shot from a scrimmage, and then Milloy and Weir shot down together with a beautiful combination rush, and the little point man forced one past Cook, and the Bear Cats were ahead, 3 to 2. The crowd could not figure out the dope at all. They felt better when Mohan beat Dwyer on a pass from Thornton, tieing the score once again. It was not long at 3 to 3, for Denison tore off a beautiful rush from the Peterborough nets, shooting down the centre, and then, swinging out to the right boards, going a mile a minute, winged one past Cook, and the Petes were ahead, 4 to 3. Then Hall was chased for tripping and Weir for slashing, and while the Petes were two men short, Thornton tied up the game once more. Half-time score, 4-4.

During the breathing spell the crowd consoled each other with the assurance that the Younkers would run away from the Bear Cats in the second half. The dope was bad, however, for the Petes opened up the second half at a pace that made the Younkers look as if they were anchored. Weir and Clancy went up together, and the little rover beat Cook from close in. Peterborough, 5; Orillia, 4. Then Weir grabbed the rubber away from Butterfield at centre, wriggled around MacNab, circled Cook, and scored from the mouth of the net, one of the prettiest individual rushes of the night. The Bear Cats were only four behind on the round, and their chances looked bright, as the Orillia team were on the defensive. Then Clancy was sent away for slashing, giving Jupp a chance, on which he made good by beating Dwyer with a scoop shot. Thirty seconds after Mohan, Butterfield and Jupp came down together, and the first named scored once more, tieing up the game. With the score 6 to 6, it was anybody's game. The Bear Cats flushed to the front, when Denison tore up the centre and passed over to Kennedy, who bored right in for a neat goal, putting Peterborough ahead once more. Then MacNab drifted down by himself, and shooting from outside Denison, fooled Dwyer, and once more the teams were on even footing with seven each. Denison put the Bear Cats again in the lead by a pretty dodging rush from end to end. Cook slashed him savagely, but he slipped around and scored from close in. Cook was penalized. Peterborough, 8; Orillia, 7. Mohan evened up from the face-off, tearing right down the centre for a goal from outside the defence. With two minutes to play, Butterfield put Orillia in the lead by a pretty rush and shot. Final score: Orillia, 9; Peterborough, 8.

SENIOR T. A. A. C. TEAM HERE TO-MORROW NIGHT

Crack Toronto Aggregation Will be Here for a Game With the Peterborough Intermediates---Fans Will Get One of the Treats of the Season in This Battle.

Peterborough will get a taste of senior hockey to-morrow night when the speedy T.A.A.C. team, the only aggregation to defat the champion Eaton seven this year, will be here for a game with the Peterborough Intermediates. It should be one grand exhibition of hockey. Throughout the province there are many fans who contend that Preston, Midland, Peterborough and other good intermediate teams, should be in senior ranks and to-morrow night's game should go a long way towards settling the truth or error of this contention. The Toronto team will bring their full senior line-up to Peterborough and anticipate an easy victory. They may get it and they may not—Peterborough fans will probably adhere to the latter opinion.

It is the intention of the local management to secure a number of exhibition games both for the junior and intermediate teams, provided the fans show their appreciation by turning out. To-morrow's game will be a test—if the patronage warrants it some of the fastest teams in the province will be brought here. T.A.A.C. have a fast, well balanced team and the good ice conditions will suit them thoroughly.

Campbellford Won From The T.A.S.

Defeated Local Team by 2 to 1 —Winning Goal Scored in Extra Period

In the second half of a ten-minute overtime period, Campbellford scored the winning goal in their game with T.A.S. team in Campbellford last night, scoring out a victory by 2 goals to 1. It was a hard fought struggle all the way through the regular playing period, with the score one all at full time. T.A.S. scored first, and the Trent town team came back for a fine counter that evened it up. Referee F. C. Waghorne started the teams on an extra period play, with no score during the first five minutes. The game was witnessed by a large crowd. The ice was in fairly good condition, and the game was a close struggle all the way. Campbellford play at the Brock Street Rink on Friday night, and are bringing a crowd of five hundred. The honours of this district lie between T.A.S. and Campbellford, last night's game tieing them up on this round of the Trent Valley League. Friday night's game should be a good one, as both teams are playing fast hockey, and, on last night's play, are well matched.

An English Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing rats, which is due entirely to this new discovery.

It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proven every day.

The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale.

This preparation is called SALVIA, and is being sold with a guarantee to cure Dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. McDermid and Jury, your druggist, is the first to import this preparation into Peterborough, and a large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50c. Also sold at Payne's drug store.

HOCKEY AT KEENE

A visit was made to Keene last evening by a team of locals who met the Keene seven in a fine game of hockey, the result being 12-7, in favour of the latter. The game was a good clean one and to remark upon the performance of any individual would be an injustice to the remainder, as all played a splendid game.

Following is the line-up:

Keene—Goal, P. Weir, point, M. Bowie; cover, D. Hope; rover, H. Short; centre, H. Hanley; left wing, J. Hope; right wing, D. Wedlock.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME AT 9 O'CLOCK

To-night's semi-final Trent Valley League game between Hastings and Lakefield will not start until nine o'clock owing to the fact that the Hastings contingent were unable to secure a special and will have to depend upon the regular train for transportation. Great interest is being taken in the contest in Peterborough, and there will be a big crowd in attendance at Brock Street Rink, when the teams are sent away.

Stops Pain Of Burns and Cuts
Really Wonderful How Zam-Buk Gives Ease.

This is the verdict of all who have tried Zam-Buk. The woman in the home knows best its value. A burn from the stove, from a flat iron, or a hot pan, is instantly soothed by Zam-Buk. When the little ones fall and cut or scratch themselves, Zam-Buk stops the pain and, incidentally, their crying. The best proof of this is the fact that children who have once had Zam-Buk applied come for it again.

For more serious burns, too, it is unequalled. Mr. John Johnston, of 734 South Marks Street, Fort William, a moulder in Copp's Foundry, says: "Some time ago I burned the top of my foot severely by dropping some molten iron from a ladle I was carrying. A large hole was burned through my shoe and into the top of my foot. I was taken home, and Zam-Buk was applied to the burn directly. It was surprising what relief this balm afforded. The burn was so deep and so serious that it required careful attention, but Zam-Buk prevented other complications arising, and as it was daily applied, soothed the pains and allayed the inflammation. In the course of two weeks the hole burned in my foot had been well healed."

Mr. W. B. Gibson, of Belleville, writes: "We have tried Zam-Buk often on cuts and sores, and I think there is nothing that can equal it."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflammed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

Firemen Have Arduous Run

The Fire Brigade were given an arduous run to a chimney fire at 122 Boundary Road this morning. The house is occupied by Mr. William Thompson, and is owned by Mr. C. Brewer. No damage was done to the building. The run was a singular one in many respects, while proceeding to the fire the hook and ladder truck was stalled in the deep snow near the boundary, and it was necessary to secure the aid of a passing team, before the apparatus could be released.

While returning home from the fire disaster again overtook them; this time to the hose wagon, which was disabled by reason of the breaking of a runner, while crossing the C. P. R. tracks on Aylmer street. A trip was made to the Station and a set of wheels secured to replace the sleighs under the disabled truck, which was then returned to the Station. Hose wagon No. 2 was ready for service should an alarm have been received during the absence of the truck which figured in the mishap.

CROSS, SICK FEVERISH CHILDREN NEED GENTLE BOY EFFECTIVE CASCARETS AT ONCE

Most of the ills of childhood are caused by a sour, disordered stomach, sluggish liver and constipated bowels. They catch cold easily, become cross, listless, irritable, feverish, restless, tongue coated, don't eat or sleep well and need a gentle, though thorough, physic—but don't try to force a nauseating dose of oil into the little one's already sick stomach — it is cruel, needless and old-fashioned.

Any child will gladly take Cascarets which act gently—never gripe or produce the slightest uneasiness—though cleanses the little one's system, sweetens the stomach and puts the liver and bowels in a pure, healthy condition.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this gentle, thorough laxative which costs only 10 cents per box.

SOUTH RENFREW ROADS MAY BE BLOCKED

Storm is Blowing To-day—To-morrow's Vote is Uncertain

RENFREW, ONT., Feb. 21. — To-morrow will be election day in South Renfrew, and the eyes of all Canada are turned to this constituency, where the bitterest campaign in its history has been fought with the heaviest guns of both parties being brought to bear in the struggle. Owing to the famous agreement and its repudiation by the Conservative party leaders it has an added interest in addition it is the first by-election since Sept. 21st. In regard to the prospects, an independent observer would certainly say it is a toss up. The election is as uncertain as the flip of a coin. Nobody can tell how the rural districts will go and they may turn the trick. This being the eleventh hour, the air is surcharged with rumours and roorbachs, and it is openly stated that money is being scattered about. The candidates, Hon. George Graham, Liberal, and Dr. Maloney, Conservative, are making the best use of their time to-day by driving over the dreary country roads and addressing little knots of villagers here and there. A heavy storm is raging and it looks like blocked roads to-morrow.

COLLIDE IN TUNNEL.

Trains Meet Head-on Under Ground. Resulting Fire Hard to Fight.

NORTH ADAMS, MASS., FEB. 21—Wrecking crews are still unable to get within four hundred feet of the blazing wreckage of the passenger and freight trains which collided head-on in a long tunnel near Hoosac, last night. Intense heat from the terrible underground furnace has loosened rocks on either side and wrecking gangs run a risk of being burned under the debris of the tunnel roof. It is thought that at least four bodies are in the wreck.

RICHARD HALL & SON

COST OF LIVING IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL, QUE., FEB. 21.—If anything could convince the average Montreal resident that the cow really did jump over the moon, as our nurses were wont to solemnly inform us in our nursery days, the prices Montreal butchers charge would do so.

It would seem further that "bossy's" athletic habits had infected the rest of the animal kingdom, too, judging by the prices prevailing.

The cost of living in Montreal is rapidly approaching war time height, and as far as the ordinary observer can see the end is not yet. With butter selling at forty cents a pound, steak at twenty-two cents, lamb, twenty, and eggs as high as seventy-five cents a dozen, the ordinary householder begins to wonder where he comes in, or if this is to become wholly a city of millionaires. Even the lowly potato is anything but lowly in price, for it brings the dealer $2.25 a bag for the best.

Rents are also climbing steadily. The average flat—for Montreal is a city of flat-dwellers—costs from $35 a month upward for places of six or seven rooms, and the most modest workingman's home can seldom be had for less than $15 a month in the less pretentious districts. Fuel, following the general tendency, is higher. Anthracite coal is now selling at $7.50 a ton, coke at $5.50 a ton, wood as fuel is almost unknown here and gas for heating purposes costs $1 a thousand feet.

Taken altogether, the workingman on a small wage, and be it noted wages have not advanced in anything like the same ratio as the cost of living, is not exactly finding it a cheerful task to make ends meet, let alone lay anything aside for the proverbial rainy day.

For this state of affairs the consumer blames the retailer. He in turn says the wholesaler is at fault, and the wholesaler usually says the demand is greater than the supply. There have been cases, however, where eggs, for instance, were held in cold storage so long that when the Spring rush from the outlying farms came in to the local markets the cold storage hen fruit was thrown on the market in great quantities, and the consumer is beginning to think that this practice of the wholesaler in holding his goods back for fancy prices is largely the cause of the high prices prevailing here. In fact, a move was begun a short time ago looking to the prevention of just such a practice. This will, however, prove a difficult problem and in the meantime the consumer must follow Kipling's advice and "pay, pay, pay".

TWITCHING NERVES

Bangor Man Was Tortured—Could Not Sleep

It would be very hard for anyone to convince Mr. Samuel Bruch of Bangor, Pa., that he had not been wonderfully benefitted by Vinol. He says:

"Owing to weakness of the nerves, which were constantly paining me and twitching so that I could not sleep at night, I was weak and rundown. Hearing that Vinol was an excellent tonic and strength creator I commenced using it and immediately began to feel much better. My nerve trouble left me and I can now sleep better than I have for a long time.

"I can truthfully say that Vinol has done all for me that is claimed for it."

The reason Vinol did Mr. Bruch so much good is because it gave him new strength and built up his health in general, just as it does for all weak, nervous, rundown people—just as it will do for you if you are that way.

Vinol is sold on our positive guarantee that it must help you or you get your money back. McDermid and Jury, Druggists, cor. George and Charlotte sts., also Payne's Drug Store, cor. George and Simcoe sts., Peterborough, Ont.

"Time For A Change"

Fish for Lent—Insist on Having the Freshest From Spencley Bros'. Sanitary Fish Market

Lent begins to-morrow. A clever cook can make hundreds of tasty dishes out of good fish, that make a pleasing change to the heavy meats so much indulged in just now. Spencley Bros. are fully supplied with lake and sea fish, smoked, dried and salt fish, and delicious oysters, fresh from the briny ocean.

When you once cook and taste our fish, you will be surprised at their fine, light flaky flavour. Avoid cheap, over-salty, coarse fish, and enjoy the fish—food that tastes tender and luscious, and that tempts tired appetites. Some of the daintiest morsels of the sea and lake will always be found in Spencley Bros. fish tanks, during Lent.

NO CAUSE TO DOUBT

A Statement of Facts Backed by a Strong Guarantee.

We guarantee immediate and positive relief to all sufferers from constipation. In every case where our remedy fails to do this we will return the money paid us for it. That's a frank statement of facts, and we want you to substantiate them at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies are unsurpassable and ideal for the use of children, old folks and delicate persons. We cannot too highly recommend them to all sufferers from any form of constipation and its attendant evils. That's why we back our faith in them with our promise of money back if they do not give entire satisfaction. Three sizes: 12 tablets 10 cents, 36 tablets 25 cents and 80 tablets 50 cents. PRESENTATION FROM NEIGHBOURS

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. F. Doherty and Family, of Westwood, Are Moving to the West

WESTWOOD, FEB. 20.—Mr. Jas. F. Doherty and family, who are leaving shortly for the Canadian West, were pleasantly surprised by a representation of neighbours who called at their residence to bid them farewell. A very pleasant evening was spent, during the course of which Mr and Mrs Doherty were presented with gifts as tokens of remembrance and the following address was read:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Doherty and family—

It is with feelings of regret that we, your friends and neighbours, meet here this evening to bid you and your family farewell, on the eve of your departure for the Canadian West.

During the eight years you have sojourned among us, you have made many staunch friends, who will always be glad to hear of your continued prosperity in your new home, and though you may meet with discouragements and sometimes feel lonely in the great land of opportunity to which you are going, yet you may always rest assured that the best wishes of your Westwood friends for your happiness are with you. We are all aware that it requires some courage to go into a new country, to make a home, but in opening up that great western land to the millions that are to follow, you are taking a part in making the West are engaged in a grand and noble work, and the thought that you the greatest country on earth, should be a source of great satisfaction to you.

As a slight token of the esteem in which you are held, we ask you to accept these few presents. We trust that you will be spared to wear them and may they not only be the means of protecting you from the cold blasts of winter but may they also be the means of often bringing to your minds pleasant memories of the time you spent among your many friends at Westwood.

Signed on behalf of your neighbours—Wm. Humphries, Lewis Beavis, T. A. Walsh, Jas. G. Robb, Stuart Graham, E. W. Sargent.

Mr. and Mrs. Doherty expressed their appreciation of the kindness of their friends and said they regretted to part from those with whom they have had so pleasant relations.

TO ERECT SUBSTATION IN LINDSAY

LINDSAY, FEB. 20.—It is understood that it is the intention of the Seymour Power Co. to erect a substation for the transmission of power into Lindsay, on a site near the old Victoria Railway junction north of the town.

This station will be erected in connection with the company's transmission line from Peterborough to Lindsay on which preliminary work has been under way since last fall. It will be remembered that the Seymour Co. agreed to have additional power from Peterborough by July, 1912, and the announcement of the erection of a sub-station indicates that the work will be pushed to a speedy completion.

It is understood that the Seymour Co. will bring the power from Peterborough up to 12,000 voltage, with a step down at the sub-station to 4,000 voltage.

Mr. J. S. Denik, of Trenton, is the company's official in charge of the work at this point.

SUPREME COURT OF CANADA

The mid-winter term of the Supreme Court of Canada opened yesterday morning at Ottawa. Before it concludes it is expected that the reference to it by the Parliament of Canada in the matter of the Federal Marriage Law will be argued.

Mr. S. T. Medd, on behalf of the defendants, moved the Court for an order to quash the plaintiff's appeal to this Court for want of jurisdiction.

Mr. D. O'Connel opposed the motion and after argument judgment was reserved.

WHAT PUNCH SAYS OF THE "BUNNY HUG."

In regard to the new innovation in dancing, "Punch" has the following to say:

Can any one explain how it is that ordinary inoffensive young Englishmen, when they dance, suddenly develop the spasmodic automatism of the coloured coon combined with the suppressed fury of the Paris Apache?

How much longer, may we ask, are our daughters and sisters to be trundled about like wardrobes, their arms worked incessantly like the parish pump, made to slide about sideways like ungainly crustaceans, and submitted to "Bunny Hugs" and other exotic abominations, which make them look as supremely foolish and vulgar as they can be made to look? (We hesitate to ask why girls permit it, lest the terrible answer should come that they like it. That we refuse to listen to.) If it MUST continue, for goodness sake don't let us call it dancing; let's have Isolation Camps for them, and be done with it.

KISSES SENT BY PICTURE FILM

ROME, FEB. 21.—Several weeks ago, a cinematograph firm sent a number of machines and operators to Tripoli. The usual melodramatic scenes were exhibited, but they failed to make much of a hit. Even pictures of the soldiers embarking for the front, did not interest the Italian warriors. Finally Giuseppe Laguardia conceived an idea. He advertised in the newspapers that all young women who had sweethearts at the front might come down to the firm's studio and have their pictures sent to Tripoli free of charge.

It was an opportunity not to be overlooked. Hundreds of pretty maids posed before the camera, waving their hands and throwing kisses. After Rome's sweetheart supply had been exhausted, the photographers went to Naples and other large cities where similar programmes were carried out.

When these films arrived at Tripoli there was a wild rush for admission. Many of the soldiers recognized faces of loved ones at home and whenever they became homesick, which is about every day, a trip is made to the moving picture theatre. Officers say that Laguardia's idea has been a benefit to the army, as it serves to cheer up the soldiers and has a tendency to weaken their desire for strong drink.

WHOOPING COUGH

Mrs. Charles Lovell, Agassiz, B.C., writes: "Seven of our nine children had whooping cough the same winter and we attribute their cure to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We always have it in the house, and recommend it as the king of all medicines. I was forewarned to prevent disfigurement by using Dr. Chase's Ointment."

DEATH OF FORMER PETERBORO' RESIDENT

Mrs. Joseph E. White, 474 Bolivar street, received word from Fergus, Ont., last evening, chronicling the death of her mother, Mrs. Flyn. The deceased lady was formerly a resident of Peterborough, and was therefore well known here. Mrs. White left for Fergus this morning to arrange for the funeral.

SUSTAINED A BROKEN ANKLE

Mr. McKnight, a resident of Millbrook, was the victim of a painful accident while in the city yesterday. He was making his way to the G. T. R. station in the evening, and while passing the Salvation Army Temple on Simcoe street, slipped, and fell heavily to the ground, breaking his right ankle. Several citizens gathered around, and, assuming that the man was under the influence of liquor, were about to notify the police, when the husky form of Chief Howard loomed up in the darkness. He quickly sized up the situation, and recognizing an old friend, had him conveyed to the station, where he was taken charge of by several of his Millbrook friends. The pain from the injury was excruciating, but he refused to be removed to the hospital, maintaining that he felt well enough to go home, and would be met at the station by his son.

An enjoyable "At Home" was held at St. Alphonsus Lyceum yesterday afternoon and evening from 4 until 6 and from 6 until 10, under the auspices of the Ladies' Sewing Society at St. Peter's. It was altogether informal and proved one of the most pleasing social affairs that have been held in the Lyceum this season. It was arranged for charitable purposes, and a silver collection was taken up for that end. The ladies who assisted in making the "At Home" so successful were: Mesdames L. M. Hayes, A. Grant, G. Ball, C. H. Pennefather, J. Dwyer, F. Shannon, J. Sharpe, Rich. Sheehy, Wm. Merrell, T. B. McGrath, secretary of the society, and J. Dunn, president. Refreshments were served from 4 until 6, and the remainder of the evening was spent most pleasantly.

MORE GAMBLING ROOMS

At Monte Carlo for those Wishing to try their Luck.

MONTE CARLO, FEB. 21.—So many people are flocking to this place desirous of trying their luck that the Casino officials deem the gambling opportunities insufficient, and are planning another gaming establishmem for next season. It will be located ear the French line, and its patronage will be limited to English and American members.

Inasmuch as the principality of Monaco already boasts of five gambling establishments the only real object of providing another is to compete with the Mentone Casino, which is remarkably successful.

The wet spell, which has been inordinately long, is still contributing to the immense profits of the Casino which is having its most successful season.

WEDDING BELLS

McELDERRY—ELSTON.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Laura Elston, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Elston, of 25 Preston Road, and the late Abraham A. Elston, to Vincent J. McElderry, of the law firm of Peck, Kerr & McElderry, of Peterborough, Ont., took place on Wednesday morning at St. Catharine's Church, Somerville. The ceremony was performed by the Pastor, the Rev. James J. O'Brien.

The bride's sister, Miss Grace Elston, was maid of honour. Miss Rose McElderry, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Leon V. Almirall of New York City, classmate of the groom at Holy Cross College, was best man. The bride was charming in ivory white satin, with duchesse lace and pearl trimmings. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas. The maid of honour wore white marquisette over American Beauty satin, and carried pink sweet peas. The bridesmaid was gowned in blue marquisette over white satin, and carried pink sweet peas.

A reception and wedding breakfast to a few friends of the couple followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, 25 Preston Road. The house was adorned with American Beauty roses and Daybreak pinks. Mr. and Mrs. McElderry left on the noon train for Montreal, and are now in Quebec, where they will remain ten days for the Mardi Gras festival.

The groom was graduated from Holy Cross College in 1906, and later from the Osgoode Hall Law School, in Toronto. He is the son of John E. McElderry, managing director of the Guelph and Ontario Investmem and Savings Society. The bride is a graduate of the Sacred Heart Convent at Montreal.

The couple will be at home after Wednesday, May 1st, at 417 Stewart street, Peterborough, Ontario.—Somerville Journal, Somerville, Mass.

TIT-BITS

KEEP YOUR CUT ROSES FRESH
(From the Kansas Industrialist)

Proper care of cut flowers will double their lease of life. Even hothouse roses, usually the shortest lived of blossoms, can be made to retain their beauty and fragrance for two weeks, if one will take the trouble to boil the stems.

To do this, set a pan of hot water on the stove, and when the water begins to boil, place the stems of the flowers in the water to the depth of one inch. Hold the flowers carefully to prevent their touching the sides or bottom of the pan. Allow them to boil fifteen or twenty minutes. Remove the flowers and clip off the portions of the stems that were in the water. They are then ready to be arranged in the vase or bowl.

Many persons have poor success in keeping cut flowers because they do not put fresh water into flower vases every day. The stems of the flowers should be clipped every day, to enable them to take up more water. Never leave cut flowers in a warm room over night. Set them in a cool place.

SOME RULES FOR HEALTH

An open window is better than an open grave.

Warm rooms have killed more people than ever froze to death.

A mustard bath for the feet will do far more to ward off pneumonia than a gallon jug.

The farmer who locks his doors and uncovers his well gives entrance to a more hostile enemy than any thief.

Many a "pretty" spring has caused a dismal funeral.

If your roof and your well both leak, fix the well first.

Flies in the kitchen may be almost as dangerous as Rough-on-Rats in the pantry.

If your milk man brings you warm milk, make it hot for him.

If soe people were as much afraid of flies as they are of bad water, there would be less typhoid.

Good water is more to be prized than rubies, and clean hands are better than much fine gold.

The fly has small feet, but a million typhoid germs can ride comfortably one one of them.

Many a cough ends in a coffin.

There never was so cold a day but that a little fresh air was healthful.

Keep flies from the house and you will help keep the doctor from the gate.

Calgary, Alta., Feb. 21.—Passengers on C.P.R. trains running through the irrigation block are much interested these days to see roving bands of antelope grazing tranquilly along the main line of the railway betwee Brooks and Bassano. The animals in bands of from 200 to 500 are attracted to the locality by the feed on the rich grass adjacent to the line. The provincial game regulations which are extremely strict allow a open season only in October, each hunter being allowed to kill but two males under one yetr old. Sunday shooting is prohibnted. Under these regulations the specimens are rapidly increasing.

THRUMS

If poverty has its inconveniences it has also its independence and security.—Ovid.

And would ye partake of harvest's joys the corn must be sown in spring. —Carlyle.

The most knowing man in the course of the longest life will always have much to learn; and the wisest and best much to improve.—Shaftesbury.

Man can scarcely be under a greater delusion than to suppose that he can in any instance add to his happiness by a sacrifice of principle.—Dr. Johnson.

The meaning of song goes deep. Who is there that in logical words can express the effect music has in us? A kind of inarticulate, unfathomable speech, which leads us to the edge of the Infinite, and lets us for a moment gaze into that.—Carlyle.

The world has no room for cowards. We must all be ready somehow to toil, to suffer, to die. And yours is not the less noble because no drum beats before you when you go out into your daily battlefields, and no crowds shout about your coming when you return from your daily victory or defeat.—R. L. Stevenson.

In the heart of Africa, among the great lakes, I have come across black men and women who remembered the only white man they ever saw before —David Livingstone; and as you cross his footsteps in that dark continent en's faces light up as they speak of the kind doctor who passed there years ago. They could not understand him; but they felt the love that beat in his heart.—Henry Drummond.

CONSCIENCE ELASTIC

In the majority of cases conscience is an elastic and very flexible article, which will bear a deal of stretching and adapt itself to a great variety of circumstances. Some people, by prudent management and leaving it off piece by piece, like a flannel waistcoat in warm weather, even contrive in time to dispense with it altogether; but there be others who can assume the garment and throw it off at pleasure; and this, being the greatest and most convenient improvement, is the one most in vogue.—Old Curiosity Shop.

HOME

A home! It is the bright, blessed, adorable phantom that sits highest on the sunny horizon that girdeth Life.—Reveries of a Bachelor.

Six Months In The Central For Vagrants

Local Youths Fined $5 Each for Disorderly Conduct

That Peterborough is an unhealthy location for vagrants is becoming more apparent every day. Two more names can be added to the list of those who no doubt would be willing to vouch for this fact. They are Michael O'Brien and Frank Smith. In the short space of four minutes, in which they sat in the prisoners' dock at the Police Court this morning, their confines of liberty were transferred from the common-place police station cell to a more roomy abode at the Central Prison for a period of six months each. The men have been travelling together for about six weeks without means of sustenance. They originally came from Montreal, but for some time past have been living in Toronto. They landed in this city yesterday, and a few hours later were apprehended and charged with vagrancy.

Three west-end youths were charged with trespassing upon the property of the Street Railway Company on Sunday, January 21st. It is alleged that they did unlawfully break into the waiting-room of the Street Railway Rink, breaking the lock to accomplish their purpose. Several of the lights and a number of the benches were also broken, as results of their hilarity. All three pleaded guilty to the charge, and were fined $5 each, to be paid forthwith, or, in default of payment, fifteen days in gaol. The fines were paid.

The practice of boys congregating on the street railway property and also the corner of Park and McDonnel sts., is one that the Street Railway Company and the authorities purpose stamping out. Parties of from twenty-five to forty congregate at these points and make themselves generally offensive to passers-by, especially ladies, who are often compelled to walk between two lines of them. A strict watch will be kept on these points in future, and further offenders will be severely dealt with. Such is the attitude of the police department towards the matter.

JUDGE CHARBONNEAU GIVES HIS DECISION

Upholds the Hebert Marriage and Declares That the Ne Temere Decree is of No More Force in Quebec Than it is in Ontario as Far as the Legality of Marriage is Concerned.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

The Hebert case in brief:

March 9—Action to annul the marriage entered.

March 23—Judgment annulling the marriage rendered by default by Judge Laurendeau.

Nov. 17—Husband insists from suit.

December 12—Trial.

Dec. 22—Taken en delibere by Mr. Justice Carbonneau.

Feb. 22.—Judgment delivered upholding the marriage.

MONTREAL, FEB. 22.—Mr. Justice Charbonneau this morning wiped the Ne Temere decree off the map of Canada, to use the words of a prominent Montreal lawyer, when he delivered his pronouncement on the famous Hebert-Cloustre marriage case. So sweeping is it that it more than surprised the lawyers interested in the case, while Rev. Mr. Timberlake, who performed the ceremony, said: "it fairly took his breath away." His Lordship said the Ne Temere decre is of absolutely no force in the Province of Quebec, as far as the legal aspect of marriage goes. He holds that it is a decree which has spiritual obligations only, and that its jurisdiction is with the pale of the Roman Catholic Church. "The Ne Temere is a religious decree only" he said, "and its influence is confined to spiritual masters only, and in no way has any effect on the legality of marriage."

1—That the marriage ceremony performed by Rev. Wm. Timberlake, Methodist clergyman, between Emma Marie Clouatre and Eugene Hebert on July 14th, 1908, is valid and their children legitimate.

2—That the annulment of the marriage by the Roman Catholic Church's authorities on November 12, 1909, is null and void.

3—That Mr. Justice Laurendeau erred when on March 23rd, 1911, he gave civil sanction to the decree of the church annulling the marriage.

4—That the Ne Temere decree is of no force as far as the civil law of Quebec with reference to marriage is concerned—from which it will be seen that the judgment is a most sweeping one and bears out many contentions stirred in Ontario to the effect that the Ne Temere decree is of no more force in Quebec than it is in Ontario as far as the civil legality of marriage is concerned. Hebert was married under a license granted under the seal of the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec and His Lordship holds that such marriages are legal irrespective of religious persuasion on the contracting parties as long as the officiating clergyman is a duly authorised one.

Mr. Justice Charbonneau's judgment in no way affects the Church's attitude, and as far as it is concerned the parties are free to marry again. L. J. Lefebre, counsel for Hebert, will enter an appeal. He is acting for Hebert alone, and as yet it is not known if the Church will appeal judgment or not.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—The great interest taken by the Province of Ontario in the Hebert Ne Temere case was evidenced by the fact that a number of clergymen from Toronto and outside points gathered in the Star Office this morning to hear the first flash of the judgment. It was asserted that the Charbonneau verdict was a distinct blow to the influence of the Hierarchy in Quebec, as the marriage was regularly annulled by Archbishop Bruchesi and despite denials it was believed here the Roman Catholic Church was behind Hebert in his demand for the annullment in civil courts.

Of course the Charbonneau judgment will be appealed and the Ontario clergymen will appeal to the congregations to help uphold the decision to the last ditch.

Expert legal authority here says if the Ne Temere decree cannot hold in Quebec, it will not hold anywhere in Canada, so that mixed marriages are perfectly legal anywhere in the Dominion.

REAR END COLLISION ON C.P.R. AT BLAIRTON

As a result of a rear-end collision between two freight trains at Blairton, six miles east of Havelock, yesterday afternoon, the afternoon C. P. R. express from the east was held up for over five hour. It appears that an eastbound freight broke loose at Blairton and another freight following crashed into it, ditching six cars, and two cars and a van were burned. The crews escaped without injury, those in the van of the first train jumping when they saw a collision was inevitable. The auxiliary was put down from Havelock and cleared the track after considerable difficulty. be passengers on the express were given refreshments in the shape of sandwiches and coffee when they reached Havelock.

WORST BLIZZARD OF YEARS SWEEPS OVER PETERBOROUGH

LOCAL CONDITIONS

A typical "nor'-wester," accompanied by a blinding snowstorm, has been the predominating feature of the weather for the past twenty-four hours. It commenced some time yesterday afternoon, and, increasing in vigour towards night, developed into a veritable blizzard, threatening to demoralize street car service, and tie up all vehicular traffic. If it did not wholly succeed in this, it was not the weather's fault, but the fault of the men, who were endowed with enough courage to enable them to battle with the elements in the discharge of their duties.

Poor People Felt It.

Locally, much hardship was caused by the sudden change, especially among the poor people, where fuel and warm clothing is about as plentiful as the gold which they possess. While the juice in the thermometer did not go below the cipher mark, the gale which swept over the city was particularly cutting, and more than one citizen lost a portion of his night's sleep, by reason of the incessant rattle of the windows, and the howl of the storm without, as it beat against the sides of the houses with relentless fury, as though seeking admittance.

Street Railway Affected.

"The worst storm we have had this winter," exclaimed one street car conductor, as an Examiner man climbed aboard. The snow plow made regular trips up and down the line throughout the night in an endeavour to keep the tracks clear. In this they only partially succeeded, and it was with considerable difficulty that a regular service was maintained. The cars were also hard to control owing to the slippery condition of the rails, and when the brakes were applied they would skid for several yards before coming to a standstill. Needless to say, the service was well patronized by those who, by force of circumstances, were compelled to be out.

"Show" Held Up.

A show called "The Thief" was billed to appear in the Opera House last night, but, like a thief in the night, it came late, and it was 10.30 o'clock before the curtain went up for the first act. The company were due to arrive in the city on the regular 4.28 C.P.R. train, but owing to the wreck at Blairton, they did not arrive in the city until 10 o'clock. When word was received here to the effect that the troupe were snowbound, many of the people handed in their tickets and had their money refunded. As a result, it was a very slim house that greeted the company upon their arrival. The evening train from Toronto passed the train conveying the opera troupe at Indian River.

Hockey Team Snowbound.

The Hastings hockey contingent also met a similar fate, inasmuch as they were unable to get through owing to the severity of the storm, and the inevitable snow blockade. As a result, the Hastings-Lakefield, Trent Valley League fixture, which was scheduled to take place at Brock St. Rink last night, did not materialize, to the disappointment of the hockey fans. The regular G.T.R. due from Hastings at 9 o'clock was over an hour late.

Teamsters Affected.

There was a singular absence of milkmen and teamsters in the streets this morning, and inquiries elicited the fact that a number of the milk vendors were unable to get through with their supplies owing to the heavy condition of the roads. This resulted in a general run on the grocers for a supply of that concentrated substance known as condensed or tinned milk. Those who did succeed in getting through with their load were unanimous in their opinion that this is the worst blizzard which Peterborough has experienced this year.

C. P. R. Ploughs Through.

The early trains on the C.P.R. went through on time this morning, the line being kept clear during the night by ploughs. The yards were in good condition this morning in spite of the storm, by the section men who kept the crossings and switches clear of snow in spite of the continual drifting.

The barometer showed the lowest reading of the winter this morning, and is an indication that the centre of the storm period is at hand, which by to-night will probably show a relaxation of its fury. Weather reports call for a change by to-morrow, when we are billed for a period of clear, cold weather.

Clock Stopped.

The Post Office clock went on strike about 2.10 this morning, as also did several of the drivers of the rural free delivery routes, who were compelled, by force of the unfavourable circumstances, to cancel their trips. It would have been impossible for some of them to complete their trips, even had they attempted to do so, as the roads in many cases were impassable. These conditions were more pronounced on the north and west routes. The stages were also held up with the exception of the Warsaw stage, which reached the city after five hours battling with the elements. The journey, which is a sixteen-mile one, can, under ordinary conditions, be accomplished in about two hours and a half. The driver, in conversation with the Examiner, announced his intention of remaining in the city overnight, as he deemed it inadvisable to attempt the return trip this evening. This is the first time that the Warsaw stage has failed to complete the trip in three years.

Cars Stalled.

The sweepers worked overtime to-day in an endeavour to keep the line clear, but even this failed to ward off the inevitable. A Park st. car was stalled for nearly an hour this afternoon, and it required the assistance of several men to shovel it out.

Dr. Marsh reports severe weather in the neighbourhood of Springville. "Traffic on the roads is practically suspended, and it is almost impossible to travel a hundred yards in some places without getting embedded in the drifts," declared Dr. Marsh.

Conductors Shovelled.

The C. G. E. street car was tied up for an hour and fifteen minutes near Wolfe st., just after the lunch hour. The conductor and motormen borrowed shovels from residents near by, according to one passenger's story, and had to actually dig the car out of the drift into which it had become embedded.

Worked all Night.

The snow plough and sweeper were out all night fighting the storm, and had a pretty busy session. One result was that the line was ready for the first service this morning.

Weather Man's Way.

"That's just the way the Weather Man does things," said a disgruntled citizen this morning as the wind tried to separate him from his overcoat. "A few days ago we were ready to look for robins, and the coal bin ceased to worry us, and then along comes this blast. I'd rather have it 30 below than have to fight against this kind of mixture."

Will Engage Men.

Street Commissioner Evans stated to-day that the storm has blown up drifts that will have to be shovelled

THEN AND NOW.

"The "Orangists" and "pillars of "Protestantism" and 'guardians' of British and loyal interests in Ontario, when last September they co-operated with the French Nationalists to put Mr. Borden in power, possibly did not realize, and possibly did not care, that in returning Mr. Borden to power they were, as they are now realising, actually putting the anti-British Nationalists in power, and putting this Province under their bete noir, "French domination". They did not, perhaps, realize, even if they cared, that, as is the fact, they were making Bourassa "boss," and that a man of anti-British instincts, outside the Cabinet, would have, as he actually has shown to have, power to influence the Borden Cabinet. Straws show the direction of the wind, and a small matter shows how strong an influence Bourassa and the Nationalists exercise in the Borden Government. A despatch from Blind River, Ontario, is interesting and significant:

Blind River, Ont., Feb. 21.—On Saturday last the postmaster here, Mr. Fred Thompson, was greatly surprised to receive a communication from Postmaster-General Pelletier, at Ottawa, informing him that the name of this town, Blind River, had been changed to Riviere a l'Aveugle, and asking him to send back all blank books, money-orders, etc., to be printed with the new name, which goes into effect on the first of March next. The residents of this town were dumbfounded to hear of this change, and the citizens intend holding an indigation meeting to-night, and a strong protest will be made against any such change, as it is directly contrary to the wishes of the people here, who, as far as we can learn, have not been consulted in the matter in any way. The parish priest here is a confirmed Nationalist, and it is likely that he has used his influence with our Nationalist postmaster-general to have the change made. If Bourassa is representing East Algoma at Ottawa, then we think it is time for W. R. Smyth, M.P., to send in his resignation. This change seems to bear out the impression that Bourassa is bossing the job at Ottawa."

The change of name in itself is no great matter; in fact it is a change only in name. "Blind River" and "Riviere a l'Aveugle" have precisely the same meaning. The significance consists in the eyes of those extremists who voted to kill Laurier because he was of French extraction, in the fact that the one name—the discarded name—is English and the other French. If such a change had been made when Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, a Liberal, was Postmaster-General, we should have heard a howl of execration from the professed enemies of "French domination" that would have raised the dead. Now the enemies of "French domination" are political co-workers, political bed-fellows, of the powers that make "French domination" so effective that a Nationalist Postmaster-General in a "British" Cabinet, has the power and will, not to speak of the impudence, (as it once would have been called by the truly "loil"), to change the English name of a postoffice in an English-speaking Province, to a French name with the same meaning. And Blind River is not the only English postoffice name to be discarded and changed into a foreign tongue by the Nationalist Postmaster-General. Stony Point post-office in Essex County, Ontario, is changed to Pointe aux Roches. The same meaning, but the new name is Fnech. What do the flag flappers and the Protestant Federationists think of it? They had whole books to say about such things one time. What do they say now?

Wives, Sisters and Brothers should enquire about the wonderful results obtained by the Gatlin Treatment for the liquor habit. It may be the means of bringing joy and happiness to your home. Call, write or phone for descriptive booklet on alcoholism. Gatlin Institute, 420 Jarvis Street, Toronto. Phone North 4538.

CONTROL OF HIGHWAYS.

The Weekly Sun resents the interference of the Ontario Government in the matter of the control of highways, in the following words:

Announcement was made in the Legislature last week that the Ontario Government proposes appropriating another million dollars to be spent on rural highways. This latest grant carries with it the same main conditions that were carried with the old, viz., that the counties to benefit therefrom must spend two dollars for every one provided by the Province. There is another important provision. It is provided that the Government shall appoint an official of "engineering capacity" who shall lay out and supervise the construction of the roads to be built. This officer is to have high authority so place a foreman in charge of any work he cannot personally supervise and it is "made imperative that such foreman shall not be a member of the council of the county in which the work is being done. It is further provided that the Government shall have power to strike from a county road system any road which the Minister of Public Works finds "not of sufficient importance to be constructed and maintained as a county road."

The people of a county are to provide, by direct taxation, two-thirds of the cost of building the roads; they will, as citizens of the Province, have to pay at least a part of the remaining third which the Government is to spend; and then the Government is not only to say where money is to be spent, but is to take control of the spending. With the control over roads gone and the control of schools going the necessity of maintaining municipal institutions will soon cease to exist.

It is very well to guard municipal independence, and repress centralization; but in the matter of highways, other considerations are paramount. If the Government gives assistance; if the object aimed at is systematic promotion of good roads, the Government certainly has some right, as it has something in the way of duty, to see that money spent is spent to the best advantage, and in some systematic manner. The Weekly Sun knows, as everybody knows, that the dealing with highways, the making of "good" roads, as pursued by municipalities, has, under the statute labour system, been unsatisfactory to the point of being almost farcical. It is only by having systems of county roads assumed and under control of the Government that anything like harmony of plan and operation, and satisfactory results can be expected. It is hardly a question whether or not the Government should not assume more responsibility, in respect of the construction of trunk lines of highways throughout the province, and it is hardly a question whether in the interests of the people the Government should not use the money of the whole people to bear a larger proportion, if not the whole cost, of such lines of highway. Governments do such things, as a rule, more thoroughly—they have command of better road-engineering skill—than the municipalities can do, or, as a rule, will do. There would be no objection, if the Government would devote more of the public money to the construction and maintenance of highways. The Provicial Governmens of Canada have aided railways to the amount of 32 million dollars, to provide transportation, in the interest of farmers, and the people generally. Of this Ontario contributed the larger share. If a similar amount had been expended in aiding the construction of highways, the farmers and the people, generally, would have been enormously benefited; for it is a fact that the cost to the average farmer of getting his produce to the railway over bad roads is greater than the cost of railway haulage. The Provincial Government can hardly err on the side of liberality in devoting Government money to the promotion of good roads building. And it can hardly be doubted that, in view of more desirable results, the Province would be justified in assuming larger control and consequent larger responsibility in respect of the construction of systems of county highways.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Beautiful, dull, sleepy Kingston is waking up. It boasts a building record increase of 568.8 per cent., for December, 1911, over the figures of 1910. A little light is thrown on this phenomenal increase in the figures of building permits. The amount was $495, in 1910, in 1911, there was a jump to $3,311, an increase of 568 per cent. It is satisfactory to note that from the figures for the entire year show that Kingston's gain in 1911, over the preceding, was 42.9 per cent.

There's voting in the by-election in South Renfrew to-day. If the weather conditions are anything like they are here there will be a small vote polled.

There are well founded objections to clergymen taking part in politics, but two priests can well justify their interference in the South Renfrew bye-election. Rev. Father Dowdall used his influence and had the three public bars in Eganville closed to prevent riotous conduct, and Rev. Father Yankowski has prevented the sending in of whisky among his Polish parishoners, who are numerous in certain parts of the riding.

MARINE QUESTIONS.

(Montreal Herald)

The Canadian Gazette of last week gave some information about the means Mr. Borden and his colleagues propose to take to abolish the navy. The Cabinet has been doing things.

It transferred to the Minister in charge of the navy Mr. Borden is going to destroy the arsenal and marine hospital at Halifax, the commander-in-chief's house and lot, the recreation ground and cemetery.

It transferred to the Minister in charge of the navy Mr. Borden is going to abandon the arsenals, hospital, chapel, exercise and recreation grounds at Esquimalt.

It transferred to the Minister in charge of the navy Mr. Borden is going to abandon large and important land and water lots at Halifax, White haven, Sydney and Louisburg.

It transferred to the Minister in charge of the navy Mr. Borden is going to abandon certain important land and water lots in English Bay, Burrard Inlet, Sea, Island and Baynes Strait, British Columbia.

It fixed, with great attention to detail, the rates per day which the Minister in charge of the navy Mr. Borden is about to abandon may pay to each of twety-four grades of musicians ranging from thirty cents a day to three-dollars and twenty cets a day.

Mr. Borden and his Cabinet are, in fact, so busy arranging the duties of the Minister in charge of the navy they are about to abandon that they cannot fid time to decide when it will be convenient to discuss Mr. Sevigy's motion for the repeal of the Navy Act.

RAILWAY INVESTMENTS.

The investment represented by the railway property of Canada reaches 1,538 million dollars, and to this large sum must be added over $200,000,000 of the subsidies and loans by the Canadian Government; also the value of upwards of 55,000,000 acres of land granted by the Dominion or the Provinces in aid of the various enterprises. According to figures just issued, the four systems in Canada, viz., the C. P. R., the C.N.R., the G. T.R., and the I. C. R. represent four-fifths of the whole railways of the country, and the total earnings of the railways last year were $188,733,000 and the operating expenses $131,034,000. The former represents an increase over the previous year of $14,777,000, equal to 8.7 per cent., which is a better showing than has been made for years, and as the population of the country grows it is expected that the railway traffic will also increase.

THE MANITOBA BILL.

The News, in describing the Manitoba bill, is careful to say that the Borden Government has followed carefully in the footsteps of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The bill, it is said, is the same as the old Laurier bill of 1908, with the financial terms filled in. The financial terms are similar to those given by the Laurier Government to Saskatchewan and Alberta. The Dominion Government will keep the lands—a thing the Laurier Government was fiercely assailed for doing in the case of Saskatchewan and Alberta. Both seaports on Hudson Bay go to Manitoba. This also is said to be the policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

However, when Ontario sent 73 members out of 86 to support Mr. Borden, and gave that leader three-fifths of his backing in the House, it was a common saying among Conservatives that Ontario would at last come to her own. Either Mr. Borden is doing less for Ontario than she deserves, or there was a huge amount of insincerity in the attacks on Sir Wilfrid Laurier.—Toronto Star.

This Home-made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly, and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes 16 ounces—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

A Marvel Of Healing

Salt Rheum of Ten Year's Standing Healed as if by Magic

Hands Cracked so Could Not Work —Cures Effected by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

It does not take long for Dr. Chase's Ointment to prove its magic healing power. A single night is often sufficient to produce the most startling results.

Internal treatment for skin diseases is nearly always disappointing. By applying Dr. Chase's Ointment to the diseased parts relief is obtained almost immediately, and gradually the sores heal up and disappear. Here are two letters which will interest you:

Mrs. Chas. Gilbert, Haystack, Placentia Bay, Nfld., writes:—"I was a sufferer from Salt Rheum for ten years, and had about despaired of ever being cured, so many treatments had failed. Reading of the wonderful cures effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment, I commenced using it, and was entirely cured by eight boxes. I want to express my gratitude for Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to recommend it to all sufferers."

Mr. Stanley Merrill, Delaware, Ont., writes:—"For years I was troubled with my hands cracking, often becoming so sore that I could hardly do any work. I got some of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and happily find that one or two applications of same to the affected parts make them well. I have had no trouble since using the ointment for sore hands."

MR. ROBT. BEACH, CONDUCTOR.

For the Minstrel Show to be Given by the Bugle Band—Preliminary Work Under Way.

Mr. Robt. Beach has accepted the duty of conducting the rehearsals for the Minstrel Show to be given by the Bugle Band of the 57th Regiment. The music is being ordered and other preliminary work is under way. It is expected that the production will be ready for presentation early in March. It will be free to the public, it is understood, but this is not going to deter the members from endeavouring to put on a show of real merit.

A DISTINGUISHED SPEAKER

Rev. E. Bosworth, who has spent twenty years as Secretary of the Baptist work among the Roman Catholics of Quebec Province, is to be in the city this week, and will speak in Murray Street Church on Sunday morning. He succeeded in that office Rev. Dr. LaFleur, who was instrumental in the conversion of Rev. Father Chiniquy, years ago. A most timely address is expected on conditions in Quebec Province, and doubtless a great congregation will greet the visitor.

Which Cooks Quickest?

EVEN a child knows that it takes longer to cook a thick slice of steak than it does to cook a thin slice of bacon.

The flakes of average rolled oats are thick and uneven. They can't cook very quickly or very evenly.

Notice the flakes in a box of Tillson's—so delicately and uniformly thin. It's because of this that the heat gets through them and quickly reduces their various elements into a perfectly cooked state.

Tillson's Oats

To Fry Oatmeal Porridge

Cook the porridge the Tillson way. Pack in small, greased round or oblong tins and let stand until cold and solid. Remove from the box, slice thin, dip in flour and saute in hot fat. If desired fried in deep fat, the slices must be covered with egg and bread crumbs.

Your grocer has Tillson's. Two sizes—10c and 25c. Each 25c package contains a handsome piece of English Porcelain Tableware.

HAPPENINGS IN LABOUR CIRCLES

Barbers Will Likely Ask For Two Nights a Week in Summer

While it is still early to talk of labour prospects for the coming season or of activities in labour circles, there are a few reports of recent happenings and of proposals for the future. It is understood that at the next meeting of the Moulders' Union they will vote upon a referendum to decide whether it is necessary to hold an International Congress this year. There is also a suggestion that the moulders may ask for a nine-hour day. Nothing is definitely known as to this possibility, but it is understood that this question has been mentioned and it may be brought up before long.

The carpet or textile workers had a meeting recently. It is reported that conditions are satisfactory in this trade locally, and the branch of this union in Peterborough is getting along well.

Barbers Want Nights Off.

The journeymen barbers have a proposal to ask for two nights off at six o'clock during June, July and August. It is likely that they will make their demand, and will present their appeal to the proprietors for the two nights during the summer months.

Bricklayers May Demand.

It is understood that the bricklayers are likely to ask for more money when the season opens. Nothing definite has been learned yet, but it is likely that they will follow the action of the carpenters, who are asking for an advance to 30 cents an hour from 27 1-2c.

Convention on May 24.

The Ontario Educational Association will hold its convention this year in Peterborough on May 24. This association has aims somewhat similar to those of the Independent Labour party. It desires, as its name expresses, to educate labour men to realize their position, what they may accomplish and what is necessary to secure the fulfilment of their aims. Last year's convention was held in Guelph. It is expected that 200 delegates will be here. This association is separate from the Independent Labour party, although, to a certain extent, it is working along somewhat similar lines.

A Bouquet For The Bear Cats

The Lindsay Post hands the Bear Cats a nice little bouquet on their showing. However, Brier Begley errs when he says Dwyer's a native of Lindsay. The Auburn-haired goaltender claims Toronto as his birthplace, while Milloy was born in Peterborough. The Post says:

Full credit must be given the Peterborough Bear Cats for their splendid showing in the junior series. With the exception of Hall, this was their first year in the O. H. A., and therefore their record is one to be proud of. The team was looked upon as a "joke" by the Peterborough fans early in the season, but their work shows that they are a plucky little bunch. Under careful coaching they developed into a classy seven—one that could pull itself together at critical stages in a game. They played the game like veterans, and if they are together next year the experience gained this season will make them a seven to be reckoned with about the finish of the junior series. A native of Lindsay is on the team—young Dwyer, who promises to be a second Denocher, while Milloy, another dashing player, first saw the light of day, it is said, near Downeyville.

Glorious Hair For Women

Your Money Back Says Wm. Madill if PARISIAN SAGE isn't the Most Delightful Hair Dressing, Grower, Beautifier and Dandruff Remover You ever saw.

Try it ladies on that fair and square basis. Surely you don't want to experiment with common commercial tonics, when a large bottle of PARISIAN SAGE costs but 50 cents.

There is a reason for the phenomenal sale of PARISIAN SAGE since it was first introduced into America, and the sales this year are breaking all records.

And the reason is plain to all: PARISIAN SAGE does just what it is advertised to do.

There is no reason whatever why any man or woman should fail to take advantage of the above generous offer.

But one thing that has made PARISIAN SAGE so famous is its peculiar power to turn the harsh, unattractive hair that many women possess into luxuriant and radiant hair in a short time. Women of refinement the country over are using it and it never disappoints.

Sold by leading dealers everywhere and in Peterborough by Wm. Madill for 50 cents a large bottle. The girl with Auburn hair is on every carton.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

About thirty of the members of the "Y" and Mr. J. Laing's Bible Class journeyed over to the Young Women's Christian Association and were entertained by the young ladies of the "Gym" class and the officers of the association. The early part of the evening was taken up playing parlour games, after which all adjourned to the gymnasium, where games were indulged in, including a basketball match between the boys and girls, which was greatly enjoyed by all. Refreshments were then served in the parlour, and, after a short promenade in the gymnasium, three hearty cheers were given for the officers, ladies, and Y. W. C. A. the boys journeyed homeward high in their praises of the hospitality of the Y. W. C. A.

The final work of the Y. M. C. A. Leaders will be conducted to-night, in preparation for their trip to Toronto on Saturday, where they will be the guests of the Toronto Central Leaders Corps over Sunday. It is important that every member be present as some important business in connection with the trip will be discussed.

Mr. Taylor Statten, Provincial Boys' Work Secretary, is visiting the local Association to-day, and will address the Collegiate Institute Club at 4.15. At 6.30, Mr. Statten will have tea with the Boys' Work Committee and boy workers of the different churches.

PARALYZED LIMBS

To-day it is sleeplessness, headaches, digestive trouble, and irritability. Next thing you knew some form of paralysis has developed. Mr. Alex. Hoesburger, 19 Moore Street, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: 'Nervous trouble developed into paralysis of the limbs so that I became helpless. Doctors failed me, but after using ten boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I resumed work, and now feel better than I did for 20 years."

WEDDING BELLS

BOLIN—FLEMING.

An interesting wedding occurred this morning at the church of the Immaculate Conception, when Miss Evelyn Rose Fleming and Mr. Richard Henry Bolin, of Rochester, New York, were married by the Rev. Fr. D. J. Egan. The bride's gown was satin chiffon over chamerause, in empire style trimmed with baby Irish and chenille fringe, the wedding veil being held in place by a cluster of lilacs and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilacs. Miss Grace Coyle of Toronto, attended the bride. Her gown was of champagne taffeta trimmed in Irish lace. Her hat was of black velvet with a cream satin bow, and she carried an armful of pink and white carnations. The groom had as best man his cousin, Mr. Frederick Quinn of Rochester, N. Y. Miss Margaret Fleming, of Boston, Mass., sister of the bride, wore a gown of yellow crepe meteor, with an over dress of blue chiffon. This was embroidered in yellow, with a trimming of steel beads. Mrs. J. A. Commons (Hattie Fleming), of Rochester, N.Y., wore an embroidered velvet suit of navy blue. The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Michael Durkin, Misses Annie, Gertie and Ethel Durkin, and Father John Durkin all of London; Miss G. Coyle of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Commons and Mr. Frederick Quinn, of Rochester, N. Y., Miss Margaret Fleming of Boston, Mass. Following the wedding, a breakfast was served to the family at the home of the bride, 120 Douro street, Mr. W. G. Brown served. The decorations at the house were smilax and spring flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Bolin left this afternoon for the east, and before settling in Rochester will visit New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburg. The bride's travelling gown was of grey cheviot with a French turban in grey tones.—Stratford Herald.

Mr. Bolin is an old resident of Peterborough, where the major portion of his life was spent. Mrs. P. Heffernan of 86 Hunter street, is a sister.

HESCH—SEYMOUR.

On the evening of the 14th February a quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Joseph's Rectory, Warren, Pa., when the Rev. Joseph Sieverding united in marriage Miss Helen H. Hesch of Warren, and Mr. John G. Seymour of Peterborough, Ontario, but who has been in Warren two winters as assistant manager of the skating rink. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Genevieve Hesch and the bride's brother, F. Harold Hesch, served as best man.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white embrodiery with pearl trimmings, and she carried a shower boquet of narcissus and fern. Her attendant was dressed in foulard silk muil, trimmed with Irish point lace.

The bridal party returned to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary M. Hesch, No. 1215 Penna. Ave. E., after the ceremony, where they will reside a few months, expecting to go to Ontario early in the summer.

UNIQUE PROJECT

A project unique even in the annals of Western Canadian publicity, has recently been endorsed by the Board of Trade of Camrose, Alta., and if the recommendations of that body are acted upon by the Town Council, it should be carried into effect at no distant date. This project is to send a special car, fitted up with an exhibit of farm products, and in charge of twelve townsmen and farmers, to eastern points where members of the party are well known, with a view to obtaining land buyers and settlers. Liberal use would be made of literature, while the travellers would naturally be well posted on all details as to farm properties in the district, as well as to the distributing facilities at Camrose, its industrial opportunities and coal development.

It is even contemplated following up the work with a special settlers' train leaving Toronto and other points on a fixed date, and running straight to Camrose.

It is understood that Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, has agreed to supply the entire exhibit for the car free of charge. Camrose is in the centre of a rich agricultural district on the Calgary-Edmonton Branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

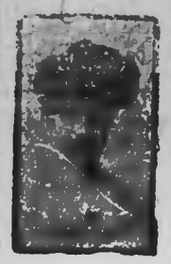
By Ruth Cameron

"THERE is only one real failure possible and that is not to be true to the best one knows."—Canon Farrar.

"I had a dream the other night," said Molly, the little stenographer lady, possessing herself of the tongs and reconstructing the fire which the wants-to-be-cynic had just laid.

"Indeed," said the wants-to-be-cynic. "How remarkable. Was it the first time that ever happened?"

"Go on, Molly. Don't mind him," said the author-man. "He's just jealous because you're making the fire burn better than he did. He can't make a fire."



There is a continual rivalry in the family as to who can make the best fire. We all agree that making a good fire is a fine art, but that is all we do agree on. Each of us has his own particular style, and each new arrival considers it his privilege to take the tongs and re-adjust the logs according to his school of fire building.

"It was the queerest, most interesting dream," went on Molly, laying down the tongs after having set the top log crosswise—she is of the crosswise school—"that I ever had. I dreamed I was dead."

"More chalk," murmured the wants-to-be-cynic, with simulated horror. "I know its going to be that dream about going back for more chalk."

"I dreamed I was dead," repeated Molly serenely, ignoring him, "and I went somewhere, I don't know just where." The cynic showed signs of breaking out, but was silenced by the author-man. "At first I was all alone in a big room, and then a man in white clothes, like we read about, came up to me. He had a woman with him and said he wanted me to meet her. And who do you suppose it was?" Nobody guessed. "It was me — I mean I," said Molly, "only different. She looked like me, but she was so much prettier. She was plumper, had red cheeks like the doctor said I would if I'd do my exercises, and was taller, or I guess she just looked taller because she stood so fine and straight. I asked the man who she was, and he shook his head and kind of melted away, and left us together, so I began to talk to her. She had the sweetest voice and she knew everything. She'd read all the books that I've always meant to read, and she could play the piano wonderfully, like I might if I only hadn't stopped practicing, when I went to work. And somehow I felt she never lost her temper like I do and that everybody that knew her must love her.

"I don't know how I knew all these things, for I'm sure she didn't tell me. I just sort of felt them the way you do in dreams.

"Still, I didn't know who she was and she wouldn't tell me, so when I saw the man who brought her to me I ran up to him and asked him again, and this time he said, 'Why, haven't you found out yet? She's the girl you might have been. She's going to be your companion everywhere you go.' He said, 'There she is now.' And I looked around and there she was behind me. We were in a room where there was a big mirror, and when I looked around I saw us both in it, and she looked so much sweeter and nicer that I just hated myself and wanted to go away and hide, but when I tried to, she followed right after like a shadow."

Molly fell silent.

"And then what?" prompted the author-man.

"And then I woke up and was glad I was awake," finished Molly.

"And made good resolutions?" suggested the wants-to-be-cynic a bit mockingly.

"And made good resolutions," said Molly defiantly.

"I guess it wasn't half so bad a dream for you as it would have been for most of us if we had dreamed it," said the author-man thoughtfully.

"I should say not," agreed the wants-to-be-cynic emphatically and not at all mockingly this time.

And the fire snapped out loudly and suddenly as if it also agreed.

MUSICAL ARTISTES DISTINGUISH THEMSELVES AT I.O.F. CONCERT

Interesting Meeting Held in the Conservatory Music Hall Last Evening With Mr. G. A. Mitchell, Field Secretary for I. O. F. as Principal Speaker---Regular Meeting on Friday.

The weather conditions prevailing last evening were not conducive to the gathering of a large audience, however attractive the event. However, those who braved the elements and attended the concert held under the auspices of the I.O.F. Court Chemong No. 530 in the Conservatory Music Hall were rewarded, the musical numbers being of an exceptionally high standard of excellence.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood occupied the chair, in the absence of Mayor Bradburn, through indisposition. He said that owing to the inclemency of the weather the regular meeting would be held on Friday evening, with Mayor Bradburn in the chair. At that meeting the purposes of the gathering would be referred to in detail.

The I.O.F. needs no introduction from me, he continued. I know something of its work and of the length and breadth of that glorious work and this will be taken up fully on Friday night.

As a solo pianist, Miss Lillian Dillon excelled. She possesses a delicate touch, and the rapid succession of notes as are contained, for instance, in "Annie Laurie," were played with remarkable fluency. While the style of the selections rendered was for the most part florid, yet the interpretation of the various movements calling for careful manipulation were marked in a manner which denoted a thorough mastery of the instrument.

Miss Maud Dillon is a soprano of unquestionable ability, and, possessing a naturally charming stage presence, was very effective. The essential qualification for a successful vocalist, namely, good breathing, was hers, and this was especially noticeable in the higher register, the tone of which was pure and clear. Her conception of tone colour was also good.

The contributions of Mr. Harvey Lloyd, the humorist, proved a very pleasing diversion. He rendered "The Lass of Killiecrankie" in a manner almost comparable with Harry Lauder. His quaint mannerisms in the song, "Does anybody remember Casey?" were very amusing, and captivated the gathering, and another item which provoked much mirth was "The Fininigan Band," in which a tin whistle was utilised. He possesses all the qualifications necessary for a comedian, especially in the matter of facial contortion, in which he proved an adept.

All the musical items were heartily encored, and as heartily responded to.

At the end of the musical programme the chairman introduced Mr. George A. Mitchell, superintendent of field work, who proved himself a very eloquent speaker. He did not deal fully with his subject, but explained that he would do so at the meeting on Friday night. He said:

While we have a few empty chairs, we have present those of the more enthusiastic. When we are not afraid of stormy weather we are not afraid to fight, and when we can fight we can carry on any good work successfully. I have always thought that the pleasure of doing good is one of the greatest things a man or a woman can do, and on Friday evening we shall be pleased to talk on what fraternalism is going to do.

The people of the Eastern Provinces are not doing what they should, and I am very anxious to build up the Order in these provinces, and for that purpose I have refused an engagement to speak in New York. There will be no silver collection—we want nothing from you; we only want you to become acquainted with the great and glorious work of the I.O.F. Now this great Order of ours is an Order that is worth talking about. The organisation last year buried two thousand four hundred members. That means we went into twenty-four hundred homes where there were sorrow and distress with an acceptable cheque.

Mr. Mitchell gave an instance of a sick man who was on the point of death. One of the members of the Order, he said, was constantly in attendance, and ascertain that everything was done for his comfort. Just prior to death the sick man said that he could die happy as he knew everything had been done to lighten his burden. That, to my mind, he continued, is one of the greatest things a man or a woman can do.

In conclusion, the speaker said that all his meetings are well attended, and, in fact, many were generally turned away, and he adjured those present to tell their friends to attend the meeting on Friday in order to make the meeting a successful one.

W.C.T.U. NOTES

The Matter Under This Heading is Supplied by the W.C.T.U.

As it was so unanimously (and without one dissenting voice) decided that our local option campaign should be voted on next January, and that our city should be white, I will quote a few of the marching orders, which God gave to His people of old as they are found in Deut. 20:1-4—

1. When thou goest to battle against thine enemies, and seest horses and chariots and a people more than thou, be not afraid of them, for the Lord thy God is with thee, which brought thee up out of the land of Egyp..

2. And it shall be, when ye are come nigh unto the battle, that the priest shall approach and speak unto the people

3. And shall say unto them, hear O Israel, ye approach this day unto battle against your enemies; let not your hearts faint; fear not, and do not tremble, neither be ye terrified because of them:

4 For the Lord your God is He that goeth with you, to fight for you against your enemies, to save you.

Now, just an earnest plea to every woman to join us who has enough of love for the fallen ones, to help remove the temptation of the open bar from their midst.

Our next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Hart, 559 Bethune street, at 3.30 o'clock, Friday, 23rd inst.—Com.

Mrs. Savard Tells How They Cured Her Kidney Disease From Which She had been a Sufferer for Many Years.

The joy that it brings into their lives makes them want to shout the good news from the housetops. They want other sufferers to know the road to health. Such is the case with Mrs. Alfred Savard of this place.

What Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for Mrs. Savard they have done for thousands of other sufferers in Canada. The daily papers tell of cures made by them every day. They always cure Kidney Disease and Kidney Disease is the cause of nine-tenths of the troubles from which women suffer.

PREVENT CROWDING INTO STREET CARS

Conductors Should be More Strict in Controlling the Entrances and Exits

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—It should be some one's duty to try and create a right idea of getting on and off street cars in this city. I have noticed so many people crowding into the cars before those getting off have left it, that I believe it is nearly time something was done to impress upon people the need of a little common sense. Those getting on and off meet in the vestibule or aisle of the cars, there is confusion and not only do these people delay themselves, but their action delays the whole car of people. The conductor, it seems, should exert some control in cases of this kind. If people are getting off the car, let him prevent those who would crowd into it from doing so before it is cleared of those who are leaving it. Then, let the others enter. It would not be difficult, and the order that would prevail would be appreciated by those who are waiting for the car to proceed. With the pay-as-you-enter cars, this crowding is avoided, but with the present cars the people should co-operate with the conductors and make the service as good as possible, under the conditions, not as provincial as some would make it.

Friends of Brandt Secure Order for New Trial

HABEAS CORPUS GRANTED

New York, Feb. 22.—Except for the service of five years in prison, Foulke E. Brandt, is to-day the same man in the eyes of the law as he was before he was sent away on April 6, 1907, to serve thirty years for burglary at the home of Mortimer L. Schiff, the banker, where he once worked as a servant. The long prison term was broken up yesterday by Justice Gerard of the Supreme Court, with an opinion sustaining a writ of habeas corpus.

The young Swede remained locked up in the Tombs last night, but not as a condemned man, and with assurance that within forty-eight hours he will be released on bail to await a new trial or whatever development occurs to clear up his remarkable case. The hearing before Commissioner Richard L. Hand, appointed by Governor Dix to hear Brandt's application for clemency, has now no importance as a factor in Brandt's fight for freedom, as a pardon cannot be given to a man who stands uncondemned, with only charges pending.

Justice Gerard's decision brought to a climax a case which has had the absorbed attention of the New York public nearly every day for a month and which is still a matter of grand jury investigation, with a view to determine if there was conspiracy in the sending of Brandt to prison for so long a term.

In sentencing him to thirty years in prison, Judge Otto A. Rosalsky illegally condemned Brandt, according to Justice Gerard's opinion yesterday.

"If Brandt was sentenced because he was involved in a net of verbiage," said Justice Gerard, "and pleaded guilty to a crime which his examination at the time of his plea showed he did not admit committing, and did not intend to plead guilty to, he should not be left to seek his remedy from executive clemency alone. He is entitled to a decision of the court relieving him from the stigma of his mistaken plea.

Alton B. Parker and De Lancey Nicoll, counsel for Mr. Schiff, telegraphed to Governor Dix late yesterday asking that they be allowed to appear before the governor next Friday to move for a broadening of the enquiry started by Commissioner Hand, in order that Mr. Schiff and Howard S. Gans, who acted as counsel for Schiff in connection with the prosecution of Brandt, be allowed to testify at the Hand hearing. The suspension of the hearing Tuesday, on the ground that volunteer witnesses would be immune, was characterized by Messrs. Parker and Nicoll as "absurd." On the heels of the telegram to the governor, a long letter was mailed, stating reasons for the application for a broader hearing "to the end that scandalous rumors should be dispelled and the truth made known."

The letter declares that through these rumors "the probity of a business man and the reputation of a lawyer has been assailed, and beyond and above all, the reputation of a woman has been besmirched by insinuations and innuendoes." The frustration of all of counsel's efforts to bring out the Schiff story at the public hearing was pointed out and the ruling of the district attorney that such appearance would involve immunity was declared to be a "legal absurdity."

War To Go On.

Rome, Feb. 22.—Tripolitana and Cyrenica will be proclaimed Italian territory to-day. The sessions of the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate are likely to remain noteworthy in the annals of Italian Parliamentary history, as they will mark the conversion into law of the royal decree proclaiming the annexation of these two districts of Africa.

Four hundred and fifty deputies out of 500, and 300 Senators have arrived in Rome to be present at the sittings. The bill is expected to pass practically unanimously on Saturday.

It is expected that Parliament will manifest its patriotism and give to the Cabinet complete powers with respect to the war. For the present it is realized that it is impossible to take any action in the direction of hastening peace, as Italy cannot offer concessions to Turkey as a basis for negotiations or force matters to a conclusion.

TRAIN HITS SLEIGH.

Three Persons Perish in Accident Near London, Ont.

London, Feb. 22.—Three lives were snuffed out in the twinkling of an eye, about 1.30 p.m. yesterday, when a special train from Hamilton struck a closed milkman's sleigh about three miles east of here. The victims were:

Charles L. Drake, a milkman of the second Gore, London Township.

Mrs. Robert Drake (sister-in-law).

Mrs. Drake's two-year-old daughter, Frances.

The woman's head was cut off, and the other bodies were terribly mutilated.

The accident occurred only a stone's throw from where Henry Drake, sr., father of the dead man, was splitting wood in the yard of his homestead.

Mrs. Henry Drake, mother-in-law of the dead woman, has been unwell for some time, and it was for the purpose of assisting her in the housework that Mrs. Robert Drake was being taken to the farm by her brother-in-law, who had called for her at her home here.

They were following another sleigh, and just as they were crossing the tracks the driver of the first vehicle cracked his whip. This alarmed the horse attached to the Drake sleigh, and it broke away, leaving the sleigh in front of the train.

The first intimation Mr. Drake, sr., had of an accident, was when the horse with the broken traces trailing, came running into his yard.

Mrs. Drake, sr., on learning that an accident had happened, left her bed, and hurried to the scene. The shock has left her in a serious condition.

Engine 324, which struck the sleigh, was in charge of Engineer Galbraith of this city.

An inquest was opened last night, and was adjourned until Tuesday evening next.

Oxford University and the universities of Europe will be visited by the doctor for a time, and will conduct biological researches at the various maritime stations.

Four Sudden Deaths.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—Four people met with sudden deaths yesterday in this city. George Cook of Shudell street was struck by a G.T.R. train and instantly killed a few hundred yards north of Riverdale station; Jas. Todd was found in an unconscious condition in the cellar of his residence, 92 George street, and died shortly afterward; John Henery, a farmer of Newmarket, died while breakfasting in the Clyde Hotel, due to heart failure, and Mrs. Mary Oliver met with the same fate while working in her store at 31 Spadina avenue.

STORM HITS ONTARIO.

Worst Blizzard in Years Sweeps Across Province.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—The province was visited with the worst storm of the season yesterday, the blinding snowstorm and driving wind piling up and drifting the snow so that railway tracks, roads and streets were made almost impassable. In Toronto the street railway service suffered most. As fast as the snow plows went over the streets cleaning the tracks, the driving wind drove the snow back on the tracks and made them just as bad as ever.

The railroads were also completely tied up. All trains were from one to five and six hours late. The Montreal express did not get in until 12.30 owing to being stalled behind a derailed freight train near Havelock. The different railway officials all had the same tale to tell. Blocked lines and excessive wind, couple with the blinding snow, made speed impossible. It is reported that one train from the east became stalled within the city limits, and the passengers resorted to the street cars for transportation to their different hotels.

During the height of the storm yesterday morning a large frame store and dwelling on Ashdale avenue, just south of Danforth, owned by William Large, 93 Ashdale avenue, collapsed from the force of the strong wind. The roof was on and the windows in ready for the plasterers, who were going to start work. The building will be a total loss. It was worth about $2,000.

Bad In Hamilton.

Hamilton, Feb. 22.—The storm was the worst known here in years. Besides the heaviest fall of snow this winter, the wind blew a terrific gale, and at times reached a velocity of 40 miles an hour, driving the snow, and occasionally sleet, before it into the faces of pedestrians in stinging sheets, which made it well nigh impossible for them to see their way. Immense drifts of snow formed and effectually tied up all vehicular traffic yesterday afternoon, and almost put the street car service out of business. The street car people, however, struggled heroically and by pressing all their sweepers into service and running their cars in double-headers, managed to maintain an intermittent service.

While the storm raged at its height last night, the firemen were called out to two small blazes, which they found it hard work to reach.

Trains Hours Late.

Berlin, Feb. 22.—The worst blizzard of the winter has been raging here all day, and the wind and storm is not abating. The radial street car service was badly crippled, and some of the country roads are impassable. Trains are hours late.

In Kansas Tuesday.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Kansas City reports that sunshine and a temperature of from 25 to 30 degrees above zero over Kansas and Western Missouri yesterday brought relief from the blizzard of Tuesday, and railroads in general throughout that district are in most cases running trains practically on time. In southwest Missouri where traffic was demoralized, a semblance of order has been restored, but conditions in Western Kansas and Eastern Colorado, where three feet of snow fell, are not so good.

In St. Louis the snowfall was the heaviest ever recorded for the same length of time since the St. Louis weather bureau started to keep snow records in 1884.

Woman Leads Arabs.

London, Feb. 22.—Alan Osler, the special correspondent of The London Daily Express, with the Turkish army in Tripoli, writes:

"When the Arabs attacked the Italian infantry in the trenches of Gargaresh, two days ago, at their head was a figure cloaked and hooded, who carried no weapon but a staff of olive wood, whose voice ran high and shrill, and whose face, beneath a hood, was deep brown, almost black, with glittering eyes, square jaw and heavy nose, with widely distended nostrils. A collar of panther's teeth glistened against the broad, brown bosom.

"With a voice like a scream, this figure alternately menaced and exhorted the Arabs or shrieked out terrible curses against the Italians. The desert men swept up to the earthworks, and the leader, leaping into the trenches, stooped, plunged an arm elbow-deep in blood, and then stood with dripping right hand flung upwards, the statue of a goddess of African battle—for it was a woman, a Soudanese she-warrior, who fought in the ranks with the men.

"Her voice maddened the Arabs as only the voices of their women folk can. She was struck by a fragment of a shell in a charge, and went forward shaking her bleeding hand in the faces of the men, bidding them earn glorious wounds like her."

Reverse For Mexican Rebels.

Cuernavaca, Mexico, Feb. 22.—The rebels suffered a loss of 37 dead and six taken prisoners, while 11 rural guards were killed and nine wounded as the result of three sharp encounters between a force of rebels, from the State of Guerrero, under the command of Jesus Salgado, and a body of federal troops near Tlatlaya, on the southern boundary of Mexico State Tuesday. Salgado's force was driven back into the State of Guerrero by the federal troops with the loss of a large amount of munitions and a number of horses.

FAVORS THE RECALL.

Roosevelt Announces Position Regarding Judges.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 22.—Recommendations that judges be subject to removal by popular vote and that the judgment of a court declaring any statute to be unconstitutional should be subject to reversal by a referendum, together with a vigorous denunciation of the highest courts in the country, for their recent rulings in the Workmen's Compensation Acts, were among the salient features of an address delivered yesterday morning by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, before the Ohio Constitutional Convention.

Under the present constitution, a convention may be called at the end of every 20-year period, which may submit to the people a new constitution to become effective when adopted by a majority of the people. Much interest attaches to the present convention, because of the progressive policies which have come to the front during the past few years, and have made a deep impression upon the people of Ohio. Col. Roosevelt is a leading progressive, and his recommendations as to the new constitution have been eagerly anticipated. Yesterday he declared himself in favor of the initiative, the referendum and the recall of officials, including judges.

The trust evil was also discussed at length, and a Government regulation of the big corporations and Governmental control of prices were suggested as the only effective remedies. Col. Roosevelt also declared himself in favor of the "short ballot," the direct nomination, primaries for Presidential preferences, and the election of U. S. Senators by the people. He believed that judges should be liable to removal from office by a majority vote of the Legislature, and to the "recall," and with these safeguards saw no reason why they might not be appointed for long terms of service.

Col. Roosevelt cautioned the convention against putting shackles on the Legislature. The Legislature, he said, should have a free hand, otherwise all attempts at social betterment would probably be thwarted by judicial construction. He favored reducing the number of officers to be elected; few officers charged with great responsibilities could be kept under public inspection and their power for evil could be cut off at any time by the recall. He favored the initiative and the referendum, but thought they should be used sparingly.

The address was conservative in tone so far as dealing with the combinations was concerned. He did not believe that we could restore business conditions to what they were 100 years ago, any more than we could arm soldiers with flintlock muskets or build up an efficient navy with wooden ships. The combinations should not be harried because they were big; but they should be prevented from growing big by unlawful means. He saw no reason why the prices of their produce should not be as subject to Government regulations as are railway rates.

King George Did It.

Berlin, Feb. 22.—A highly optimistic account of the recent visit of Viscount Haldane, British Minister of War, to Berlin, and of the Anglo-German negotiations is given in an article published in the Lokal Anzeiger, which there is reason to believe is authoritative.

The credit of putting an end to the diplomatic tension between the two countries is ascribed personally to King George, who realized that the atmosphere was without doubt capable of being cleared up by frank discussion and took steps towards this end before his departure to India.

Railroads Score This Time.

Washington, Feb. 22.—A prolonged contest between railroads carrying coal to Atlantic tide water, particularly Norfolk, Va., and the New England Coal & Coke Co. of Boston, over the charges exacted by the rail carriers for trimming and levelling coal in the holds of ships, was ended by the Inter-State Commerce Commission yesterday, by a decision that the charge of three cents a ton for trimming and 4 1-2c. a ton for both dumping and trimming was reasonable.

The charge of 4 1-2 c. a ton by the Virginia Railroad for trimming alone was declared to be unreasonable so far as it exceeded three cents.

Mawson Gets Vancouver Contract.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Thomas H. Mawson, the British landscape artist, who addressed the Canadian Club of Ottawa a few months ago, has been appointed by the City of Vancouver to lay out Stanley Park there, according to news received here yesterday.

Stanley Park contains about 900 acres and is one of the finest in the world.

New King's Treasurer.

London, Feb. 22.—Captain the Hon. Frederick Edward Guest has been appointed treasurer of the King's household, replacing W. Dudley Ward, who has held that position since 1910. Mr. Ward resigned in order to better attend to his duties as Liberal whip.

It may be only a slight cold now—just a tickling in the throat.

But little colds soon grow large and dangerous. Often they become chronic, develop catarrh and end in consumption.

Catarrhozone is the remedy. It draws inflammation and soreness out of the throat. Relieves the cough, puts out the phlegm, makes breathing easy, kills any germs lodged in the mucous lining of the throat or lungs.

GREAT GAME TO-NIGHT
T. A. A. C. TEAM HERE

The announcement that the fast T.A.A.C. team of Toronto will be here to-night for an exhibition game with the Peterborough intermediates has been received with pleasure by the fans, and the probabilities are that a big crowd will see the game. The Athletic Club team made a good showing in the senior ranks this year, and we are the only team which has beaten the champion Estonias. They will have their best line-up here, and will undoubtedly be a tough morsel for Captain Park and his men. The latter, however, are in good shape, and the game promises to be the classiest exhibition of the season. The match is called for 8.30 o'clock sharp. The ice is lightning fast, the conditions suiting both teams thoroughly. Harvey Sproule, of Toronto, will handle the bell. The Peterborough team will line up as follows: Goal, Derocher; point, Bond; cover, Bearss; rover, Giroux; centre, Park; right wing, Coughlin; left wing, Kelly.

Harry Clancy, of the Bear Cats, may be tried out on the forward line in the second half. Denison, who went on to Midland from Orillia to see the Preston game last night, is snowbound somewhere in the north, and will not be able to reach Peterborough to-day.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR PETERBOROUGH TEAM IN THE CANADIAN BALL LEAGUE

The Hamilton Spectator says:

Official notice has been received by M. M. Robinson, secretary of the Canadian Baseball League, from Secretary Farrell, of the National Commission, to the effect that the Canadian League has been granted C class rating. It was announced some time ago that the application would be granted to the league owing to the fact that Ottawa and Peterborough had been admitted, which fact provided more than the necessary circuit population for a C class league.

All around the circuit the managers and men behind the guns are hustling, and there is great competition between the helmsmen in securing players. Many good tidings of likely looking youngsters have been going the rounds and it is a lively race between the bosses to get there first. Commercial travellers who visit the cities on the route claim that more enthusiasm than ever is manifested by the fans and predict a great year for the league. Bill Harper, one of the knights of the grip, who covers the east, speaking of the situation in Ottawa, said that the people in the capital are baseball mad and cannot wait for the opening day. He also says that Manager Shaughnessy is a hustler and has a good knowledge of the game and knows a player when he sees him.

Shaughnessy has written to M. M. Robinson to the effect that he has drafted a schedule during his spare moments. The schedule drafted by the Ottawa man is not the one which the league will be bound to accept, but is only being prepared by the Ottawa manager for matter of assistance to the league magnates. The peculiar geographical situation of the Capital City may cause the secretary and the schedule committee some little trouble when drafting the playing dates, and the Ottawa man has merely drafted the affair so that the job of drawing up an official schedule will be made easier.

M. M. Robinson will visit Peterborough this week for the purpose of completing the details of formation in that city. The eastern city will have a good team and the people down there are eager to get in line at once. A good man has been mentioned as leader of the club and several good players are at this time under consideration.

When the Peterborough situation has been settled the league will meet. The meeting will take place in this city, and a schedule will be drawn up and other business relative to the organization will be gone on with. President J. P. Fitzgerald has about completed the task of selecting his umpires for the season, and will make a report at the meeting. Applications were received from some of the best indicator manipulators in the country, and a good staff is assured.

MEETING ON SATURDAY TO DISCUSS BALL SITUATION

There will be a meeting of those interested in the formation of a stock company to operate a Peterborough team in the Canadian Professional Baseball League at 9 o'clock on Saturday night in the Oriental Hotel. Secretary M. M. Robinson, of the Canadian League, will be here, and it is probable that he will be accompanied by President Fitzgerald and Knotty Lee, manager of the Hamilton Club. The prospects are very bright, as far as the Peterborough end is concerned, and a large attendance on Saturday night will cinch matters.

CAMPBELLFORD AND T. A. S. MEET TO-MORROW NIGHT

As a result of the defeat of T.A.S. in Campbellford on Tuesday night, the two teams are tied for the district and will decide their differences by home and home games, the first here to-morrow night and the second in Campbellford on Tuesday. There will be a big crowd at Brock st. Rink to-morrow night for the first battle. Campbellford are running a special train, and will bring half the town up with them. It should be one grand game. The Campbellford aggregation has improved every time out and will give the Abstainers a tough fight all through the episode to-morrow night. The Abstainers are confident, however, of getting a lead big enough to carry them through the group. The game is called for 8.30 o'clock.

CONTRACTED HEAVY COLD

Was In Bed Two Months.

DOCTORS DID NOT SEEM TO DO HER ANY GOOD.

A cold, however slight, should never be neglected, for if it is not treated in time it will, in all possibility, lead to bronchitis, pneumonia, asthma, or some other serious throat or lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains the lung healing virtues of the Norway Pine tree, which, combined with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines, makes it without a doubt the best remedy for all coughs and colds.

Miss N. McCumber, St. Martin's N.B., writes:—"In January last I contracted a heavy cold which kept me in bed nearly two months, and the doctors didn't seem to be able to do me any good. I tried several proprietary medicines, but all in vain. One day a friend advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and when I had taken three bottles I was completely cured, and I feel as well to-day as I ever did, and I am sure my lungs are once more sound, thanks to that wonderful remedy."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.

The Bear Cats' Great Showing

The Bear Cats are out for the season after having made the best showing a Peterborough junior team has accomplished in thirteen seasons. The youngsters deserve all kinds of credit for their great record during the season, their feat of reaching the semi-finals being the nearest to a championship Peterborough has been since 1908. They won their district without a loss, capturing three games away from home in a week and then walloped the much-touted Trenton team. By their work away from home the kids have demonstrated that their title of Bear Cats is no misnomer. Foreign crowds or ice surfaces have no terrors for them, and in every game away from they have shown grand form. Their showing in Orillia was sufficient to prove the contention that it was the weatherman and not the Orillia Club who knocked the Bear Cats out of the running. Six goals behind on the round, and playing before a crowd who told them that they were going to be beaten fifteen or twenty goals, the plucky little band buckled to their work with such a vigour that the Younkers' supporters were dumbfounded. To reach the semi-finals, and win seven out of ten games, with a team, five of whom were new to the O. H. A. is indeed a gallant record and to the eight youngsters who took part in the games all kinds of credit should be given.

PETERBORO' LOST FIRST ROUND OF COMPETITION

Orillia Wins Round by 11 Shots—Local Bonspiel Will Commence Next Week

Peterborough got their first bumps in the Neil-Sheppard Cup competition yesterday, when they were defeated on their own ice by eleven shots. The first round was played with four rinks aside, on excellent ice. Skip Waddell's rink of Peterborough, played a whirlwind of a game, putting up a lot of strong combinations. The Fitzgerald rink also held up their good record. The local rink, skipped by W. J. Thompson, took a fall and was snowed under by sixteen shots, as also was Skip S. T. Medd's rink, which was defeated by six points. Following is a summary of the games, which wer played in the afternoon:

The Orillia curlers left for home on the 5.35 p. m. train yesterday. They are confident of annexing the silverware, but their victory in this respect, does ot gain much credence among the Peterborough curlers, who expect to turn the tables on their opponents in the second round of the competition, which will be played in Orillia about the first of next week.

The draw for the local Bonspiel will be made on Saturday evening. In all probability the Bonspiel will commence the first of the week.

Mr. Murton Storey recently attended the winter races at Brighton and carried off one of the races, driving "The Ace," owned by Mr. John N. Johnston, of Port Hope. "The Ace" was by "Queen's Baron," a horse that attracted a good deal of attention throughout the district. "The Ace" is not much more than a colt, but gives promise of a good future. Mr. Storey drove a good race, handling the reins in a finished manner. Mr. J. N. Johnston is a brother of Dr. Johnston of this city, and is also a veterinary.

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had be n falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

MAJORITY FOR CHURCH UNION

Voting in Several Districts Results in Favour of the Movement

Belleville, Feb. 21.—The Quarterly Board of Bridge Street Methodist Church met last night and voted on church union, the result being twenty-three for and one against.

The Quarterly Board of Holloway Street Church also voted last night, fourteen for and two against.

Last week the Quarterly Board of the Tabernacle voted in favour of union, but a meeting of the congregation is to be held to consider the subject.

Newcastle, Feb. 21.—The Official Board of the Orono Methodist circuit voted on the question of church union twenty-two for and two against it.

Millbrook, Feb. 21.—The vote of the Official Board of the Methodist Church showed seventeen in favour and one opposed to the union of the churches.

The vote of the Official Board of the Cavan Methodist circuit showed the twenty-two members unanimously in favour of union.

Picton, Feb. 21.—At a meeting of the Official Board of Adolphstown circuit held at Hayburn a vote was taken on union and resulted thirteen for and one again. Adolphustown circuit is the real cradle of Methodism in Canada, the first church there being now over a century old.

A BAD STORM

out to-morrow. This means that a gang of men will have to be engaged, and once more it must be said that it is an ill wind, etc. The snow ploughs were out early this morning, and had the walks in as good a condition as could be expected. Some drifts were too much for the small ploughs, and in other places the snow had passed. "We have the ploughs out this afternoon," Mr. Evans said, "but we cannot hope to do much until the storm abates. There will be considerable shovelling to be done, but there is no use in beginning it while the wind is high.

Trouble at Niagara

Niagara Falls, Feb. 22.—The big storm brought huge quantities of ice down the river and a blockade of power plants may result in serious disturbance to the hydro-electric power system all over western Ontario.

Storm General.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—From Lake Erie to the St. Lawrence River, and from the Great Lakes to Temiskaming come despatches this morning telling the same story of snowbound roads, and demoralized traffic, undoubtedly the worst blockade for years. Some cases are very serious. Cities and towns in Western Ontario have been cut off for twenty-four hours from outside communication. The hydro electric and other power services are out of business. Near Belmont a snow plough left the track, and three Woodstock men were hurt.

Election Blizzard.

Renfrew, Ont., Feb. 22.—Polling in South Renfrew opened this morning in a raging blizzard, huge drifts piling up the railroads and crossroads. Every horse in the county was pressed into service. One or other automobiles are of little use.

Renfrew is very much excited this morning over the discovery that there was nearly a terrible disaster at the Laurier meeting in the town hall Monday. The big gallery, which was crowded every inch, has sagged one foot in the centre. Loud cracks were heard Monday night, but no attention was paid. At the last minute opinion on the prospects of the election is that the candidates are running neck and neck.

Services Demoralized.

Later inquiries from the G. T. R. officials this afternoon reveal the fact that the service in this district is badly demoralized. The morning train from Belleville here was cancelled, as was the afternoon train, leaving here at 1.40 for Belleville. The Lakefield train leaving at noon was called off and of course there will be no train from Lakefield tonight. The train due here from Toronto at 11.34, had not arrived at three o'clock, while the train leaving here for Toronto had only reached Best's Station at 2 o'clock, a distance of six miles, in about six hours.

Railwaymen Lost.

LONDON, ONT., FEB. 22.—Fifteen railway men have been lost in the big snow drifts nine miles south of London since late yesterday afternoon, and all efforts to get to them have proved unsuccessful. The parties have no food, and with one of the most terrible blizzards of the season raging their position is very serious. A special rescue party with big snow plough and four mgul engines have left the city and is now trying to get to them. The traffic all through the district is at a standstill, and in northern towns, where the coal supply is running low on account of the blockade, the situation is serious.

Peterborough Train Stalled.

BELLEVILLE, ONT., FEB. 22.—The city and vicinity is in the grip of a blizzard, which is demoralizing business. On the line of the Midland division of the G.T.R. trains are cancelled. The Peterborough train proceeded as far as Corbyville, where it is stalled.

Arthur Hawkes And British Born

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I saw in last night's evening paper our British born friend Arthur Hawkes is back from the old country, and he has just found out that thousands of boys are moving away to Australia. Does Arthur Hawkes think that British-born boys are coming out here to work from Monday morning till Saturday, six o'clock evening, for a week's work for little money? Look at the price of things and rent to-day.

When Australia can give better wages and shorter hours to the working man, I guess Arthur can get everything he wants under this governments. But the poor boys are next door to the big house.—Yours, etc.,

GRAHAM IS ELECTED

South Renfrew Liberals Stick to Their Colours

POLLING IN A BLIZZARD

Renfrew, Feb. 23.—South Renfrew honour is saved. The electors of this riding have chosen Hon. George P. Graham, and in so doing have rebuked the North Renfrew, Brockville and Ottawa men, including members of the Cabinet and of Parliament, who forced the breaking of the agreement made by the Liberals and Conservatives of the riding to return Mr. Graham unopposed if Mr. T. W. McGarry was elected to the Legislature by acclamation. The Borden Government lost its first bye-election, and Hon. Frank Cochrane will have to face his predecessor in the Department of Railways and Canals.

All the Conservative party can shew for a solid thirty days of strenuous work is a reduced Liberal majority estimated to be in the neighborhood of 300. Two hundred and ninety-three votes, with five polls to hear from, is Hon. Mr. Graham's majority.

One of the most fiercely fought bye-elections in recent political history was consummated when the returns, incomplete on account of the stormy conditions which prevailed all through the riding, announced that Hon. Mr. Graham, who was promised an unopposed election in South Renfrew in return for the unanimous return of T. W. McGarry to the Legislature, and then had to fight for it tooth and nail to obtain his seat after all.

Dr. Maloney did well in Arnprior, where he secured a lead of 122, but this was almost offset by Wilno, which gave Graham 111. At Renfrew the ex-Minister pulled out a lead of 128. Of 35 polling divisions heard from last night, 26 gave majorities to Graham. Divisions which gave majorities to Maloney were at Deeze, 21; Hyndford, 17; Kullaloe Station, 35; Sandpoint, 9; Mansfield, 12; School No. 9, 24; Palmer Rapid, 4; Arnprior, 122; Rockingham, 26; Eganville, 32; and Grattan, 86.

His supporters in Renfrew and, in fact, all through the riding, threw up their hats when they heard the news, and in speeches and brass band serenades their joy found outward expression. That they had won a notable victory of far more than local interest, they were by no means loath to state and they were equally ready to denounce the methods alleged to have been employed by their opponents.

The returns were, on account of the extent and widely separated nature of the constituency, necessarily very incomplte. In many cases only the majorities in the different polls could be secured, while five polling stations in outlying sections are still to be heard from. Mr. Graham's majority as at present indicated is 293, a figure which the remaining polls will substantially effect. The majority obtained for Mr. Low was 619.

Niagara Peninsula Feels It.

Port Colborne, Feb. 23.—The worst storm of the winter prevailed here yesterday, gales reached 70 miles an hour, with snow and low temperature, practically demoralized business. Cars were unroofed in the yard of the cement company's plant here. Windmills were blown down and many windows broken and blown in; all trains hours late, and several on the Grand Trunk division canceled. The Niagara trolley line is completely out of business.

Belleville Snowbound.

Belleville, Feb. 23.—This city is in the grip of the worst storm in years. The wind blew a gale and the falling snow was piled up in great heaps.

The country roads leading into the city, especially those north and south, are filled. On the line of the Midland Railway, a branch of the G.T.R. here, all trains were canceled. An effort was made to take a light train to Peterboro with two engines, but it became stalled in the snow. All business during the day was at a standstill.

QUESTIONS ARE READY

Borden Prepares Stated Case on Marriage Laws

TARIFF BOARD BILL UP

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The Cabinet has prepared the stated questions which will be submitted to the courts to settle the jurisdiction of the Dominion and the Provincial Governments on marriage in Canada. The form of the questions was finally decided upon by the Cabinet yesterday and the order-in-council was signed by the Governor-General last night. The questions will be laid on the table of the House to-day and will be submitted immediately to the Supreme Court so that there can be no delay in arguing the case and a decision can be reached at the present sitting of the court.

When the Supreme Court decision is rendered it will be sent to the Imperial Privy Council and the Government hopes to have a definite decision within a year. Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., Toronto, will be the main counsel for the Government. The provinces will also have the right to be represented.

Mr. Nesbitt will not argue the case pro and con, but will point out the subject in the dispute the Dominion Government wished settled.

As was announced in the House by Premier Borden at the time of the debate on the bill introduced by E. A. Lancaster, his measure has been made part of the case. The courts are asked to decide whether Parliament has the right to enact the bill or not, and, if not the whole bill, which of the provisions. The questions are in regard to the validity of marriages contracted in Quebec.

The questions, as submitted to the Supreme Court, are as follows:

1. Has the Parliament of Canada authority to enact in whole or in part bill No. 3 of the first session of the twelfth Parliament of Canada entitled "An act to amend the Marriage Act."

The bill provides as follows: 1. The Marriage Act, chapter 105 of the revised statutes, 1906, is amended by adding thereto the following section:

Every ceremony, or form of marriage, heretofore or hereafter performed by any person authorized to perform any ceremony of marriage by the laws of the place where it is performed, and duly performed according to such laws, shall everywhere within Canada be deemed to be a valid marriage, notwithstanding any differences in the religious faith of the persons so married and without regard to the religion of the person performing the ceremony.

2. "The rights and duties, as married people, of the respective persons married as aforesaid, and of the children of such marriage shall be absolute and complete, and no law or canonical decree or custom of or in any province of Canada, shall have any force or effect to invalidate or qualify any such marriage or any of the rights of the said persons or their children in any manner whatever.

(b) If the provisions of the said bill are not all within the authority of the Parliament of Canada to enact, which, if any, of the provisions are within such authority?

3. Does the law of the Province of Quebec render null and void, unless contracted before a Roman Catholic priest, a marriage that would otherwise be legally binding, which takes place in such province?

(a) Between persons who are both Roman Catholics, or (b) between persons one of whom, only, is a Roman Catholic.

4. If either (a) or (b) of the last preceding question is answered in the affirmative, or if both of them are answered in the affirmative, has the Parliament of Canada authority to enact that all such marriages whether, (a) heretofore solemnized, or (b) hereafter to be solemnized, shall be legal and binding.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley appeared in the role of a peacemaker yesterday afternoon.

The House was in committee on the tariff commission bill.

Geo. W. Kyte (Richmond, N.S.) introduced a "mandatory" amendment compelling that body "to hear the evidence of persons who appear before them for the purpose of making a voluntary statement and who have not been so summoned."

Hon. W. T. White said that to take up their work intelligently, the commission must control their own procedure.

Hon. Wm. Pugsley had an amendment which he thought would satisfy all parties: "The commissioners shall also give reasonable opportunity to persons who may not have been so summoned to appear before them and give evidence on any matter under enquiry by the commission."

Hon. W. T. White made an amendment on similar lines, and it carried.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley later introduced the following amendment which was voted down by 24 to 80.

"The said commissioners shall submit all the information, including the evidence which was taken, to the Minister of Finance, who shall lay it before Parliament within ten days after the opening of the next ensuing session."

"Everything must send day come to an end."

"I guess you've never had a woman start a talk with you over the phone."—Pittsburgh Press.

MARRIAGE IS UPHELD

Ne Temere Powerless Says Judge Charbonneau

NO EFFECT ON CIVIL LAW

Montreal, Feb. 23.—Judge Charbonneau delivered his finding yesterday on the motion made last December in connection with the case of Emma Clouatre, Dale River, Mass., and Eugene Hebert, of this city, two Roman Catholics, whose marriage by a Methodist minister in 1908 in Point St. Charles, Montreal, was annulled by Archbishop Bruchesi, head of the Catholic Heirarchy here, on the grounds that according to the ne temere decree of the church, Catholics could only be married by their parish priest or ordinary, which dissolution was afterwards ratified civilly by Judge Laurendeau in the High Court.

Mrs. Hebert sought to have it established by Judge Charbonneau that Judge Laurendeau was wrong when he found that the ecclesiastical law governed the civil marriage law, that the discontinuance of participation in the suit by Hebert when her application was made did not reverse the judge's finding, and her marriage was legal and her child legitimate according to the laws of the province.

The judge reversed Judge Laurendeau's decision, holding that any officer qualified by the state to perform marriages could marry couples of whatever faith, that the ne temere decree had no civil effect and was binding on the consciences of Roman Catholics only, and that therefore the marriage of Eugene Hebert and Emma Clouatre was valid and binding.

After a long review of the facts of the case Judge Charbonneau went into its merits and said that the plaintiff did not ask by his action that the marriage tie be annulled as to the marriage tie, but simply that the episcopal decree declaring the nullity be recognized by the court, and that consequently the marriage be annulled as to its civil effects. The learned judge then quoted articles of the code to show that as no bad faith on the part of the defendant had been established the marriage could not be annulled as to its civil effects. Commenting on the episcopal decree, which was maintained by the first judgment, his lordship said:

"It must be noted that the annulling of the marriage is the exercise of judicial power; whether such exercise be called a decree or a judgment, it is to the same effect; judicial power is a part of public authority and can be conferred only by the law, which entrusts the functions thereof to a certain class of citizens, acting ex officio and by the crown, according to certain laws enacted by the legislative power to that effect. This authority is not here given in the code, nor in the laws proceeding it so far back as the Conquest. As all judicial authority disappeared with the change of allegiance, it would be useless to go beyond the Cession to see what was the jurisdiction of the bishops in such matters or what was the officiality under the old French law."

After stating that this question is now hardly contested, and referring to judgments of the Court of Review rendered in the same sense, the learned judge quotes the following summary of the principles governing the matter as laid down by Justice Cozeau in a case of La Rue vs. Burgess:

"This marriage, or, if you prefer it, this contract, has no other existence but that given it by human law; civil justice adjudicates as to its validity. The action of the civil courts as to said marriage is perfectly independent of all other authorities, even religious authorities."

The learned judge then remarks as follows: "That decree has, therefore, no legal value whatever. It would not even be of any use as proof of one of the judicial facts needed to establish a case, not being in the form of a document to which the law gives any authentic value or in the form of evidence given under oath by an expert in the matter. We should, therefore, conclude that the first part of the Laurendeau judgment confirming the ecclesiastical decree was unfounded in law and that the second part, concerning the civil effect of the marriage, was unfounded as to facts, since there was no proof of that faith, and was also unfounded in law, since the marriage had not been annulled or declared null, either by the religious authority, which was not competent, or by the court to whom this had not been asked.

Then came the main point at issue, and the judge said: "The question in this case is to know whether two Catholics, presenting a license can validly be married before the minister of a Protestant sect, or must be united by the Cure of their parish after previous publication in said parish, or dispensation by the Catholic religious authorities, in a word, is there respected jurisdiction or concurrent jurisdiction of all officers authorized to keep the civil registers, and can the crown license dispense with the publication of banns for Catholics as well as the other religious denominations."

For more than an hour Judge Charbonneau read his judgment in French, in the presence of a large crowd, including many persons prominent in the church and in law, who hung on his words with intense interest. The judge, in delivering this, one of the most important judgments in the legal annals of Canada, preserved an impassive exterior.

The judgment covered nearly sixty typewritten folios, and is notable for its clearness, logic and strength. Reference to the code, the statutes and other authorities are given to guide or support his contentions.

That it will stand even an appeal to the Privy Council, should such be made, is probable, for his lordship—himself intended for the church before he took to law—has taken extraordinary care in the preparation of his decision, and his reputation is that no decision he has rendered has ever been upset by a reference to the supreme tribunal in London.

Counsel for Hebert—the latter a railway employe, of uncertain address—says that an appeal will be taken but it is probably a matter for further consideration. It is not likely that the church authorities will—openly, at any rate—cause an appeal to be taken, because, so far as the church is concerned, the Hebert marriage continues annulled, no matter what the civil view is.

Judge Charbonneau said that the plaintiff (Hebert) did not ask by his action that the marriage be annulled as to the marriage tie, but simply that the episcopal decree declaring the nullity be recognized by the court and that consequently the marriage be annulled as to its civil effects. The judge then quoted articles of the code to show that if no bad faith on the part of the defendant be established the marriage could not be annulled as to its civil effects.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

A milk and coal famine is threatened in various Ontario cities as a result of the storm.

Announcement was made at the Printers' Congress that Quebec is to have a printers' school.

Incendiarism is believed to have been the cause of a fire which partially destroyed a garage of Dr. Fred. Wigmett's residence at 305 Sherbourne street, Toronto, entailing a damage of $1,000.

Calgary was chosen at Toronto yesterday for the next Dominion Builders' Exchange convention. J. W. Morley of Winnipeg is the new Dominion, and G. S. Gould, London, the Ontario president.

The royal decree proclaiming the annexation of Tripolitania and Cyrenaica was presented yesterday by Premier Giolett in the Italian Parliament. Patriotic speeches were made and scenes of enthusiasm ensued.

A startling feature of the Privy Council decision against Winnipeg in favor of the Street Railway Co., developed yesterday, when the city solicitor's department said it will not only affect Winnipeg, but also every other city or municipality in Manitoba.

Brockville Cut Off.

Brockville, Feb. 23.—This section has just passed through the worst blizzard of many years. There was an unusually heavy snow fall, accompanied by a stiff gale, piling up drifts which have completely blocked the roads.

Communication with the rural section has been practically cut off and for 24 hours not a train has moved on the B., W. & N.W. Railway.

A plow sent out from here became stalled in drifts 15 feet deep west of Lyn and had to be dug out.

It is thought that nearly all the cuts will have to be cleared by shovelers before the service can be resumed. The blockade is one of the worst the company ever experienced.

THE SIMPLE LIFE

Centenarian Attributes Long Life to Plain Living and Hard Work.

Miss Caroline A. White, whose literary reputation dates from mid-Victorian days, has been celebrating her 101st birthday at her home at Upper Norwood, England. She lives in a half-bowed quietude, content and happy in the enjoyment of the refined atmosphere which a life of literary culture has drawn about her.

As she related in an interview, Miss White spent her younger days in Ireland but she returned to England at the age of 20 years. The boat was a fortnight in sailing from Cork to London.

Having to make her own way in the world, Miss White decided to try literature as a profession.

"I began," she said, "by sending some specimens of my work to Tom Hood, who was always most kind and sympathetic to young writers. I asked him to tell me plainly whether he thought I might hope to succeed, or whether I had better throw writing and turn to something else. His answer was most encouraging. He told me to keep on writing and read all I possibly could.

"Fortified by this opinion, I sent my first contribution to Douglas Jerrold's 'Shilling Magazine'. It was accepted and from that time I never had a paper returned either from that journal or 'Ainsworth's Magazine'. In the middle of last century, I became editress of the 'Ladies Companion' a shilling monthly. For sixteen years I carried this on, when the death of the proprietor brought its publication to an end.

"I was never in close association with Tom Hood, but I am proud to think that I was the means of getting a monument erected in his memory. Some time after his death, I went to Kensal Green Cemetery to see his grave, but could not find it. An attendant came and pointed out the place to me. It was in a dreadfully neglected condition, without a stone or mark of any description. I wrote a paper of the subject which was published in 'Eliza Cook's Journal' but without my signature. Miss Cook took the matter up and the result was a subscription sufficient to put the grave into good condition and erect the monument which marks the burial place of one of the kindest of men."

Miss White's one book, "Sweet Hampstead," ran to a second edition. It dealt with the historic, literary and artistic associations of London's northern suburb. The veteran authoress attributes her health to plain living and hard work, to leading a simple natural life outdoors as much as possible.

GERMAN LOTTERIES

Every Class of the Community Patronizes the Get Rich Quick Scheme

Almost every German kingdom and state has its official lottery, while a concession can usually be obtained for holding one by properly accredited charitable or other public organizations. Lotteries are of two kinds, the "money" kind and the "value" kind, the prizes in the first being ready cash with 16 per cent. off for the State, and in the second, articles of value such as horses, carriages, motor-cars, pictures, and wines. The Prussian State lottery is an institution bringing in a revenue of $9,000,000, while Bavaria Saxony, Wurtemberg, Baden and other States derive from their lotteries similar though not so great advantages. The lotteries are patronized by every class of community, not so much in the gambling as the "get-rich-quick" spirit; the price of a whole ticket is $50, but half, a quarter, or an eighth can be bought at any street corner, and thousands of German families have, in some cases always purchasing the same number, played the lottery for generations. From time to time protests are raised in the various legislatures against the immoralities of lotteries, but as it is a state principle never to advertise them and in practice whole tickets are only bought by the well-to-do, while several persons of the poorer classes join together to purchase the fractional parts, no great harm arises and the protests have hitherto had no effect.

Fearful Headaches

Stomach Bad, No Appetite, Was Losing Weight and Strength

Wonderful Change When Health Was Restored by

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Headache is a symptom and not a disease in itself. It acts as a danger signal to warn you of serious trouble.

By reading Mr. Donneral's letter you wil be satisfied that there is no treatment to be compared to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of building up the system and removing the cause of headaches, sleeplessness and indigestion.

Mr. Charles Donneral, Kleinburg, Ont., writes: "I wish to communicate to you the great cure which I received from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food For over two years I suffered from fearful headaches, my appetite was always poor, and the stomach bad. I took medicines from physicians, but the headaches persisted, and I was rarely free from them.

"Reading about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I began using it, with little idea that I would be benefitted. I had become thin and weak, but the very first box helped me, and with continued treatment I have been cured and feel like a new man. The headaches have disappeared, y appetite is good and digestion excellent. I write this letter in hope that other sufferers from headache may use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and be cured."

FOOD IN THEOLOGY?

The Judge in a London District Decided in Favor of Sermons.

The enormous advance in the value of land in West Ham, London, has proved a source of embarrassment to a charity in that neighborhood, and the other day the Supreme Court was asked to decide whether the charity's surplus should be devoted towards the provision of food or theology. The Judge decided for theology.

In 1580, during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, one Avenon bequeathed to trustees a small plot of land at Plaistow upon trust to provide a sum of 5 pounds 4 shillings a year for supplying the poor of the parish with 24 penny loaves a week, any balance to be devoted to the preaching of a sermon in the parish church. The value of land in the neighborhood has greatly increased the balance of the fund, which is now over 300 pounds a year.

Under these circumstances the question arose whether that balance should be applied for ecclesiastical or charitable purposes. His lordship, took the view that the testator contemplated that the gift for the sermon should be a fluctuating sum, whereas the gift for the loaves was a fixed sum. The gift for the sermon was capable of increase or decrease where as the gift for the loaves was not, so in the future also the poor of this very poor district will as heretofore only get their 24 penny loaves a week, but no end of sermons.

More Secret History.

Colonel Maude, speaking at the Authors' Club dinner, said the one thing that kept the peace of Europe, some time ago, was that the French General Staff knew that England was prepared to send six divisions across the Channel. The French Generalissimo in the war to come, General Langlois, came over privately to England and reported the result of the investigations. He laid it down as a fact that even with the state of the Territorials as they were then—a new force—England could do all she had promised to do. That was what kept the peace of Europe.

Crazy for Horses.

Sentence of six months' imprisonment was passed by the Windsor magistrates on Sidney Ward, twenty-three, charged with theft and false pretences. It was stated by his solicitor that Ward, after joining the Yeomanry, developed a craze for horses, and would have given anything in order to possess one and be able to hunt. The police stated that Ward's misdeeds in one year cost his father $1,000, and alleged that he had imposed upon the tradesmen of several towns.

Danger of One-Roomed Dwelling.

The official report on the first year's working of compulsory notification of consumption in Glasgow shows the danger of the one and two-roomed dwelling. The percentage of population occupying houses of one apartment was 13.7, with a phthisis percentage (in notifications) of 2.15, while the 45.8 per cent. living in two-roomed houses had a rate of 54.1. Nearly 20 per cent. of the people lived in houses of three apartments, and showed a rate of 16.4—a considerable decrease, which becomes strongly marked when it is seen that 17.9 per cent. of the people living in houses of four apartments and upwards yielded a rate of only 8.0.

BITTEN BY POLAR BEARS.

Because he was bitten by polar bears at the "Zoo," Donald Haigh, 11 years old, has been awarded $500 damages by the Halifax County Court against the Halifax Zoo Company. It was alleged that polar bears at the "Zoo" were kept in a cage not reasonably protected, in that it was so placed upon the ground that children could get to the bars through which the bears were able to put their paws. Haigh picked up a piece of bread lying near the cage and one of the bears caught his hand and pulled his arm inside the cage. The boy's arm was bitten by two bears. The muscles were injured, and permanent injury is feared.

FACE WAS LITERALLY COVERED WITH PIMPLES.

Four Different Doctors Did Her No Good.

Two Bottles of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS Cured Her.

Bad blood is directly the cause of the face breaking out in pimples, and it is impossible to eradicate them unless you put your blood into good shape

Burdock Blood Bitters is compounded from roots, herbs, barks and berries, and is without a doubt the best remedy procurable for the purpose of driving all the blood impurities out of the system.

Mr. Geo. E. Miller, Clavering, Ont., writes:—"Last fall I was very much troubled with pimples. My face was literally covered with them. I went to four different doctors, but they could do me no good. One day a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters, so I got two bottles, and before I had taken all the first one, the pimples had nearly all disappeared, and by the time I had taken all the second one the pimples had disappeared completely, thanks to Burdock Blood Bitters. I would advise anybody who is troubled with any blood trouble to use Burdock Blood Bitters.

NOVEL EGG STEAMER.

Attractive Cooking Device Which Can be Used on Table.

Since the use of the chafing dish has become so general, cooking utensils that can be used at the table have come into great demand, and new ones are being invented continually. One of the newest is the egg steamer or boiler designed by a New York man and shown in the illustration. This is all of nickeled ware and makes a good appearance. At the base of the frame is an alcohol lamp, and in the top of the frame sets the pan that holds the water. In the top of this pan sets a tray with openings to hold the eggs, and a handle by means of which the tray may be lifted out and stood on the table on the little legs it carries for that purpose. A dome-like lid covers the whole utensil and retains the steam. If the eggs are to be boiled the pan must, of course, contain more water than if they are steamed, but one process is as easy as the other with this device.

THE FITNESS OF THINGS

French Women Leave the Brilliance of Flowers to the Girls.

Parisiennes have an innate sense of the fitness of things. If you glance round a room at a big evening reception you will find very few women wearing flowers. They feel that once past their first youth their complexions cannot stand the brilliance of the flowers. Some women will wear violets, white or mauve, some will pin a brown and gold chrysanthemum on one side of their low bodice, but never will you see a woman over thirty wearing roses. Roses are left to the young girls, or to very young women in white dresses, who pin them at the waist. The neck is simply outlined by the low-cut bodice without the bloom of flowers to mar the effect of their skin. Marie Antoinette at five-and-twenty, when she was a young and beautiful woman, was afraid to pin a flower to her dress. And she was right.

RECORD CASKET FOR BIG MAN

It is 40 Inches Wide and 30 Inches Deep, and Heavily Built.

The largest casket ever built in Ontario was shipped to Louisville from Chatham for the burial of Alvin Merritt, the 610-pound shopkeeper. The casket is so large that the outside rough box would scarcely pass through the freight car doors.

The coffin was 6 feet in length, 3 feet 4 inches in width, and its depth 2 feet 6 inches. There were eight heavy handles on the coffin, and under it were four heavy oak cross-bars, each braced with stout steel braces. A draped dray had to be used as a hearse.

The grave is 7 feet 6 inches long by 5 feet in width.

FAMOUS CHILD RULERS

Infants in Europe Who Have Had the Title Sovereign.

There have been a remarkably large number of young sovereigns in European history, who commenced their reigns when mere boys, often when little more than infants. Louis XIV. and Louis XV. of France, for instance, were each but five years old when they succeeded to the throne, and Louis XIII. was only nine. Ten child monarchs are prominent in British history. They include Henry III., who began to reign at the age of ten, Edward II., Richard II., Henry VIII., and Edward VI. Henry VI. was scarcely eight when he was made King, and Queen Victoria was a girl of eighteen when the news was brought her that she was Queen of the British dominions.

TRAMPED 60 MILES TO SAVE HIS CHUM

LARDER LAKE, ONT., MARCH 26th, 1911.

"I am writing to tell you the good GIN PILLS did me. I had been suffering for some time with my Kidneys and Urine. I was constantly passing water which was very scanty, sometimes as many as thirty times a day. Each time, the pain was something awful and no rest at night. I began to feel worn out. I heard of your GIN PILLS and decided to give them a trial at once. I sent my chum out to get them (about 60 miles) —and I am pleased to inform you that in less than six hours, I felt relief. In two days, the pain had left me altogether. I took about half a box and to-day I feel as well as ever and my Kidneys are acting quite natura again. Thanking you for the pills which I always intend to keep by me. Yours respectfully,

SID CASTLEMAN.

WELCOME RELIEF.

We have never received a letter that pleased us more than this one. CANADIAN PEAT BOGS

Said to Have a Fuel Value of Fourteen Billion Tons of Coal.

The known peat bogs of Canada are estimated to cover an area of approximately 36,000 square miles, from which about 82,000,000,000 tons of air-dried peat could be produced. This is said to be equal in fuel value to some 14,000,000,000 tons of coal. To encourage the utilization of these resources, a peat bog of 300 acres, with an average depth of 8 feet, has been acquired by the Canadian Government at Alfred, near Caledonia Springs, Prescott County. About five miles of ditches have been dug, and a storage shed to hold 300 tons of air-dried peat, a blacksmith's shop, and an office have been built. It is estimated that the erection of a peat plant capable of producing 30 tons of air-dried peat daily should not cost very much, and since workable peat bogs are scattered throughout the farming regions of Ontario and Quebec, the most economical plan for utilizing this fuel would be the erection of a number of plants at convenient points, to be operated in the interests of the neighboring communities.

WOMAN AND THE MAN

Most Women in Jail are Married While Men are Unmarried

An enquiry shows that nearly all the women in the Montreal jail are women who have recently been married, while nearly all the men are unmarried.

This, as nearly every woman will see at a glance, is a very bad showing for the men. It seems to mean that the influence of a women on a man is to make a good citizen of him and keep him out of jail, where, had he remained single, he might have arrived. It seems to mean that man's influence on woman is not good, since those women in jail are drawn from the ranks of those who married.

Of course, it does not do to generalise on figures procured from one jail on one particular day, but the above inferences may not be far astray. Some day we may learn from supplementary revelations or from the work of higher critics that Eve was not nearly so much to blame as made to appear by inspired male historians.—The Star.

SALT AND PEPPER BOX

Shaker of Each Kind Joined Together by Set of Plates.

A device for transforming a salt and a pepper shaker into a combination utensil, so that both may be used simultaneously, has been invented by a Kansas man. The boxes themselves are of the ordinary cylindrical type, but each has a thumb lever on the side. A set of plates consists of one that fits across the top and another that runs down the side of the shakers when they are placed together. The top plate has two circular holes that fit over the neck of the boxes after the tops have been removed. The tops are then screwed down again. To make the connection even firmer, the side plate has slots in it and the thumb levers pass through these slots and clamp the plate fast. There are also movable caps at the top of the shakers so that one can be closed if the user wants either the salt or the pepper without the other.

BOTH USED SIMULTANEOUSLY

Doan's Kidney Pills

Are the Best Remedy In The World FOR BACKACHE.

Many people fail to understand the significance of a lame, weak, sore or aching back.

You overtax the kidneys—give them more work than they can possibly do—then they cry out in protest through the pain in the back.

Backache is simply kidneyache and the best remedy in the world for backache and all kidney troubles is Doan's Kidney Pills.

We have thousands of testimonials from all quarters of the globe to prove this. Here is one from a party who used them in England, but who is now a resident of Canada.

Mr. P. R. Glanville, Wycliffe, B.C. writes:—"When living in the 'Old Country,' three years ago, I suffered severely from pains in the back, and had to give up work. The pain was so bad that when I stooped down to pick anything up, I felt my back must break. I tried all sorts of remedies and several doctors, but all to no purpose. One day I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, and thought I might as well try them, and to my surprise, before I was half through one box the backache had entirely disappeared, and it has not caused me any trouble since. I always keep "Doan's" in the house and shall always recommend them to all sufferers."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's".

ASH-SIFTING SHOVEL

Series of Wheels Revolve and Chop the Cinders up.

An ingenious implement for sifting ashes is the ash-sifting shovel designed by a New York man and shown in the illustration. As will be understood by the name, it performs two operations practically simultaneously. The scoop of the shovel, which is unusually capacious, is meshed and bound in iron strips. In the back is a series of sharp toothed wheels, projecting slightly through slots in the bottom of the scoop, so that when the latter is passed over a supporting surface the wheels revolve and cut the larger cinders into pieces small enough to fall through the mesh. Good coal will be too hard to break up in this way. Therefore, as a man takes a shovelful of ashes from the heater he need only turn to an ash box with a strip on top on which to operate the wheels, and pass the shovel across this once or twice. This operation is not productive of dust as the old-fashioned sieve, either.

CANADIAN GOLD PIECES

Five and ten dollar gold pieces are to be added to Canada's currency. The design for these has already been passed. The demand for the new pieces was more the outcome of a national pride on the part of a few Canadians who wished that Canada as well as the United States should have a gold coinage. It was also the result of the circulation of American gold coinage in Canada. This coinage has the same value in Canada as in the States, and it was felt that if the circulation of the American coinage became very prevalent that at least Canada should fall into line in the subject of a standard gold coinage. It was felt as necessary that the people of Canada should become as well acquainted with the features of the King as with those of an American President.

SURGEONS MIGHT BE LANCERS.

"Now, I suppose," remarked Mrs. Snaggs, "that the surgeons of the Army are attached to the Medical Corps?"

"Your supposition does you great credit," replied Mr. Snaggs, sarcastically. "It's a wonder you didn't imagine that doctors joined the Army for the purpose of building bridges or going up in a balloon. Where should Army surgeons be except in the Medical Corps?"

"Well, I thought that they might possibly belong to the Lancers."

POPLAR RAILWAY TIES

Expect to Utilize Soft Wood When Treated With Creosote.

In the expectation that a new process of impregnating poplar wood with creosote will make the material suitable for railway ties, the Canadian Northern are establishing a mill at Fort Frances on their main line, west of Port Arthur, where half a million ties will be treated next year. The regular hard wood ordinarily used for tie purposes is growing very scarce at this part of the line, and the company hope to make the indigenous poplar give as good service by this process.

ON A MOOSE'S HORNS

A New Brunswick Man Had an Unexpected Ride

A decidedly exciting and quite unexpected journey was that taken by Mr. William O'Keefe, of Chatham, N.B. Mr. O'Keefe was on his way along the road to his brother's home when he saw a moose in the woods close at hand. This seemed an opportunity too good to be missed and Mr. O'Keefe at once hastened to the house, procured his brother's gun, and returning, shot the moose, as he supposed, wounding it fatally. He then walked up to inspect his trophy, when, to his great surprise, the animal, which was very much alive, jumped up, and in a second had caught the unfortunate man between its horns. Off they started through the woods, and it was not until after travelling some distance that the moose fell and Mr. O'Keefe was able to free himself from his uncomfortable position. Once again, however, the moose made an attack, and it was only after much difficulty that Mr. O'Keefe was able to get into a tree, where he had to remain until the moose, who, although so lively, was badly wounded, died. Apart from being somewhat bruised and badly shaken up, Mr. O'Keefe suffered no serious injury from his novel experience.—Red and Gun.

Mix 2 cups granulated sugar and 2 tablespoons FRY'S Cocoa. Stir in 1 cup milk, add one level tablespoonful of butter and boil very slowly from 20 minutes to a half hour—until it forms a ball when dropped into cold water. At this stage a few chopped nuts make a delicious addition. Remove from fire, add teaspoonful of vanilla extract, beat until stiff, pour into pan, and when cool cut in squares. FRY'S Cocoa makes fudge of an exquisitely delicate and rich flavor. Try it.

ABNORMAL BABY DEAD

After spending about ten days on earth under conditions which probably never before in the world's history have been the lot of any mortal, the little child at the Sick Children's Hospital, with the exposed heart, is dead. For several days it seemed to grow stronger and could take nourishment, but the inevitable change came and it began to sink and grow weaker. Slower and slower did the little heart beat until the pulsations that had caused such interest among the physicians of Toronto, ceased forever.

THE DEPTH OF SLEEP

Scientific investigation of the progress of sleep of the normal person has resulted in the production of a "Depth of Sleep" chart, which shews graphically, almost like a fever chart, how the depth of sleep varies with the different hours of the night. It is suggested that the right time to go bed is 10 o'clock. If a man or woman retires at that hour the intensity of sleep and soundness of repose increase gradually until 11 o'clock. Then suddenly sleep becomes very profound, and by 11.30 is at its soundest. By 11.45 it begins to decrease slightly, and at 12.30 it is about the same as at 11.15. The soundness of slumber then gradually decreases until 2.30, when it increased again slightly, but at 4 begins to decrease in soundness until it gradually tapers down to wakefulness at 6 o'clock, when the normal person who retired at 10 is supposed to get up.

THE TIDAL WATERS

For two days and a night the rain had rained without even resting for refreshment, and the football ground was like the boundless ocean.

The referee, having donned a sou'wester and oilskins, examined the field, and, bearing his fee in mind, decided that the match must be played.

"Surely you will not make us play in this?" asked the visiting captain.

"Of course you must," declared the official whistler.

The captain went off, grumbling and mumbling, but the referee called him back.

"You've won the toss," he said. "Now, which end will you have?"

"Well," replied the captain, with resignation, "we'd better kick with the tide!"

Colds

Don't trifle with a cold; no one can tell what the end may be. Pneumonia, catarrh, chronic bronchitis and consumption invariably result from neglected colds. Nothing can be compared with as a quick cure for colds and grip, and by its use the more serious diseases may be avoided.

FAMOUS PLAYERS IN DICKENS' CHARACTERS

Dramatists Have Busied Themselves with Nearly All of the Novels of Dickens—When Sir Henry Irving Played Alfred Jingle, John Brougham Played Mr. Micawber, W. J. Florence Was Jules Obenzeizer and Joseph Jefferson Was Caleb Plummer

NEARLY every story that Charles Dickens ever wrote has been transplanted to the stage, with more or less success.

Dickens inspired many of our best known dramatists, and a host of distinguished players on both sides of the Atlantic have won renown in the interpretation of his characters. And what a wonderful gallery of characters it is. If Dickens had created none but Cap'n Cuttle and Caleb Plummer the world would still have been satisfied and grateful.

Some of Dickens' stories have been dramatised so often it has been difficult to keep track of them and all because of the selfishness underlying the starring system. As no two stars seem to find the same opportunities in any one version, each has had his own play built upon lines most satisfactory to himself, so that the principal rôle will give greater opportunities to his personality and to his special gifts. One thoughtful player will see nothing but Mr. Micawber in "David Copperfield," while another will insist that Little Em'ly is the principal character in which the playgoer is interested.

Foremost among the many Dickens impersonations that have met with favor may be mentioned the Alfred Jingle of Henry Irving; the Micawber, Turveydrop, Bagstock and Bunsby of John Brougham; the Newman Noggs, Pecksniff, Lorry, Uriah Heep and Dick Swiveller, of James H. Stoddart; the Cap'n Cuttle of William Warren; the Jules Obenreiser of Charles Fechter; the Cap'n Cuttle and Jules Obenreizer of William J. Florence; the Sairy Gamp, Betsy Trotwood and Mrs. Jarley of Mrs. G. H. Gilbert; the Micawber of George Fawcett Rowe; the Micawber and Cap'n Cuttle, of William E. Burton; the Micawber, John Brodie, Bill Sikes, Steerforth and Mantellini of George C. Boniface; the Lady Dedlock of Laura Keene; the Tom Pinch of Edward S. Willard; the Bill Sykes of McKee Rankin; the Nancy Sikes of Charlotte Cushman, Lucille Western, Fanny Davenport, Rose Eytinge, Elita Proctor Otis and Mabel Fenton Rose; the Sydney Carton of Henry Miller, E. J. Morgan and Martin Harvey; the Tillie Slowboy of Cornelia Jackson; the Little Nell and the Marchioness of Lotta, and last, but not least, the Caleb Plummer of Charles Burke, John E. Owens, John L. Toole and Joseph Jefferson.

Sad to say, most of these rare players have ceased their earthly activities and have left a void that has not yet been filled.

Still very few of the plays based on Dickens' stories have been wholly satisfactory, judged purely as plays. The dramatist has hardly ever been able to do full justice to the novelist. While Dickens' characters are distinctly human, his stories cover so wide a range of time and place no dramatist can satisfactorily employ all the wonderful available material within the space of three or four acts.

Oliver Twist.

Probably the first Dickens story to be converted into a play in this country was "Oliver Twist," which was first produced within one year of the publication of the story, at the old Park Theatre, New York, on February 7, 1839, which was also the twenty seventh anniversary of the birth of Dickens. On this memorable occasion Charlotte Cushman played Nancy Sikes. The impersonator of Bill Sikes was better known as a singer than as an actor, namely Peter Richings, the husband of the more famous Mrs. Caroline Richings Bernard.

"Oliver Twist" was also played at the Bowery Theatre, New York, on April 6, 1840, as half of a "double bill," the other play being "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Mrs. G. C. Howard, known as the original Topsy, played Nancy Sikes, Cordelia Howard, Oliver Twist, and George C. Boniface, Bill Sikes.

John Brougham's version of "David Copperfield" was first seen at Brougham's Lyceum, New York, a new theatre, in Broadway, just below Broome street, on January 6, 1851. It was called "David Copperfield," and Mr. Brougham played Micawber.

Another version, shown at about the same time at the old Bowery Theatre, was the work of Charles Walcot, the elder. Miss Susan Denin played David in the first act, while Charles Pope played the part in the second act. Mr. Pope was well known in later years for his performance of the title rôle in "Samson." He was also the manager of Pope's Theatre, St. Louis.

A well known version of "David Copperfield," entitled "Little Em'ly," was from the pen of Andrew Halliday. It was first produced at the Olympic Theatre, London, on October 9, 1869. Dan'l Peggotty was played by Sam Emery, the father of Miss Winifred Emery, now the wife of the London actor-manager, Mr. Cyril Maude. Ham was impersonated by John Nelson, the husband of the then famous actress, Carlotta LeClerq. The Steerforth on this occasion was Mr. Charles Warner, who played the hero in "Drink" thousands of times in England and the United States, and finally committed suicide in New York a few years ago. The Micawber was George Fawcett Rowe, himself the author of a well known version of "David Copperfield." Little Em'ly was performed by Patti Josephs, Rose Dartle was played by Fanny Addison, who married Harry M. Pitt, and who is now known to our stage as Mrs. Fanny Addison Pitt. This version was often played at the old Boston Museum, where the Micawber of William Warren was a characterization never to be forgotten by thoughtful playgoers.

David Copperfield.

Wilkins Micawber	John Brougham
Peggotty	Louis Aldrich
Uriah Heep	Frank Hardenbergh
David Copperfield	W. F. Burroughs
Steerforth	G. Allen
Ham	J. Scott
Wickfield	S. H. Forsberg
Mrs. Micawber	Agnes Perry
Betsy Trotwood	Miss M. Carr
Clara Peggotty	Mrs. E. F. Stewart
Agnes Wickfield	Susie Cluer
Emily	Mrs. E. M. Leslie
Mrs. Gummidge	Miss Winslow

Miss Agnes Perry, who played Mrs. Micawber, was later known to the stage as Agnes Booth. She was the wife of Junius Brutus Booth, Jr., and later of John B. Schoeffel, of the Tremont Theatre, Boston.

Mary Cary played Little Em'ly in the Halliday version at Selwyn's Theatre, Boston, in February, 1870, and was credited with giving an ideal performance.

On July 13, 1871, James C. Williamson, now a millionnaire manager in Australia, had a benefit at Niblo's Garden, New York, and Brougham's version of "David Copperfield" was given. On this occasion John Brougham appeared as Micawber; Pauline Markham, one of the most famous and stately of Lydia Thompson's "British blondes," as Agnes Wickfield, C. H. Morton as Peggotty, and Ben T. Ringgold as David Copperfield.

George Fawcett Rowe's version of "David Copperfield" was first shown at Mrs. John Wood's Olympic Theatre, New York, on May 21, 1865. Among those in the cast were G. W. Garrison, as David Copperfield; Mrs. G. H. Gilbert, as Betsy Trotwood; George Fawcett Rowe, as Mr. Micawber; George C. Boniface, as Steerforth; J. B. Studley, as Peggotty, and James H. Stoddart, as Uriah Heep, truly a memorable cast.

John Brougham's version of "Bleak House" had its first presentation at Wallack's Lyceum, New York, on October 10, 1853. Laura Keene appeared as Lady Dedlock, while Mrs. Brougham was seen as the French maid, Hortense; John Brougham was Turveydrop; F. Chippendale, Jarndyce. Charles Walcot, Sr., Skimpole; J. Lester (Lester Wallack), the Debilitated Cousin; Lysander Thompson, Inspector Bucket, and John Dyott, Mr. Tulkinghorn.

Bleak House.

Probably the most famous version of "Bleak House" was offered for years by Mme. Fanny Janauschek under the name of "Chesney Wold." It was first produced at Booth's Theatre, New York, on February 23, 1874, with Charles Walcot, Jr., and Milnes Levick in the cast. It was revived at the old Broadway Theatre on November 12, 1878. Mme. Janauschek, who was a Bohemian by birth and who first came to this country as an interpreter of German rôles, was one of the foremost tragediennes of the day. Her mastery of the English language was quite remarkable. She created a positive dramatic sensation by playing the strangely opposite rôles of Lady Dedlock and Hortense, the French maid. She startled her audiences by the lightning rapidity of her changes, as well as by her impressive picture of the fashionably attired but suffering Lady Dedlock and by her inimitable portrayal of the unattractive and vindictive French maid. The two impersonations were so strikingly real and so startlingly in contrast that many uninformed playgoers insisted it was impossible for one woman thus to play both rôles. Among those who supported Mme. Janauschek with credit in "Chesney Wold" were Frank Mordaunt as Inspector Bucket and Edward Coleman as Mr. Tulkinghorn.

"Nicholas Nickleby" was first played in this country about the year 1842 at the old Tremont Theatre, Boston. In the cast was Miss Amelia Fisher, the sister of Mrs. Clara Fisher Maeder. Miss Fisher played Miss Squeers. This was the same Miss Fisher who for many years conducted a theatrical boarding house of international fame at No. 2 Bulfinch place, Boston, where for a generation William Warren, the idol of Boston, made his home.

"Nicholas Nickleby" was played at the Bowery Theatre, New York, on October 10, 1862, when Emma Webb, one of the famous Webb sisters, played Smike. George C. Boniface was the Mantalini and Miss M. Clare the Kate Nickleby.

Another version of "Nicholas Nickleby" had quite a run at the Union Square Theatre, New York, under the management of Sheridan Shook and A. M. Palmer. It was called "Smike," and was first played at the Union Square on May 7, 1877. It had a most remarkable cast. James H. Stoddart played Newman Noggs, John Parselle was Ralph Nickleby; W. J. LeMoyne, Squeers; George C. Boniface, John Browdie; Charles A. Stevenson, Nicholas Nickleby; Myron Leffingwell, Snarley; Marie Wilkins, Mrs. Squeers; Miss Bijou Heron (now Mrs. Henry Miller), Smike; Kate Girard, Kate Nickleby; Roberta Norwood, Tilda Price; Louise Sylvester, Fannie Squeers, and Mrs. Frank A. Tannehill, Mrs. Nickleby. When the play was taken to Chicago James O'Neill was seen as Nicholas Nickleby and Louis James as John Browdie. This was not only an appropriate, but an interesting cast. A striking feature of this production, and which was much admired, was a real, old fashioned English stage coach that came upon the scene with its full complement of passengers and drawn by four horses.

Many versions of "The Pickwick Papers" have been played. One was made by Augustin Daly, and first produced at the Worrell Sisters' Theatre, 728 Broadway, New York, on January 22, 1868. The cast included J. K. Mortimer as Mr. Jingle; William Carleton as Nathaniel Winkle; George Lingard as the Sleepy Judge; Charles T. Parsloe, Jr., as Sam Weller; H. C. Ryner as Mr. Pickwick; George H. Clarke as Bob Sawyer; Edwin Varre as Tony Weller; Celia Logan as Arabella Allen, and Jennie Worrall as Mary.

Some ten years ago Grant Stewart wrote the book and Manuel Klein the music of a musical comedy entitled "Mr. Pickwick," in which De Wolf Hopper appeared as Mr. Pickwick and Digby Bell as Sam Weller. Others in the cast were Louise Gunning, Marguerite Clark, Laura Joyce Bell and Grant Stewart.

Henry Irving also contributed a version of "The Pickwick Papers" when at the Star Theatre, New York, on November 12, 1888, he produced for the first time in this country the short play of "Jingle," previously seen at the Lyceum Theatre, London. The cast was as follows:—

Alfred Jingle	Henry Irving
Wardle	S. Johnson
Tupman	Charles Harbury
Nupkins	Tom Wenman
Perker	J. Carter
Sam Weller	Martin Harvey
Miss Arabella	Miss F. Harwood
Nathaniel Winkle	Mr. Emery
Augustus Snodgrass	Mr. Haviland
Mr. Pickwick	Henry Howe
Job Trotter	Mr. Archer
Fat Boy	Mr. Gurner
Miss Rachel	Mrs. Pauncefort
Miss Emily	Miss Mathews

"Martin Chuzzlewit," a version by Stephen Fiske, was first played at Mrs. John Wood's Olympic Theatre, New York, on September 26, 1864. William Davidge played old Martin Chuzzlewit; Ben T. Ringgold, young Martin Chuzzlewit; Mrs. John Wood, Master Bailey; Mrs. G. H. Gilbert, Sairy Gamp; James H. Stoddart, Mr. Pecksniff, and T. J. Hind, Tom Pinch.

Tom Pinch.

Mr. Edward S. Willard produced a delightfully entertaining version of "Martin Chuzzlewit," made by himself and entitled "Tom Pinch," at the Garden Theatre, New York, on January 7, 1901. Mr. Willard personally presented a most touching and convincing study of Tom Pinch.

A version of "The Only Way," by Freeman Wills, and based on "A Tale of Two Cities," was first seen in New York at the Herald Square Theatre on September 16, 1899, under the management of Henry Miller. The cast included Henry Miller as Sydney Carton, Joseph Brennan as Stryker, James H. Stoddart as Lorry, Daniel E. Harkins as Dr. Manette, Margaret Dale as Lucie Manette and Margaret Anglin as Mimi.

Martin Harvey, an English actor, who first came to this country in October, 1885, with Henry Irving and Ellen Terry, played Sydney Carton with great success in England.

"Barnaby Rudge" in dramatic form was first disclosed in New York at Kelly & Leon's Theatre on October 7, 1871. Among the members of the cast were Stuart Robson, Harry Josephs, George Jordan, Charles T. Parsloe, Jr., and Eugene Eberle.

The three delightfully comic Williams, William E. Burton, William Warren and William J. Florence, won much fame in this country with their respective performances of Cap'n Cuttle, in "Dombey and Son," which has not been revived since Mr. Florence died.

"Dombey and Son" was first produced at Burton's Chambers Street Theatre, New York, on July 24, 1848, with the following cast:—

Dombey	Edwin Varrey
Carker	Mr. Marshall
Bagstock	John Brougham
Bunsby	John Brougham
Toots	O. B. Raymond
Walter Gay	James C. Dunn
Sol Gills	E. N. Thayer
Cap'n Cuttle	William E. Burton
Edith	Mrs. Knight
Mrs. Skewton	Mrs. Hughes
Florence	Miss J. Hill
Susan Nipper	Mrs. Brougham

On its opening night "Dombey and Son" was immediately voted a failure. It ran only four nights. The extent of its failure may be judged from the receipts for the four performances. On the first night they were less than the expenses. On the second night $80 was taken in; on the third $77, and on the fourth $72. John Brougham, as the author of the dramatization, was to receive $8 a night as his royalty so long as the play ran. It was revived, however, with great success, on March 1, 1852, with William E. Burton as Cap'n Cuttle. After Burton passed away William J. Florence secured the rights to the play and succeeded to Mr. Burton's sailor suit with its large horn buttons, and for years achieved great distinction as the lovable Cap'n Cuttle.

For many years one of the most fascinating and popular impersonators of a Dickens rôle was Miss Lotta Crabtree, known to the stage as Lotta and now living quietly in Boston, where she is said to be the richest woman taxpayer in the city. Lotta was always a favorite in San Francisco, Chicago, New York and London. "Little Nell and the Marchioness," one of the very best adaptations of a Dickens story, was made for Lotta by John Brougham from "The Old Curiosity Shop," in which she "doubled" the well contrasted rôles of Little Nell and the Marchioness. This was first produced in New York at the old Broadway Theatre, on January 27, 1868. John Jack was the Grandfather Trent; James H. Stoddart, Dick Swiveller; Charles Hale, Quilp; J. Moore, Sampson Brass; Mrs. G. H. Gilbert, Mrs. Jarley, and Mrs. H. Chapman, Sally Brass. Lotta was also seen in this version at Wallack's on September 6, 1868, when Charles Fisher played Dick Swiveller. It was again seen at Niblo's Garden on November 1, 1869, when Lotta was supported by Felix A. Vincent as Dick Swiveller, Edward Coleman as Quilp and Charles A. Hale as Sampson Brass.

Old Curiosity Shop.

Another version of "The Old Curiosity Shop" was offered at Kelly & Leon's Theatre, New York, on June 21, 1869, with Rosalie Jack as Little Nell, Edward Coleman as Quilp and Charles J. Fyffe as Grandfather Trent. It ran only six nights.

At one time Lotta was supported by Harry S. Murdoch as Dick Swiveller and Henry A. Weaver as Quilp.

Lotta also played Little Nell and the Marchioness in London with much success, the version then used having been made by Charles Dickens, Jr. Lotta's interpretation of these two rôles live happily in the memory of all who saw them.

Charles Burke, the talented and versatile half-brother of the late Joseph Jefferson, was not only the first actor to play Rip Van Winkle, but also the first to impersonate Caleb Plummer in this country at least. It is presumed that Burke himself made this first version, which was played at William Stuart's management at the old Park Theatre, New York, on January 9, 1846, with Burke as Caleb Plummer.

Dion Boucicault's version of "The Cricket on the Hearth" had its first performance at Tripler Hall, on the west side of Broadway, nearly opposite Bond street, on September 14, 1859. The cast was as follows:—

Caleb Plummer	Joseph Jefferson
John Peerybingle	Harry Pearson
Dot	Agnes Robertson
Tillie Slowboy	Mrs. John Wood
Bertha	Sara Stevens
Edward Plummer	A. H. Davenport
Mrs. Fielding	Mrs. W. R Blake
Tackleton	T. B. Johnson
May Fielding	[illegible] Allen

John E. Owens played Caleb Plummer at the Broadway Theatre on March 13, 1857, with Alice Placide as Dot. When England's favorite comedian, John L. Toole, visited this country, nearly forty years ago, one of his most popular impersonations was that of Caleb Plummer. The present generation of theatregoers is most familiar, however, with the Caleb Plummer of the late Joseph Jefferson.

William J. Florence, who had won lasting fame as Senator Bardwell Slote in "The Mighty Dollar," as Ezekiel Homespun in "The Heir at Law," as Cap'n Cuttle in "Dombey and Son," as Bob Brierly, in "The Ticket of Leave Man" and as Sir Lucius O'Trigger in "The Rivals," gave still further proof of his exceptional versatility by his faithful study of Jules Obenreizer in "No Thoroughfare," a dramatization of a story by Charles Dickens and Wilkie Collins.

No Thoroughfare.

He first produced the play at the old Continental Theatre, Boston, asserting that he had committed it to memory after seeing it several times in London, where the leading rôle had been created by Charles Fechter, of "Monte Cristo" fame. It was first played in New York at the old Broadway Theatre on September 28, 1869. The original New York cast included Mr. Florence as Jules Obenreizer; James C. Williamson as Joey Ladle and Mrs. G. H. Gilbert as the Unknown Female.

A persistent dramatizer of the stories of Dickens was an Englishman named Stirling, who made a version of "Master Humphrey's Clock" for the Adelphi Theatre, London, where it was first played on November 9, 1840. He had been anticipated, however, by Frederick Fox Cooper, whose two-act version with the same title had been disclosed at the Victoria Theatre, London, on May 26, 1840. Still another version, made by George Lander, was acted at the Theatre Royal, York, England, on May 14, 1877, and still another was shown at the Opéra Comique, London, in 1884.

Charles Dickens personally wrote the farce, "The Lamplighter," on which his story "The Pickwick Papers" was founded.

A dramatic version of "Little Dorrit" was made by John Brougham for the Worrell sisters. It was called "Amy Dorrit."

BOYS FIGHT DUEL

German Youths Use Firearms to Settle Dispute for Favors of a Girl

Again the morbid reading indulged in by German schoolboys and youths, and the peculiar ideas of honor and the duel held in this country, have resulted in a "schoolboy duel," in which one of the combatants received injuries which will probably cost him his life.

A boy of seventeen years was found in a small wood near Detmold in an unconscious condition, with a bullet wound in the right breast. He was taken to the local hospital when he was found seriously injured.

It seems that the lad, a scholar in the Detmold higher grade school, quarrelled with a schoolmate of his own age over a girl, even younger than themselves, and for whose favors both were aspirants. Driven to extremes of jealousy by the knowledge that each was sharing the girl's affections with the other, the two youthful Romeos mutually decided on an "affair," in which one should seek the only possible escape from his passion in death, while the victor remained in undisputed possession of the field.

This program was duly carried out. The boys, by some means, obtained possession of firearms, and repaired to the wood, without seconds or other witnesses. At the first exchange of shots one of the combatants fell wounded, while the victor callously walked off without even troubling to send help to his fallen opponent.

Duchess Out Sculling

The Duchess of Albany is indulging in stiff rowing exercises on the Thames. She motored over from Claremont, Esher, to Molesey recently, and embarking in a double-sculling skiff rowed down to Molesey Lock, en route for Kingston. Owing, however, to the heavy barge traffic in the lock at the time Her Royal Highness, who occupied the stroke seat, with a waterman at the bow, and a lady-in-waiting steering, turned and went up river. In quick time the royal sculler, who made use of a long, well-finished stroke, rowed up to Sunbury Lock and returned to Molesey, having then accomplished a row of nearly eight miles.

CASCARETS CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

No Biliousness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give you a thorough cleansing inside and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good cleansing, too.

A DANISH SETTLEMENT

One hundred and seventy-five miles above North Bay and 398 from Toronto, on the main line of the T. & N. O. Railway, is the little flag station of Sesekinika. To the south lies a magnificent sheet of water, dotted with twenty-seven rocky islands all the way from an eighth of an acre to 250 in extent. Its waters are fairly alive with magnificent game fish. Three years ago there was practically no settlement, but with the construction of the railway came the land-seeker, who soon discovered many valuable locations to the north of the lake. Mr. A. J. T. Wendt Wriedt, an ex-officer of the Danish navy, was one of the first to locate, and before long a number of his countrymen came along to keep him company. The place is now known as the Danish settlement along the railway line. Of course all the settlers are not Danes. There are four Canadians there, three or four from faraway Norway, and a couple from Sweden. All have farms, and so one season follows another. The size of their clearings increases, while houses and barns are improved or enlarged.

COLLAPSE OF A CANNERY

A furious gale caused the collapse of the Ketchikan cannery in Alaska recently. The cannery was built on piling over the salt water of the harbor, and 200,000 cans of salmon were thrown into the waters, entailing a loss of $100,000.

FOXES IN CANADA

Much Money in Raising the Silver Variety.

Breeding of silver foxes is a new industry in Canada, chiefly on Prince Edward Island. One man on the island, it is said cleared $150,000 from his fox farm this year. A breeder in Dutton, Ont., has told a New York Sun reporter about his methods.

"How and what do you feed them?" asked the Sun man.

"One sparrow a day," was Black's reply.

"One sparrow a day," repeated Mr. Black, emphasizing each word. "Of course, when sparrows can't be had, and that's not often, a small piece of raw meat about as large as a sparrow is fed. Just before the pups are born the mother is fed some milk in addition, and for some time after the litter arrives I let her have milk in small quantities. They breed regularly up to 12 years of age and live until 20."

"Do they ever become pets, or do you attempt to make pets of them?" queried the newspaper man.

"My experience," was the reply, "is that they are not pets and I don't want mine to be pets in any sense of the term. They will bite you if you attempt to handle them promiscuously. Most of them are inclined to be snappy."

"How do you safeguard such valuable animals?"

"My foxes are kept in a cement den that is an exact reproduction of the natural burrow the average red fox fashions when left to himself. This den is in a 40-foot enclosure that is stoutly wired to a height over which no man could climb without using a ladder. If a man did get into the enclosure it wouldn't do him any good, as the den in which they sleep is of solid concrete 18 inches thick on top and with side walls of eight inches. Have you ever seen a fox's den? Well, it has many zigzag passages, and it's a maze of turns and angles. I suppose nature inspired the fox to fashion his home that way so as to give battle to intruders at every turn. The sleeping quarters are located behind these passageways, and, except when feeding or at play, most of their time is spent there. A cat and her kittens make a pretty spectacle as they tumble over each other but you ought to see young silver, and their mother at play. The extra thickness of cement on the top of the den not only ensures safety, but the burrow is warmer in winter and cooler in Summer. If anybody should attempt to poison the foxes it wouldn't do any good, for they could not reach the dead bodies in the back of the den without smashing the big mass of concrete.

"I am thinking, however," said the man whose occupation is both novel and profitable, "of getting a couple of good bloodhounds as an added protection. Insure them? No company will write a risk on silver foxes. I guess I'll have to worry along the way I'm going. If this couple live and mate as well as I expect they should bring good returns. If anything happens to either or both I'll have to charge it to profit and loss."

DESTITUTE BUT RICH

A Ragged Miser Had $30,000 Securities in His Pocket

A familiar figure to the night-birds of Berlin was a ragged and miserable-looking old man who slunk from one cafe or restaurant to another, with a tray of bootlaces and suchlike trifles slung around his neck. Hearts warmed with love and wine had no need of his wares; but opened to his apparent destitution. During the day-time he confined himself in a single room furnished only with a bed, a table, a chair, and a large nail stuck into the wall, which served him as a wardrobe. The neighbors, however, talked about regular visits paid to him by the postman, and it was even rumored that he received letters from banks. Last night the lonely hawker was found dead in the street. He had succumbed to an attack of syncope. But when his tatters were searched for indications of his identity, his various pockets were found to contain securities to the total value of $30,000.

A ROMANCE OF INDUSTRY

The Striking Career of the Late George Taylor, London

The career of the head of a great photographic business, Mr. George Taylor, who died recently in London, is one of the romances of industry.

As a Scottish carpenter's apprentice he was employed in the building of Balmoral Castle. He was an amateur photographer, and by the influence of his friend, John Brown—Queen Victoria's personal attendant—secured a series of valuable copyright portraits of the Royal Family.

With the proceeds of these he opened studios in London and the provinces, reaping large sums from portrait clubs in factories.

At the end of ten years he was making $50,000 a year, after twenty years $1000,000, and for a few years succeeding (when he did an enormous trade in pictorial postcards) he made $150,000 a year.

MONASTERIES AND MONKS

A Considerable Increase in the Number of Late in Austria

Statistics now published show that there are 2,956 monasteries and convents, containing 38,560 monks and nuns, in Austria. The monks have 85 boys' schools and the nuns no fewer than 970 girls' schools of various kinds. These include those most patronised by the aristocracy for the education of their children. The property of the religious orders is known only to the Government, and kept secret but is generally estimated to amount to $200,000. There has been a considerable increase lately in the number of religious houses in Austria since the expulsion of the orders from Portugal, as many of these have settled here.

BREASTPLATES OF PURE GOLD

Recovered from a Lake in the Andes, South America—Other Valuable Treasure There

Breastplates of pure beaten gold have been recovered from Lake Guatavita, the largest and most important of the five lakes of the Chibcha Kingdom, in the Columbian Andes, and the scene, in pre-historic times, of many religious ceremonies. These heathen rites took place about twice a year, when the chiefs, with their high priests, threw rich offerings of gold and precious stones into the lake, and the people congregated round its banks deposited smaller contributions of the same kind, to propitiate the divinities inhabiting its waters.

Many attempts have been made to recover some of the treasure hidden at the bottom of the lake, but with little success. An English company has now succeeded in draining the waters, and is engaged in removing the mud which covers what is hoped to prove a mine of treasure. All the gold ornaments, as well as the great mass of pottery which has been recovered, are of the true Chibcha type, and extremely interesting as examples of the arts and crafts of the Indians before the arrival of the Spaniards in South America.

The pottery is supposed to have been made almost exclusively for the reception of the gold dust, ornaments and precious stones which were thrown into the lake as offerings, and it is quite different in character from the vases found in the burial places of the surrounding country. There appear to be no specimens of this class in our public museums at present.

DOLL ALSO A MUFF

Little Girls Can Keep Their Hands Warm Carrying It.

A doll that is also amuff, or a muff that is a doll, whichever way you like, has been designed by a New York man. The doll has the outward semblance of others of its kinds, but in side the skirt is a soft body with hand openings on each side. This dollie, of course, is a winter child and wears a long coat like her owner, the coat having wide side pockets, so that the little girl carrying it can slip her hands through into the soft muff inside. To enhance the effect the doll also carries a muff. But it is not only children who may be looked for to carry this doll muff. In these faddish days when young women carry teddy bears, stuffed dogs and even dolls on the street there is no reason why they should not carry one of these child's toys as a hand-warmer and achieve the double success of attracting attention at the time.

DOESN'T AFFECT POLICY.

Charbonneau Decision Is Only One of Many.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, was seen in reference to the judgment in the Hebert case and its effect in law, as well as on the Lancaster bill, and the reference of the whole matter to the Supreme Court and thence to the Privy Council.

The Minister said the judgment was not really a reversal of the judgment of Judge Laurendeau in the same case, but rather took its place, because it was a judgment by default, no defence being put in. If either party moves in opposition to such a judgment, the case will be reheard, and so this was practically a rehearing.

"Will this make any difference in the reference by this Government to the Supreme Court, decided on at the time of the vote on the Lancaster bill?"

"Not the slightest," replied the Minister. "If this were the decision of a final court it would, but as the case stands now, there are five judgments that such marriage is invalid and three that it is valid. Before today's judgment there were five one way and two the other. That's all."

"It makes no difference in the jurisprudence," concluded the Minister, "and will not in any way affect the policy of referring such questions to the Supreme Court of Canada."

Quebec Law Vindicated.

Montreal, Feb. 23.—G. V. Cousins and Arnold Wainwright, attorneys of Mrs. Hebert, said after the verdict:

"The judgment is the vindication of the law of the Province of Quebec —especially concerning this case and the ne temere decree.

L. J. Lefebvre, the attorney of Eugene Hebert, the plaintiff in the application for annulment of marriage, declared:

"I am not ready to state that I will appeal the judgment, because I must see my client first. Nevertheless, I believe there is good foundation for appeal, especially on the desistment.

"The case was proceeded with exparte, and now that the judgment is rendered against us, I do not see why we should not secure a leave to oppose it, just as Mrs. Hebert secured one to appeal against the decision rendered by Justice Laurendeau. When the case was proceeded with exparte we were not givn an opportunity of giving evidance. The case should have been inscribed on the regular roll of the Superior Court and proceeded with in the usual way. I think there is good ground for appeal."

Archbishop Bruchesi first heard the news after he had arrived at the palace from a parochial visit, and was eager to hear the result.

When told of the findings a look of disappointment came over his face.

"I cannot discuss it," said he. "You see my position in a matter of this kind. It is impossible for me to give out a statement."

Bishop Farthing says that the judgment is a most important one, but he is not prepared to offer any criticism on it until he has had an opportunity of carefully reading the full judgment.

Wants Bigger Navy.

Washington, Feb. 23.—Representative Jefferson Levy of New York celebrated Washington's birthday by proposing a change in the two battleship a year program in the House. He introduced a bill empowering the President to build four battleships annually, each to cost less than $6,000,000, exclusive of armament.

Mr. Levy would have the ships carry "as heavy armor and as powerful armament as any vessel of their class, and to have the highest practicable speed and the greatest practicable radius of action." The bill would appropriate $20,000,000 to start the work. It was referred to the committee on naval affairs.

Home Rule Bill In Early March.

London, Feb. 23.—A circular announcing the Irish National banquet on St. Patricks Day, where John Redmond will preside, states:

"It is expected that the home rule bill, to which Irish Nationalists confidently look forward for realization of their country's hopes, will be introduced in the House of Commons shortly before the date of the banquet."

The circular bears the signatures of two Irish members of Parliament, Jerry McVeagh and Matthew Keating, and gives importance to the statement that the home rule bill will be introduced about the second week of March.

A Mitigating Circumstance.

A noted Liberal in a town of Western Ontario once attended a meeting addressed by Sir John Macdonald. The assembly was held during the afternoon, and it was about six o'clock before the audience began to disperse. On the way out, the Liberal met Sir John who insisted on shaking hands with him.

"I belong to the Reform party," said the latter.

"Never mind, man! I'm not proud," said Sir John genially. "I've shaken hands with worse-looking men than you in my day."

Afterwards his political friends twitted the "stalwart" with the fact that he had been seen in conversation with Sir John.

"Well, I've never denied that he has a pleasant way with him—and, anyway, it was nearly dark, and only a few people saw us."

Toronto, Feb. 23.—Matters pertaining to agriculture were the principal items on the legislative bill-of-fare yesterday afternoon, with Hon. James Duff the centre of attraction.

Discussions, thick, fast and furious were held over such subjects as "The Noxious Weeds Act," "A tax on dogs and for the Protection of Sheep," and an act to prevent the spread of insect and fungus disease injurious to vegetation.

Mr. Rowell gives notice that he will ask for a return showing all correspondence between the Government or any official of the T. & N. O. Railway, and the officials of the Grand Trunk with regard to the acquisition of running rights for the G.T.R. over the T. & N.O. lines.

Mr. Rowell will also enquire of the Ministry as to whether Hon. I. B. Lucas has been appointed a commissioner to investigate the question of Government ownership of telephone lines in the province; how long has he been engaged in the investigation; has the Government received any report from him on the investigation; and, if not, when is his report expected.

T. Marshall (Monck) will enquire of the Ministry how much the Government paid for the lands on which the new Government House is to be erected, the estimated cost of clearing the grounds, the names of the contractors for this work, as well as what contracts have been let for the building, and the names of the architects and landscape gardeners.

That the total net earnings of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway have increased by $157,022.38 over 1910 is shown by the annual report of the railway, which was presented to the Legislature yesterday afternoon. The total net earnings for the year amount to $593,152.69, as compared with $436,130.31 for 1910. There is also an increase of $16,637.27 in operating expenses over 1910, although there has been a decrease in the percentage form 73.2 to 66.4.

During the year the total revenue from transportation was $1,706,248.02; from sources other than transportation $72,715.81, making a total operating revenue of $1,780,964.83. The operating expenses were $1,181,983.63, as compared with $1,165,361.36 for 1910, making the net operating revenue $598,968.20 and $436,490.66 respectively, which, including ore royalties of $17,060.76 for 1911, as against $488,-253.58 for 1910. A falling off of $20,-709.36 is shown in ore royalties for the year. In respect of these earnings a check for $515,000 was paid to the Provincial Treasurer, while the 1910 payment was $420,000. The itemized pay roll of the railway for operation shows payments amounting to $768,-522.65 and $34,696.24 for construction, which represents a total sum paid for labor of $783,218.89.

There is an attached report from Engineer Ellis, who conducted the James Bay survey, which points out that the line to Cochrane has already penetrated about one-half of the clay belt. To the north of this is the James Bay coastal plain, about 75 miles wide. Mr. Ellis states that the mouth of Moose River provides the only possible situation for a harbor, which has a depth over the bar at low tide of about six feet, and ventures the opinion that the cost of making the roadstead available for vessels of reasonable draught might not be prohibitive.

BOARDS OF TRADE MEET.

Ontario Business Men Discuss Province's Needs.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—Realizing the necessity of better transportation, both by rail and water, and especially the latter, the Ontario Boards of Trade at a meeting in the City Hall yesterday afternoon passed a number of strong resolutions, condemning all that would in even the slightest degree be detrimental to trade, and advocated the immediate deepening of waterways in order that the ocean liners might make their way through the great lakes.

This is the second annual convention of the Associated Boards of Trade, the strength of which has greatly increased since its birth a year ago. All the important Boards of Trade in Ontario have representatives in the association, and as representatives from nearly every section of the province gathered together the needs of nearly every point in Ontario were made known to the association.

To-day the Welland Canal question will be brought up, and there is every indication of a big fight between the men of the north and those of south Ontario.

With the hope of lowering the freight rates from east to west and from west to eat the boards passed a resolution urging upon the Government the necessity of building a canal system which would permit the large ocean liners to sail inland. These canals, says the resolution, should not be less than thirty-two feet in depth.

That this system of canals would be of incalculable value to the tradesman and the country at large was shown by the fact that the freight rates in summer time, when the lake vessels are in commission are very much lower than in the winter when the railways have the transportation business in their own hands.

A clause in the resolution calls for an immediate investigation into the waterways question by the Dominion Government.

INVULNERABLE GIBRALTAR.

It Has a Battery Perhaps Unequalled In the World.

It has always been known that Gibraltar, which belongs to Great Britain, is one of the strongest forts for both defence and offence in the world. It is said that an immense fleet could be sent to the bottom before getting within five miles of Gibraltar. Not even a torpedo boat could succeed in entering the bay unobserved on the blackest night. The most eminent naval experts are of the opinion that this world's greatest fortress is almost impregnable.

Gibraltar never sleeps. By day and night two perfectly equipped signal stations, proudly flaunting Britain's flag of ownership, sweep the seas around to a distance of fifteen miles on a clear day, instantly reporting the coming and going of each vessel.

Modern "needle" guns, the finest in Europe, are installed on all the most prominent points. They are unreachable from the sea, even as they are indiscernible, owing to the skill with which they are planted and draped to match the surrounding vegetation, while huge screens drop automatically before them as each shell is fired. They have a range of fifteen miles and could drop shells on Ceuta, in Africa, opposite, quite comfortably. One gun weighs 110 tons and is capable of throwing a shell weighing three-quarters of a ton. In that marvel of engineering under great difficulties, the galleries, are concealed guns for every day in the year.

These galleries are divided into three sections, entry to which is guarded, while one is closed even to high officers, containing preserved stores, munitions of war, rain water (for Gibraltar has no springs) and a complete condensing plant — all calculated to outlast a siege of seven years.

The firing is the most mathematically perfect imaginable. The surrounding waters are mapped out into squares, upon which certain guns are kept ready trained, so that it is almost impossible to miss.

A Startling Lecture.

Mr. J. M. Barrie has given us a whimsical description of Prof. Campbell Fraser, who was presented to the King at the garden party at Edinburgh, the famous author and dramatist having been at one time one of the professor's pupils. "I see him rising in a daze from his chair," says Mr. Barrie, "and putting his hands through his hair. 'Do I exist,' he said, thoughtfully, 'strictly so called?' The students looked a little startled. This was a matter that had not previously disturbed them. Still, if the professor was in doubt there must be something in it. He began to argue it out, and an uncomfortable silence held the room in awe. If he did not exist the chances were that they did not exist either. It was thus a personal question. . . It is no wonder that the students who do not go to the bottom during their first month of metaphysics begin to give themselves air, strictly so called. In the privacy of their room at the top of the house they pinch themselves to see if they are still there."

Transforming a Chinaman.

A few weeks ago the Chinese of New Zealand were found to be doing a very great deal of the laundry work available, and so had thrown out of employment the women workers in some of the laundries. In New Zealand a laundry is a factory within the meaning of the factories act, so it occurred to the lawmaker that he could settle the difficulty of this Chinese competition by a neat amendment in the interpretation clause of the act above mentioned. An amendment was therefore drafted and printed and sent with the utmost seriousness and good faith to the crown law office for consideration. It contained a provision in these words: "For the purposes of this act (the factories act) a Chinaman shall be deemed to be a girl under eighteen years of age."—London M.A.P.

An Idol's Long Sleep.

In Pegu may be seen a sentry keeping guard over a Burmese idol. The Burmese believe the idol is asleep and that when he awakes the end of the world will come. The sentry is there to prevent any one from entering the pagoda, which is his place of repose, and awakening him. His slumbers have lasted 6,000 years.

SICK HEADACHE

Sick headaches are not merely afflictions to be borne as patiently as possible—they are danger signals. They never come unless the digestive system is out of order, and their regular recurrence is proof positive of serious trouble and a warning that should be heeded promptly.

Sick headaches are caused by Indigestion, Biliousness or Constipation, and no amount of "headache powders" will do more than temporarily relieve them. The only way to get rid of them entirely is to cure the Constipation or Indigestion that is causing them, and nothing will do this quicker or more effectively than Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are purely vegetable in character, and are free from any harmful drug. For over fifty years they have been in constant use in Canada, and have proved most effective in regulating the bowels, aiding digestion, banishing sick headaches and restoring vigorous health.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have stood the test for over fifty years. 25c. at all dealers. W. H. Comstock Co., Ltd., Brockville, Ont. 7

EAST CITY YOUTH DECAMPS WITH A SATCHEL CONTAINING SUM OF SIXTY-ONE DOLLARS

The Juvenile Offender Will Appear in the County Police Court To-morrow.

DISMISSED THE CASE

Fred. W. Moore, of Ashburnham, will appear before Magistrate Edmison in the County Court to-morrow afternoon on a charge of stealing a sum of money. It appears that Moore, who is only twelve years of age, jumped on a sleigh last Saturday for the purpose of having a ride, and spying a satchel under the driver's seat, expropriated it. The satchel contained sixty-one dollars in cash, and with this the youthful delinquent proceeded to live a riotous life. He first purchased three watches of a cheap variety, and followed this up with boots and skates. He also paid over a portion of the money to his young brother, and on Sunday took the breath away from his boy friends at St. Luke's Sunday School by displaying a roll of bills. These actions aroused suspicion, and an information, was sworn out with the result that Moore will be asked to explain his actions in Court to-morrow.

Charge Against School Trustees.

Magistrate Edmison journeyed to Havelock Wednesday afternoon, where he was called up to settle a dispute between the School Trustees of that town. This he did by dismissing the case. It appears that one of the three trustees had laid a charge of neglect of duty against the other two. The charge was of a trivial nature, and the evidence offered to sustain it was equally weak.

RELIGIOUS TEST IS TO STAND

Special to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, FEB. 23.—In private bills committee this morning, it was decided that Queen's University shall still remain distinctively Christian. The arguments of the Jewish delegation last week that in the nationalization of this university the religious test of Christianity must be applied to all intending students should be abolished, were not favoured by the Committee. Principal Gordon said he meant no offence to the Jews, but concluded that this regulation was needed to exclude Hindus and Chinese, for instance. The Committee permitted the regulation to stand.

Do Your Hands Chap?

Zam-Buk Will Give Ease in One Night

For badly chapped hands, cold cracks, frost bite, etc., Zam-Buk is the best known balm. Wash the hands or part affected in water as hot as can be borne. Dry with a soft towel, and then smear the Zam-Buk well over the part. If it is the hands, wear a pair of old gloves overnight. By morning the pain will be gone. Then use Zam-Buk a few more times and the cracks will be healed. Mrs. A. F. Phillips, of Ayers Cliff, Que., says: "I suffered terribly from chapped hands. At times my hands were so sore that I could almost have cried with the pain. I tried Zam-Buk and in a very short time my hands were cured."

Mrs. W. M. Ballient, of Port Hawkesbury, N.S., writes: "Some time ago my hands were very badly chapped. Ordinary ointments did not heal them, and I was advised to try Zam-Buk. To my great delight, it healed my hands completely."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for piles, ulcers, blood-poison, varicose sores, cuts, burns, bruises, and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price.

NO INQUEST LIKELY.

Weather Will Prevent Attendance of Witnesses at Belleville.

The blockade on the Belleville branch of the G. T. R. likely prevented the continuance of the Spencely inquest at Belleville this afternoon. The despatcher at Lindsay and several other witnesses were to have been examined, but the line has been temporarily out of commission to-day until the ploughs succeed in nosing through the drifts.

Twenty Killed In A Cyclone

SNOW STORM CAUSES MUCH TROUBLE!

G.T.R. PLOWS STUCK FAST IN DRIFTS ON SEVERAL BRANCHES

Line to Port Hope Was Cleared at Noon To-day But Belleville and Toronto Lines Have Heavy Drifts.

DRIFTS HAVE BEEN HEAVY

The Storm King dealt the local division of the G. T. R. a severe blow last night just when the officials were beginning to believe that he had spent his energies with yesterday's blow. But it was not to be. The Weather Man unmasked another heavy battery last night and successfully obstructed all the branches leading to this city. It was genuine blockade for the time being, and although ploughs were sent out to struggle against the drifts they were not to be so easily disposed of, and this morning's trains had to be cancelled.

Belleville Line Blocked.

On the Belleville division the brunt of the storm was felt. A plough was sent out from the Belleville yards, but could only clear the line for several miles. The drifts were too heavy, and the plough became hardfast in one of the cuts. Several other engines were sent to its assistance, and a big effort was being made this morning to clear the line. A plough was sent from this end of the line, and it also found the going too heavy. Some progress had been made, but at two o'clock there was no definite information as to when it would be cleared. It was stated that ploughs were stuck going each way, and it was not known then whether the line would be open for the regular train this evening.

The Lakefield branch is bottled up, and the village is temporarily off the railway map. The line will receive immediate attention as soon as the others have been relieved, and there is an opportunity to direct a force on this branch.

Port Hope Line Open.

The Port Hope division was cleared at noon, when a plough reached the city and was sent on to Lindsay. The morning train was cancelled, but a passenger train followed the plough to Peterborough, and the usual Lakefield train was made up and sent to Port Hope at noon. The Port Hope train went on to Lindsay, but it was not known whether it could proceed much further. The morning train

THE STORM WAS BAD FOR BUSINESS

One drygoods man, who has been engaged in the business, locally, for a great number of years, said yesterday was the worst day for business that he could remember, while business, in one confectionery store, was said to be practically stagnant. It was remarked by a Bridgenorth resident that not a vehicle was seen on the Chemong road yesterday.

MARKET MAY BE SMALL.

Roads Are Bad and Farmers May Be Unable to Reach the City.

It is probable that the Saturday market may be small owing to the drifted roads throughout the country. There was nothing doing at all this afternoon, and a shipment of horses that were to go to Toronto to-day has been delayed owing to the fact that only a few farmers brought in horses.

C.P.R. EAST BOUND TRAINS DELAYED 8 HOURS BY DRIFTS

Midnight Train to Montreal Arrived in Peterborough at 9:25 a.m. —Was Stuck in a Drift Near Cavanville.

PLOWS OVER THE LINE

The early morning east-bound trains on the C.P.R. were over eight hours late this morning. The midnight that should arrive in Peterborough shortly after 12 p.m, did not arrive in the city until 9.25 this morning, and the train that follows it did not arrive until later. The first train was storm bound at Cavanville, according to the story of one of the passengers, and was held up for eight hours. The cuts all along the line ewre heavy with snow although the plows had been sent over the line earlier in the evening. The morning trains going west were two hours late and the local did not go up until after the first train from the west arrived in the city. This made the fourth passenger train in succession going to Toronto within a short time. There was a special, the two regular trains from Ottawa and Montreal respectively, and the local. The first east going train according to the story of one of the passengers found the road exceptionally heavy near Cavanville, and were held for eight hours until the line was open to traffic. The engine was covered with ice and snow and the pilot packed high, bearing every evidence of the hard going it experienced in some of the cuts.

Two plows went over the line yesterday afternoon travelling in opposite directions. One of them reached Peterborough at eight o'clock last night. To an Examiner reporter, the conductor said, "The road is in a worse mess than I ever saw it. We have been about eight hours doing this distance." When the wind backed to the northwest it played havoc with the cuts in the open country. The line between Peterborough and Toronto was in fair condition last evening for the local arrived not long behind scheduled time.

Among the Peterborough passengers who were stalled at Fees Cut, near Cavan Station, for eight hours last night, was Ald. Gillespie. In relating his experiences to the Examiner this morning, he said that the train was proceeding cautiously when

TWENTY PERSONS LOSE THEIR LIVES IN A TERRIBLE CYCLONE WHICH SWEEPS OVER THE SOUTHERN STATES

Whole Villages Were Blown Down and the Inhabitants Are in a Fearful State of Destitution.

HALF MILLION LOSS

Examiner Special:

NEW ORLEANS, FEB. 23.—Twenty persons killed and sixty injured, by a storm and cyclone, which swept the poorer coloured settlements in Louisanan and Mississippi during the last two or three days. Whole villages were blown down and the inhabitants are in a fearful state of destitution and suffering. The property damage will amount any way to half a million dollars.

Winter resorters on the beaches of Florida felt the tail-end of this cyclone, but there were no casualities, so far as is known. State relief trains are being sent to the assistance of the victims.

"FRYSCO TAPIOCA" A New Dessert

The following dainty and appetizing dress for this old family friend will be warmly welcomed by housewives who appreciate the high food value of tapioca and want their men folk to realise that it's something more than just "baby food."

Soak one-half cup of tapioca in cold water for two hours. Drain, pour on boiling water and cook until clear, stirring often. Add one cup of sugar, four level tablespoons of Fry's Cocoa, and when well mixed add the beaten whites of two eggs flavoured with vanilla. Serve cold with cream.

You can make this delightful dish with either rice, sago or tapioca as a base.

Anyone having accounts against the Peterborough Hockey Club are requested to send them in at once for settlement to R. M. Glover, Secretary-Treasurer at the Examiner Office.

Boards Of Trade Suggest An Ambitious Programme

TORONTO, ONT., FEB. 23.—The Provincially owned Temiscaming and Northern Ontario Railway came in for both praise and criticism at the meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario today, and a resolution was passed urging the Government to immediately extend the line north to Hudson Bay and south to Toronto, and grid-iron all Ontario, New and Old, with branch electric and steam lines, to act as feeders of the main Temiscaming lines, and provide for more economical and more adequate transportation of agricultural and manufactured products, ores and coal from all ends of the province, these lines to be controlled by the Government and local municipalities.

VOTE ON CHURCH UNION IS PROGRESSING SLOWLY

Majority of the Local Churches Have Only Completed a Portion of the Work

Results of the voting on Church Union to date:

PRESBYTERIAN.

For Church Union	3,988
Against Church Union	741

METHODIST.

One congregation heard from and twenty-four quarterly Boards, representing twenty-five places.

For Church Union	805
Against Church Union	102

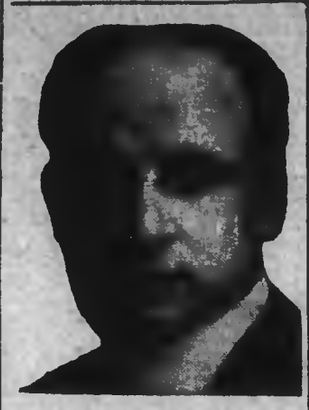
The above figures will serve to show the trend of public feeling towards Church Union in so far as the province is concerned. The Presbyterian vote gives a percentage of eighty-four in favour of Church Union, while the Methodist go one better with a percentage of eighty-five.

No complete vote has been recorded in connection with the local churches so far, and indications are that it will be a couple of weeks yet before any complete returns are in.

The Presbyterian Churches, of which there are three in this city, have, with the exception of St. Andrew's, commenced the work of distributing the ballots, and it will be several days before the returns are in hand. The results of the voting are expected to be in the hands of the clerk of the presbytery by the 15th of March. There will be three ballots used in connection with the vote on the question by the Presbyterian Church.

In the Methodist quarter, the work has reached what might be termed the second stage, inasmuch as the majority of the quarterly boards have voted on the question, and the work of distributing the remaining three ballots is well under way. The returns so far indicate an overwhelming majority for Church Union. At Mark street the vote now stands at 99-0 in favour of Church Union. Four ballots are being used to record the vote by the Methodist Church, and they have until the 15th of May in which to make their returns to the district meeting.

THE FINAL DIVIDEND OF THE YORK LOAN COMPANY WILL BE CONSIDERABLY DELAYED



H. H. Stevens, M.P., for Vancouver. Speaking at Toronto, he made a bitter attack upon the Sikhs and their representative, Dr. Sunder Singh.

Several Years' Time Will be Necessary to Gather Money to Make Payments.

FINAL WIND-UP

The final dividend of the defunct York Loan Company, will not be paid for several years yet, according to C. E. Herrington, the liquidator, yesterday. Before the next and final dividend is paid there must be $250,000 on hand. All the property owned by the Company, valued at approximately, $2,000,000, has been sold, with the exception of about $50,000 worth, and as a great deal of the purchase money remains yet to be paid, the final winding up of the concern may be delayed for some years.

There are 114,000 interested, 17,000 of whom have not yet returned their pass books, and in consequence, have not participated in the two former dividends declared. These dividends were paid in November, 1909, 25 per cent., and in December, 1911, 25 per cent.

Each dividend up to the present, has called for an expenditure of $250,000, or 25 per cent. of the total amount invested, and as the two dividends of 25 per cent. have already been paid, the stockholders, when they receive the next and final 25 per cent. will have been paid back 75 per cent. of their total investment.

PRESS ON THE VERDICT

English Speaking Press Highly Commends Judge Charbonneau's Decision in Ne Temere Case

LA PATRIE'S REMARKS

Examiner Special:

TORONTO, FEB. 23.—Generally speaking, the English-speaking press of Canada speak in terms of the highest commendation of the attitude and judgment of Judge Charbonneau, in the Hebert Ne Temere case. Several have editorially expressed the opinion that the Government should make it the basis of a stated case to be sent on to the Privy Council, by the Minister of Justice. The French Canadien press, however, as represented by Montreal La Patrie, are vigorous in the denunciation of Protestants, who interfered with the matrimonial troubles of individuals. "Ne Temere, says La Patrie, "only concerns the conscience of Catholics, and the Charbonneau judgment should be appealed to the foot of the throne.

Worrying Over The Situation

LONDON, ENG., FEB. 23.—Generally speaking England is going about its business on the principle "never trouble trouble till trouble comes". But officially, England is worrying a good deal about the situation, and Premier Asquith and his colleagues are not inclined this morning to be very optimistic of a settlement of the coal miners' troubles, and an avoidance of the disaster, which must follow a strike. The chief difficulty seems to be with the Welsh coal operators, who decline to accede to the principle of a minimum wage. Further conferences are being held this morning.

Norwood House Changes Hands

Mr. D. N. King, of Peterborough, when in Norwood earlier in the week, announced that he had leased from the owner, Mr. L. Hayes, of Peterborough, for a term of years, the corner hotel now known as The Norwood House, and will take possession in a few weeks.

At the expiration of the present tenant's lease, about the middle of March, extensive alterations and repairs are to be undertaken. The house is to be thoroughly renovated, re-painted, re-papered, and re-furnished from top to bottom, and, on the first day of April, re-opened and re-christened as "King's Hotel."

HEALTH EXHIBITION AND DEMONSTRATION

A public Health Exhibition and Demonstration, under the auspices of the Provincial Board of Health and the local health authorities, will open in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute on Tuesday evening next, and continue Wednesday and Thursday. The exhibition, which will be open on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, from 4 o'clock, and in the evenings of the same days, will consist of objects and drawings and illustrations intended to give popular knowledge upon subjects relating to health.

There will also be informal lectures, illustrated by, or, incidental to, moving pictures. The several subjects illustrated will be "Flies," "Milk" and "Tuberculosis."

The admission will be free and the public is cordially invited to be present at these interesting and instructive demonstrations.

SICKLY CHILDREN

Made Strong and Rosy by Vinol —It Makes Them Eat.

Pale, sickly children usually have poor appetites. But you can get them to eating heartily in a few days by giving them Vinol, our delicious tonic, in teaspoonful doses. There is a book in every package that tells exactly what to do for such children.

"Seven years ago when my little girl was two years old," says Mrs. Carl Wittenberg, of Brooklyn, "she was quite delicate and we gave her Vinol. It helped her so much that this spring when the doctor said she had weak lungs and needed blood, I knew Vinol would do her good again. I started her on it right away and it does her far more good than all the doctor's medicines. I feel like we are putting new life into our little girl when we give her Vinol."

Children like to take Vinol for the taste is pleasant, and we guarantee that Vinol will build them up and make them strong—if it does not, we give back your money. McDermid and Jury, Druggists, cor. George and Charlotte Sts.; also Payne's Drug Store, cor. George and Simcoe Sts., Peterborough, Ont.

PREPARATIONS FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY

The Dramatic Section of St. Peter's T. A. S. will, as usual, have the Grand Opera House on St. Patrick's Day, March 17th.

Preparations, which are in capable hands, are already in progress, and it is anticipated that the event will be more successful than any of its predecessors. The entertainment will take the form of an attractive Irish play, and a feature of the evening will be the Philharmonic Quartette, who will render fresh selections.

PETERBORO' INTERMEDIATES DOUBLED SCORE ON SENIOR T.A.A.C. TEAM OF TORONTO

Score in Last Night's Exhibition Game Was 12 to 6 in Favour of Peterborough, with the Half Time Score 5-1.

SMALL CROWD PRESENT

The stormy weather interfered with the attendance at last night's hockey match at Brock Street Rink, and the smallest crowd of the season saw the Peterborough Intermediates double the score on the Senior T. A. A. C. team of Toronto, the blue and white team winning by 12 goals to 6, after leading at half-time by 5 goals to 1. The Crimson had had five of their own regulars and Barlett and Hunter of the Parkdale Seniors, so that it was a thoroughly representative senior aggregation that the Petes put away. The visitors had a light, fast team, with lots of speed and stick-handling ability, and fair combination, but they were not aggressive in boring in, and Derocher looked after the shots from outside with his usual accuracy. On the other hand the Petes were far more dangerous when in close and took full advantage of their opportunities, although they largely adopted individual tactics, and there was little or no combination. It was a good game from a spectator's standpoint, as there was any amount of good, individual work on both sides. The ice was about the fastest of the season, and both teams found the going thoroughly to their liking. T. A. A. C. scored the first goal, but the Petes soon overhauled them and took the lead, remaining in front all the way through the battle.

Harvey Sproule, who was to have refereed, failed to get through from Midland and Fred Denison was pressed into service and made a good job of the bill-ringing stunt. His duties were light as both teams were clean in their tactics.

McCannus and Brown, the two wing men were the stars of the visiting team. Both are very light, but they have speed to throw away, and their rushes were marked by pretty stick handling. Ack. Hunter and Barlett the two Parkdale men, contributed some spectacular dashes from the defence. Ken. Crane was at centre, and demonstrated that his wrist shot is as effective as ever, by beating Derocher on several occasions. Smith, the goal-keeper, handled a number of long shots nicely, but Park had his goal when in close, fooling him badly four or five times.

Derocher showed the same old reliable stuff in the nets. "Some goal-keeping there. We should have had four or five," Brown, of the T. A. A. C. team remarked at half-time. Bond and Bearss were effective, both on the defence and attack. Kelly and Parke were the pick of the forward line. As an experiment, the attacking division was shifted, Kelly going to rover and Giroux to left wing. Kelly more than made good at the centre ice position, which gave him more chance to use his speed and stick-handling. He tore off some beautiful rushes and shot nicely, as usual. Park had a great time with Smith, the Crimson goal-keeper, beating him for eight goals. On three occasions he carried the rubber from behind the nets and scored before Smith had time to wake up. Coughlin was handicapped with a pair of dull skates which were of little use on the slippery going. Giroux, after two seasons as rover, did not find the wing position entirely to his liking. The teams were as follows:

T.A.A.C. were first to break into the scoring column, Bartlett doing the trick, after a nice rush three-quarters of the length of the rink. Peterborough evened it up in short order, when Park scored after Smith had stopped one shot following a combination rush between Park and Coughlin. A minute or two later, Kelly put Peterborough ahead, after Smith had made a good stop of a short-range shot from Park. The lead was increased two minutes after when Kelly scored in an unusual manner. A face-off took place near the middle of the rink and Kelly, who was playing centre, while Park served a penalty, scooped the puck, as it was dropped, his long lift dropping into the nets. Smith never saw the rubber until it hit the twine. Coughlin made it 4 to 1 by scoring after a neat combination rush with Giroux and Park just before half-time. Park added another by a neat shot from the side. Half-time score Peterborough 5, T.A.A.C. 1.

T.A.A.C. scored early in the second half. Brown stamming one behind Derocher from a scrimmage. Park made it 6-2 by batting in a rebound and added another a minute later by wiggling the rubber out from the corner and fooling Smith. McCannus added one for T.A.A.C. on a nice rush, making it 7-3, but Park got it back quickly. He worked inside nicely and drew Smith out. His shot hit the post, but he had nothing to do but bat the rubber into the empty net. Crane got the next counter on a combination rush, and Park came back with another, scoring on a rebound. Another passing rush gave Crane a chance, which he made good use of, and the score was 9-5. Once more Park scored by neat work, close in. He went behind the nets for the rubber and although checked by four crimson men, squirmed out far enough to slam it round the post and behind Smith. Giroux made the figures read 11-5, by a long shot from the side, and then Crane added another for T. A. A. C. from a scrimmage. Park got the last goal of the game by scooping one past Smith on a neat pass by Kelly. Final score, Peterborough 12, T.A.A.C. 6.

CAMPBELLFORD FANS ARE COCKY OVER THEIR TEAM

"Despatch" Says They Have Something More Than Seven Jerseys and a Similiar Number of Sticks---Peterborough to Lose Trent Valley Silverware as Well as O.H.A. Honours.

Campbellford is naturally tickled over its victory on Tuesday, when the Trent town's seven put it over the Abstainers in a ten-minute extra by one goal. The feeling down east is well expressed in the following from the "Philosophers' Column" in the Campbellford Despatch of Thursday:

Once upon a time our Trent Valley hockey team visited Peterborough, and were written up by the sporting scribe of the Examiner as "seven brilliant Jerseys and as many hockey sticks." Well, we don't like to rub it in, but after Tuesday night's game it looks as if there was something behind the hockey sticks. It takes a good team to beat the T.A.S., but we have that good team. Our boys play in the Electric City Friday night, and it looks as if the Examiner man would need to materially alter his first impressions. Campbellford goes up to win, and the five hundred fans who accompany the team will have some opportunity to think. We are sorry for Peterborough. They have lost both the Intermediate and Junior O.H.A., and we are willing to wager they will lose the Trent Valley silverware to our "seven brilliant Jerseys." You cannot raise good hockey players on Quaker oats. Electric power is the stuff to make them go it. Well done Campbellford.

BASEBALL MEETING AT THE ORIENTAL

Invitations to attend the baseball meeting at the Oriental Hotel are being sent out as follows: Believing that Peterborough would be benefited by the introduction into the city of a good line of summer sport, and seeing no opportunity of this place being represented in any way, other than having a team in the Canadian Baseball League, you are cordially invited to be present at a meeting at the Oriental Hotel on Saturday evening at 9 o'clock, to meet Mr. M. M. Robinson, secretary of the Canadian Baseball League, who will go into the matter in detail, relative to a team being placed in the League from here. No one as yet is interested from any standpoint other than that they believe a town or city is benefited by good live sporting organizations, and those who are taking any part in the meeting for Saturday evening have no other object in view than to discuss this fact. Your presence will be appreciated.

All interested are invited whether or not they have received a notice.

Put Arms To Bad On Training Trip

CLEVELAND, FEB. 23.—"It is a shame so many baseball recruits will persist in throwing their arms out of commission on the spring training trip," remarked Harry Davis, the Naps' manager, for it is impossible for a manager to watch every one of his 30 or 40 players and see that none cuts loose too quickly in the spring. Now, Connie Mack is as careful with his men as any manager.

"In fact, I doubt if there is another manager in the country who warns his men against injury in the spring as often as Connie, and yet Lefty Russell, the left-hander from Baltimore, upon whom he depended so much, was of no use to him last season, because he got a lame arm on the training trip.

"Lefty Russell, though, was not the first promising recruit who threw away his chances of making good on the training trip. And he will not be the last either. As long as minor league recruits are taken South, there will be youngsters who will try to place their whole stock-in-trade on exhibition the first week and who will try to cut loose on a cold, damp day just as hard as on an afternoon built to order for the great national pastime. The wise guys among the recruits are few and far between. Nine-tenths of them are overambitious and they cannot restrain themselves. Naturally, they will look to have class superior to that of the veterans—during the training season—but when the regular campaign is inaugurated they step back where they belong, four times out of five.

"Many, many years ago Frank Knauss, one of the best southpaws ever bought by a Cleveland club, threw his arm out on a training trip, and Pat Teabeau lost a pennant as a result. But there is no use delving into ancient history to find instances of players ruining their chances of making good by too great a display of energy in the spring.

"In fact, it was only a few years ago that Heine Berger was taunted by Syd Smith at Atlanta into giving a great exhibition of his assortment of curves and speed. As a result, Heine was of no use to Cleveland until September.

"Last spring Cleveland had several pitchers who worked far too hard during the stay at Alexandria and New Orleans, and it took them almost until August to get right again. Kaler and Blanding were two. Willie Mitchell did not hurt himself down South, but coming North he was worked too often on cold days and suffered as a result.

"Elliott, the young infielder, bought from the Ohio and Pennsylvania League, a year ago, was a victim of the training trip last spring. He cut loose too much on a cold day at Birmingham and his arm was never right again all year. And he is said to be a splendid prospect.

"'Buck' O'Brien, the spitball wonder of the Boston Red Sox, is another example. He tried his various shoots so continuously when with Boston on the coast last spring that he wore all the skin off his index finger and Manager Donovan never got a chance to see what he could do, finally farming him out to Denver.

"The trouble with the youngsters is that these recruits, who have never been South so early in the year and have not been required to join a club before April 1, in many instances, have never had a sore arm, and consequently get to make themselves believe that they cannot get lame. There is a first time, though, for every player, and when that time arrives it may put him out of the game for weeks, months, or an entire season. It is the greatest evil that a manager has to guard against."

Big League Ball Players

DETROIT, FEB. 23.—Unless Ty. Cobb changes his mind, there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth among the fans of Monroe, La., and some of the other cities visited by the Tigers in the spring training period. The reason for all this approaching sadness is that the Peach declares he will not go south this year until about April 1. If he adheres to this programme, he will not be seen at Monroe at all, but will pick up the Tigers somewhere in the vicinity of Birmingham. This will cut Monroe, New Orleans and Mobile off the star's calling list and will mean a very considerable reduction in the revenue that might be derived from the exhibitions in those cities were Ty to appear in the line-up.

If such a state of things can be imagined, Cobb is even more popular in the south than he is in Detroit. Thousands of fans below the Mason and Dixie line go to the exhibition games for no other purpose than to view the wonderful southern athlete in action. It will be useless for the Tigers' management to point out that Cobb isn't the whole team and that there are a number of stars other than he who are certain to give the fans a run for their money. The south wants to see Cobb and it will accept no substitute. However, all this is an old story by this time.

In Monroe last year, the eager populace hardly could wait until the Peach reported, which he did later than anybody else. From the moment of his arrival, the Tigers' practice sessions were well attended by the fans, while before that only a few small boys turned out as a general thing.

Cobb or Nobody.

"Is Ty Cobb with you all?" invariably is the first question asked of the Tigers on their arrival in a Dixie town, and a negative reply serves to kill almost all the interest in the visitors. Lacking Cobb, the recruit outfield couldn't draw enough to pay car fare in any city in the south or south-west.

Cobb's reason for not going south until late is simply that he doesn't believe that he needs the work. He never has any trouble in keeping his weight down to the proper figure, and says that he requires only about a week's practice in hitting to give him an eye for judging the flight of a pitched ball. As for fielding, he finds that the knack of catching fly balls and stopping grounders does not leave him during the winter.

The Peach worked very hard in his recent theatrical venture, and came home thin and tired as a result of the unaccustomed hours and toil. He feels that his greatest need right now is for plenty of rest and sleep and to this end he probably will take things easy for the next couple of months. By April he should be in fine shape, and after looking over a few curves and fast ones, probably will have his batting eye as bright as ever

Good for Big Fellows.

Tyrus thinks that training trips are a good thing for big men who have to take off weight and for recruits who need to become accustomed to playing in speedy company before the championship season starts. He thinks that the youngsters have a much better chance to show their true worth when they are in the south with other players who have had no more practice than the juveniles themselves than would be the case were the kids to try to break in during the regular season.

ABOUT BASEBALL

In six weeks the crack of the bat against the cork-centre ball will be heard in all sections of Dixieland, for by that time a small army, consisting of almost 1,000 major and class AA minor league players will have invaded the country south of the Mason and Dixon line.

The sixteen major league teams will be scattered over eight states. Arkansas is the favourite, as four teams will train within its borders. Texas and Georgia are tied for second place, as each state will entertain three battalions. Louisiana is only a step behind the Lone Star and Cracker states, as two of the big fellows will train there. Alabama and Virginia will each see one big league club get in action; Indiana will be the stamping ground for another member of the fast set for one week, while Missouri will have a chance to peck at two of the big fellows getting in fighting trim.

The claim of Arkansas for distinction as a training ground is due to the fact that Hot Springs is within its state lines. Hot Springs always has been a favourite place with big league teams, and this season Pittsburg, Brooklyn, and Philadelphia of the National League and the Boston Americans will get into condition at the health resort. Hot Springs lost one of its regular visitors when Cincinatti decided to train in Columbus, Ga.

Texas Honoured.

Texas in recent years has been looming up strongly as a training ground. The two champion teams of last season—the Giants and Athletics—will do their preliminary work in the Lone Star state, unless the prevalence of meningitis there compels these teams to look for another place.

The Giants will start the ball rolling on their own grounds in Marlin, while the Athletics will round into shape in San Antonio. Jimmy Callahan's White Sox also will be an attraction in Texas, as the white-hosed warriors from the Windy city will train in Waco.

Georgia is another popular training state, and this season will entertain the New York Highlanders, Boston Nationals and the Cincinatti Reds. The Hillmen will train in Atlanta, the Bostonese in Augusta, and Hank O'Day's charges will limber up in Columbus.

The teams which will make Louisiana their temporary homes are the two former champions of the big leagues—the Chicago Cubs and the Detroit Tigers. Chance's stalwarts will hold forth in New Orleans, while Jennings' Tigers will do their preliminary work in Monroe. Alabama's claim for fame is due to the fact that the Cleveland Naps will train in Mobile.

Washington will be the attraction in Virginia, and will hold forth in Charlottesville, where Griffith's men will play on the University of Virginia's diamond. Last season the Nationals trained in Atlanta, where the Kilties will be put through their capers this spring.

Complaints About The Car Service

Editor Post Card Column,—

Allow me as a south end resident to place before the public a few facts concerning the inadequate car service which the south end of the city receives. Yesterday at 12.5 p.m. I had occasion to go to the north end of the city, and proposed taking a street car to accomplish that end. When I arrived at the C.G.E. works the car had just left, and it was up to me to wait for the next one, which arrived on the scene after a lapse of 55 minutes. It appears that the car which left the works at 12.5 went north to Smith street and returned to Sherbrooke street, then again back to Smith street, leaving the south end of the city without service for an hour, all but five minutes.

Now, in fairness to the residents of the south end I would suggest that an extra car be put on or transfer the passengers on the midday car and let the Edison car return.

The Canadian General Electric car is often pressed into service to take a load out to Jackson Park when the corner of George and Charlotte is congested, leaving the south end without car service for an indefinite period. This has happened not only once but on several occasions until many of the south end residents are inclined to look upon the service as a joke, or with a feeling of indignation.

ARE MICROBES IN YOUR SCALP?

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebum, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots, and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently help to restore gray and faded hair to its original colour, providing loss of colour has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by aiding in making every hair root, follicle, and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of colouring pigment throughout the hair cells.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give Rexall "93" Hair Tonic a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain it in Peterborough only at our store—The Rexall Store. M'Dermid and Jury.

VAGRANTS BEWARE

The stiff sentences handed out to the two vagrants in the Police Court yesterday, is an instance of how the authorities propose to deal with such cases. These men were apprehended by Special Constable Pinchin of the C. P. R. on the Company's property They beat their way to this city via C.P.R., on Wednesday, and, not content with this, they lingered around the C.P.R. station until ordered off by the special constable. They returned next morning and repeated the performance, and were ordered off the Compay's property three times. They refused to go, and followed up their remarks with threats of violence towards the Constable. At considerable risk to his life, Constable Pinchin arrested the toughs and brought them to the police station, where they were taken in hand by Magistrate Dumble, the results of which are already known. The C. P. R. authorities have announced their intention of taking drastic steps towards the elimination of the hobo evil, and propose to deal with such cases in the future to the full extent of the law.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

ERNIE MARKS COMPANY.

"Reaping the Whirlwind" the product of the modern school of drama, which, in its short existence, has taken audiences in the United States and Canada by storm, pleased a large audience in the Opera House last night. The play was put on by the well-known Ernie Marks Stock Company, and is the first of three different performances to be given this week. There are nine characters in the story and each and every one handle their respective roles in finished style. The plot was of deep political and social import, and was abounding in dramatic episode that gripped the audience with a feeling of intense suspense. The work of Arthur Hesbert, as Manders Moffett, a country banker, with prejudiced political and social views, left nothing to be desired, and his work was heartily applauded, as was also that of Ernie Marks, who appeared in the role of William Watson. Appearing with the company are also several high-class vaudeville artists, including the well-known De-Luna-De Luna a clever sketch artist, whose work must be seen to be appreciated, and Frank [illegible] Brooks, monologist, whose work [illegible] was proven [illegible] of constant [illegible]ter. The work of these artists is polished and is a pleasing variation during the intermission. Ernie Marks and his funmakers ought to be a great drawing card for the week at the Opera House, especially with such a strong array of acts as comprise the show.

REV. MR. BOSWORTH COMING TO CITY

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me, through the valued columns of your fair and honest paper, the privilege of showing my personal appreciation of the friendly spirit of the Orange Association towards the work Baptists have been trying to do for the last seventy-five years among the French Roman Catholics of Quebec?

As secretary of the Grand League Board of the Peterborough Association, I feel constrained to say that I am proud of the Orange Association. It has its faults. It is not infallible, but it has its good points too, as the following letter reveals, which was written by Bro. E. Bosworth, secretary of our Grand Ligue Mission, Quebec:

To W. M. Fitzgerald, Esq., 142 Morse st., Toronto.

My Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of your very kind note containing enclosure of one hundred and seventy-five dollars ($175.00) from the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West. Enclosed please find receipt. I should be glad if you could find an opportunity of expressing, through the executive or other constituted body, the grateful appreciation of our mission for this generous expression of the sympathy and co-operation of the Orange body with us in our work. We cannot but feel that in many aspects our work is one, while perhaps ours may come a little nearer to the individual Romanist, and deals more closely with the personal state of his soul, yet in the struggle for civil and religious liberty, we must, of necessity, stand shoulder to shoulder, and, in this respect, the success of one is the success of both.

Again thanking you and, through you, your society, for this kindness.—Yours sincerely, E. Bosworth.

Rev. E. Bosworth will speak at the evening service of the Park Street Baptist Church next Sunday evening and tell the Orangemen of Peterborough to what purpose theirs and all other contributions to Grand Ligne work is being put.—Yours, etc.,

W. C. Riddifard.

Water Commission Held Meeting

A meeting of the Water Commissioners was held on Thursday night, with Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman, and Mr. W. H. Moore present. Mr. Lester, of the McDougall Caledonia Iron Works, of Montreal, met the Commissioners in regard to the turbine pump which the company has installed at the pumping station.

According to the contract under which this unit was provided, it was to pump three million gallons of water per day under a pressure of 130 lbs. per square inch in the discharge mains. The engineer, Mr. Wm. Kennedy, jr., was left as the arbiter between the company and the Commissioners. In his report, he stated that the capacity of the pump comes up to requirements for all practical purposes, but it is claimed that there is more noise than was expected of it. No action was taken by the Commissioners at the meeting last night, and the matter will be given further consideration.

If you want be fully protected it is just as necessary to insure against loss of rent in case of fire as to insure against the loss of the building itself. The Market Court

The habitues of the market had a peculiar case to deal with this morning. An individual who had purchased a load of wood on Saturday, paid $4.50 for it, and had a grievance that he had not received a full cord. The "Judge" asked him to state his case for the benefit of the assembly.

"Well," he said, "this farmer told me that there was a full cord, and when I measured it up I found it to be 6 ft. long by 6 ft. high."

"How long were the sticks?" the "Judge" asked.

"They were four feet," and the answering laughter was lost on the complainant, who failed to see where the joke was.

"Do you mean to say that you accuse this farmer of giving you short measure after telling us those figures?"

"Well, it was higher on one side than on the other."

And again the audience laughed loud, and order had to be called for.

"You have slandered this farmer," the "Judge" began. "You got more than you paid for. You purchased a cord and you got more than the law allows; and then you bring a complaint of that nature before this court. The judgment is that you will be blacklisted among the farmers if anything of this nature occurs again. Solomon has spoken."

Farmers Were Few.

There were no farmers on the market yesterday, and only one or two today. Several cattle buyers and drovers braved the elements yesterday in spite of Old Probs., but they covered but little ground. The roads were too much for them. The railways gave out notice that no live stock would be handled owing to the condition of the roads and the severity of the weather. There was therefore nothing brought in for shipment to the city markets. Hogs, likewise, were non est.

Cover the Horses.

"Where is the Society for the Prevention of the Cruelty to Animals?" asked the "Judge." "Do you see that team out there?" as he pointed towards the Square. "They came in here an hour ago, after pulling that load of wood through the heavy roads, and were overheated. And there were no blankets put over them. Some of those people don't deserve to have dumb brutes in their possession if they can't take better care of them than that. They will lose them one of these days, and then they will wonder what happened to them. We ought to be affiliated with the society. Consider the good we could do."

The man with the felt shoes answered, "Aye, aye," and the conversation lulled.

FEW GOING WEST

Not the Usual Number of Cars Booked For at This Time of Year

There is not the usual evidences of spring western movement by people from this district intending to try their fortunes in the west. Mr. W. S. Dodd of the C.P.R., stated that it may be a little early yet for indications of those going west, but at this time last year there were quite a number of cars ordered both by farmers and city dwellers. At present several cars have been booked and they are for a party of Peterborough people who are moving together. It may be that as spring approaches there will be the usual activity but so far business has been behind that of last year.

TO CHECK A COLD

It is easy to check a cold if you begin in time. Frequent doses of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine keep the cough loose, allay the inflammation, and so prevent it spreading to the bronchial tubes and lungs. Mrs. S. M. Moore, Shortreed, B.C., writes: "I wish to state my gratitude for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, for it cured a cold which a friend said would soon put me in the grave."

OBITUARY

MRS. W. MONTGOMERY.

The Village of Norwood has lost one of its most respected citizens in the person of Mrs. W. Montgomery, who passed away on the 19th inst. Last Tuesday Mrs. Montgomery was stricken with acute peritonitis and from the first her condition was seen to be serious. The three local doctors were called in but to no avail. Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery have only been married about four years, and she leaves her sorrowing husband with three small children, the youngest being an infant of a few weeks. Deceased was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kemps, of Norwood.

Including representatives from the local lodges of Masons and Oddfellows, many friends of the deceased assembled at the funeral, as a last token of esteem. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Geo. Gillespie, A. Archibald, Wm. Hill, H. Long, G. McDonald, D. Drummond, Wm. Savigny and Dr. R. F. Morrow.

REMOVING THE SNOW.

Gang of Men Engaged To-Day to Clear the Streets of the Beautiful.

Street Commissioner Evans engaged 33 men and four teams of horses this morning to remove the snow from the streets. They have been distributed throughout the city, with particular attention being given to those places where the sidewalks have been drifted too heavily for the snow plows. If there is no further fall of snow the work will be completed in a few days.

TIT-BITS

When some countenances are subjected to a reasonably close scrutiny the intelligent student of physiognomy is no longer inclined to wonder at crime. The fact of human perversity seems clear, and the observer is apt to realise that he is living in a strange and awful world. We may slip along through the daily routine without being appalled by these facial evidences because the living countenance in most cases is animated by a constantly changing play of emotions, leding concealment to depravity and giving a softening effect that is advantageous. Occasional faces are seen, of course, which seem shocking in their revelation of inherent brutality and apparent lack of human quality, but such faces are exceptional. With the average, the worst effects are an acquired coldness of expression, a supercilious look and an apparent lack of intelligence. There is nothig to make it seem incredible that these persons do not have their finer and softer moments, when they may exhibit those sentiments and emotions which are accepted as marks of the loftier side of human nature.

But the living face in its relation to the real character might be likened to an expert juggler manipulating the various articles of his mystic trade. Except in moments of revery or abstraction the expression is constantly changing; it scarcely remains the same for five consecutive seconds. It is a case of "Now you see me, and now you don't," and it is extremely difficult to determine when you may be catching a glimpse of the real character, and when the fleeting expression may be a misleading token, involuntary, perhaps, on the part of the individual, but cunningly calculated by nature to deceive the eye of the spectator.

Hence the genuine ability to "read character" in facial expression is much rarer than is commonly supposed. It is not only a fine art but an intricate one. Most persons who fancy that they possess it in some degree are really proceeding upon a sort of blind instinct, which is likely to be deceived entirely by superficial indications. The accurate judges of men are extremely scarce; their gift is one which should invariably lead them to success if they are blessed with half an opportunity.

The appraisal of character by photographic evidence may be as erroneous as that which is based on the living face, but at least the photograph gives opportunity for continuous study and shows none of those shifting moods which are sure to confuse the judgment. The camera catches its subject as he or she may appear at the given moment. It may be an inopportune moment, the camera may be a poor one, there may be a fault in the plate, or the photographer may lack skill, but something of the true soul and character of the subject is bound to appear on the surface and to stand revealed to all who see it.

The truth may be somewhat qualified by the fact that the average person in front of a camera is invariably more or less self-conscious, but in general effect the dominant qualities are at least partially revealed, so that in almost any photographic portrait one may see strength of character, vanity, self-esteem, nobility, meanness, fussiness, unscrupulousness or what-not, as the case may be.

When photographs are "reproduced" by half-tone process the essential facts of the physiognomy are sometimes obscured, especially in the hurried processes of newspaper portraitures. Still, in all but the most atrocious examples of such art, these essential facts show through, even if it be with but a dim glow.—Providence Journal.

Dodges Discussion

Sir James Again Avoids Manitoba Boundary Question

NEW BILL INTRODUCED

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Sir James Whitney postponed discussion of the Manitoba boundary question yesterday in the Legislature despite the urging of Mr. Rowell.

The latter wanted to know if the discussion over this boundary question was not going to proceed.

"Oh, not this afternoon," replied Sir James Whitney.

"Well, when might we expect to continue it?" asked Mr. Rowell. "The situation is this, that the matter is at present before the Dominion Government, and a resolution of this Legislature should be obtained before the Dominion Government has passed upon the matter. The expression of this House might affect the result."

"But what would be the effect if this House defeats the motion?" interjected Sir James.

"Then we think the people of the province would have the right to judge the action of the Government in rejecting such a motion. Perhaps, then, we can go on with the discussion of the Judicature Act," suggested Mr. Rowell.

"No; I move that the House adjourn," replied Sir James, "and I may say that nobody who has occupied the seat I do, has endeavored more than I to accomodate members of the Opposition as regards discussions and everything else. I will leave it to the judgment of this House if the Government is not justified in taking any action it may see fit, when it assumes responsibility for the result of its action. I will even leave it to the hon. gentleman who sits next to the leader of the Opposition."

"There is only this about it," replied Hon. A. G. MacKay, "that the Ottawa correspondence indicates that the Ontario-Manitoba boundary bill is now before the Dominion House and the sooner we get a resolution from this House on the matter the more useful it would be in affecting the result of the deliberations at Ottawa."

An adjournment of the House, however, was agreed to.

J. A. Ellis (Ottawa West) was a busy man yesterday afternoon. He introduced three bills in the Legislature at the request of the Ontario Municipal Association. He wants to amend the Municipal Act by giving municipalities the right to remove dangerous fences, buildings or other structures. This is to prevent any accident such as occurred last year in Hamilton when a large water tank connected with a fire sprinkler collapsed.

Mr. Ellis also wants to amend the Municipal Act by providing that municipalities shall not be liable for accidents on streets, unless the municipality or one of its officials knew that the defect which caused the accident existed. This bill has in the previous session been approved by the municipal committee, but was defeated in the House.

A. A. Mahaffy wants to amend the Municipal Act affecting the licensing of moving picture shows. The law now contains the words "where vaudeville performances are introduced," and the result is that in the case of moving picture shows where vaudeville is not introduced, there is no power to impose licenses.

R. H. McElroy (Carleton) proposes an amendment to the Municipal Act, giving power to county councils after a good roads bylaw is passed in a county, to issue debentures yearly up to $30,000 in each year for building roads. At present county councils can only issue debentures up to $30,000 in one year without submitting to the people for vote. Where a county council has issued debentures up to $30,000 for some other purpose, they cannot then issue other debentures for good road purposes without asking the people to vote on the proposition.

Mr. McElroy also has an amendment to the act for the improvement of public highways to provide for the issue of debentures for the expenditure of money in building them.

Hon. J. J. Foy says that $149,084 is approximately the amount of money it has cost the province for statute revision. This was in reply to a question by Wm. Proudfoot of Centre Huron as to the names of all persons to whom payments have been made in connection with the present revision of the statutes, and the total amount paid to each.

There is talk of a bill being introduced at the present session of the Legislature to abolish all property qualifications in municipal elections. The proposed bill is a radical change from the present act, and is intended to permit candidates to run for office who have neither a bank account nor real estate to their credit.

Fishories' Agreement?

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—An agreement satisfactory both to Canada and the United States in regard to the future regulations of the fisheries is understood to have been made, as the result of the recent conference at Washington. Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who with E. L. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, and Sir Joseph Pope, Deputy Minister of External Affairs, represented the Dominion Government at the conference, returned to Ottawa yesterday.

Mr. Hazen said yesterday that the conference was very satisfactory, but he was not in a position to make a statement.

Newfoundland is still to be consulted and no definite announcement as to the terms will be made until they are communicated with.

Canal Is Favoured

Georgian Bay Scheme Approved by Boards of Trade

SHOULD DEVELOP NORTH

Toronto, Feb. 24.—The expected didn't happen at the concluding session of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade yesterday. The bitter fight between the north and the south over the Georgian Bay Canal proposition lapsed into something similar to a meeting of Quakers, and a resolution advocating the immediate construction of the proposed waterway for the benefit of the eastern portion of New Ontario, was shoved through the session, accompanied by optimistic platitudes and honeyed words, with no dissension whatever.

When the proposition was broached there was an expectation that a warm verbal argument would ensue. It did, for a moment or two, and then it calmed down, when a man from the north arose and spoke in a vein likened to this: "Let's beg the whole thing, Welland Canal, Georgian Bay Canal and any other undertaking of value lying loose!" And with that the resolution with a few additional suggestions was given entirely smooth passage.

What a Georgian Bay Canal would be to the north country was explained in glowing rhetoric by delegates from that province. One thing, it would cheapen coal. At present North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie and all points of any importance are absolutely shy of this fuel, because of inadequate transportation facilities. Besides advocating the much-discussed canal, a resolution with regard to improving French River was passed, and will be forwarded to the Government.

It was with perfect unanimity that the delegates came to a conclusion with regard to the proper colonization of the north country. A resolution was passed urging the Government to take immediate action with regard to expending the appropriation of five million dollars and doing something to bring about rapid settlement of the new land by an English-speaking community. R. Home Smith moved the resolution, which was seconded by C. T. Young of North Bay.

Sir James Whitney was congratulated upon his announcement of an appropriation of $5,000,000 for New Ontario development and the resolution suggested the appointment of a commission, with one salaried resident commissioner, to investigate conditions and prepare a report for submission to the Government on the means of improvement.

The borrowing of industries by municipalities came in for much criticism, which culminated in a resolution of condemnation and a request to be sent to the Government to prohibit the pratcice. The resolution, which was introduced by Col. Raymond of Welland and seconded by L. W. Lyon of Guelph, said: "That granting bonuses to manufacturers, except by way of fixed assessment or freedom from taxation, should be prohibited and that a committee be appointed with a view to having an enactment of legislation." When this was put to a vote only one delegate showed his disapproval.

Responsibility for outbreaks of typhoid fever and general unsanitary conditions in New Ontario towns was laid at the feet of the Government by Delegate Pipe of Cobalt, who presented a resolution on behalf of the northern boards urging that the Government institute some plan of control of townsites before incorporation.

"Taxation of Mail-Order Houses" was the topic of a resolution placed on the menu by the Goderich Board of Trade. However, it savored of something a little bit too bitter for the convention. R. Home Smith suggested that it be given a hoist, and the executive committee be allowed to consider it and submit it to the next meeting. He said that it could not be given proper consideration as the convention had been depleted in numbers by the fact that a large percentage had gone home. Seemingly, the chief objection to the mail-order business was that it did serious injury to the trade of the rural merchants.

The resolution, in part, said: That this board is satisfied that the large departmental stores and others which carry on business by the system known as the retail mail order and catalogue system, are doing a serious injury to the merchants throughout the province, and as they contribute nothing toward the up-keep of the various municipalities, an effort should be made to remedy or to mitigate this evil. It was suggested that the Legislature pass an act making it compulsory for a house carrying on the mail order business to pay a fixed annual fee to each municipality in which goods are sold and delivered, or pay an assessment on the value of all goods sold and delivered in each municipality other than the one where the place of business was situated.

Must Fight, Says Hebert.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—Eugene Hebert, the legally divorced and re-married principal of the famous suit decided Thursday, said yesterday that his legal advisers were considering the question of an appeal.

Asked how it was after dropping the case and pleading poverty, he was contemplating going on with the case, he said that if his wife could afford the litigation he would have to.

Mrs. Hebert could not be seen, but her lawyer, G. V. Chenier, said she was overjoyed by the result.

Strathcona Trust Roasted.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—There was considerable criticism of the scheme for the administration of the trust established by Lord Strathcona for the introduction of physical training in Canada, at yesterday's session of the convention of the American Physical Education Association, held in the medical building at McGill.

The physical instruction was to be given by drill sergeants, said a speaker, and was to be military in style. Thus immobility and precision in meaningless movements and exercises founded on unscientific motions were to be perpetuated.

What was wanted, it was claimed, was teaching by men and women, who had been trained in physiology.

Arraignment March 12.

Indianapolis, Feb. 24.—Arrangements were completed by the Government yesterday for the arraignment on March 12 of the men indicted in the dynamite conspiracy cases.

District Attorney Miller announced that about 18 of the 54 defendants would go before Federal Judge Anderson here and enter please in answer to the 33 indictments. The McNamaras, Ortie McManigal, and probably several of the defendants who are also indicted on the Pacific coast probably will not appear, and John J. McCray, formerly of Wheeling, W. Va., has not yet been apprehended.

Prince Arthur Injured.

London, Feb. 24.—Prince Arthur of Connaught, son of the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, was yesterday thrown from his horse while fox hunting at Sinnington, in Yorkshire. It was first believed that he was seriously injured, but the surgeons who were called, after a thorough examination, declared that he had no serious hurt, although he was greatly shaken.

Kingston, Feb. 24.—The city has recovered somewhat from the blizzard, but the country roads are still blocked and no mail has been received from the country side or Cape Vincent, N.Y. Uniform System

Sir Wilfred Wants an Equitable Good Roads Plan

NEW BILL INTRODUCED

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's proposal to provide by statute a uniform and equitable principle of giving aid to the various provinces for the construction and maintenance of permanent highways occasioned a sharp and illuminating debate in the Commons yesterday. The Liberal chief attacked the meagre character of the Government bill, and submitted an amendment calling for Federal action on a definitely determined basis.

Premier Borden was a bit short-tempered. He did not claim that the bill was perfect, and he accused the Liberal leader of obstruction.

Sir Wilfrid attacked it on constitutional grounds, raising the point of order, which he backed up by extensive quotations of precedents, that the bill indirectly involved the appropriation of public money which, under section 54 of the British North American Act, could only be done by resolution introduced with the concurrence of the Governor-General and a money bill founded thereon.

Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden denied that the bill appropriated one dollar of the public revenue, it merely provided that, if Parliament should at some future time appropriate money for particular purposes, machinery was provided for the manner in which it should be expended. Before one dollar was expended, however, a resolution would have to be brought down in the manner provided in the B.N.A. Act. The speaker ruled against the objection to the bill.

Sir Wilfrid then dealt with the bill itself. The only exception, he said, which he took to it was that the expenditure contemplated should not be left to the caprice of the Government of the day, but should be made on a scale on a well defined principle laid down in the bill itself. Were the older and more wealthy provinces to pay for the improvement of the highways in the newer provinces, or how was it to work out?

He moved an amendment: "That, the bill be not now read a second time, but that it be resolved that, while this House is favorable to federal assistance to highways, it is of the opinion that such aid should be granted on a fixed basis similar to that provided in the B.N.A. Act in regard to the federal subsidy to the provinces." This was lost without division.

The Premier taunted Sir Wilfrid with having a short memory. The only objection he had raised to the bill had been one that had been raised by himself and answered by the Minister of Railways on the first reading of the bill. The Minister had distinctly stated then that the money would be expended either according to the population of the provinces or the amount of the provincial subsidies.

It was not left to the Governor-General-in-council to say what amount should go to one province or the other. The estimates when introduced to the House would provide for the division of the vote.

While the bill might not be complete, said the Premier, owing to the short time which the Government had to prepare its legislative program, and it might be found necessary to make more complete provision for the aid of highways next session. The Government had done its duty in implementing at the earliest possible moment a pledge that it had made to the electorate during the late election, and which had met with the unanimous approval of the people.

"I hope we shall be able to arrange with the Provincial Governments," said Hon. Frank Cochrane, "so that they will make a grant equal to the grant given by the Federal Government, so that we may be able to go on within a very short time and construct these roads. But if any Provincial Government does not wish to contribute I see no reason why we should not go on and do the work ourselves.

"But if they join in with us, so much the better. We will co-operate with them in making specifications. Evidently no specifications can be laid down in this bill. You cannot draw up specifications to cover all roads, because some might cost much more than others."

After the amendment had been lost without division and the bill given its second reading, it went to committee of whole.

Andrew Broder (Dundas) urged the adoption of a system of federal roads, such as obtained in France, where roads were divided into national, departmental, municipal and rural.

Hon. Rodopho Lemieux spoke of the benefit of good roads in attracting tourists.

"Let us build trunk roads," said A. S. Goodeve (Kootenay), "and let the municipalities look after their own roads."

W. M. German (Welland) expressed his disapproval of trunk roads. What the farmer wanted was good roads leading from his farm to the railway station in his vicinity, not trunk roads for motorists.

G. H. Bradbury (Selkirk) agreed with Mr. German that local roads were the first need, as did E. W. Nesbitt (N. Oxford).

Messrs. A. K. MacLean, Sinclair, and McKenzie also spoke.

Colombia Invites Knox.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Colombia yesterday virtually repudiated the action of its Minister, Gen. Espina, by sending through American Minister Dubois at Bogota, a cordial invitation to Secretary of State Knox to visit Colombian shores on his present trip to the republic on the Caribbean Sea. The invitation was forwarded promptly to Secretary Knox, who is aboard the cruiser Washington on his way south. With him rests the decision whether he will change his itinerary to include a call at the port of Cartagena. This, it is accepted here, he undoubtedly will do.

Jack Frost Followed Him.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—A patient arrived at the general hospital yesterday with a case of freezing which was remarkable for more than its severity.

The man's hands were frozen in Edmonton and his ears were frozen in Montreal. He traveled across the continent with his hands swollen double their normal size, and able to do very little to help himself. He arrived here Thursday night and went out for a walk. The storm had followed, however, and Constable Maloney found him yesterday with both ears frozen and his hands frost-bitten a second time.

She Laughed

But the Day Came When She Laughed No More

By MARY V. BLACKSTON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

The evening I landed in the little town in Arizona where I proposed to take up my residence I was sitting at supper with my friend Charnley when the stillness without was broken by a laugh. To say that it was a laugh is nothing. It was the melodious piping of a bird, the swelling of a note from an organ, the ripple of water over rocks—any, every sound that could express merriment. It was feminine, girlish, and one who heard it would at once become impressed with the perfect innocence of her who laughed. My host, seeing that I was interested, smiled at me.

"Who is that?" I asked.

"That is our laughing girl, as we call her. Her proper name is Elsie Jenks. Some call her our pain killer, others our mocking bird. The latter are pessimists, assuming to detect at times in her laugh something beneath its mirth expressive of the inevitable doom that awaits us all—something derisive. Indeed, at times late at night, when Elsie has been coming home from a dance, I have heard her break into one of her sudden peals of laughter and have fancied after it died away that a mocking echo followed it."

"It seems to me," I replied, "the embodiment of optimism."

"Such is the general effect upon us. When we get the 'blues,' if we can hear Elsie Jenks laugh we are lifted out of our despondency. If an invalid becomes discouraged Elsie is sent for. Usually another person goes with her on such occasions—Ben Harbeson. Ben is a very droll fellow. He has a way of saying funny things in a peculiar monotone. Put Elsie and Ben at the bedside of one about to give up the fight for life and Ben will say something ridiculous, followed by a peal of laughter from Elsie, and the two together electrifying the sick one and bringing about a reaction."

"Is there any relationship between these two merry ones?"

"Lovers. You wouldn't think it, would you? Opposites usually amalgamate. A morose man often chooses a cheerful woman, and vice versa. With these two it's just the reverse. Ben says that all he was brought into the world for was to make Elsie laugh, while Elsie says that her part in life is to bring out Ben's jokes, declaring that if it wasn't for her they would be lost upon an unappreciative world."

Later I met both of these young people, and they seemed to me to be procreators of optimism. They were evidently made for each other, a Paul and Virginia, so wrapped in each other as to be uninterested in others. And yet I doubt if either realized how absolutely they were united. I never heard that there was any engagement between them, and sometimes I wondered if this love had ever been spoken, even confined, for I can understand how love may be so pure as to be, like genius, unconscious.

"What would become o' this town," asked a crusty old fellow, "if them two should be eliminated?"

I lived in the place a couple of years, during which it had a hard struggle for existence. Every one was tempted to give up trying to make a town of it, but whenever a person signified an intention to move on Ben Harbeson would crack a joke and Elsie Jenks would burst into a laugh, and the discouraged one would brace up and conclude to persevere awhile longer. Indeed, it was said that Ben and Elsie were literally the life of the town. But for them the town would die.

Arizona at that time was suffering from roughs. Billy the Kid flourished, and there were more, if not equal to him in hardihood, at least of his kind. Some one suggested that if Ben Harbeson were made sheriff he would find a way of getting on the soft side of the villains and stopping the nuisance. When the matter was proposed to Ben he said he could do nothing without Elsie. He might say a lot of things calculated to placate the rascals, but if Elsie were not present to help with her laugh they would all fall flat. However, he was persuaded to accept the position, since Elsie thought there might be cases wherein they could work together.

The first person Ben brought in was Jack Hennessy, a desperado whom the sheriff caught so stupefied with liquor that he was incapable of making any resistance. Ben put him in jail to sleep off his drunk, and when he got sober Ben and Elsie went to see him. If Hennessy had not been behind bars he would have torn them to pieces. Jack made fun of him, and Elsie laughed. It was not long before the prisoner caught the infection and laughed, too, and within half an hour was holding his sides with merriment.

"What's that?" asked one passing the jail.

"Oh, that's Ben Harbeson and Elsie Jenks. They've got that bloodthirsty Hennessy to laughing, and he can't stop."

Having thus opened the better side of the villain's nature with the wedge of laughter, Ben and Elsie were kind to him, with the result that on their securing a release and their fellow townsmen's promise that Hennessy should not be prosecuted for his crimes he left the jail and became an estimable citizen. There were many other conversions by the lovers, and every man converted stuck to an honest life. Since Ben and Elsie in this way captured the principal devils in that region the citizens of the town, being free from having their places of business raided, found themselves in a position to make a living and began to prosper.

From that time this mirthful pair were worshiped by those they had served. I did not hear anything about preparations for their union during their work on criminals, but after they had made nearly a dozen good men out of as many bad ones they were married. There wasn't a person in the place who didn't give them a wedding present, and a man who had started a bank gave a thousand dollars, saying that the couple's service to him had been worth many times that sum.

So Ben and Elsie went to housekeeping with every man, woman and child in the town their friend. Many a summer night before going to sleep I heard Elsie's laugh ring out on the still air. One night after it had died away I heard that "mocking echo" Charnley had spoken of. I was plunged by it from balmy optimism into frigid pessimism. The final dissolution which awaits us all was made vivid to me as never before. "After all," I sighed, "for every laugh there is a sob."

The occasion of Elsie's laugh was this: Ben was going out to bring in a desperado. Elsie looked worried. To cheer her Ben cracked a joke which was followed by the laugh I heard.

The next afternoon Ben was brought in mortally shot by the man he had attempted to capture and died in a few hours in his wife's arms.

I had scarcely heard that Ben was dead when I saw Elsie galloping along the street, followed by every convert she and Ben had made. I devised the errand on which they were bent, and, being mounted, I determined to go with them. The man who had killed Ben—called Mississippi Jake—got word that revenge would be taken upon him for the murder and gathered a dozen or so of his pals to put up a fight. We came upon them crouched on the other side of a bridge spanning a creek and were received by a volley.

The crackle had not subsided when Elsie gave a laugh so wild, so piercing, that it froze me with horror. It was the mocking echo I had heard the night before, only instead of an echo it was a wail, the wail of a broken heart.

Simultaneously with this, Elsie galloped forward, a cocked pistol in each hand, distancing the rest of us who endeavored to ride ahead of her. In a charge like that it was not to be expected, wild as she was, that she would do much damage to her enemies. But her mind was so intent on vengeance that it conquered madness. She emptied every chamber of the two revolvers, and with so true an aim that nearly every shot took effect.

I saw a man rise up from behind a low stone wall whom by descriptions I had had of him I knew to be Mississippi Jake. He had his eyes bent on our woman leader and, raising a rifle, was about to fire at her when I quickly drew a bead on him and dropped him.

That ended the fight. The villains that were left—they were but few—scattered in an adjoining wood.

Then we rode back to town, the widow like a statue of stone. She rode through the streets lined by citizens, all with heads bowed, and entered her desolate dwelling alone.

Since then I have talked with Charnley about this singular case. He says, "What a pity that this merry laugh of Elsie's should have sometimes ended with that mocking echo!" Charnley is a matter of fact fellow and has no realization whatever of the depth of meaning there is under his words. "But," he adds, "the laugh was always there, while few ever spoke of what on rare occasions followed it." In other words, the main parts of our lives are blythe and merry.

"The laugher," I replied, "was but twenty when the trouble came. Has she ever laughed since?"

"No," says Charnley, "she has not."

"Will she ever laugh again?"

"I think not."

Perhaps she will. Sometimes we pick up the thread of happiness after it has been dropped, but no one ever lived who did not finally drop it forever.

Distress From Indigestion

Tried in Vain to Get a Cure—All Medicines Failed

Old Trouble Disappeared When the Liver and Bowels Were Set Right by

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

You cannot make a greater mistake than to think that indigestion is confined to the stomach. It is a disease of the liver and bowels, and it is only by getting these organs healthy and active that you can ever hope to cure chronic indigestion.

Here are two cases reported by Mr. Skinner, which tell of continued failure to cure indigestion by dosing the stomach. Both were cured thoroughly by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. A. C. Skinner, Atlantic St., Hardwoodhill, Sydney, B.C., writes: "My wife was troubled with indigestion and tried all sorts of medicines in vain. Hearing about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I got her to try them, and to our great delight she was cured. We would not think of being without them in the house for use when the liver and bowels became sluggish.

I told a friend about them and gave him a box. He had suffered from indigestion for years and tried most everything he could get. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were also successful in his case, and he says they beat any medicine he ever came across."

Woman's World

MRS. EDWARD B. M'LEAN.

Mrs. Edward B. McLean, who recently acquired the famous Hope diamond, is said to have a greater interest in gems and metals from a scientific viewpoint than from a woman's usual liking for adornment. She is said to have almost as keen an insight into mining as her father, Thomas F. Walsh, had. With him she often made journeys to the mines in Colorado and other places and often advised him. After he established a fund for the Colorado School of Mines she gave money to the school for the payment of the tuition of students without means. Mrs. McLean is interested greatly in philanthropic work.

A New Business For Women.

"There are all kinds of ways of making a living," said a woman dweller in a New York apartment house to her neighbor across the hall. "For instance, yesterday morning my front door bell rang, and I opened it to find facing me a smartly groomed, pretty young woman, who immediately inquired whether I was Mrs. A. Having been satisfied as to the identity, she handed me a visiting card with this superscription:

MISS BROWN,
Special Representative
JONES & JOHNSTON.

"She explained that the object of her visit was to see why I had discontinued being a charge customer of the firm she represented. It seems that the young woman's position is chiefly that of a commercial peacemaker. Patrons of big department stores, she told me, often take offense at some fancied or real wrong which they have received at the hands of one of the employees and in consequence stop buying goods at the shop. After a certain number of months have gone by without a charge customer having availed herself of her credit privilege a circular letter is sent to her asking why patronage has been withheld.

"Should the firm receive no response to this inquiry it becomes the duty of the special representative to find out the reason why. So she appears at the house of the delinquent in the guise of a 'chaser' to smooth out the trouble if possible and blaze the trail, as it were, to renewed patronage. Later on the matter is placed in the hands of the complaint department, which in turn takes it up with the ex-customer.

"'You have no idea how many cases of this kind we have, which could be reached in no other way,' the peace savey explained. After finding out that a prolonged absence from town was the only cause of my loss of trade the little lady, smiling, bowed herself away, leaving me ruminating upon the many tricks of the trade."

The Modern Version.

So Jack spent hours in his prodigious taste of toting off.
His wife at bridge would win each prize, and so they had no care,
Which really helped in advertising this congenial pair.

An Advantage.

"The automobile presents another advantage over the horse," said Mr. Chuggins thoughtfully, "that people do not commonly appreciate."

"What is that?"

"When a motorcar plays out it goes to the junk pile. Nobody thinks of chopping it up and trying to export it as beef."—Washington Star.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet

For Schools, Hotels, Banks and Private Residences

Heretofore it has been impossible to install a Sanitary System of inside closet without water works and sewage, and you will agree with us when we say that the present outdoor system of closets are not only very insanitary, but are at the same time one of the most fruitful sources of both moral and physical ills.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is constructed principally for families and public bodies who live in a district where it is impossible to have waterworks and sewage. It can be placed in any part of a Residence, Store, School, Hotel, Bank, etc.

We have secured the Agency for this valuable Sanitary Closet, and invite investigation of its merits.

LADIES, LOOKOUT!

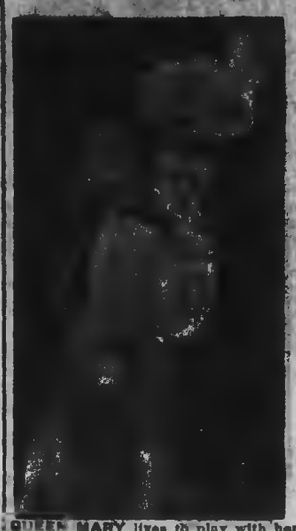
An Infallible Method of Telling Your Age Has Been Discovered

A Parisian friend says that he has found an infallible method of discovering the age of ladies at dinner parties. If the girl you take in begins dining at dessert and gets up having made a large meal solely of ices, chocolate creams, preserved ginger and sugared fruits, with perhaps one cheese straw thrown in, you know for certain she is still under twenty.

If you are not sure she is a girl or a young married woman, you watch whether, on the contrary, she starts dinner at the opposite end, having begun on hors d'œuvres, shrimps, caviare, pickled [illegible] and anchovies, then nothing [illegible] in undoubtedly [illegible] and 30, and married.

Should she [illegible] wing of a fowl or a chop at the outset, she has passed the fateful age of 30, but has not reached the world's date of 35. After 40 she will dine off game, venison, etc., and like it rather well.

Finally, if the lady helps herself to cheese and, still more significant, appreciates the well flavored Camembert or the finely-matured Stilton, you know exactly where you are. She is a woman "without age," as the French language politely says.



QUEEN MARY lives to play with her children.

Isle of Wight Cliffs Fall.

Owing to heavy rains a large portion of the cliff near the Freshwater redoubt in the Isle of Wight has fallen into the sea, several thousand tons of earth being dislodged. The footpath leading up to the beacon erected to the memory of Tennyson, has also been carried away.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA'S JEWELLERY.

The only piece of jewellery that Queen Alexandra has allowed herself since the death of her husband is a bracelet containing a beautiful and life-like miniature of his late Majesty. The picture is set in a circle of exquisite black pearls, which the Queen herself took the greatest pains to match, and is fastened to a plain band sometimes of black kid and sometimes of black velvet with a black gun metal fastening, for anything in the way of gold or silver the Queen will not wear. This quaint idea has set a fashion among some of the widows of the day, who have had similar miniatures of their husbands made to wear on their wrists. And the motion appealed so much to their friends that engaged girls adopted the idea for their fiancees. Of course, in their case, the settings can be made as ornamental as they like and some very beautiful miniature bracelets have been made for several society's financees, the most notable, perhaps, being Lord Knolly's daughter, who was a recent bride.

Larger Elevators.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is enlarging its Fort William elevators at a cost of $500,000. Construction is to be started at once and according to present estimates the work should be finished by August 15th. There will be built altogether 116 bins, giving an extra capacity of 2,533,500 bushels of grain, bringing the total up to 6,000,000 bushels.

Wherever there are people who are troubled with deranged nerves they will find that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will restore the equilibrium of these deranged centres, and bring back the shattered nervous system to a perfect condition.

Miss Emma Read, Lackay, Ont., writes:—"I have great pleasure in writing to tell you about the great benefit I have received by using your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. About a year ago I was very badly run down and could hardly do my work. I tried different medicines but none of them did me any good. ABOUT ORCHIDS

Many Highly Prized Flowers are secured in the South.

In the Brazilian State of Pernambuco, orchid collecting has developed into a large industry which affords employment to many foreigners as well as natives. From there, orchids are either shipped direct to foreign ports or are sent to coast farms which act as agents for business houses all over the world. The flowers are spectacular and some of them are remarkably beautiful, but for market purposes only the Cattleyas have any importance, and of these the labiatas are the most profuse and give the greatest return. They are the large-lipped flaring flowers of mauve and pink, centered with magenta and yellow, that have become in the last few years a feature of floral decorations for the home. They generally grow three, four and five blooms on a stalk, and their delicious fragrance greatly resembles the scent of lilacs. Of these Pernambuco exports more than 17,000 eight-leaved plants a season.

The plants are sorted according to quality and the number of leaves in good condition. The labiatas having less than eight leaves are discarded, as they are too small for profitable shipment. Plants of eight leaves are received in great quantities and are paid for at the rate of about ten cents each. There is a graduating scale of prices, the plants with fifteen, twenty, thirty leaves and up commanding higher prices.

Brought Plant Fifty Miles.

Recently an extraordinary plant was brought in which had more than two hundred leaves, and a collector bought this at a great bargain, paying only about five dollars for it. This plant sold in the United States for many times its purchase price. It was taken to the market strung on a pole carried by three men, who said they had traveled more than fifty miles.

An exceedingly rare but occasionally found plant is the Cattleya labiata alba. It is a deserved plant, whose exquisite bloom is snow white. Properly packed, orchids will stand from forty to fifty days' confinement and remain in a healthy condition.

JAPAN A MODEL

A General Says the Orientals Lead in Cavalry Tactics

In the second volume of his magnificent work, "Modern War," which has just been published, General von Bernhardi, the famous authority on cavalry tactics, holds up the Japanese as the model which Germany ought to follow. "Germany," he declares, "must follow in the footsteps of gallant Nippon and map out for itself an equally aggressive diplomatic policy, to be supported by decisive military action. It was these tactics which made Japan the master of the East, as it is to be hoped we Germans shall some day become and remain the masters of Europe. This great future, however, can be realized only if we incessantly take both the political and military initiative, and, above all, leave no stone unturned to keep our position of military supremacy."

Be up and doing.

What's the use of wishing?
Why sit down and wait?
Why mope a-sighing.
First must find the bait.
What's the use of sighing?
Why for it, till trying
Proves your hardihood.

Brawn and grit and muscle
Reached the northern pole;
Clears the way to hustle
If you'd win your goal!
Then, be up and doing—
Labour is in duty;
Or you'll be rusting
Another wasted day.

COSTUMES AND HATS

Hundreds of Small Milliners in Paris With Foreign Customers

It is estimated that about 300 French women in Paris and provinces pay extravagant prices for their costumes and hats. If, therefore, the big establishments in the Rue de la Paix depended solely on their French customers, they would hardly be able to pay their rent. It is in the hats chiefly that the Parisienne shows her economical spirit. She may buy one such season from a fashionable milliner. But the other hats she requires she has made by a small modiste who comes to her and fashions all her materials, feathers, silks or tulle, into the smartest toques. There are hundreds of these small milliners in Paris [illegible] never have a foreign customer. They are essentially Parisian. Were it not for these facilities, the Parisienne with limited means would cut a sorry figure next to the wealthy foreigner. Her hats are her weak point. She will buy a well-cut tailor costume and wear it constantly in the streets. This same costume, if of some good material, will look as well at the end of the season as it did at the beginning and will pass unnoticed. She will make all her effects in her hat.

Her hat, be you and her complexion have all her attention. She will try many a veil before she obtains the one most becoming to her.

FIT FOR MARRIAGE

A London School That Issues Certificates to Girls

Realizing that the average London girl possesses few or none of the qualities that are required of a good wife, the London County Council prepared a scheme for a school for girls who, graduating from it, are to receive a certificate that they are fit for marriage. The council offers 500 junior domestic economy scholarships by means of which girls about 14 years of age may secure free education for a year, with a maintenance grant, at domestic economy school. Candidates must undergo a preliminary medical examination, and no one will be accepted who is not satisfactory as regards personal cleanliness, good condition of teeth, and general physical fitness.

Though the course is arranged for one year, it is recognized that every girl may not become an accomplished housewife in that time, and it is therefore arranged that whenever necessary the training may be extended over two years. The scheme commences from the summer.

The county council founded domestic schools in 1894, but these are attended by girls from the elementary schools. Now, the idea is to reach the girls who have left the elementary schools, and who in due time will become the wives of young men of the working classes. The domestic economy schools are not intended for the purpose of training girls for domestic service, not for any special industry but as home-makers, and with this object in view the girls are taught cookery, laundry work, dressmaking, needlework and mending, house work, home organization, and hygiene by practical methods.

The Quest of Gentle Hazard

Being the Adventures in Love and Chivalry of Lord Richard Jocelyn.—By H. M. Egbert

A Wedding De Luxe

(Copyright, 1911, by W. G. Chapman.)

"Nothing can ever part us now," whispered Lord Jocelyn to his fiancee, Mary Davenant, as they stood in the marriage license bureau at the City Hall, New York.

As he spoke he was folding away a paper in his pocket. It was their license, by virtue of which an imposing wedding was to be celebrated on the morrow noon at St. George's church, Gramercy square.

"If only we could go off together and be married privately," sighed Mary Davenant. "How I hate the thought of the publicity!"

"It's part of the penalty that one pays for one's title," said Jocelyn. "Look at that Italian couple, now, who are just receiving their license. They can go off to their priest and be made one in the presence of a single witness, whereas we——"

"Don't you believe him, lady," interposed a bluff, jovial-looking man who was standing near the entrance. "Those folks will have the swellest wedding on the East Side tomorrow. I says it and I ought to know, seeing as I'm the alderman for their district. Why, they wouldn't think a marriage was hardly legal unless there was half a hundred guests and flowers and wines. But—" he bent down and lowered his voice—"if you say the word, Mister, I'll hitch you up myself on the spot. Link's my name, Alderman Link, and that's one of my chief jobs, marrying folks."

"Oh, if we dared—" said Mary Davenant.

"I haven't courage enough for that," sighed Jocelyn. "What would the governor say when he learned that his son had sneaked off to be married like a thief? Besides, wouldn't it be like running away in face of danger?"

"Danger, Richard?" said Mary reproachfully.

Mary Davenant placed her hand on his arm and they went out of the City Hall together, preceded by the Italian couple. All four were radiantly happy—so happy, in fact, that their purpose was guessed by the hack driver who came slowly up to them as they emerged upon Park Row.

"Drive you to the church?" he volunteered to Jocelyn. "Sure, an' it's the foine couple yez'll make. It'd be a pleasure to do it for nothing and trust yer Honor's generosity," he said, emitting as he spoke a distinctive odor of alcohol.

"No, thanks. But I tell you what you shall do," said Jocelyn, beaming on him. "You shall drive me to St. George's church tomorrow."

"That I will, yer honor," said the man. "Where'll I call?"

Lord Jocelyn gave him the address of his abode on Madison avenue and instructed him to be there at half-past eleven promptly on the next morning, at the same time handing him a two-dollar bill in earnest of his sincerity. Then he departed, with Mary on his arm, while the driver called embarrassing and alcoholic benedictions after them.

Lord Jocelyn's guest at dinner that night was his friend, Jack Stanfield, his best man to be, and the two rehearsed their plans for the ceremony. Jocelyn was to await his friend in his apartment and to proceed with him to the church, where the rest of the party would be assembled. At eight o'clock on the morrow he was already beginning to dress, and experienced the usual complications of the bridegroom. First, he discovered that he had packed his trousers in the suitcase which he had sent on ahead to Richmond, where the first days of the honeymoon were to be passed. Then came trouble with his shirt. With trembling fingers he essayed to fasten it; then lost his collar and sleeve buttons and hunted for them under the bureau until he arose, triumphant, but perspiring, and with his white shirt irretrievably soiled. Someone was hammering in the apartment next door. Jocelyn listened; it was his heart that beat. At eleven-fifteen, after three hours and more spent in performing the simplest necessities of making his toilet, he emerged at last into his sitting room, triumphant, but trembling like a hunted criminal. And as he lay back, breathless, in his arm chair, smoking furiously, and listening with terror for the peal at his bell which should announce the arrival of his best man, his resemblance to some hunted fugitive increased momentarily.

"If Talbot were only here!" he groaned, thinking of the servant who had been his main reliance against the chances of fortune. But Talbot had gone home to England to prepare Doublewith Manor for its heir and his bride, and he was absolutely alone.

He poured out a stiff glass of brandy and swallowed the burning fluid without a qualm. Then he sat as one in a trance, watching the slow onecreeping of the hands of the clock. Eleven-twenty-five—and still no Stanfield. Eleven-thirty! The single stroke drove him out of his chair with a bound. But half an hour remained in which to catch the car and reach St. George's, and, if he should fail, irretrievable ruin would confront him. He thought of the accidents of the crowded streets; of Mary, waiting deserted at the altar while he was hurried away to some hospital; of life without her afterward. And, being able to endure these thoughts no longer, he buttoned his frock coat, thrust on his silk hat, and opened the door just as the elevator boy ascended the passage.

"There's a cab waiting for you, sir," said the boy, grinning sympathetically.

"Ha! Mr. Stanfield?" asked Jocelyn wildly.

"That's right," said Jocelyn. He resolved to wait for Jack no longer but to let him follow him to the church. With that tenacity of determination which characterizes men in desperate situations Jocelyn had concentrated all his intelligence on one thing, which, in his mind, would make or mar the wedding. His wedding ring he kept loosely sewn into the pocket of his waistcoat, refusing to entrust it to his friend. He felt for it a dozen times during his descent to the ground floor. It was safe still. So long as he had this, nobody could frustrate his marriage, he thought.

"Good luck, sir," said the elevator boy, as Jocelyn stepped out, and, the richer by a five-dollar bill, he grinned his thanks and continued his prosaic task.

The cabman swayed as he saluted Jocelyn from his perch, and, with a smile fixed on his Hibernian countenance, remained at an angle like that of the Leaning Tower of Pisa, evidently overcome by the previous celebration of his patron's nuptials.

"St. George's church," said Jocelyn, stepping inside.

"Sure, don't I know, yer honor?" asked the driver reproachfully. "An' is it me as would fergit the most beautiful lady as iver graced her wedding gownd? It's the good-looking pair yez'll make, all right."

"Drive quick but not dangerously fast," called Jocelyn, shutting the door after him. The driver, evidently misunderstanding his instructions, whipped up his horse and the conveyance started off at a furious rate in the direction of Gramercy square while Jocelyn, leaning back against the cushions, abandoned himself to his anticipations.

All too soon the journey came to an end. The cabman, springing down, opened the door for him with a suave bow, and Jocelyn, still in a dream, entered a tiny church amid an enormous crowd, which vented its sentiments in a prolonged whistle of surprise.

The church certainly did seem to have changed its appearance since the day when Jocelyn had attended there in order to familiarise himself with the scene of the nuptials. To begin with, the street was uncommonly dirty; then, again, those who had assembled were hardly that element of the populace whom Jocelyn had nerved himself to expect. They had a distinctly foreign aspect and their salutations were, though couched in foreign tongue, obviously the reverse of friendly. One fellow, indeed, forgot himself so far as to shake his fist in Jocelyn's face.

Like a man in a dream he passed in and up the aisle. Even here he experienced something of a surprise, for the appearance of the altar was that of an unfamiliar creed. Yet Jocelyn hurried on; his mental processes were numbed, and his one thought was to find Mary Davenant. Only the sight of her, he knew, would restore him to his normal calm and enable him to act as a sane man in these perplexing surroundings.

He approached the aisle amid complete silence, though the small church was crowded, but, as he drew near the altar, a little group of people separated and came toward him, finally interposing themselves between himself and the exit as though he meditated an escape. As he stared wildly round him his glance fell on a woman who, with blazing cheeks and blanched face, whiter than paper under her bridal veil, awaited him. It was the Italian woman whom he had encountered at the marriage license bureau!

"He's come. My man's come!" she shrieked. "Liars! You said that he had run away!" And, flinging herself into his arms, she lay there in a dead faint, while Jocelyn, supporting his burden, stared round him for the sight of one familiar face.

"What does this mean?" he demanded of a stout man in an evening suit, across who e waistcoat dangled a thick rope of gold, from which depended varicolored seals—evidently the bride's father.

"I do' know," retorted the other, shrugging his shoulders. "Who are you? Where you come from? Where's Amato?"

"I don't know where he is," muttered Jocelyn feebly, upon the point of collapse. He knew now that he must be dreaming and wondered how soon he would awaken, to find himself back in his sitting room. "It must be that brandy I swallowed," he murmured, trying to induce the bride to stand on her feet again. "I hope I wake up before eleven-thirty or I shall keep Mary waiting." He thrust the bride into the stout man's arms and started toward the door.

"Where you goin'?" shouted one of the group that surrounded him.

"Home," said Jocelyn weakly. "I've got an engagement."

"You stay right here," the other hissed. "If Amato's beat it you got to marry Elena."

"I'd like to," protested Jocelyn, "but I'm engaged to be married already. Fade away, dream, and let me get to the church."

"I don' care," hissed the other, placing his hand on his hip pocket. "You come here instead of Amato—well, then, you got to marry Elena. She shall not go away without a man and be shamed by all the folks. She very fine girl—you come to like her, mebbe."

"Yes, yes, I marry you," sobbed the bride, suddenly awakening and trying to fling herself into Jocelyn's arms again. "You do. I marry you."

"And it'll be worth five hundred to you," whispered the stout man. "You got to marry her now or she never find no man at all."

Jocelyn stared hopelessly at the dark faces that crowded around him. All wore that same sinister scowl, in each was to be read the determination that only death should prevent Elena from finding a husband before she left the church. Adown the aisle Jocelyn heard a commotion and saw a big man struggling toward him, but he did not heed him.

"If this dream don't fade soon I'll wake to find myself married in earnest," he muttered. "All right," he said. "I'll marry her. But I've left the ring in my other pocket. Let me go into the next room and look for it. That'll wake me," he concluded in a lower tone.

"You marry her, ring or no ring," shrieked the stout father, preparing to precipitate himself upon the unwilling bridegroom. But, just as Jocelyn prepared to make a fight for life or freedom, a huge policeman came bursting through the gathering, scattering the wedding party like tenpins.

"You come along with me," he said, grasping Jocelyn by the shoulder. "Your name's Amato an' I got a warrant for your arrest for running off with bank funds. Better come quiet," he added. "That crowd outside is mostly depositors in that crasy bank of yours, an' they're dying to get at you."

"How much will I get for it?" sighed Jocelyn in relief.

"Oh, about ten years," said the policeman indifferently.

"Praise the Lord, I'll go like a lamb," said Jocelyn with a sigh of relief, and he strutted down the aisle behind his savior.

At the end of the aisle the crowd was waiting to precipitate itself upon him. The policeman drew his club; already the struggle was imminent, when Jocelyn perceived, slinking along the rear of the church, the bridegroom Amato. He had come to the tryst. And he was seen. The crowd separated. Some set off in pursuit of him and halted uncertainly as the bridegroom approached the sacred precincts of the altar; others, divining that Jocelyn was not their quarry, fell back, gaping at him. But the policeman saw nothing of this; confident that he held the quarry, he gripped Jocelyn more tightly by the arm, while he, glad enough to have escaped his premature marriage, suffered himself to be led gladly out of the church and into the street.

The police station was not two blocks away, and before a crowd had had time to congregate outside Jocelyn was already before the sergeant's desk, where a group of men was assembled.

"I got him," said the policeman triumphantly.

"Got who?" asked the sergeant, looking up from his desk.

"Giuseppi Amato, sir," said the policeman.

The sergeant's eyes were bulging out of his head. "Got who, idiot?" he shrieked. "That ain't Amato. Amato's short and fat and dark, with a scar running down one side of his face."

The policeman looked at Jocelyn in perplexity. "I took him from the altar, sir," he faltered.

A boisterous outburst of laughter interrupted the proceedings. Jocelyn looked up. A bluff, jovial man was standing beside him roaring with laughter. It was Alderman Link.

"That ain't Amato," he roared. "That's Jocelyn, Lord Richard Jocelyn. Haw, haw! What the dooca was you doin' among them dagoes?" he shouted. "Where's that gal of yer own?"

"At the church," said Jocelyn hopelessly. "I guess she's gone home by now, though. A crasy cabman brought me to the wrong place. They tried to marry me to the wrong girl."

Alderman Link became quite serious. "Too bad, too bad!" he muttered. "I told you to let me hitch you up then an' there. It's a shame to have let you out alone. Bridegrooms is always crasy as loons. Where's yer best man?"

"I don't know," muttered Jocelyn. "I think he fell asleep in my chair after drinking too much brandy and didn't wake up. But here's the ring," he added, with a sudden inspiration, pulling it from his waistcoat pocket.

"Good," said Alderman Link, inspecting it. "That's something. But you can't marry that, young feller. That's only of use when you've got a finger to slip it on. If that best man of yours ain't daffy I'll eat my boots. Where is he? The low-lived, ornery cuss! Let me at him and I'll break every bone in his thick skull."

"Here I am, Dick!" cried a well-known voice, and Jack Stanfield, breathless and very red in the face, came bursting into the police station. "Where the dickens have you been, Dick? I've been beating the town for you half the morning."

"I don't know," answered Jocelyn hopelessly. "I thought I was going to be married, but somehow I wound up here. I might have been worse off, though," he added more cheerfully, thinking of what he had escaped.

Alderman Link came forward and laid a fat hand upon Stanfield's arm.

"Does this young feller belong to you?" he asked, indicating Jocelyn with his thumb.

"Sure he does," answered Jack. "I left him last night under explicit orders not to stir out of his room until I came for him, and when I got there half an hour ago he had just gone off in a ramshackle cab driven by a crasy driver. I only found him by the merest accident."

"How was that, Jack?" asked Jocelyn listlessly.

"The drunken fool seemed to know that he had taken you to the wrong place, and back he came, driving his shaky vehicle. When he saw me in my wedding togs with the buttonaire he seemed to guess who I was and reined in. He was crying drunk, said he thought he had driven you to the wrong place and so he'd come back to drive you over again. Said he'd do it for nothing and wanted a tip. I made him take me to the church post haste, and then I found my way here."

"Well, never mind, Jack," said Jocelyn. "It's too late now. Mary's gone home, I guess, and she'll never forgive me, anyway, so we may as well strike for my apartment. I think I shall go shooting in Afghanistan, or else try to find the South Pole. I want distraction, Jack, and if I can find it in some way which will afford me an opportunity of ending my wretched life, so much the better."

"Oh, wake up," said Stanfield, shaking the bridegroom violently by the arm. "Mary won't be at the church for quarter of an hour yet; it's barely eleven-thirty. Come along; I've got a taxi waiting outside. Don't stand grinning like a fool."

"Jack! What are you talking about?" cried Jocelyn wildly. "What time is it?"

"Twenty-five minutes of twelve," said the best man, looking at his watch.

"But I left at eleven-thirty," cried Jocelyn, "and that was long ago. I've been through purgatory since, then. It seems like years. Do you mean to tell me that my clock was wrong?"

"Of course it was," said Stanfield, with a grin. "I set it on an hour and a half ahead. It's always done."

Jocelyn gripped him by the arm frantically.

"Don't stand grinning like a fool," he screamed. "Come along! Come along or we'll be late." And he started toward the door of the police station.

"Easy, Dick, easy," said Stanfield. "You've forgotten something."

"What?" shouted his friend, stopping short in his tracks.

"And when I'm more composed, Mary, I shall tell you what I went through this morning," said Jocelyn to his bride, as their train whirled away southward, an hour after the conclusion of the ceremony. "I've had quite an adventure."

"Your last, I hope, dearest," said Mary, nestling against his shoulder.

Jocelyn looked into her eyes and with a sudden realization of his happiness, he pressed her tightly to him.

"You shall be my perpetual adventure—always, Mary," he answered.

CONDUCTOR PASSED THEM UP

Two "Ham" Actors Figured a Way to Beat the Railroad, and Succeeded.

There were two comedians who had been stuck in a village near Canton, with Cleveland many miles away. And the first comedian, being the more witty of the two, and being furthermore what they call the "feeder" of the team, says he:

"What'll we do next?"

"I'll tell you—let's count the house."

They emptied their pockets and found that by squeezing a cent or two they could manage to buy a ticket to Cleveland. One ticket. They did it, and started forth—the two grown men on a single piece of pasteboard. Of course the conductor kicked.

"There's only one ticket here," he growled.

"That's mine," said one of the actors.

"You lie—it's mine," put in the other, politely.

"Well, you can't both ride on one ticket," said the con. "I'll have to put one of you off the train."

"Me—me!" squealed the actors in chorus. "Put me off—go ahead and do it—I spoke first."

"Well, I can't do it here, but one of you must get off at the next station."

But three local stations passed, and the conductor didn't come back. As a matter of fact, he never appeared until just before Cleveland was reached.

"I think somebody's a grafter," he remarked in passing, "but my orders are to take the safe side when there's a possibility of mistake. Good night. I can lick either one o' you, if I ever see you again!"

Fashions in Dogs.

The fashion in dogs, says a sporting magazine, has always been as changeable as the fashions in women's dress—which is saying a great deal for the instability of man's canine tastes. The craze for something new has displaced all the old-time pets which found favor with both doggy men and women, and the "novelties" have one by one shared the same fate. If you glance through the catalog of a dog show at the present time you will find that most of the animals are foreigners, more remarkable for their physical oddities than either beauty, intelligence or usefulness. Pet dogs are like orchids, as regards fancy prices paid for rare specimens, and these highly priced pets, which today cost $500, will presently be selling at $5 apiece. The supply for these fashionable dogs soon exceeds the demand, and then comes the inevitable "slump." I am led into these remarks by hearing a lady deplore the fall in Pekinese toy spaniels. She gave $750, she says, for a pair, and now they would not realise more than $25. Courtesy forbids my making any comment upon this result.

Women Mountain Climbers.

Miss Mary Vail of Paris, France, and Miss Cornish of Boston have climbed 16 of the smaller peaks of the Swiss mountains and many of the higher of the Appalachian range, and this summer camped on Mount Kahtahdin, they being the first women who have ever made the ascent. They are perfectly at home in the rough camps and on the mountain trail, for which they wear the proper costumes.

West Steadily Advancing.

Beersheba is still an outpost of civilization against Bedouin tribes. Its commercial importance is increasing rapidly, owing to waterworks which draw their supply from seven wells mentioned in Genesis. That the historic East is gradually succumbing, however, to the progressive spirit of the West is indicated by the fact that a pumping plant has been erected over Abraham's well. When the railway system now under way has been completed, it will be possible to run trains from Paris to Damascus, Jerusalem, and Mecca itself.

POOR OLD HUMAN NATURE

"Human nature, at least as she is depicted in humans, is being sadly relegated to the background," remarked an old-fashioned man who has kept his eyes opened for the last twenty years.

"How so?" asked his young friend.

"Look at yourself and ask that question—if you can. You're a sight with that cap, those goggles, that coat! You and all other motorists, and all these up-to-date persons who have taken to the flying machines, are no more like human beings when you get on your sporting raiment than if you belonged to some queer species of animal. In the good old days of the horse you drove out in your hats and coats and your friends could recognize you. Now you are masked worse than burglars and no one knows one of you from another. Why—look at the women on the streets even! They don't look like the women God made. They are painted and puffed and distorted by dress and those weird looking scroll-like veils until the human face and form are as unlike what nature intended them to be as if she had had no hand in the matter at all. I am not peevish, but I can't help standing up for the good old nature that I love." Whereupon the younger man adjusted his goggles, drew down the visor of his cap, cranked up his machine and prepared to leave.

'Possum Points the Way.

In removing the debris from the cellar of the old Riggs house, which has been torn down, a number of Washington workmen the other day discovered a big, fat 'possum, which they mistook for an enormous rat, and fled precipitately. The effects upon the negro of the refinements of higher education and the white man's civilization may well be challenged when it destroys the nature of the race to the extent that its members fail to recognize a fine, fat 'possum when they see it, says the Baltimore Sun. About one more generation of progress along the same line and we will see a colored man and brother shying at the watermelon and running from the yellow-legged pullet.

Ears of Animals.

The hearing apparatus of animals is like that of human beings, but modified to suit the conditions of the animal's life. Deer, hares, and horses, like all animals whose life necessitates keen hearing, have ears shaped and set in the best way to catch faint or far-off sounds. The serpent has no ear-drums. The ear of the fish is a membraneous labyrinth connected with the bladder by a series of little bones.

Though the sense of hearing is perfect only in the higher animals, even the animals that have no ears perceive sounds. Instead of ears they are supplied with fine nerves whose function is to note and to respond to every touch; nerves whose receiving centers are different from the centers of the purely tactile impressions. All animals, including insects, have an apparatus which enables them to distinguish the approach of an enemy.—Harper's Weekly.

Southern English.

It takes the southern brother to give the language its most excruciating twists.

A Cleveland man was riding on a Washington street car some time ago, and when the car was within a few blocks of its suburban terminal, two lank and shabby fellows came aboard.

The conductor promptly took their nickels and a few moments later when the car stopped he called, "End of line—all out."

The lank and shabby fellows protested. The conductor shook his head. Passengers had to pay their fare, no matter where they got on. Nothing could be done about it.

The two aggrieved passengers were silent for a moment. Then one of them caught the conductor by the sleeve.

"Why, us hain't rid nowheres!" he wailed.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Proved Truth of "Fish" Story.

The sturgeon which was caught in the Harlem river a few days ago and which weighed, according to the truthful fisherman and those who assisted in weighing it, just 466 pounds, would have found its way to the home of a prominent lawyer in New York if its advent had been known to members of the Albany society who knew this story: At one of the early dinners of the society, when matters Albanian, including Kane's Lot, "Pop" Sawyer, the Jug of Blood and "Nickey" De Forest, were enlarged upon, Louis Stern told his neighbor about the size of sturgeons he had seen at Marcellus' and Thomas' markets when he was a boy, many of them weighing more than a hundred pounds. The story was listened to respectfully, but the guest hinted at its falsehood by saying: "When they get another like that have it sent to me and I'll pay double its market value." The Harlem catch has caused him to withdraw the offer.

NEW MANSION HOUSE FOR LORD MAYOR

Not Regarded as Probable—Structural Alterations May be Made to Edifice

A curious fact has come to light as a consequence of the proposal to build a new Mansion House in place of the present rather inconvenient structure. It appears that the site on which the Mansion House stands does not belong to the City of London, as is generally supposed, but to the Rector of St. Mary Woolnoth, Lombard stree, with which parish is combined that of St. Mary Woolchurch. The Lord Mayor's official residence stands partly on the site of the old Stocks Market, and partly on the site of the Church of St. Mary Woolchurch, which was burned down in the Fire of London, the Venetian and Wilke's apartments and a good portion of the Egyptian Hall being built on the actual ground formerly covered by the church.

Shortly after the Great Fire, the parish was amalgamated with St. Mary Woolnoth, and when the Mansion House was built the City of London agreed to pay the Rector of the combined parishes a sum of £50 a year as ground rent. About twenty years ago, when the present Rector entered on his charge, the City disputed the nature of the annual payment, which they claimed, was in the nature of a contribution to the upkeep of the Church Services. The Rector, however, insisted on the receipt, specifying that the payment was for rent, and after a well-known Queen's Counsel had inquired into the dispute on behalf of the City, he won the day, and now received $25 every half year as ground rent for the site of the Mansion House, which is valued at the present time at about $5,000,000.

The splendid possession, however, is never likely to be of any practical value to the Rector of St. Mary Woolnoth, inasmuch as the City has a perpetual lease of the site; so that they are presumably at liberty, if they like, to pull down the Mansion House, and rebuild it elsewhere, and make a very large profit on the transfer of the lease.

Among various rumors that have gained currency as the result of the discussion in the court of Common Council is one suggesting the site of the old Post Office in St. Martin's-le-Grand as a possible position for a new Mansion House. Another proposal is that the present Mansion House should be sold, and that with the proceeds the property should be acquired adjoining the Guildhall, so that the Lord Mayor's official residence might be identified with the scene of so many historic events in civic history.

As a matter of fact, neither proposition has the smallest chance of being seriously considered. The question of the condition of the Mansion House has been referred to the General Purposes Committee, and it is anticipated that the utmost they will be likely to recommend is certain structural alterations, with a view to giving increased accommodation and bringing the sanitary arrangements up to date.

GIANT ROSE-BUSHES.

Probably the largest rose-bush in Europe is one in Frieburg, which towers to a height of no less than 115 ft. It was raised from a wild-rose stock, grafted with one of the varieties of tea-roses. There is another huge bush in the Marine Gardens of Toulon, France, which occupies a space 20 ft. wide and 115 ft. high. So enormous is the surface presented by this bush, that it is said to have borne 50,000 flowers at one time.

Though by no means so large, an equally interesting bush is one on the wall of the cathedral of Hildersheim, Germany, which is known to have ben in existence in the eleventh century. Further than that it cannot be traced with certainty, but there is every probability of its being older still.

Death of Pigeons

Farmers and laborers and anyone who could handle a gun turned out in Cornwall bent on the extermination of the wood-pigeon, which has been doing great damage to crops and not enough to insect pests. Licence Refused Fourteen Times

For the fourteenth time at the Eastbourne Brewster Sessions, an application made by a brewry company for a licence in a newly-developed district was refused. Stole to Pay for Learning

How a temporary postman stole from the public in order to pay for correspondence lessons was related at Liverpool Assizes, when Martin Edward Pierce, twenty, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment in the second division for stealing postal packets at Widnes. For the defence it was stated that the prisoner, a tradesman's son, ambitious of becoming a clerk and wished to take up a course of studies through a correspondence class, the fees entailing a payment of £1 down and £12 altogether.

Sickly Auks at the Zoo

Driven down from the Artic regions by north-easterly gales, four specimens of the rare bird known as the little auk have been caught near London (one as close as Highgate and one at Finsbury Park) and sent by the finders to the Zoo. Though tempted by morsels of the freshest fish, none of these quaint little black and white creatures lived more than three days. The longest time one has been kept alive at the Zoo is only seven days. That was in the severe winter of 1895, and then forcible feeding had to be resorted to.

VALUABLE OLD CHAIR

Piece of Furniture Sold for $7 Sold to Worth $15,000.

An old chair, which brought seven dollars at an auction sale at Fordsberg, South Africa, has been pronounced by an expert to a long-sought piece which was missing from a suite of Louis XIV. furniture, and to be worth $15,000. The woman who purchased it, a Mrs. Harvey, of Redruth, has already refused an offer of $5,000 for her find. According to one story the chair was one which was sent with other furniture to St. Helena with Napoleon. For some reason the furniture was not landed there, but was sent on to the Cape, where the ship carrying it was wrecked. The chair was washed ashore and sold on the beach, passing into the possession of a voor-trekker, whose family retained it as an heirloom until the war, after which it was finally smuggled in the auction-room.

RAVAGES OF GOPHERS

A Young Lad Writes of His Experience with the Rodents

Western farmers and ranchers are constantly complaining of the ravages of these busy little rodents the gophers, and many a ranch displays a line of traps which prove a means of destruction to the annoying little animals. A youthful correspondent, Hjortur Christianson, ten years of age, writes from the Stoney Indian Agency at Morley, Alta., telling of his experience with "a wise gopher." Master Christianson's account follows: "I set the trap for Mr. Gopher at a hole and then went away. When I got back the gopher was sitting outside the hole. He had dragged away the trap and hidden it in the grass. Next I tried to snare him, but he chewed the string and got away again. I set the trap once more and hid myself where I could see him. The gopher came out of his hole and began to drag the trap away but it caught him round the neck and choked him."—Rod and Gun.

KILLING OFF THE WOLVES

Algonquin Park Rangers Have Bagged Sixteen Animals in December

Sixteen wolves were bagged in December by the rangers in Algonquin Park, according to T. W. Gibson, deputy minister of mines. The animals are being poisoned and at the present rate of progress their extermination will virtually be accomplished this winter. Numbers of deer were killed last year by the wolves, and more aggressive protection of this game has been decided on. The poison is being supplied by the government, and the rangers are being allowed the usual provincial bounty on the head of every wolf.

MEN WITH ONE TOE

That is What May Happen From Present Pedal Developments.

Dr. R. Clement Lucas, in an address at the Royal College of Surgeons predicted that men might in time become a one-toed race. The little toe, he said, had already lost one of its extensor tendons, and in quite an appreciable percentage of cases one of its flexor tendons was absent also. On the other hand, the great toe had undergone extraordinary development because the inner side of the foot was the first to catch the centre of gravity in transferring the weight of the body from one foot to the other in walking.

If the world went on long enough, in perhaps half a million years, the useless outer toes, being less and less employed, might gradually disappear.

A Thousand Miles Through Snowdrifts

A Trip of Three HUPMOBILE Cars From Detroit to New York in the Dead of Winter.

The other two were privately owned cars, which had seen a full season's hard service.

The three cars arrived in New York, January 6.

They had fought for practically every inch of progress throughout the thousand miles.

They had dropped through drifts into deep ditches; they had ploughed through snow two to five feet deep.

They had broken the road from Detroit to New York—a road untravelled in places; in others no better than untravelled because scored with narrow sleigh tracks.

Every moment of delay throughout the trip—and they were many—was due to conditions as they were found; and the cars all were fit to start on the return trip to Detroit within an hour after their arrival in New York.

It is impossible adequately to describe conditions with printed words, but some idea of the "road" may be had by comparison of gasoline consumption on the trip with the Hupmobile's mileage under ordinary circumstances.

Twenty-eight to thirty miles per gallon of gasoline is the Hupmobile's usual run; on this trip eight to nine miles was the average.

The Quest of Gentle Hazard

Being the Adventures in Love and Chivalry of Lord Richard Jocelyn.—By H.M.Egbert

A Wedding De Luxe

(Copyright, 1911, by W. G. Chapman.)

"Nothing can ever part us now," whispered Lord Jocelyn to his fiancee, Mary Davenant, as they stood in the marriage license bureau at the City Hall, New York.

As he spoke he was folding away a paper in his pocket. It was their license, by virtue of which an imposing wedding was to be celebrated on the morrow noon at St. George's church, Gramercy square.

"If only we could go off together and be married privately," sighed Mary Davenant. "How I hate the thought of the publicity!"

"It's part of the penalty that one pays for one's title," said Jocelyn. "Look at that Italian couple, now, who are just receiving their license. They can go off to their priest and be made one in the presence of a single witness, whereas we——"

"Don't you believe him, lady," interposed a bluff, jovial-looking man who was standing near the entrance. "Those folks will have the swellest wedding on the East Side tomorrow. I says it and I ought to know, seeing as I'm the alderman for their district. Why, they wouldn't think a marriage was hardly legal unless there was half a hundred guests and flowers and wines. But—" he bent down and lowered his voice—"if you say the word, Mister, I'll hitch you up myself on the spot. Link's my name. Alderman Link, and that's one of my chief jobs, marrying folks."

"Oh, if we dared—" said Mary Davenant.

"I haven't courage enough for that," sighed Jocelyn. "What would the governor say when he learned that his son had sneaked off to be married like a thief? Besides, wouldn't it be like running away in face of danger?"

"Danger, Richard?" said Mary reproachfully.

Mary Davenant placed her hand on his arm and they went out of the City Hall together, preceded by the Italian couple. All four were radiantly happy—so happy, in fact, that their purpose was guessed by the hack driver who came slowly up to them as they emerged upon Park Row.

"Drive you to the church?" he volunteered to Jocelyn. "Sure, an' it's the foine couple yez'll make. It'd be a pleasure to do it fer nothing and trust yer Honor's generosity," he said, emitting as he spoke a distinctive odor of alcohol.

"No, thanks. But I tell you what you shall do," said Jocelyn, beaming on him. "You shall drive me to St. George's church tomorrow."

"That I will, yer honor," said the man. "Where'll I call?"

Lord Jocelyn gave him the address of his abode on Madison avenue and instructed him to be there at half-past eleven promptly on the next morning, at the same time handing him a two-dollar bill in earnest of his sincerity. Then he departed, with Mary on his arm, while the driver called embarrassing and alcoholic benedictions after them.

Lord Jocelyn's guest at dinner that night was his friend, Jack Stanfield, his best man to be, and the two rehearsed their plans for the ceremony. Jocelyn was to await his friend in his apartment and to proceed with him to the church, where the rest of the party would be assembled. At eight o'clock on the morrow he was already beginning to dress, and experienced the usual complications of the bridegroom. First, he discovered that he had packed his [illegible] shoes in the suitcase which he had sent on ahead to Richmond, where the first days of the honeymoon were to be passed. Then came trouble with his shirt. With trembling fingers he essayed to fasten it; then lost his collar and sleeve buttons and hunted for them under the bureau until he arose, triumphant, but perspiring, and with his white shirt irretrievably soiled. Someone was hammering in the apartment next door. Jocelyn listened; it was his heart that beat. At eleven-fifteen, after three hours and more spent in performing the simplest necessities of making his toilet, he emerged at last into his sitting room, triumphant, but trembling like a hunted criminal. And as he lay back, breathless, in his arm chair, smoking furiously, and listening with terror for the peal at his bell which should announce the arrival of his best man, his resemblance to some hunted fugitive increased momentarily.

"If Talbot were only here!" he groaned, thinking of the servant who had been his main reliance against the chances of fortune. But Talbot had gone home to England to prepare Doublewith Manor for its heir and his bride, and he was absolutely alone.

He poured out a stiff glass of brandy and swallowed the burning fluid without a qualm. Then he sat as one in a trance, watching the slow oncreeping of the hands of the clock. Eleven-twenty-five—and still no Stanfield. Eleven-thirty! The single stroke drove him out of his chair with a bound. But half an hour remained in which to catch the car and reach St. George's, and, if he should fail, irretrievable ruin would confront him. He thought of the accidents of the crowded streets; of Mary, waiting deserted at the altar while he was hurried away to some hospital; of life without her afterward. And, being able to endure these thoughts no longer, he buttoned his frock coat, thrust on his silk hat, and opened the door just as the elevator boy ascended the passage.

"There's a cab waiting for you, sir," said the boy, grinning sympathetically.

"Ha! Mr. Stanfield?" asked Jocelyn wildly.

"That's right," said Jocelyn. He resolved to wait for Jack no longer but to let him follow him to the church. With that tenacity of determination which characterizes men in desperate situations, Jocelyn had concentrated all his intelligence on one thing, which, in his mind, would make or mar the wedding. His wedding ring he kept loosely sewn into the pocket of his waistcoat, refusing to entrust it to his friend. He felt for it a dozen times during his descent to the ground floor. It was safe still. So long as he had this, nobody could frustrate his marriage, he thought.

"Good luck, sir," said the elevator boy, as Jocelyn stepped out, and, the richer by a five-dollar bill, he grinned his thanks and continued his prosaic task.

The cabman swayed as he saluted Jocelyn from his perch, and, with a smile fixed on his Hibernian countenance, remained at an angle like that of the Leaning Tower of Pisa, evidently overcome by the previous celebration of his patron's nuptials.

"St. George's church," said Jocelyn, stepping inside.

"Sure, don't I know, yer honor?" asked the driver reproachfully. "An' is it me as would forgit the moo' beautiful lady as iver graced her wedding gownd? It's the good-looking pair yez'll make, all right."

"Drive quick but not dangerously fast," called Jocelyn, shutting the door after him. The driver, evidently misunderstanding his instructions, whipped up his horse and the conveyance started off at a furious rate in the direction of Gramercy square, while Jocelyn, leaning back against the cushions, abandoned himself to his anticipations.

All too soon the journey came to an end. The cabman, springing down, opened the door for him with a suave bow, and Jocelyn, still in a dream, entered a tiny church amid an enormous crowd, which vented its sentiments in a prolonged whistle of surprise.

The church certainly did seem to have changed its appearance since the day when Jocelyn had attended there in order to familiarize himself with the scene of the nuptials. To begin with, the street was uncommonly dirty; then, again, those who had assembled were hardly that element of the populace whom Jocelyn had nerved himself to expect. They had a distinctly foreign aspect and their salutations were, though couched in foreign tongue, obviously the reverse of friendly. One fellow, indeed, forgot himself so far as to shake his fist in Jocelyn's face.

Like a man in a dream he passed in and up the aisle. Even here he experienced something of a surprise, for the appearance of the altar was that of an unfamiliar creed. Yet Jocelyn hurried on; his mental processes were numbed, and his one thought was to find Mary Davenant. Only the sight of her, he knew, would restore him to his normal calm and enable him to act as a sane man in these perplexing surroundings.

He approached the aisle amid complete silence, though the small church was crowded, but, as he drew near the altar, a little group of people separated and came toward him, finally interposing themselves between himself and the exit as though he meditated an escape. As he stared wildly round him his glance fell on a woman who, with blazing cheeks and blanched face, whiter than paper under her bridal veil, awaited him. It was the Italian woman whom he had encountered at the marriage license bureau!

"He's come. My man's come!" she shrieked. "Liars! You said that he had run away!" And, flinging herself into his arms, she lay there in a dead faint, while Jocelyn, supporting his burden, stared round him for the sight of one familiar face.

"What does this mean?" he demanded of a stout man in an evening suit, across whose waistcoat dangled a thick rope of gold, from which depended varicolored seals—evidently the bride's father.

"I do' know," retorted the other, shrugging his shoulders. "Who are you? Where you come from? Where's Amato?"

"I don't know where he is," muttered Jocelyn feebly, upon the point of collapse. He knew now that he must be dreaming and wondered how soon he would awaken, to find himself back in his sitting room. "It must be that brandy I swallowed," he murmured, trying to induce the bride to stand on her feet again. "I hope I wake up before eleven-thirty or I shall keep Mary waiting." He thrust the bride into the stout man's arms and started toward the door.

"Where you goin'?" shouted one of the group that surrounded him.

"Home," said Jocelyn weakly. "I've got an engagement."

"I'd like to," protested Jocelyn, "but I'm engaged to be married already. Fade away, dream, and let me get to the church."

"I don' care," hissed the other, slipping his hand on his hip pocket. "You come here instead of Amato—well, then, you got to marry Elena. She shall not go away without a man and be shamed by all the folks. She very fine girl—you come to like her, mebbe."

"Yes, yes, I marry you," sobbed the bride, suddenly awakening and trying to fling herself into Jocelyn's arms again. "You do. I marry you."

"And it'll be worth five hundred to you," whispered the stout man. "You got to marry her now or she never find no man at all."

Jocelyn stared hopelessly at the dark faces that crowded around him. All wore that same sinister scowl, in each was to be read the determination that only death should prevent Elena from finding a husband before she left the church. Adown the aisle Jocelyn heard a commotion and saw a big man struggling toward him, but he did not heed him.

"If this dream don't fade soon I'll wake to find myself married in earnest," he muttered. "All right," he said. "I'll marry her. But I've left the ring in my other pocket. Let me go into the next room and look for it. That'll wake me," he concluded in a lower tone.

"You marry her, ring or no ring," shrieked the stout father, preparing to precipitate himself upon the unwilling bridegroom. But, just as Jocelyn prepared to make a fight for life or freedom, a huge policeman came bursting through the gathering, scattering the wedding party like tenpins.

"You come along with me," he said, grasping Jocelyn by the shoulder. "Your name's Amato an' I got a warrant for your arrest for running off with bank funds. Better come quiet," he added. "That crowd outside is mostly depositors in that crazy bank of yours, an' they're dying to get at you."

"How much will I get for it?" sighed Jocelyn in relief.

"Oh, about ten years," said the policeman indifferently.

"Praise the Lord, I'll go like a lamb," said Jocelyn with a sigh of relief, and he started down the aisle behind his savior.

At the end of the aisle the crowd was waiting to precipitate itself upon him. The policeman drew his club; already the struggle was imminent, when Jocelyn perceived, slinking along the rear of the church, the bridegroom Amato. He had come to the tryst. And he was seen. The crowd separated. Some set off in pursuit of him and halted uncertainly as the bridegroom approached the sacred precincts of the altar; others, divining that Jocelyn was not their quarry, fell back, gaping at him. But the policeman saw nothing of this; confident that he held the quarry, he gripped Jocelyn more tightly by the arm, while he, glad enough to have escaped his premature marriage, suffered himself to be led gladly out of the church and into the street.

The police station was not two blocks away, and before a crowd had had time to congregate outside Jocelyn was already before the sergeant's desk, where a group of men was assembled.

"I got him," said the policeman triumphantly.

"Got who?" asked the sergeant, looking up from his desk.

"Giuseppi Amato, sir," said the policeman.

The sergeant's eyes were bulging out of his head. "Got who, idiot?" he shrieked. "That ain't Amato. Amato's short and fat and dark, with a scar running down one side of his face."

The policeman looked at Jocelyn in perplexity. "I took him from the altar, sir," he faltered.

A boisterous outburst of laughter interrupted the proceedings. Jocelyn looked up. A bluff, jovial man was standing beside him roaring with laughter. It was Alderman Link.

"That ain't Amato," he roared. "That's Jocelyn, Lord Richard Jocelyn. Haw, haw! What the dooce was you doin' among them dagoes?" he shouted. "Where's that gal of yer own?"

"At the church," said Jocelyn hopelessly. "I guess she's gone home by now, though. A crazy cabman brought me to the wrong place. They tried to marry me to the wrong girl."

Alderman Link became quite serious. "Too bad, too bad!" he muttered. "I told you to let me hitch you up then an' there. It's a shame to have let you out alone. Bridegrooms is always crazy as loons. Where's yer best man?"

"I don't know," muttered Jocelyn. "I think he fell asleep in my chair after drinking too much brandy and didn't wake up. But here's the ring," he added, with a sudden inspiration, pulling it from his waistcoat pocket.

"Good," said Alderman Link, inspecting it. "That's something. But you can't marry that, young feller. That's only of use when you've got a finger to slip it on. If that best man of yours ain't daffy I'll eat my boots. Where is he? The low-lived, ornery cuss! Let me at him and I'll break every bone in his thick skull."

"Here I am, Dick!" cried a well-known voice, and Jack Stanfield, breathless and very red in the face, came bursting into the police station. "Where the dickens have you been, Dick? I've been beating the town for you half the morning."

"I don't know," answered Jocelyn hopelessly. "I thought I was going to be married, but somehow I wound up here. I might have been worse off, though," he added more cheerfully, thinking of wh[illegible] had escaped.

Alderman [illegible]me forward and laid a fat hand upon Stanfield's arm.

"Does this young feller belong to you?" he asked, indicating Jocelyn with his thumb.

"Sure he does," answered Jack. "I left him last night under explicit orders not to stir out of his room until I came for him, and when I got there half an hour ago he had just gone off in a ramshackle cab driven by a crazy driver. I only found him by the merest accident."

"How was that, Jack?" asked Jocelyn listlessly.

"The drunken fool seemed to know that he had taken you to the wrong place, and back he came, driving his shaky vehicle. When he saw me in my wedding togs with the buttonaire he seemed to guess who I was and reined in. He was crying drunk, said he thought he had driven you to the wrong place and so he'd come back to drive you over again. Said he'd do it for nothing and wanted a tip. I made him take me to the church post haste, and then I found my way here."

"Well, never mind, Jack," said Jocelyn. "It's too late now. Mary's gone home, I guess, and she'll never forgive me, anyway, so we may as well strike for my apartment. I think I shall go shooting in Afghanistan, or else try to find the South Pole. I want distraction, Jack, and if I can find it in some way which will afford me an opportunity of ending my wretched life, so much the better."

"Oh, wake up," said Stanfield, shaking the bridegroom violently by the arm. "Mary won't be at the church for quarter of an hour yet; it's barely eleven-thirty. Come along; I've got a taxi waiting outside. Don't stand grinning like a fool."

"Jack! What are you talking about?" cried Jocelyn wildly. "What time is it?"

"Twenty-five minutes of twelve," said the best man, looking at his watch.

"But I left at eleven-thirty," cried Jocelyn, "and that was long ago. I've been through purgatory since, then. It seems like years. Do you mean to tell me that my clock was wrong?"

"Of course it was," said Stanfield, with a grin. "I set it on an hour and a half ahead. It's always done."

Jocelyn gripped him by the arm frantically.

"Don't stand grinning like a fool," he screamed. "Come along! Come along or we'll be late." And he started toward the door of the police station.

"Easy, Dick, easy," said Stanfield. "You've forgotten something."

"What?" shouted his friend, stopping short in his tracks.

"And when I'm more composed, Mary, I shall tell you what I went through this morning," said Jocelyn to his bride, as their train whirled away southward, an hour after the conclusion of the ceremony. "I've had quite an adventure."

"Your last, I hope, dearest," said Mary, nestling against his shoulder.

Jocelyn looked into her eyes and with a sudden realization of his happiness, he pressed her tightly to him.

"You shall be my perpetual adventure—always, Mary," he answered.

CONDUCTOR PASSED THEM UP

Two "Ham" Actors Figured a Way to Beat the Railroad, and Succeeded.

There were two comedians who had been stuck in a village near Canton, with Cleveland many miles away. And the first comedian, being the more witty of the two, and being furthermore what they call the "feeder" of the team, says he:

"What'll we do next?"

"I'll tell you—let's count the house."

They emptied their pockets and found that by squeezing a cent or two they could manage to buy a ticket to Cleveland. One ticket. They did it, and started forth—the two grown men on a single piece of pasteboard. Of course the conductor kicked.

"There's only one ticket here," he growled.

"That's mine," said one of the actors.

"You lie—it's mine," put in the other, politely.

"Well, you can't both ride on one ticket," said the con. "I'll have to put one of you off the train."

"Me—me!" squealed the actors in chorus. "Put me off—go ahead and do it—I spoke first."

"Well, I can't do it here, but one of you must get off at the next station."

But three local stations passed, and the conductor didn't come back. As a matter of fact, he never appeared until just before Cleveland was reached.

"I think somebody's a grafter," he remarked in passing, "but my orders are to take the safe side when there's a possibility of mistake. Good night. I can lick either one o' you, if I ever see you again!"

Fashions in Dogs.

The fashion in dogs, says a sporting magazine, has always been as changeable as the fashions in women's dress—which is saying a great deal, for the instability of man's canine tastes. The craze for something new has displaced all the old-time pets which found favor with both doggy men and women, and the "novelties" have one by one shared the same fate. If you glance through the catalog of a dog show at the present time you will find that most of the animals are foreigners, more remarkable for their physical oddities than either beauty, intelligence or usefulness. Pet dogs are like orchids, as regards fancy prices paid for rare specimens, and these highly priced pets, which today cost $500, will presently be selling at $5 apiece. The supply for these fashionable dogs soon exceeds the demand, and then comes the inevitable "slump." I am led into these remarks by hearing a lady deplore the fall in Pekingese toy spaniels. She gave $750, she says, for a pair, and now they would not realize more than $25. Courtesy forbids my making any comment upon this result.

Women Mountain Climbers.

Miss Mary Vail of Paris, France, and Miss Cornish of Boston have climbed 15 of the smaller peaks of the Swiss mountains and many of the higher of the Appalachian range, and this summer camped on Mount Kahtahdin, they being the first women who have ever made the ascent. They are perfectly at home in the rough camps and on the mountain trail, for which they wear the proper costumes.

West Steadily Advancing.

Beersheba is still an outpost of civilization against Bedouin tribes. Its commercial importance is increasing rapidly, owing to waterworks which draw their supply from seven wells mentioned in Genesis. That the historic East is gradually succumbing, however, to the progressive spirit of the West is indicated by the fact that a pumping plant has been erected over Abraham's well. When the railway system now under way has been completed, it will be possible to run trains from Paris to Damascus, Jerusalem, and Mecca itself.

POOR OLD HUMAN NATURE

"Human nature, at least as she is depicted in humans, is being sadly relegated to the background," remarked an old-fashioned man who has kept his eyes opened for the last twenty years.

"How so?" asked his young friend.

"Look at yourself and say that question—if you can. You're a sight with that cap, those goggles, that coat! You and all other motorists, and all those up-to-date persons who have taken to the flying machines, are no more like human beings when you get on your sporting raiment than if you belonged to some queer species of animal. In the good old days of the horse you drove out in your hats and coats and your friends could recognize you. Now you are masked worse than burglars and no one knows one of you from another. Why—look at the women on the streets even! They don't look like the women God made. They are painted and puffed and distorted by drugs and these weird looking scroll-like veils until the human face and form are as unlike what nature intended them to be as if she had had no hand in the matter at all. I am not peevish, but I can't help standing up for the good old nature that I love." Whereupon the younger man adjusted his goggles, drew down the visor of his cap, cranked up his machine and prepared to leave.

'Possum Points the Way.

In removing the debris from the cellar of the old Riggs house, which has been torn down, a number of Washington workmen the other day discovered a big, fat 'possum, which they mistook for an enormous rat, and fled precipitately. The effects upon the negro of the refinements of higher education and the white man's civilization may well be challenged when it destroys the nature of the race to the extent that its members fail to recognize a fine, fat 'possum when they see it, says the Baltimore Sun. About one more generation of progress along the same line and we will see a colored man and brother shying at the watermelon and running from the yellow-legged pullet.

Ears of Animals.

The hearing apparatus of animals is like that of human beings, but modified to suit the conditions of the animal's life. Deer, hares, and horses, like all animals whose life necessitates keen hearing, have ears shaped and set in the best way to catch faint or far-off sounds. The serpent has no ear-drums. The ear of the fish is a membraneous labyrinth connected with the bladder by a series of little bones.

Though the sense of hearing is perfect only in the higher animals, even the animals that have no ears perceive sounds. Instead of ears they are supplied with fine nerves whose function is to note and to respond to every touch; nerves whose receiving centers are different from the centers of the purely tactile impressions. All animals, including insects, have an apparatus which enables them to distinguish the approach of an enemy.—Harper's Weekly.

Southern English.

It takes the southern brother to give the language its most excruciating twists.

A Cleveland man was riding on a Washington street car some time ago, and when the car was within a few blocks of its suburban terminal, two lank and shabby fellows came aboard.

The conductor promptly took their nickels and a few moments later when the car stopped he called, "End of line—all out."

The lank and shabby fellows protested. The conductor shook his head. Passengers had to pay their fare, no matter where they got on. Nothing could be done about it.

The two aggrieved passengers were silent for a moment. Then one of them caught the conductor by the sleeve.

"Why, us hain't rid nowheres!" he wailed.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Proved Truth of "Fish" Story.

The sturgeon which was caught in the Harlem river a few days ago and which weighed, according to the truthful fishermen and those who assisted in weighing it, just 400 pounds, would have found its way to the home of a prominent lawyer in New York if its advent had been known to members of the Albany society who know this story: At one of the early dinners of the society, when matters Albanian, including Kane's Let, "Pop" Sawyer, the Jug of Blood and "Nickey" De Forest, were enlarged upon, Louis Stern told his neighbor about the size of sturgeons he had seen at Marcellus' and Thomas' markets when he was a boy, many of them weighing more than a hundred pounds. The story was listened to respectfully, but the guest hinted at its falseness by saying: "When they get another like that have it sent to me and I'll pay double its market value." NEW MANSION HOUSE FOR LORD MAYOR

Not Regarded as Probable--Structural Alterations May be Made to Edifice

A curious fact has come to light as a consequence of the proposal to build a new Mansion House in place of the present rather inconvenient structure. It appears that the site on which the Mansion House stands does not belong to the City of London, as is generally supposed, but to the Rector of St. Mary Woolnoth, Lombard stree, with which parish is combined that of St. Mary Woolchurch. The Lord Mayor's official residence stands partly on the site of the old Stocks Market, and partly on the site of the Church of St. Mary Woolchurch, which was burned down in the Fire of London, the Venetian and Wilkie's apartments and a good portion of the Egyptian Hall being built on the actual ground formerly covered by the church.

Shortly after the Great Fire, the parish was amalgamated with St. Mary Woolnoth, and when the Mansion House was built the City of London agreed to pay the Rector of the combined parishes a sum of £50 a year as ground rent. About twenty years ago, when the present Rector entered on his charge, the City disputed the nature of the annual payment, which they claimed, was in the nature of a contribution to the upkeep of the Church Services. The Rector, however, insisted on the receipt, specifying that the payment was for rent, and after a well-known Queen's Counsel had inquired into the dispute on behalf of the City, he won the day, and now received $25 every half year as ground rent for the site of the Mansion House, which is valued at the present time at about $5,000,000.

The splendid possession, however, is never likely to be of any practical value to the Rector of St. Mary Woolnoth, inasmuch as the City has a perpetual lease of the site; so that they are presumably at liberty, if they like, to pull down the Mansion House, and rebuild it elsewhere, and make a very large profit on the transfer of the lease.

Among various rumors that have gained currency as the result of the discussion in the court of Common Council is one suggesting the site of the old Post Office in St. Martin's-le Grand as a possible position for a new Mansion House. Another proposal is that the present Mansion House should be sold, and that with the proceeds the property should be acquired adjoining the Guildhall, so that the Lord Mayor's official residence might be identified with the scene of so many historic events in civic history.

As a matter of fact, neither proposition has the smallest chance of being seriously considered. The question of the condition of the Mansion House has been referred to the General Purposes Committee, and it is anticipated that the utmost they will be likely to recommend is certain structural alterations, with a view to giving increased accommodation and bringing the sanitary arrangements up to date.

GIANT ROSE-BUSHES.

Probably the largest rose-bush in Europe is one in Frieburg, which towers to a height of no less than 115 ft. It was raised from a wild-rose stock, grafted with one of the varieties of tea-roses. There is another huge bush in the Marine Gardens of Toulon, France, which occupies a a space 80 ft. wide and 115 ft. high. So enormous is the surface presented by this bush, that it is said to have borne 50,000 flowers at one time.

Though by no means so large, an equally interesting bush is one on the wall of the cathedral of Hildersheim, Germany, which is known to have ben in existence in the eleventh century. Further than that it cannot be traced with certainty, but there is every probability of its being older still.

The longest time one has been kept alive at the Zoo is only seven days. That was in the severe winter of 1896, and then forcible feeding had to be resorted to.

VALUABLE OLD CHAIR

Piece of Furniture Sold for $7 Sold to Worth $15,000.

An old chair, which brought seven dollars at an auction sale at Fordsburg, South Africa, has been pronounced by an expert to a long-sought piece which was missing from a suite of Louis XIV. furniture, and to be worth $15,000. The woman who purchased it, a Mrs. Harvey, of Redruth, has already refused an offer of $5,000 for her find. According to one story the chair was one which was sent with other furniture to St. Helena with Napoleon. For some reason the furniture was not landed there, but was sent on to the Cape, where the ship carrying it was wrecked. The chair was washed ashore and sold on the beach, passing into the possession of a voor-trekker, whose family retained it as an heirloom until the war, after which it was finally pressed in the cattle-pen.

RAVAGES OF GOPHERS

A Young Lad Writes of His Experience with the Rodents

Western farmers and ranchers are constantly complaining of the ravages of those busy little rodents the gophers, and many a ranch displays a line of traps which prove a means of destruction to the annoying little animals. A youthful correspondent, Hjorter Christianson, ten years of age, writes from the Stoney Indian Agency at Morley, Alta., telling of his experience with "a wise gopher." Master Christianson's account follows: "I set the trap for Mr. Gopher at a hole and then went away. When I got back the gopher was sitting outside the hole. He had dragged away the trap and hidden it in the grass. Next I tried to snare him, but he chewed the string and got away again. I set the trap once more and hid myself where I could see him. The gopher came out of his hole and began to drag the trap away but it caught him round the neck and choked him."—Rod and Gun.

KILLING OFF THE WOLVES

Sixteen wolves were bagged in December by the rangers in Algonquin Park, according to T. W. Gibson, deputy minister of mines. The animals are being poisoned and at the present rate of progress their extermination will virtually be accomplished this winter. Numbers of deer were killed last year by the wolves, and more aggressive protection of this game has been decided on. The poison is being supplied by the government, and the rangers are being allowed the usual provincial bounty on the head of every wolf.

MEN WITH ONE TOE

That is What May Happen From Present Pedal Developments.

Dr. R. Clement Lucas, in an address at the Royal College of Surgeons predicted that men might in time become a one-toed race. The little toe, he said, had already lost one of its extensor tendons, and in quite an appreciable percentage of cases one of its flexor tendons was absent also. On the other hand, the great toe had undergone extraordinary development because the inner side of the foot was the first to catch the centre of gravity in transferring the weight of the body from one foot to the other in walking.

If the world went on long enough, in perhaps half a million years, the useless outer toes, being less and less employed, might gradually disappear.

A Thousand Miles Through Snowdrifts

A Trip of Three HUPMOBILE Cars From Detroit to New York in the Dead of Winter.

The other two were privately owned cars, which had seen a full season's hard service.

The three cars arrived in New York, January 6.

They had fought for practically every inch of progress throughout the thousand miles.

They had dropped through drifts into deep ditches; they had ploughed through snow two to five feet deep.

They had broken the road from Detroit to New York—a road untravelled in places; in others no better than untravelled because scored with narrow sleigh tracks.

Every moment of delay throughout the trip—and they were many—was due to conditions as they were found; and the cars all were fit to start on the return trip to Detroit within an hour after their arrival in New York.

It is impossible adequately to describe conditions with printed words, but some idea of the "road" may be had by comparison of gasoline consumption on the trip with the Hupmobile's mileage under ordinary circumstances.

Twenty-eight to thirty miles per gallon of gasoline is the Hupmobile's usual run; on this trip eight to nine miles was the average.

Kilt and Silk Hat.

A good story has been told of Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood's attachment to a regiment of Highlanders, when the latter were stationed at Portsmouth. Sir Evelyn, then a captain, one day returned from London, and with great hurry proceeded to array himself for parade. When he at last emerged he observed that his men were evidently at great pains to conceal their laughter, and he quietly questioned his subaltern as to the probable reason. "Well, sir," replied the latter, "you are dressed correctly as to kilt, sporran, and all the rest of it; but you have forgotten to remove your tall hat!"

Ancient Ears Pierced for Earrings.

A correspondent writes to The Pall Mall Gazette of London to correct a statement that the ears were not pierced for earrings until the seventeenth century. The most ancient earrings in the museums, he says, were certainly worn in pierced ears.

There is a tradition that when Sarah, jealous of Hagar, vowed to dye her hands in the latter's blood, Abraham saved the situation by boring Hagar's ears and letting Sarah insert silver rings, so that her vow was fulfilled. The rings, however, lent such splendor to the girl's dusky cheeks that Sarah soon adopted them herself, and this was the origin of earrings.

The Bench's Distinction.

A long-winded attorney was arguing a technical case before the court. He had rambled on in such a desultory way that it became very difficult to follow his line of thought, and the judge had just yawned very suggestively.

With just a trace of sarcasm in his voice the tiresome attorney ventured to observe, "I sincerely trust that I am not unduly trespassing on the time of this court."

"My friend," returned his honor, "there is a considerable difference between trespassing on time and encroaching upon eternity."

A Tip.

Departing Guest—I'd gladly give you a tip, waiter, but I find I've only cab fare left.

Waiter (benignly)—Ah, sir, you don't appreciate the benefit of a good after dinner walk!

"Did you get any of that bargain ribbon?" "Yes," answered the college girl proudly. "I bucked the line for ten yards."—Purple Cow.

In discipline might e'er approach
The fond obedience rendered by
My pupils to the feather" coach!"

PROMISES THE VOTE.

Most of Liberals Favor Woman's Suffrage, Says Lloyd-George.

London, Feb. 24.—David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was the chief speaker last night at a meeting of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, held in Royal Albert Hall. The demonstration was called to urge support for an amendment to the Government's reform bill providing for the granting of suffrage to women on the same lines that it is given to men. The Government is divided on the question, Premier Asquith and several of the members of the Cabinet, being hostile to it, while Mr. Lloyd-George and other members of the Ministry favor it. The hall was packed with enthusiastic suffragettes, while on the platform were numerous members of Parliament, representatives of all the parties.

During his speech Lloyd-George was frequently interrupted with cries of "Traitor" and "Coward." He said woman suffrage had not been included in the Government bill because the question was one on which no party had agreed, but that three-fourths of the Liberal members of the House of Commons and two-thirds of the Cabinet would support an amendment to the bill covering it.

If suffrage for women were made a Government measure, the Chancellor added, both the Liberal party and the Cabinet would be hopelessly shattered, but if it were introduced as an amendment to the reform bill, this would enable all its supporters, irrespective of party, to vote for it and a suffrage bill would be carried next year. Mr. Lloyd-George declared the referendum was not applicable to woman suffrage.

Hebrews Excluded.

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—The private bills committee yesterday agreed that, in divorcing Queen's University from the Presbyterian Church, and making it a national institution, Christianity should be the religious test. In so doing, the committee set aside the objections of numerous Hebrew bodies who claimed the clause was calculated to exclude their race from professorships, though the university is declared to be national.

President Gordon told the committee that Queen's had always been Christian, but now was becoming non-denominational. Judicial judgments in England, in the United States and in Ontario uphold Christianity as of the common law of the country.

Edmund Bristol declared that the principle of the bill was to graft on to a state university a religious test eliminated a hundred years ago from Oxford and Cambridge. The trustees did not want it nor did anyone save a few theological professors.

The amendment by Mr. Robb (Huntingdon), to remove the religious test, but to retain the distinctive Christianity definition, was defeated and the clauses passed unamended.

New Railway Planned.

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—A new railway project was introduced to Parliament through the Senate yesterday. The company has a transcontinental name, but only a Montreal to James Bay route.

Senator Beique introduced a bill to incorporate the Montreal Transcontinental Railway Co. with a capital of $6,000,000, head offices in Montreal, and authority to build from Montreal northerly or northwesterly through the Counties of Hochelaga, Maisonneuve, Laval, Terrebonne, Two Mountains, Argenteuil, Montcalm, Labelle, Wright or Pontiac and to connect with the Nations' Transcontinental or the Grand Trunk Pacific at or near Grand Lake, in Quebec.

Jail Warden Dismissed.

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Oscar Beauchamp, warden of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary for many years, has been dismissed for alleged lax administration.

G. S. Malepart, accountant at the penitentiary, will become warden.

Broke Aviation Record.

Pau, France, Feb. 24.—Maurice Tabuteau, the French aviator, yesterday broke the world's aerodrome record for a two hours flight by covering a distance of 141 miles 340 yards at the flying ground here.

Urges School Settlement.

Montreal, Feb. 24.—Le Devoir, the organ of Henri Bourassa, appeared yesterday with the following appeal spread in large type, seven columns wide, across its front page:

"In 1875, the Federal Parliament decreed that minorities in the west should enjoy complete educational liberty. The law was proposed by a Liberal; the Conservative (Miller) declared that it would forever protect minorities against the tyranny of majorities, at least as long as justice and British institutions prevailed in this country.

"Are justice and British institutions things of the past?"

Hero of Balaclava.

"Well done, young Wombwell. I'll write to your father in Yorkshire to-night to tell him how proud he ought to be of his son." Such was the remark made to Sir George Wombwell, who recently celebrated his golden wedding, by the late Duke of Cambridge, when the remnant of the 17th Lancers—the "Death or Glory Boys"—to which Sir George was then attached as a cornet, returned from the "Valley of Death."

Sir George rode on the right flank of Lord Cardigan as extra galloper. Twice he had his mount shot from under him, but he went to within a hundred yards of the terrible batteries unscathed. For his gallantry he was promoted, and ultimately retired from the army in 1855, on succeeding his father in the baronetcy.

Largest of Flowers.

The largest of all the flowers of the the world is said to be the rafflesia, a native of Sumatra, so-called after Sir Stamford Raffles. This immense plant, says The Scientific American, is composed of five round petals of a brickish color, each measuring a foot across. These are covered with numerous irregular yellowish white swellings. The petals surround a cup nearly a foot wide, the margin of which bears the stamens. The cup of the rafflesia is filled with a fleshy disk, the upper surface of which is covered with projections like miniature cows' horns. The cup, when free from its contents, will hold about twelve pints. The flower weighs about fifteen pounds and is very thick, the petals being three-quarters of an inch.

THOUGHT COLD WOULD TURN INTO CONSUMPTION

LEFT LUNG GOT VERY SORE, HEART DID NOT FEEL ANY TOO GOOD.

Mr. Robert McLennan, Shawville, Que., writes:—"I am writing to tell you an experience I had with a bad cold and a bottle of your valuable medicine. I was up in the lumber camps teaming horses, and I caught a very bad cold. I thought it was going to turn into consumption, for my left lung got very sore and my heart did not feel any too good. I came home and tried some different remedies but they did me no good. A friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I tried it, and when I had taken two bottles my cold was gone. I think it is a great remedy, and will advise any one with a cold to use it. I can't praise it enough."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, which combined with Wild Cherry bark and other pectoral remedies, makes it one of the greatest known preparations for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; 25 cts. per bottle. The pine tree the trade mark; price 25 cents.

LA GRIPPE'S VICTIMS

Left Weak, Miserable and Prey to Disease in Many Forms

One of the most treacherous diseases afflicting the people of Canada during the winter months is la grippe, or influenza. It almost invariably ends with a complication of troubles. It tortures its victims with alternate fevers and chills, headaches and backaches. It leaves him an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, and even consumption. Indeed the deadly after-effects of la grippe may leave the victim a chronic invalid. You can avoid la grippe entirely by keeping the blood rich and red by an occasional use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If you have not done this and the disease attacks you, you can banish its deadly after-effects through the use of this same great blood-building, nerve-restoring medicine. Here is proof of the wonderful power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills over this trouble.

Mr. Emmanuel Laurin, St. Jerome, Que., says: "I was seized with a severe attack of la grippe. I was obliged to stop work and remain in my bed for several weeks, and while I appeared to get over the first stages of the trouble, I did not regain my usual health. I suffered from headaches, loss of appetite and extreme weakness. I did not sleep well at nights, and would arise in the morning feeling tired and worn out. This continued for about two months during which time I was taking treatment, but apparently without avail. Then I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I got a half dozen boxes. By the time I had taken three boxes there was a decided improvement, and actually before I had completed the sixth box I was enjoying my old-time health. I was strong as ever, could sleep well and eat well, and no longer suffered from lassitude and headaches. I have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the pernicious after-effects of la grippe, and can therefore recommend them to other sufferers."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the trouble in the blood, which they enrich, and make red and pure. These pills cure all troubles due to bad blood, and if you are ailing you should start to cure yourself to-day by taking this great medicine. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GOOD MARKET IN WEST FOR ONTARIO PRODUCTS

Mr. W. J. Allin, Formerly of Dereham, Gives Some Good Advice to the Farmers of Ontario.

WHAT THEY SHOULD DO

Mr. W. J. Allin, a former resident of Dereham county, is back from British Columbia on a short visit, and to an Examiner reporter who interviewed him gave some interesting information in regard to the markets offered by the West for Eastern products.

"Ontario is the greatest province in the Dominion to-day," said Mr. Allin, "having facilities for manufacturing second to none, and a great many other opportunities that go to make it a great country. Speaking of the agricultural end of it, Ontario leads. The farmers have gone into raising a good class of horses that will be in demand at a large figure for years to come. The fact that Canada is undergoing a great change by being opened up by three transcontinental railways goes to show that it is the finest country laying out doors the money that is coming from the States and old countries. Millions of dollars being dumped into the West for development purposes and land speculation must certainly make a great market for Eastern products. Now the great West will never be able to produce fruit, and Ontario can get in on that market. Although fruit is being grown in British Columbia, it is by no means to be compared with Ontario fruit. The labour situation in Ontario no doubt is getting to be a serious proposition, and can be overcome by fruit raising and seeding down. Raising heavy horses ought to be a great industry, as they are going to bring a big price for years to come. Due to the great development in the West the large amount of railroading opening the country up, brings farmers from all over, and they must have horses and dispense with the horse ranching. In the West then the great amount of railroading uses up an enormous number of horses. I think Ontario people ought to appreciate what a country they have got. Speaking of the towns, Toronto is destined to be a great city, and Peterborough, with its great facilities, such as a good staple farming country, cheap power, cheap factory sites and labour cannot help but advance rapidly.

"Ontario farmers can make their land very valuable by catering to the Western people for what they cannot grow, and the cities must look after the manufacturing end for years to come.

"Now, comparing the two countries, the West, with its grain growing qualities, and the East with its facilities, I say let these fellows grow the grain and seed down and grow more fruit here, bring your land up from $100 an acre to $400 in ten years, but if you plant an orchard don't depend on Providence. Strictly cultivate that part of your farm and give it due attention, and you will find it will be self-sustaining as well as a valuable asset before long. Cattle and cheese also will be a great price. I might say I was on a ranch in Alta. last summer, where there were 200 head of cattle, and the rancher, due to his laziness, had condensed milk for his tea.

"We will be looking to Ontario for cheese, which will, with the great consumption and small production, be bound to bring a good price."

Murderous Attempt To Break Gaol

London, Ont., Feb. 24—Patrick Maloney, who was arrested for shooting a woman whom he held up, and Gordon Lamotte the Strathroy hold-up man, made a desperate attempt to break jail here to-day. Knocking down Turnkey Speeds as he was giving them breakfast they beat him into insensibility, threw pepper in his eyes, and grabbed his keys from him. Then they knocked down Turnkey Kennedy, unlocked several corridor doors and gained the courtyard.

In the meantime Miss Harris, matron of the jail, had telephoned the police station and when the pair had opened the gates they were confronted with half a dozen revolvers in the hands of policemen. They struggled fiercely, attempting to wrest the revolvers from the policemen, finally being landed in the cells again and placed under a double guard.

Daring Robbers Get Away With $20,000 Worth of Diamonds Almost Under the Eyes of the Police

BLEW OPEN A SAFE

Examiner Special.

NEW YORK, FEB. 24.—There is apparently no stop to the wave of crime sweeping over Gotham. Added to the long list of unexplained murders and burglaries this year comes the report this morning of a twenty thousand diamond robbery in a Maiden Lane jewellery store, supposedly the most burglar-proof district in the city. The robbers simply got into the vaults, blew open the safe, and walked away with a handful of valuable gems. The district where the robbery occurred has any number of policemen and private detectives and watchmen on duty every minute of the day. The police are simply flabbergasted.

TO-MORROW IMPORTANT DAY FOR ANGLICANS

To-morrow will be a very important day in the Anglican Churches of the city. Three missionary leaders of the Church will be in Peterborough and will give addresses, both morning and evening, in the three different churches. They are the Rev. Allin, assistant secretary of the Missionary Society, and formerly secretary of the Laymen's Missionary movement.

They will inaugurate a conference of three days, beginning on Monday with meetings at 12 o'clock noon and at 3 o'clock in the afternoons and at 7.30 in the evenings. The week-day meetings will be held in St. John's Schoolhouse owing to its central position. This is one of a series of conferences which are being held in some five centres in Canada, and much importance is attached to it. The conference will end with a special men's meeting at 8.30 on Wednesday evening.

PETERBORO REPRESENTED

Toronto, Feb. 24.—The name "Ontario Municipal Electric Association" was adopted at the conference at the City Hall yesterday of all the municipalities interested in the public power movement. The constitution adopted included the following clauses:

1. The Association shall consist of such municipal bodies of the Province as are under contract, or have passed by-laws to enter into contract with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

2. Objects.—The objects of the Association are:

(a) To take united action on all Hydro-Electric matters.

(b) To unite together, as far as practicable, in the purchase of electric supplies; and to endeavour to obtain as far as possible a standardization of equipments, accounts, operation and general management of municipal plants.

(c) To work in conjunction with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario in promoting electrical development in the Province.

STANDARD SPECIFICATIONS

(d) To suggest such legislation as may be deemed of advantage to the Hydro-Electric undertakings of the Province, and to take united action thereupon.

(e) Generally to promote the interests of the municipal electrical undertakings of the Province. ... ...

4. Meetings.—The Association shall meet in the City of Toronto, or at such place as the Executive may determine, at least once in each year, and oftener if need be, upon the call of the Executive.

STANDARD SPECIFICATIONS

The following resolutions presented by Mr. H. B. Drayton, K.C., for the committee that was appointed yesterday, were adopted after brief discussion:

1. That the Hydro-Electric Power Commission be requested to prepare standard specifications for street lighting and other electrical supplies in all respects possible after consultation with the municipalities.

2. That the Hydro-Electric Power Commission be requested to obtain at the commencement of each year a list of the requirements of each municipality, and to procure for and submit to the municipalities a price for the same.

BASE OF RATES

The third resolution proposed a standard basis of rates.

Mr. Samuel Carter, Chairman of the Guelph Electrical Commission, said he would be unalterably opposed to the commission putting the rates up above a paying basis. Municipalities, however, should not be allowed to sell for less than cost.

"We don't want this department to be entangled with the patronage system of this Province.

"The public power enterprise meant the upbuilding and uplifting of the Province, but whatever has fallen under patronage has become a curse to the common people at all events. We want to keep it away from being a political patronage department."

RESOLUTION CARRIED

The resolution was then adopted, as follows:

"That the Hydro-Electric Power Commission be requested to prepare a standard basis of rates to be charged by all municipalities, after first considering municipalities' representations."

AN ADMINISTRATIVE BODY

Reeve Rush of Brampton thought the municipalities should express themselves in favour of retaining the Hydro-Electric Commission and not placing the work under a Department of the Government.

Mr. Drayton said the Committee had discussed this, but did not bring in a resolution because the Committee did not wish to complicate the situation.

"Everybody wishes to retain this as an administrative body," he said, "but we thought that our wish might be carried out better if we said nothing about it."

This view was endorsed by the meeting and there was no more discussion on the point.

Mr. S. R. Armstrong and Ald. Gillespie represented Peterborough at the meeting. Mr. Armstrong being appointed on the committee for drafting resolutions and was afterwards elected to the Executive Committee of the new association. Mayor Geary of Toronto is President.

TO INVESTIGATE BRIDGE PROPOSAL

Mayor Bradburn Says Department of Railways and Canals Will Send an Engineer Here

THE MAYOR'S PROPOSITION

Mayor Bradburn stated to-day that he has received a letter from the Department of Railways and Canals to the effect that an engineer will be sent to Peterborough by the Department to consider the question of a new bridge over the Otonabee, at Hunter street. The Mayor remarked that he believes there should be some assistance from the Department in order to build a bridge which will permit barges being taken up to the Quaker Oats factory. With the Trent Valley Canal finished it is expected that grain will be brought here on barges, and that the Quaker Oats Company may share in this traffic. Some provision is regarded as necessary at Hunter street, to allow boats to pass. The Government, the Mayor holds, should be interested in a new bridge on this account. The Peterborough Radial Railway is also regarded as a possible party in providing for it and Mayor Bradburn entertains a hope that the bridge may be erected under some arrangement of this nature. The Mayor presented the facts to the Department, and, as a result of his statement of the case an engineer will be sent to look over the situation.

100 IMMIGRANTS WILL ARRIVE IN APRIL

Mr. Collings Will Make Second Trip With Large Party to Peterborough

NEW ARRIVALS THIS WEEK

Advice has been received by the local emigration office to the effect that Mr. P. H. Collings, of Collings and Co., shipping and general agents, and Queen st., Wrexham, will escort a party of one hundred emigrants to this city in April. The party are booked to sail on April 17th, and are due to arrive here on the 28th or 29th days later. The party is composed of agricultural labourers, clerks, and men in practically all walks of life, all harbouring the one desire, to come out here and start life afresh. It will be remembered that Mr. Collings brought out a large party under similar circumstances last year, and within one hour after their arrival here, all but four of them were placed with farmers.

There were several new arrivals in the city last week, including a party of six, who preceded the blizzard by about eight hours, and were held up in the city pending the relaxation of the storm. With the exception of two who went on to Toronto, they were all placed with farmers in the surrounding country. The two mentioned extended their journey in the hopes of securing a position in the mercantile business.

In conversation with the Examiner, one of them showed evident disgust at the brand of weather which greeted their arrival in the city, and intimated that Canada would hold no charms for him, if a different variety of weather was not soon forthcoming.

The Lindsay Post says:—A Peterborough gentleman was in town a few days ago trying to organize a party for the purpose of chartering the steamer on the Trent canal, for the season for the purpose of handling the traffic to Bridgeport Point and other ports.

The owner of the Lintonia, plying on the Peterboro canal, was also in town in connection with the steamboat deals about this point.

Captain Grego owned the Lintonia but has disposed to place the boat on the local waters, and is negotiating for the use of the tender from Bobcaygeon to Bridgeport Point and other points on the local waters.

A VIVID IMAGINATION.

A certain Toronto paper imagines something has a telegram from Windsor putting its dreams into words, that are circulated among the press of the province. It was stated that Mr. Clark of Essex, was to resign his seat, and that Hon. Mackenzie King would be his successor as the representative of the riding. Now, although Mr. Clarke is going to Calgary, to reside, he will hold his seat during the life of the present parliament. Hon. Mackenzie King is an able man, but the constituency would be no gainer in the matter of ability and creditable representation by having even an ex-minister represent it.

IT IS A BLOW.

The Conservatives assert that the election of Hon. G. P. Graham, in South Renfrew, has no political significance. Yet before the election Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, said: "If you elect G. P. Graham it will be considered everywhere as a blow to the new Government. Let the new Government show what it can do before you strike it such a blow." The Government got the blow. According to Mr. Foster, even the weather joined in the blow. The Borden government brought the blow on itself. It was not necessary to maintain the strength of the Government supporters to oppose Mr. Graham. It was not advisable, as a matter of party tactics, to take a course in defiance of an explicit agreement that had on one side been implemented. The Government had nothing to gain and much to lose as the result proves, by precipitating a contest under such conditions. They gratuitously invited the blow they have decidedly got—not to their strength, but to their prestige.

POINTE AUX ROCHES.

Postmaster-General Pelletier seems to fit very well D'Israeli's description of Lord Salisbury—a lath painted to look like iron. He is no William the Conqueror. The fierce shout of rage from the people of Blind River, who had been told their town was to be known as Riviere a l'Aveugle after March 1, was too much for Mr. Pelletier, and he scurried for shelter behind the following excuse:

"The row at Blind River, Ont., over the supposed change of the name of the post office to Riviere a l'Aveugle was cleared up to-day by the Postmaster-General. The French term is simply a translation of Blind River, and was not intended as a new name for the present. The department has received complaints that letters addressed in French had been returned with the note that there was no such place. He had given orders that all such letters were to be delivered at Blind River, but through an error in the department this order had been interpreted as an instruction to change the name of the post office. This was not intended."

It may be well to take this excuse at its face value and turn to a change that was intended. The South riding of Essex is in Ontario. One would fancy that a good English name like Stoney Point would be appropriate down there, or that if there were too many Stoneys in the post office directory something else in English would be substituted. The official list of changes of post offices sent out by the Post Office Department this month shows that on March 1 Stoney Point is to become Pointe aux Roches. Moreover, that there may be no doubt about what this Nationalist Postmaster-General is doing, it is announced that Montmorency Falls post office in Quebec is to become St. Louis de Courville. "Falls," it will be observed, is an English word, and therefore anathema.

A BLOW AS WELL AS BLUNDER.

That the opposition to the return of Mr. Graham in South Renfrew was a huge political blunder will now be conceded by Conservatives. It was a piece of gratuitous folly. There was no reason and no precedent for it. Mr. Graham had been defeated in Brockville, just as Mr. Borden was defeated in Halifax in 1896. Mr. Borden was leader of the Opposition, and it was necessary to provide him with a seat in the House of Commons. For this purpose Mr. Kidd resigned his seat in Carleton. The Liberal Government did all in its power to expedite his return. The Liberals and Conservatives of Carleton were alike willing that he should be returned, and he was able to take his seat in the House soon after the opening of the session. In all this there was nothing opposed to democratic ideas.

Mr. Graham was a leading member of the Opposition, whose presence in the House was desired by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Mr. Low, the Liberal member for Renfrew, who, by his conduct in the case, has won golden opinions from all sorts of people, resigned his seat to make way for Mr. Graham. It was agreed between the two parties that Mr. Graham should be returned unopposed, and that Mr. McGeary, a candidate for the Legislature, should have a similar courtesy extended to him. But this agreement is really not essential to the case. The point is simply that in finding a seat for Mr. Graham, the Liberals were following the usual practice, and if the Government had allowed him to be returned, unopposed, it would have been credited with the usual desire to treat an opponent courteously, and also with common sense.

Instead of this, somebody put it into the Government's head to treat the election as a great national issue and stake the credit and prestige of the Government upon it. Ministers devoted their energies to South Renfrew. Articles were written in Government journals asking the electors of South Renfrew to approve of the record and policy of the Government. It was declared that the Government could not afford to lose the election, that such a result would be a slap in the face for the Government. The eyes of the whole country have been fixed upon South Renfrew through the Government's intense anxiety to hold it. The correspondent of the Toronto News said:

> The widespread interest in the election is fully justified by the strenuous campaigning which is being indulged in and it is a question if ever before a seat in the Dominion Parliament was so bitterly contested. The prestige of the Government behind him and almost every Minister in the Cabinet taking an active part in the campaign has enormously strengthened Dr. Maloney's candidature, and had Mr. Graham contemplated a contest it is considered even by Liberals as extremely doubtful if he would have attempted to re-enter Parliament through the South Renfrew gate.

There was no need to stake the prestige of the Government on the event, but, according to the News, this was done, and almost every Minister took "an active part in the campaign." It was the Government's first political sagacity. A strong Prime Minister, a strong Government would have sternly vetoed the proceeding. We shall hear many explanations, but none which will meet the case of a Government needlessly exposing itself to condemnation five months after its accession to office. —Toronto Star.

CHARBONNEAU'S JUDGMENT IS NOT FAULTY

Distinguished Lawyers Say Borden Has Power to Deal With the Matter

Judge Charbonneau's decision in regard to the marriage question, is not a finality. A distinguished member of the Montreal bar, when asked if it did not constitute a precedent, replied:

"Not at all. Mr. Justice Charbonneau's judgment is the judgment of Mr. Justice Charbonneau, and of himself alone. Each and every other member of the High Court of Quebec can come to what decision he deems legal.

"The marriage laws of Quebec are the same to-day as they were on Wednesday, before Mr. Justice Charbonneau delivered his judgment. His pronouncement affects two people only, Eugene Hebert and Emma Clouatre. As far as they are concerned, they are legally married, but if another Hebert and another Clouatre were to come along to-morrow before Mr. Justice Z, Mr. Justice Z might decide and, moreover, can and would quite likely decide that as the formalities demanded by the Church were not carried out, the ceremony was an illegal one, and no real marriage ever emited.'

"Now, if the Ottawa lawmakers are as eager as they profess to be, to do something, here is a chance for them to do it. Let them take Mr. Justice Charbonneau's decision to the Privy Council. It is a concrete case.

"Were the Federal House to decide as it can do, what are the real impediments, like age, consanguinity, and the rest, the civil laws of all the respective Provinces would have to obey them and there would be no possibility of any Church declaring this or that, for example, a Protestant clergyman officiating when the contracting parties are Roman Catholics, to be an impediment to marriage.

"Mr. Justice Charbonneau points out in his judgment that the Federal House has this power. These are his words: 'The Federal Parliament has already swept legislated upon the impediments to marriage, and this without the right to do so having been questioned.'

JUDGE CHARBONNEAU AND NE TEMERE DECREE

The Examiner, is justified by the judgment of Mr. Justice Charbonneau, in the stand it has consistently and consistently taken. The stand taken by the Examiner, and the Liberal candidate, before, during and after the late Dominion election contest, was that there was no law in Canada, anywhere, to dissolve, or nullify, a marriage performed by a legally qualified person, and in compliance with the requirements of the civil law. Because some comparatively obscure Judge in Quebec judges, decides, or may decide otherwise, does not change the facts. The situation in Quebec is that if members of the Church enter into marriage contracts in defiance of the canons, or rules of the Church, they thereby, ipso facto, incur ecclesiastical penalty, but the marriage, if regularly performed in compliance with civil requirements, is valid as well as legal. A parallel condition obtains in the Anglican church. If, in spite of the Church canon, a man marries a deceased wife's sister, he forfeits, also ipso facto, church relationships and privileges but the marriage is legal and binding and valid in every sense. The trouble stirred over the marriage question, had, it is plain to see, for its chief object, the discrediting of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, because he was a Canadian Frenchman and a Roman Catholic; for there is a great gulfing of trumpets, a great cooling of zeal since Hon. Mr. Borden, a Conservative Premier, is confronted with the responsibility of guarding the integrity and safety of the marriage tie. The extremists demanded a uniform Dominion marriage law, or Sir Wilfrid's head. They were more concerned about getting his head than the law. They dismissed him from power, and they have got no uniform marriage law. Hon. Mr. Borden is dealing as gently with the question as if he were a pro-Romanist Liberal premier. But nobody is demanding his scalp.

STATED CASE ON THE QUESTION OF MARRIAGE

Borden Government Asks Supreme Court to Decide as to Relative Jurisdiction of Dominion and Provinces—Text of Stated Case

OTTAWA, FEB. 23.—The following is the text of the stated case on the marriage question being submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada:

"The Committee of the Privy Council, on the recommendation of the Minister of Justice, advise that, pursuant to section 60 of the Supreme Court Act, the following questions be referred to the Supreme Court of Canada for hearing and consideration namely: 1. (a) Has the Parliament of Canada authority to enact, in whole or in part, Bill No. 3 of the first session of the twelfth Parliament of Canada, entitled, 'An Act to Amend the Marriage Act.' The bill provides as follows:

"1. The Marriage Act, chapter 105 of the Revised Statutes, 1906, is amended by adding thereto the following section: 3. Every ceremony or form of marriage heretofore or hereafter performed by any person authorized to perform any ceremony of marriage by the laws of the place where it is performed, and duly performed according to such laws, shall everywhere within Canada be deemed to be a valid marriage, notwithstanding any difference in the religious faith of the persons so married, and without regard to the religions of the person performing the ceremony:

Absolute and Complete.

"(2) The rights and duties, as married people of the respective persons married as aforesaid, and the children of such marriage shall be absolute and complete, and no law or canonical decree or custom of, or in any Province of Canada shall have any force or effect to invalidate or qualify any such marriage or any of the rights of the said persons of their children in any manner whatsoever.

"(b) If the provisions of the said bill are not all within the authority of the Parliament of Canada to enact, which, if any, of the provisions are within such authority?

"2. Does the law of the Province of Quebec render null and void unless contracted before a Roman Catholic priest a marriage that would otherwise be legally binding, which takes place in such Province?

"(a) Between persons who are both Roman Catholics, or (b) between persons one of whom, only, is a Roman Catholic.

Has the Parliament Authority?

"3. If either (a) or (b) of the last preceding question) is answered in the affirmative, or if both of them are answered in the affirmative, has the Parliament of Canada authority to enact that all such marriages whether (a) heretofore solemnized, or (b) hereafter to be solemnized, shall be legal and binding?"

KIT'S COLUMN

The wail of the steady boarder who finds "boarding-houses the same everywhere," has reached this column. The boarding-house is a necessity. A large percentage of every city's population lives in boarding-houses. It has to live there for the reason that it can't afford to live in a hotel or take a flat, or set up housekeeping on its own account. It is made up mostly of single men and women and childless couples. Children do not figure heavily in the boarding-house list.

As a rule boarding-houses are not comfortable. The rooms are generally ill-heated in winter, the bath arrangements are unpleasant—to say the least of it—while the lighting is next door to nil.

Now since there is good money in this boarding-house business, why do not the people who "run" the houses keep them as they (the boarders) would wish them to be kept.

We asked a man of our acquaintance whose days—or rather nights—are usually spent in such an establishment. The answer was that boarders expected too much; that they expected hotel service at boarding-house prices; that women are a nuisance always wanting something extra, and surreptitiously given to washing their clothes in the bathroom, and ironing by means of the gas jet or electric point. He stated that people expected the best fresh butter, fresh eggs, lamb for Sunday dinner and vegetables all through the winter, for ten dollars a week. He argued that it is impossible to provide a table like this for that price, no matter how many boarders there are in a place. He referred to the fact that boarders never take into consideration the wear and tear in the matter of house linen, house upkeep, carpets, beds, etc. This gentleman is not a boarding-house keeper, never ran a hotel, is single, but not crabbed, is not young and giddy; likes good food as well as the rest of his sex, and is altogether a peaceable, prosaic, and practical old soul. Thus I leave him, friends, in your hands.

Apart from the matter of accommodation, table service, et al, of the boarding-house, the loneliness of it is what seems to the writer the most appalling. In summer at the resorts, or on Sundays, taking long walks, you will see these lonely boarding persons drifting about. A good many of the solitary men are no doubt strangers who have not found their bearings. But there always seems to be so many everywhere of these aimless persons moving abroad seeking solitary amusement. If one has work to do in the evenings, the boarding house room is not lonely, but it must be a lonesome place for those whose daily task in store or office is over and whose purse will not admit of much extravagance in the way of theater tickets or other recreation. A very much greater number of such persons than we imagine exists in every city. New arrivals, some of them country boys and girls; others up to find employment and business chances in the towns. The Christian Associations fill a great want in regard to these people, I know, but there are scores who never go to places like Christian associations, who would not care to go through shyness or timidity, or dislike of anything they fancy would savour of an "institution"—looking on anything of that brand—no matter how splendid—as they would on an Old Women's Home or a Shelter for Stray Dogs.

The great and standing complaint about boarding-houses is the monotony of the menu. The food may be good, clean, well cooked, and wholesome, but the cry is, "It is always the same." Same Sunday dessert same Sunday night supper of tough cold beef, same old hash, same old eggs, same old everything. Did you ever hear of turkey on Monday in any boarding-house that ever bloomed? If there is fowl of any sort it invariably turns up for Sunday dinner. After that it is never seen again. Who gets it fricasseed? Nothing to fricassee. But there are bones. Did you ever get a broiled turkey bone done with mustard and what a little girl I know calls "goo!" Where does what leaves off "goo" go to? Nothing left. Then why didn't we ask for a second helping while the bird was still in view, and what sort of a Barmecide's feast is this of a spud and a flick of the breast to offer to a hungry boarder?

And so on. "But," says an indignant boarderite, "what are you talking about? Whoever, for the last decade, saw as much as a turkey feather in a boarding-house? Let us be thankful for corn beef and cabbage."

My only answer is, dear lady, that since few of us can afford to have that delightful bird on our own tables at the price to which he has flown, why should we demand such luxuries for the price we are so unwilling to pay for our board and lodging? And besides, corned beef and cabbage is by no means to be despised on a cold day, if you manage to get anything of it but gristle. Be assured the boarding-house keeper has her own troubles which I beg of her not to bottle up in the envelope and dispatch them to Kit's desk, to this pendent corner.

And while we are upon the matter of cooking I may say that I am humbled, shamed, and wounded in my dearest feelings. I have been reminded that I am an ignoramus—something I was trying hard to forget—I have been told time and experience has not taught me "nuffin," that I "display a truly amusing ignorance of cookery," that I am no good generally (at least I deplore), and many other of these unpleasant things which we do to the children with the idea that they are necessary for the development of character; but I can forgive everything—nay, I am humbled before and that in the hands of the pretty Collingwood school teacher—yes, you are pretty, my dear—chastises me, but I cannot forgive one thing. She, the pretty Collingwood school teacher, tells one in no undecided manner (such being foreign to her), that I have never cooked potatoes! Shades of Mac Sinnet! I cooked potatoes—and ate them—before your pretty face ever saw the sun of this world. In their jackets I cooked them, and I only wish you had been there to eat one bursting out of his coat, with a fine little bit of butter on the top of him to ease him on his way.

And all this because a poor scribe laughed through a paragraph over her attempt to cook a dinner in a paper bag. Teacher cooks her dinners in paper bags, and to hear her describe her dishes would make you hungry. It makes me. Won't you invite me, Teacher, to a dish of paper-bagged potatoes at your school next time I visit your lively town? Do, and in return I'll tell you a story about a bag of potatoes that once ruined a cook.

But pause. Here comes another bag champion whose plea for "fair play" demands that it be heard in open court. She, too, addresses herself to the mighty Editor. She, too, smites me (though lightly) hip and thigh:

Dear Mr. Editor,—In the spirit of fair play, I wish to recommend the "paper bag" cookery to your readers. I have been told that, over the signature ("Kit," the paper bags have been condemned and consigned to the limbo of a cupboard shelf. That is too bad, because, with all due deference to "Kit," the paper bag must be used with intelligence and a knowledge of cookery. For instance, it is a well-known fact that if the temperature of the oven is right, potatoes will cook there in a given time without a paper bag—time and temperature being two necessary factors in the cooking of anything. Let us play the game fair.

I am, yours truly,

MARGARET DAVIDSON,
Director Household Science Department, Toronto Technical High School.

At last, ladies, you are waking up. Had we written a column of cold praise of the P.B.C. no one would have thought about it twice. Like many other things it has thrived on abuse. Roast the paper bags and they will roast—your beef. And all cynics this "roast" was not served without sauce. It was a long time coming, but it is here at last:

And it has horse radish in it, and cayenne, and tobacco wherewith to baste that amusing ignoramus who writes over a three-letter signature—that poor creature who is without intelligence enough to cook an onion.

To be told you don't know the difference between a paper bag with a hole in it and a gridiron is bad.

To be told you are a nincompoop an imbecile, and generally an ass, is worse.

But to be told you don't know how to cook a potato!

Shades of my ancestors, what now? Come on MacColman of the Black Eye, and you MacBlake of the large Red Foot! Come on Sir Edward Carbind ye and Limerick afore! To the rescue, Orange and Green and the Boyne Water and the Boys of Wexford. On with ye north and kiss that pretty teacher for me—if ye dare!

And, faith 'twill take all your valour.

"With a number of others, among whom were such important Canadians as"—the names followed—"I did" a few of your beloved Dickens places a couple of weeks ago. Thinking—since you are such a Dickens devotee, Kit—that you readers would be interested, I compiled a few notes for your column. First we trotted out of the roar of Holborn into the old inns of courts where Box once lived. A beadle, tall and stately, and crowned with a gold-banded hat, told us the novelist occupied the topmost chambers in the old place. There are three rooms to see—after much laborious stair-climbing—where Dickens, his wife, and sister-in-law lived for more than a year after his marriage. Queer low-ceiled rooms! I wonder what some of our people over in Canada would think were such 'a flat' as this shown to them. I can see their noses curling up. Yet Pickwick never mind old Forster) saw the light here. What will you say when I tell you I knocked double knocks on the door of a shaky old house in Bloomsbury with the very same knocker that Dickens used? It led into a little dim square room looking out on a dismal back yard, where tombs might be, so dank it looked, and dark and Londony. But here were born, most fittingly one would say, Fagin, Bill Sykes, Squeers, the delightful Dodger, old Beadle Bumble, and the bubbling Miss La Creevy. Not yet twenty-seven, Dickens evolved these immortal figures which still play their part in what you would call your delightful gallery of shadows. Of the Old Curiosity Shop, I will say nothing since, like yourself, I don't believe in it. The other places we saw were mere spots 'whereon stood,' as our pompous 'guide' put it—this or that abode" of Sol Gills, or old Krook, or Mrs. Snagsby. Nearly all the Dickens landmarks have melted away. You were lucky to see Mrs. Gamps' house in Kingsgate Street—now gone like so much that is interesting from that Dickens mine of fancy. I cannot describe to you how the novelist seems this year to have permeated London. Later on I hope to have an interesting note or two about this to send you."

It is regrettable that the Dickens places are fast disappearing. One of the principal joys of Dickens' lovers from this side on visiting London is to make a little pilgrimage to the queer places in the mighty city where such human oddments as Dickens gave us lived in his books. I remember staring to the delight of three small boys—till my neck was almost dislocated—at that top window of the house in Golden Square where they found Ralph Nickleby hiding—in that dreadful manner—behind the garret door. And much to the discomfiture of one of the small boys I asked him to show me the way, round the corner to where Miss Morleena Kenwigs lived with her Papa and Mamma and her Uncle Lillyvick. Whereon he gasped and ran for his

20. Can you think of any circumstance in which a man of God will act contrary to God's established laws, and expect God to reverse their natural consequences?

21. If Jesus had done as the Devil requested, how would that have tempted the Lord God?

22. Verses 8-11—What is the third temptation?

23. In what way could the Devil have carried out his promise?

24. Do angels always minister to those who resist the temptations of the Devil?

THE "KABO" CORSET IS HYGIENICALLY CORRECT

Expert corsetieres set themselves to produce a corset which would be in absolute conformity to the laws of hygiene. In the "Kabo" Corset they realized their idea.

The "Kabo" Corset is built on the natural lines of the figure. It does not bind the body into a stiff conventional shape—it moulds it into graceful flowing lines.

It is soft and flexible, yet will amply meet the requirements of the well developed figure. Models especially designed for full, average, and slender figures are included in the new Spring Styles.

We are the exclusive agents in Peterborough for the "Kabo" Corset.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

A Peterborough Girl's Great Musical Progress

The music-loving citizens of Peterborough, and it is recognized in its credit in a musical sense, will learn with delight of the continued success of a clever Peterborough girl musician, Miss Gladys Seward. She is pursuing her musical studies in Dresden, under Mr. Harry Field, now one of the most prominent piano pedagogues of that great musical centre, and he is himself reflecting glory upon the musical name of Canada. Under his instruction, and aided by her native musical genius, Gladys Seward is making great progress and is astonishing the exacting critics of Dresden. She recently appeared with the Gewandehaus Orchestra as soloist; and the remarks of the critics give evidence that the young artist has pretty well mastered the first formidable step to greatness as an artist, technique; and the musical spirit complementary of the highest artistic excellence is only a matter of time—of maturer judgment, sentiment and depth of interpretation.

The Dresden Guide says: Miss Gladys Seward, a prominent pupil of Harry Field, greatly distinguished herself as a soloist at the last symphony concert, her performances giving genuine pleasure and artistic satisfaction, especially in the way of musical achievements. The evenness and smoothness of her runs rival those of her esteemed teacher. Miss Seward altogether is the born pianist, "sans peur et sans reproche." For a thorough comprehension of Beethoven's G Major Concerto, which she interpreted, she is, as yet too young, anyhow the technical part was most marvellously mastered. The young lady's sense of rythm and her perfect control over herself (means to say: no stage fright) enables her even to give signs to the orchestra, as one is wont to find only with experienced artists of note. This extremely gifted child-pianist surely gives great promise in future, in fact one already wonders at her perfect ease and her pianistic skill demonstrated in her readings. What she lacks for the present is artistic maturity and elevation, all attributes which she possibly cannot possess until experiences in life and some additional years have made her develop mentally. Considering that the Beethoven Concerto is a task even for Eugen d'Albert or Busoni, or their rivals, Miss Seward may be glad to have done as well as she did on this occasion. Not having been able to stay to hear her soli, I can, however, on trustworthy authority, state that she acquitted herself of her task brilliantly and to the highest satisfaction of the audience, who spent ample applause on all her presentations. After the Beethoven Concerto Miss Seward had a number of recalls. Her soli were received with storms of hand-clappings.—A. G.

The Lokal Anzeiger says: At the Gewandehaus Saturday concert conducted by Willy Olsen, a young Canadian lady, Gladys Seward, appeared who has had splendid successes on former occasions in our concert halls. Miss Seward, who still is, so to speak, a mere child, plays brilliantly, with greatly developed technique and self-possession. Her runs are well balanced and display a skill and practical experience which many might envy her. So confident is she in her work, she even finds time to give nods to the orchestra to follow her intentions and one enjoys with her her delight in playing. Beethoven's G Major Concerto certainly seems easy to her now. Later, she may realize the sublime depths of this great work. It would not be reasonable to expect such a young piano virtuoso to realize the grandeur of Beethoven's spirit. In time she will feel more intensely in the matter. At present we draw attention to this great talent which will ripen under correct guidance. Her teacher, Harry Field, may be proud of the result he has reached so far.

The Dresdener Anseiger says: At the last Gewandehaus symphony concert, we made the acquaintance of a very gifted pianist, a pupil of the esteemed pedagogue, Harry Field. In spite of her extreme youth, she played such great works as Beethoven's Concerto in G Major, as well as those from Chopin, Liszt and others with astonishing technique and remarkable self-possession. It is true her musical sense has not developed sufficiently to grasp the great master's sublimity of thought, but, speaking generally, it was a most promising performance.

The Dresden correspondent of the New York Musical Courier says: At a late Gewandehaus concert, Gladys Seward, the talented young pupil of H. M. Field, played the G Major Concerto of Beethoven in a manner which reflects credit upon herself and her teacher. If Miss Seward, who is still very young, is not quite able to sound all the heights and depths of Beethoven, she, nevertheless, evinced enough genuine musicianship and efficient technique, with a well developed sense for leading a fine cantilena, to render her playing convincing and satisfactory. Her especial merit, just now, lies clearly upon the technical side of her art. When she awakens to more life, and to a warmer emotional impulse and feeling, she may, with such equipment, take a high place in the musical world. At present she seems to be possessed of great repose, and plays with security and finish, being able now and then to give a warning nod to the orchestra when it does not meet requirements (as on this occasion), so that she saved the whole performance from disaster by her cool, well-balanced head. H. M. Field is busy with many concert engagements. Not long since he gave a concert in Chemnitz, with the aid of Helen Read, who assisted with songs. In Leipsic he played with the assistance of the singer D'Arnalli. Mr. Field has won excellent notices from the press generally.

A dispatch to the journal, Musical America, says: Dresden, Jan. 2.—Gladys Seward, the American (our good neighbours claim Canadians as their own when they make good) child-pianist, appeared as soloist with the Gewandehaus Orchestra, under the leadership of Willy Olsen, recently, and gave a fine reading of Beethoven's G Minor Concerto, and of numbers by Chopin and Liszt. The young pianist conquered her audience completely. Her technical ability and the ease and freedom with which she played point to a successful future for her. Harry M. Field is her teacher.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS WORK WONDERFUL CURE.

Mrs. Ed. Lloyd, Weak and Worn and Wracked with Pain Found Relief and Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

ARDBEG, ONT., FEB. 23.—(Special)—"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done wonders for me," so says Mrs. Ed. Lloyd, wife of a well-known farmer living on the line of the C. N. O. Railway near here.

"I was so weak I could hardly walk around," Mrs. Lloyd continues, "I suffered from female weakness and kidney trouble. My heart troubled me so that at times I would almost pant with the palpitations. I was treated by the doctor but he could give me no relief.

"I was sick all over when I saved to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, Rheumatism, Lumbago and Neuralgia adding to my sufferings. But Dodd's Kidney Pills helped me almost at once. After taking eight boxes I was completely cured."

Naturally Mrs. Lloyd wants other suffering women to know how she found a cure, and Dodd's Kidney Pills will do for other sufferers just what they did for Mrs. Lloyd, make new women of them.

PIERROT TROUPE

New Organization Formed at the Park Street Baptist Church

A new musical and vocal organization came into existence last night at a well-attended meeting of the Men's Social Club in the parlours of the Park Street Baptist Church. It is to be known as "The Park Street Pierrot Troupe," the first of its kind, we believe, ever organized in the city.

There will be a chorus of twenty male voices, besides other local talent and hits.

The first practice will be next Tuesday evening at the church unless otherwise ordered by the management.

The officers elected were as follows:
President, Mr. Harry Hill.
Leader, Mr. A. Palmer.
Musical Director, Mr. Harold Fallis.
Secy.-Treas., Mr. James Theobald.
Committee of management—Mr. Wm. Laws, Mr. James Gaiside and Mr. Thomas Marks, with the officers of the society.

The announcement of the date and place of the first concert will be given later.

GAS, DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION GOES

Makes Your Disordered Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach, if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Biliousness, Heartburn, Water Brash, pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapepsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach cannot. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist, and start taking now, and in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy, strong Stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and Gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

Should you at this moment be suffering from Indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can surely get relief within five minutes.

POULTRY REGISTERED HIGH PRICES TO-DAY

Farmers' Market Had Larger Attendance Than Was Expected —Butter and Eggs at Last Week's Prices.

POTATOES SOLD AT $2.00

"I'd rather give my money to the grocers than to you people if I have to pay that price" exclaimed an indignant citizen, this morning, when a farmer's wife told him she wanted 40 cents a pound for butter. "I can get it for that anywhere in the city."

"Forty cents is my price," said Mr. Jos. Wright from the fourth line of Cavan. He had come in from Millbrook on the morning train. "The roads are simply impassable. The farmers along our concession were out shovelling all day yesterday, but they couldn't finish the work. I had to walk to the station. Driving is out of the question just now".

"I haven't a pound left," one woman remarked. She had emptied her basket of butter by 10.30 at forty cents a pound. Towards 11 o'clock, however, the offerings were heavier, as the farmers were becoming more numerous and prices of butter ranged from 35 to 40 cents. The holdouts were evidently remembering the drifts they had scrambled through, and considered that 40 cents a pound was none too little to ask.

Poultry Was High.

Poultry soared this morning.

"Those are nice, fat chickens," one woman remarked, "and I am asking $1.50 pair. These others I am asking $1.45 a pair.

"That's real generous of you," remarked a little woman, rather certly, and then to a companion, "let us go and get a roast of pork".

"What are you asking for this," a local contractor asked as he picked up a poultry specimen.

"Ninety cents. That is a last year hen, and it's nice and fat."

"Nice, fat price, too," was the laconic reply.

Another woman asked 85 cents for several hens as they appeared to be. "Goodness, no. I couldn't think of buying a chicken at that price. Money is none too plentiful with me," a humble purchaser remarked, when asked if she would take one.

Potatoes at $2.00.

"This is the last load of potatoes that I will bring to the market this winter," a North Monaghan farmer stated. "We have only enough left for ourselves and to seeding now."

Two dollars was his price, and at eleven o'clock there were none asking any lower.

"Only have three bags left," said another. "One man bought four bags from me at that figure. They simply have to pay the price for I tell you potatoes are scare".

"What about those who are holding out for even higher?"

"I don't think there are any doing that. Any way there are hardly any left in the country, as far as I know".

"That's pretty fine pork," a farmer on the outside remarked to a purchaser. And it was exceptionally good to look at. That is as far as the layman could judge.

"I have only a few fronts left at 11 cents. Hinds went at 12 cents."

The supply of meat was light today, in contrast with the heavy offerings of last week. At the same time the number of purchasers were not as large as usual. Assistant Clerk Stabler had a grievance against the reporters.

"You shouldn't tell the people that the market is likely to be small," he said. This is a larger market than I expected. Let the people come up any way, no matter how the roads are".

Market Clerk Girven called attention to the smoke in the market hall. "I had to open the windows early, to let some of the smoke out and it is almost as bad as ever now. The chimneys and pipes should have been cleaned out. I asked that something be done, but you can see how things are."

There were several loads of hay in but only farmers near the city brought them.

Altogether the market was more active than expected with the roads blocked in many directions.

Prices quoted were as follows:
Beef fronts—8 1-2c.
Beef hinds—9 1-2c.
Butter—35 to 40c.
Eggs—36 to 38c.
Potatoes, per bag—$2.00.
Chickens, each—75c to 90 cents.
Chickens, pair—$1.15 to $1.25.
Onions, per peck—40c.
Carrots—25c per peck.
Live hogs, $8.65.
Dressed hogs, $8.50.
Baled hay, $17.
Loose hay, $16.
Farmers hides, 9c.
Butchers hides, 10c.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

A YOUNG man whom I know, has what many of his friends term a "soft snap." He works for his older brother, who is very fond of him and allows him many privileges and immunities, besides paying him an excellent salary.

But the other day it became necessary for someone, who was in the confidence of the firm and entirely trustworthy, to do a certain exceedingly difficult and disagreeable piece of work. And, of course, this task fell to the younger brother's lot. In order to do this work, he was obliged to get up at four o'clock every morning for over a month and that in the least pleasant season of the year. He had to do a great deal of hard manual labour, eat in very cheap restaurants and put up with very obnoxious sleeping quarters.

We were speaking of all these discomforts afterwards, and one of those friends who had always enviyingly contended that Richard had a "soft snap," admitted that it might not be so soft as we had supposed. "I guess he has some things easy and some things hard like the rest of us," said this man.

My friend—is there anyone whom you have always had a tendency to envy—anyone who seems to you to live, as it were, on a bed of roses, and never have anything to disturb or disappoint? Believe me, if you knew all about his life, you would find that he also had "some things easy and some things hard, like the rest of us."

There are people who seem to swim through life without ever encountering any cross currents, without ever being touched by want, misfortune, or disappointment. We may not exactly envy them, but we certainly cannot see what possible cause they can ever have for unhappiness or dissatisfaction. And yet, if we really knew their daily existences and their inmost thoughts, I'm sure we would find that they too had many things to mar their lives.

It might be that the necessity of bearing with some very disagreeable member of the family was the bitter drop—it might be that the inability to control a fearful temper, some other weakness, or the fear of some inherited disease was the skeleton of his heart's closet. Indeed, any one of innumerable things might be the "something hard" which checkers the existence that looks so perfectly happy to us.

There may be somewhere, sometime an existence in which all things shall be easy and satisfactory, but I don't believe such an existence ever comes to any one in this life. Some things easy and some things hard, light and shadow, day and night, seedtime and harvest—through all the world runs the law of contrast and balance.

So don't fancy it is just in your life that some things are easy and some things hard. It is everywhere.

THE SECTION MAN

An Appreciation of His Share in the Work of Railroading --What He Contributes to the Pleasure of Travelling and the Conditions He Must Endure.

While telephone and telegraph operators are being pestered for information concerning late trains in these days of winds and drifts, and snow-bound passengers are impatiently kicking their heels miles from nowhere, there is little thought wasted on the man out on the road. The winter's storms may fill in the cuts, the spring freshets may carry away culverts, and the daily wear and tear may loosen bolts and rails, but the miles and miles of track must always be prepared for traffic. In the heat of summer, and the cold of mid-winter, in the rains of April and during the bleak days of November, the section man must go over the stretch of road entrusted to his care.

From your window seat you whirl past little groups of men at varying distances along the line, but they receive no more attention in your thoughts than any of the telegraph poles that flit past with painful monotony.

Now and then an official car passes over the line, is side-tracked in the yards, and the roadmaster casts a critical eye over the general appearance of the roadbed, objects to something on one side, criticises on another and then is gone. Meanwhile the section men toil away under all conditions of weather, a daily round of labour that changes with the seasons.

They tell about the responsibilities of the engineer, the conductor, the telegrapher and others connected with the railway business, who generally appear in the limelight, but it must be admitted that as the tiny pinions in a watch contribute their share of the work of the combined mechanism so does the section man share in the responsibilities of "railroading." Even the begrimed oiler has his part to play.

Of those who toil out doors there are none who must apply themselves so continuously as the section men. Passengers, freight and mails must be rushed from one end of the country to the other in spite of the feelings of the section men, who must be as proof against heat as against cold, and when the rain catches them miles from shelter they must turn the other cheek to the wind. When it is 29 degrees below the switches must be kept in order and the line must be gone over with practically the same regularity as when the 99 degrees above register has been reached, and the long stretch of track becomes a narrow furnace converging in the distance, and the heat waves lifting from the rails.

And when cars pile up over an open switch or two trains lock together head on, it is the section men who are called out at any hour of the night or early morning, when most of these accidents occur. Their work seldom receives notice, and yet it is their labour that has made travelling pleasurable over smooth roadbeds, and it is their watchfulness that has prevented the list of accidents from being more extended.

Skilled Dentists Among Ancients

The Etruscans Made Gold Crowns and Bridgework in Seventh Century Before Christ

"STORE" TEETH

An interesting light is shed on the dentistry of the ancients in the course of an article in The Journal of the American Medical Association, in which the writer compares present-day methods with those in vogue in the time of the Phoenicians and the Etruscans. He says:

"The gradual accumulation of information with regard to old-time medicine and surgery has brought a general realization that in the broader outlines of these departments of medical practice there were many remarkable anticipations of modern developments. Dentistry, though considered peculiarly modern, has been found highly developed in the past. Many alleged interesting dental discoveries among the old Egyptian remains have been heard to verify, and no specimens are now available to confirm the filled teeth and various prosthetic apparatus. What has thus been lost with regard to old Egypt however has been more than compensated by discoveries in old tombs in other countries. The actual specimens of ancient dentistry may be seen in various European museums.

"The most interesting of these specimens because the oldest, is a Phoenician example of bridgework found in a tomb at Sidon. The specimen is now in the Louvre at Paris, and consists of a part of the upper jaw of a woman with the two canines and the four incisors held together by gold wire. Two of the incisors are transplanted teeth fastened in by gold wire. Guerini calls attention to the fact that a form of dental prosthesis similar to this of the old Phoenicians is practiced by the Hindus at the present time.

"The next most interesting development of dentistry occurred among the Etruscans, whose culture far surpassed that of the Romans for many centuries. In the museum at Corneto (which was the ancient Tarquinii, the capital of the Etruscan federation, may be seen a number of marvellous specimens of dental prosthesis of the sixth and seventh centuries before Christ. They consist mainly of bridgework done by riveted bands of metal. One of them supported three artificial teeth being made out of a single ox tooth grooved to imitate rather closely two human teeth.

"Guerini says that he was never able to find an ox tooth not worn away by mastication until the idea occurred to him of sectioning the upper jaw of a calf at about the age of the second dentition and taking out the teeth, which were already strong and well formed but not yet worn by mastication. He thinks that his Etruscan colleague must have done the same thing about 2,500 years ago when he made the prosthetic apparatus described. There are nearly a dozen of these specimens in various Etruscan museums.

"In the laws of the twelve tables, written in Rome 450 B.C., while it is expressly forbidden to bury gold ornaments with bodies, a special exception is made for gold with which the teeth may perchance be found together. The museum of Pope Julius at Rome contains a gold cap made of two small plates of gold, stamped out to represent rather closely a middle lower incisor, and these two pieces soldered together to form the crown of a tooth. Guerini, who was asked to collate all these specimens by the Italian Government, declares that this is a typical example of crown work.

"The satiric poets of Rome, especially Martial, refer frequently to artificial teeth. Martial speaks of an old woman who was so scared that as she ran away her teeth fell out. In one epigram he answers the question why one woman's teeth are dark, while another's are white, though both are of the same age, by saying that one of them buys her teeth, while the other has her own.

"The Romans had a number of different kinds of dentifrices and took great care of their teeth. Galen describes a form of pastille, containing aromatics and opium that might be used as a toothache gum. The filling of teeth with various kinds of metals is described by Celsus, though the first sure reference to gold filling does not occur until about the middle of the fifteenth century. The transplanting of teeth, especially from the mouths of slaves into those of their mistresses seems to have been practiced rather commonly in the early days of the Roman Empire.

"In ancient dentistry are foreshadowed many dental devices which are generally considered peculiarly modern; and we have the actual specimens to illustrate the mechanical skill of the old-time dentists."

BIG GAME

With the exception of antelope and musk-ox, British Columbia has every species of big game that exists on the continent; even the rarest of them being found in fair quantities. In addition, there are wild fowl and game birds of various species, some native and others acclimatized, that furnish sport; while the waters afford the finest trout and salmon fishing in the world. In fact, the sporting possibilities are so many that it would be impossible to exhaust them in an ordinary lifetime. The Grand Trunk Pacific is opening up virgin territory where the very best hunting will be found.

Some 70 miles up the river from Port George the "Grand Canon" is reached, and from there a magnificent moose country extends as far as the Little Smoky River. From reliable reports received, it is probable that there are more moose to the square mile than in any other part of the continent, and every year their numbers seem to increase. So far, the country has never been hunted except by a few prospectors. Whether the horns attain the large size of the Cassier moose has yet to be determined, but some very fine heads have been seen. In this district, caribou are very plentiful on the higher plateau, and in places both grizzly and black bear are numerous.

FIRST DUTY IS TO HER HOME

It is not necessary for a girl to confide all her love affairs to her mother, but should she find herself at all perplexed and not certain how she should act under adverse circumstances, the mother is the one to whom the child should naturally fly for advice and comfort. Where there is mutual affection between child and parent there is seldom any cause for a mother to complain that her daughter does not confide in her. A girl's early education has much to do with her future happiness, especially as regards her matrimonial prospects. Mothers do not always take this fact into consideration.

The sole aim in life of some parents seems to be to get their daughters mated—married is too sacred a word to use in this instance. A mother wan s to mate her child with what she considers the best husband from a worldly point of view, irrespective of the inclinations of her daughter, whose feelings she outrages and sacrifices for what she considers a good and comfortable match, entirely ignoring the qualities of the man she has chosen for her husband. Provided, he has any money and a good social position, she makes these outweigh any deficiency of character he may possess.

When a girl has such a mother how can she confide in her—how can she tell her how much she loves her Edwin because they seem to have so many tastes in common? The first question her mother would probably ask would be: "How much money does he earn?" or, "Has he got a rich father?" We know it ought to be ascertained from a disinterested person and not asked of the girl herself, who is without doubt overflowing with joy at the delightful sensation of being beloved, and whose cheeks are glowing with the first bud of the love that has come to her unawares, and unconsciously pervaded her whole being.

The glamour of passion is often mistaken for love, but when a girl begins to reflect and sometimes to wonder as to the wisdom of her choice, then she craves for a sympathetic friend to whom she can confide all her doubts and fears. A mother ought to be that friend, and by her tact and loving kindness smoothe all difficulties from her daughter's path, quell her fears and assist her to calmly view her engagement so that she can judge whether its continuance would add to her happiness or the reverse.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A True Friend

Would not give you a drug in your food.

But many persons, of their own accord, drink coffee or tea day after day—ignoring the fact that there is a drug, caffeine, in every cup.

True, you may be able to "stand it" for a time, but the drug is there, and sooner or later is pretty sure to show in some annoying ailment.

There can be no relief until the cause is removed.

Simply leaving off coffee and tea will work wonders, but it is much easier if you shift to well-made

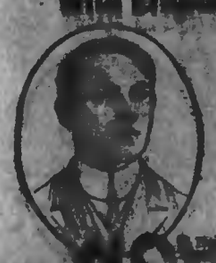
CO-OPERATION OF PUBLIC NEEDED

To Eliminate Crowding When Street Cars Stop

In regard to a recent letter from a Lock Street correspondent to the Examiner, regarding the confusion sometimes resulting from citizens crowding into a street car before others have left, Inspector McClean states that the co-operation of the public with the conductors is necessary to eliminate this practice. The conductors have been instructed to regulate the moving of passengers into and out of the cars, but many people crowd onto the steps as soon as a car stops and persist in jamming their way inside, although others are trying to leave it. The conductors cannot beat people back, and it is apparently only a little thoughtfulness on the part of those who try to board a car under such conditions that causes all the trouble. The resulting delays can be easily obviated by a little reason on the part of the public. In addition, the confusion that results in the vestibule and aisles will be avoided.

Skin All Covered With Eruption



Tried Many Remedies for 8 Years. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

A Quebec man, N. Henri Tardif, of St. Casimir, writes in a letter dated Mar. 31, 1911: "I had a very bad skin, all covered with eruption, eight years ago. I have had all of both my shoulders covered with it, and the high part of my arms, and my face, but it was the worst on my shoulders. I tried many different remedies to cure it, but nothing was any good. At last I went to an apothecary. He asked me if I had ever used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I told him no, and I bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap. I used three boxes of Cuticura Ointment, but I am glad of the same, for Cuticura Soap and Ointment completely cured me of my skin eruption. I spread the Cuticura Ointment on as my sore parts, and I think that in washing my face with Cuticura Soap it hindered my eruption from raising and burning. I tried many remedies during three or four years but Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me." (Signed) N. Henri Tardif.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, but to those who have suffered much, lost hope and are without faith in any treatment, a liberal sample of each with a 32-p. booklet on the skin and scalp will be mailed free, on application. SIR WILFRID WILL STAY

OTTAWA, FEB. 24.—Mr. Graham will probably take his seat in the Commons a week from Monday next. He will, as has been already announced, be Sir Wilfrid Laurier's leaskmate, taking the seat which has been left vacant for him since the opening of the session.

The stories printed in the Conservative press to the effect that Sir Wilfrid would now retire from the leadership in favour of Mr. Graham are, of course, utterly without foundation. The "Old Chief" was never in better fighting form, and with Mr. Graham as his first lieutenant will continue in the leadership. Active organization work in every province is under way, and when the next election comes, probably within the next two years, Liberalism, under its present leader, will go into the contest with a far better organization than was the case last September.

A SPLENDID PRIZE

The Sunday School of the Memorial Baptist Church was successful in a "Library contest" and the book awarded as a prize was more than a surprise. It consisted of a beautifully bound volume (Vol. 1) of a set of Defoe's Works, and it was the autobiography of 'Moll Flanders' who tells in the undilated and direct language of the early part of the eighteenth century of her lapses from her first redemption as the Penitent Magdalen. Incidentally the work is a Classic, and the author is treated by the University Press, Cambridge, and though it recounts an errant course ending with virtue triumphant, and may have its moral teaching value, the language employed, and the details emphasized, make it about as fit reading for a Sunday School, as some of the ceremonial chapters of Leviticus would be. It goes without saying that "Moll Flanders" did not find a place in the Sunday School Library. It has a prominent place on the index expurgatorius.

BIG CHANGES ARE TO BE MADE AT ELLIOT'S

Greater Enlargements Than Ever Will Make Establishment One of the Most Up-to-date Ready-to-wear Stores in Canada.

The store is to be entirely overhauled and with quantity increased shopping and added facilities the desire to be up-to-date is regarded by everybody. Even the present plans the stores on either side are not available this year, but the space in the present large building is to be put to the greatest possible use.

On the third floor which is to be entirely devoted to Ready-to-Wears, the improvement will perhaps be more marked than in any department of the store, as Ready-to-Wear will in future stand out as the great distinguishing feature of Elliot's store.

In this department there will be an opening larger than ever before attempted in Peterborough.

The high class Parisian dressing costing up to three and four hundred dollars each will be on exhibition.

The salon of imported dresses this season will be the most from those of three hundred dollars each.

It would well repay quite a journey to see the collection of imported high class styles. The materials of the leading cities as high a quality will not be shown.

Miss Noble who has been in New York studying the styles for the Spring, will arrange the second floor with a greatly enlarged stock of millinery gotten up in her own inimitable manner.

On the main floor there will be very extensive alterations. The south door will be made into a window and the back of the window will be moved back into the store about six feet.

It will be interesting to watch this window—an entirely new system of window dressing will be shown.

The other staff will be increased.

Mr. White, who has been trained under Mr. Elliot's special care, will look after the sales staff on the main floor.

He will greet the people as they enter the store with his usual happy smile and see that everybody is courteously received.

The management would be pleased if you would take around your visitors and friends, to see the improvements, for a social call. Don't wait till you need something—visit the store. They will be delighted to show you around.

WOULD PUT LIGHTS ON BUGGIES.

"While you're talking about Blue Laws, and the Excise, and other forms of Canadian legislation that seem strange to our neighbors across the border," says F. I. Fox, manager of the big Ford branch in Toronto, Ontario, "I heard a Ford dealer from Alberta make a pretty good observation the other day.

"A man driving a horse and buggy reprimanded the Ford dealer for having his tail lamp burning. By accident, it had gone out or else he had neglected to light it. But there was the other vehicle burning no lights at all, imperilling pedestrians and other vehicles far more than an automobile could. The driver of the horse just naturally took it for granted that autoists must observe every traffic regulation, while placing no responsibility on his own rig.

"Buggies and all horse-drawn vehicles should carry head and tail lights the same as automobiles do," was the sage remark from the western Ford dealer.

HENRY FORD TELLS FUNNY TALES OF TRIALS

Telling His First Car in Early Days of Auto Career a Handicap.

"My first car certainly took a lot of cussing," says Henry Ford, the wizard of the industry. "Of course there were a dozen changes to be made in it every day. It was a case of hourly refinement instead of once a year as the rule is generally accepted now.

"Well it so happened that the best street for testing was near a school house. If I happened along that street at recess time or when school was letting out, then there was sure to be excitement.

"The boys would come flying at me, yelling at the top of their lungs, until the air was blue with their cheers. The first car I didn't steam much—never had by George, to make me want to see those boys demonstrate their superiority over Detroit's fleet automobile. I would have to climb out of the seat chase the kids away and try to get started before they held me up again".

MUSIC AND DRAMA

ERNIE MARKS COMPANY.

The Ernie Marks Dramatic Company pleased another large audience at the Grand Opera House last night, when a capable presentation of the five-act English comedy drama, "In Convict's Stripes," was given. The company in its present engagement has proven itself one of the strongest popular priced stock companies that has ever appeared in this city, and it is no wonder this week it sees capacity business. "In Convict's Stripes" last night's vehicle is a stirring logical play with plenty of action, bright dialogue and exciting climaxes, and the company took full advantage of the opportunity it gave them. The vaudeville programme between acts was alone worth the price of admission. De Lana and De Lana are a capable sketch team. Lida Gardner proves herself a character singer of no mean ability and Franklin A. Roberts' topical songs make a big hit. These clever artists change their offerings each night. To-night's offering will be the comedy "Happy Houligan." Local play-goers will be pleased to learn that the Ernie Marks Company will be here for the first three nights of next week with a complete change of programme each night.

This Was Some Game

Last night, at Rock St. Rink, Adamson and Dobbin's hockey outfit of plumbers and tinsmiths "wiped the joints" of Adam Hall and Son's, team by a score of 6 to 5. This fast and exciting contest took place immediately after the Trent Valley fixture, and it was hammer and tongs all through the piece. The "tin" men were in front, 5 to 2, at the half. For the winners, "Willie" Mitchell, in goal, proved to be a Derocher in disguise, and made some fine stops. He is wasting his time with this team, and should be playing for Ottawa. Thoop and Clark, on the defence, were a hard proposition, while the forwards were always on the job, Butcher especially being in the limelight. Reynolds was the best of the Hall outfit, but all the team played good hockey. Board, at point, was right there with the wood. It is said that the hardware team are going to challenge for the Allan Cup. Line up and summary:

Adam Hall and Son (5)—Goal, Stinson; point, F. Board; cover point, H. Hatcher; centre, H. Moore; rover, Reynolds; right wing, J. Hatcher; left wing, Weston.

The game was very clean, no one being on the fence. M. Keneally made a fair and impartial referee, and so all the off-sides.

Mr. Geo. Crowe, the star performer of the Adam Hall seven, was unable to play, so thereby hangs a tale.

There is sweet music here that softer falls
Than petals from blown roses on the grass,
Or night dews on still waters, between walls
Of shadowy granite, in a gleaming pass;
Music that gentler on the spirit lies
Than tir'd eyelids upon tir'd eyes;
Music that brings sweet sleep down from the blissful skies.
Here are cool mosses deep,
And through the moss the ivies creep,
And in the stream the long-leav'd flowers weep
And from the craggy ledge the poppy

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

The new mill of the Beaver Consolidated Co. was officially placed in operation on Thursday. For some time past the mill has been undergoing a tuning up process, and now that this plant has started on the treatment of ore, the mill will be able to do big work.

The starting of Beaver's mill means a tremendous addition to the earnings of the Company through the treatment of its low grade ore, and it is anticipated by Supt. Moffatt that the returns will show an 85 per cent. recovery.

It is anticipated that operation of this mill will place Beaver among the leaders in the shipping list, and it is also probable, through increased earnings of the company, that something in the way of larger dividend disbursements may be expected in the very near future.

We regard Beaver Consolidated on present conditions as worth not less than $1 a share, and, believing that its increased earnings, as well as its immense demonstrated ore reserves, will shortly warrant its selling at that figure, we strongly advise its purchase at prevailing low levels.

T.A.S. TEAM HAVE LEAD OF FIVE—WHITEWASHED CAMPBELLFORD SEVEN

The Easterners Failed to Live Up to Their Advance Notices —Game Was Not a Pretty Exhibition.

HALF TIME SCORE 1-0

The Campbellford team failed to live up to their press notices last night and were defeated at Brook St. Rink, in the first of home and home games to decide this section of the Trent Valley League by the T. A. S. by five goals to nothing. At half-time the Abstainers were leading by one to nothing. A fairly large crowd saw the game, which was a ragged exhibition, marked by constant bunching and hard and not any too clean checking. The players on both teams failed to play their positions, and, as a result of their roaming there were generally half-a- dozen in the neighbourhood of the rubber. Combination was conspicuous by its absence and the checking was so close that the players very rarely broke away. Long stages were played without either goal-keeper having a shot to handle and it was far from pretty hockey at any stage. The veteran referee, F. C. Waghorne, was master of ceremonies and managed to miss a lot on both sides.

The Abstainers failed to show their usual form, although they worked hard at all stages. However, their lead of five goals should carry them through the district all right, and they will be heard from later on, as they have a capable, well-balanced team, who can play infinitely better hockey than they did last night. They were coming strong at the finish, having Campbellford pretty well sucked away. They were busier when close in and took more advantage of their openings, while Campbellford threw away golden chances by poor marksmanship. Several times they had no one to beat but McFadden but shot wide by several feet.

The game was strenuous, but not dirty. Both teams waded into each other in good style and there was any amount of vigorous body checking and slashing. "Wag" chased a few of the offenders, but allowed a lot of it to go, and the players took full advantage of his leniency in this respect.

The Abstainers scored the only goal in the first period and it was well on into the second period before they scored again. Three others were added before the end of the game, while the Easterners were blanked throughout.

Halpin was the pick of the T. A. S., the little centre working hard all through. McPhee did not shine, as usual, in the early stages, but came to life in the last fifteen minutes and contributed some nice individual work, getting three nice goals. The Lancefield brothers checked vigorously on the defense, and McFadden played a steady, sure game in the nets, taking care of everything in finished fashion.

Shannon played his usual good game for Campbellford, while Roe and Clemens did some nice stick-handling on the forward line, although both had hard luck in their shooting. Goal-keeper Grant introduced some new methods in the second half, when he sorties out of his net into the corner of the rink to check the T. A. S. man in possession of the rubber.

The teams were as follows:

1.—T. A. S., Halpin.
Half-time.
2—T. A. S., McPhee.
3—T. A. S., McPhee.
4—T. A. S., McPhee.
5—T. A. S., Halpin.

EATONS AFTER THE ALLAN CUP NOW

Secretary Hewitt Forwarded Their Credentials to Winnipeg This Morning—Games May be Played Within 2 Weeks

Examiner Special:

TORONTO, ONT., FEB. 24.—The championships of Ontario and Manitoba Hockey Leagues having been decided, the next big event in hockey circles will be the fight for the Allan Cup, now in possession of the Victorias of Winnipeg. Early this morning Secretary Hewitt, of the O.H.A., forwarded to Secretary Northey, of the Allan Cup at Montreal, all credentials of the Eaton team, champions of Ontario, with the request that games for the Allan Cup with the Winnipeg Victorias be pulled off as early as possible. It is the desire of O.H.A. authorities that games be arranged for within two weeks. The Eatons are ready to go to Winnipeg any time.

EATONS LOSE TO KINGSTON BUT WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Kingston, Feb. 23.—Frontenacs defeated Eatons of Toronto in the O. H. A. senior final game here to-night by 8 goals to 3, but Eatons win the round and the championship by 16 to 12. There was a period early in the second half when things looked very uncertain for Eatons. It was when Frontenacs had scored twice in rapid succession, making the tally 7 to 2. The Toronto team steadied down, however, and held their lead.

Strengthened by George Richardson, the old Queen's and 14th Regiment player, at left wing, Frontenacs made a gallant attempt t covercome the big lead of nine goals, which Eatons had from the first game in Toronto, but the task was too great. However, Richardson, although retired from the game for three years, was the fastest and most effective man on the ice. His rushes and backchecking were wonderful. Though Crawford scored seven of the tight goals secured by the Frontenacs, he obined with Rihardson on several occasions.

Eatons owe the championship to the brilliant work of Bricker in goal and Rankin at point, the latter playing a great game. In the second half shots were fairly rained on Bricker, who knocked aside several that only a star goalkeeper could block.

Frontenac well deserved their victory, for they had Eatons beaten at all stages. At half time they led by 5 to 2. Eatons got the first two goals, Foyston making the tallies. The first was a long shot from the side, which Daniels did not see. The second was one from the corner that just grazed its way into the net. Then Frontenacs put in five, four being shot by Crawford and one by Richardson.

Eatons managed to get one goal in the second half, and this from a face-off right on the Frontenac goal line. At all stages of the game Eatons were pressed to the limit, and had to play for all that was in them to maintain their lead. Frontenacs are satisfied that if Richardson had been on their line-up in Toronto last Saturday the senior O.H.O. championship would have been theirs.

CAMPBELLFORD CLAIMS HASTINGS HAD "RINGERS"

The Hastings Star says:

Here is how the Campbellford Despatch squeals at the trimming the Campbellford team got last week. They thought we had ringers on and tried to ring in a couple themselves to play at Havelock, but ringers must have known how the Campbellford club paid the Hastings expenses money and how the Campbellford sports paid the bets they could sneak out of, so took no chances.

"The latest offender against the "Buy at home" policy is Hastings. They buy hockey players wholesale.

We never thought much of Hastings. After Monday night we doubt if they think much of themselves.

It would be as much as your life is worth to ask a citizen of Hastings "can anybody here play hockey?"

The combined Toronto and Hastings hockey team which visited here on Monday night for an exhibition game exhibited all the tricks of the game."

Doesn't it do you good to hear them squeal?

OVER THE HOG LINE

Local Bonspiel Will Commence Next Week

There is very little stirring at the Charlotte Street Curling Arena these days. The schedule games were concluded a couple of weeks ago, and with the exception of one or two special events which are yet to be pulled off, the season is all but finished. A meeting will be held to-night for the purpose of making final arrangements for the local bonspiel, which in all probability will commence next week. This promises to be one of the best events of its kind ever held in the city and its coming is anticipated with eager interest by curling enthusiasts.

The second round of the Neil-Sheppard fixture will also be wiped off the slate next week, weather permitting. Four rinks will have to go to Orillia to play off the finals in this event, and, in order to win the coveted trophy, they will have to pull down the lead of 11 shots which their opponents secured in the first half of the competition.

HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The editor of the Campbellford Despatch was in town last night to see T. A. S. trimmed by the Electric septette from the East. Quaker Oats proved too much after all, however, and the Eastern scribe will find that "seven sweaters and a similar number of sticks" description of the Examiner pretty nearly correct, as usual.

The Orillia Packet has the following to say of Tuesday night's game. The part in regard to Denison's "roughing it" must be intended as a joke:

The semi-final round with Peterborough Juniors turned out as was generally expected both in Orillia and in outside hockey circles. The Orillians won the round by 7 goals. The followers of the game, however, were slightly astray on the scores made at each of the games. It was not expected that Orillia would beat Peterborough by 5 goals to 2 on their own ice, nor was it expected that Peterborough would hold Orillia down to 3 to 3 in the return game. Peterborough people claim that the heavy ice on Friday night kept their lighter players from showing any speed. Many reasons are put forth by the local supporters for the closeness of the score in Orillia. Some think the boys were off colour; others that they didn't have to, and weren't exerting themselves; and again some let their spirits fall so far as to think the visitors were about too much for them. There was nothing in the last contention. If the Orillians had felt they needed a large score they had it in them to get it, and Peterborough could not have stopped them.

Peterborough very seldom made a rush on the Orillia goal, except when some opening occurred, while the Orillia seven made their way down through their opponents' ranks, opening or no opening. Down at Peterborough Denison was watched so closely that he was not able to shine, while here he was let run loose quite often. This was partly due to the threat that he is said to have made that he would "rough" it in Orillia, and the Orillians were not wishful to get pounded up before the game with the T.C.C. unless it was necessary. Peterborough defence covered their nets better than their opponents did in Orillia. Norman Cooke was sometimes left too much exposed to attack. This is not usual, however. The spectators got good return for the admission fee, and the closeness of the score added to the excitement.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Grey and Faded Hair to its Natural Colour

It is easier to preserve the colour of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and colour restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

This remedy is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If your hair is losing colour or coming out start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-day, and see what a change it will make in a few days' time.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

RED ROSE TEA

St. James' First Church To Open Educational Campaign On Tuberculosis

Written for the Examiner by Roy Gilroy

The Brotherhood of St. James' Methodist church, which meets every Friday night, had the good fortune to secure Dr. Neale for a lecture on Tuberculosis. So enthusiastic were they over the splendid talk which the Doctor gave them that they suggested having it repeated at some future date, when all the members of the congregation could have an opportunity of hearing it.

Dr. Neale presented the subject in such a manner that everyone was able to grasp the details, illustrating his professional names with everyday examples to make them clear to those unacquainted with the technical terms. In introducing his subject he reviewed the work at Saranac Lake, N.Y., and the splendid results obtained.

Tuberculosis is a communicable, preventable and curable disease caused by the inroads of a vegetable parasite or germ called tubercule bacillus, discovered by Dr. Koch in 1882. Its most usual form is pulmonary, but it may attack any part of the body. When in the knee it is known as white swelling, in the intestines it is known as peritonitis, even the appendix is not free from the germ as many operations have disclosed the fact that this troublesome little organ has been the seat of tubercular action; in the brain it is known as tubercular meneugitis; in children it usually manifests itself in the swollen glands of the neck; in the spine it causes those pitiful cases of hunchbacks; attaching the joints it produces a stiffness, one form being hip-disease. It is these outward manifestations that touch our hearts. One particular sad case was referred to: that of a little boy whose left elbow, right knee and right lung were all affected. He is now so far recovered that he is back at school once more, which casts a ray of hope to those who are not so badly affected.

The germ gains a foothold in the body by the person eating food containing the tubercular germs, such as milk or meat; by innoculation, such as touching a sore on a cut finger; and by inhalation, breathing in through the nose or mouth dust particles laden with the tiny germs. These infections are being taken into the body continuously, lying dormant, perhaps, for years, and may never cause the person any trouble if the body is kept in first class condition, in which case it is said to throw off the poisons resulting from the presence of the germs, but if the body is allowed to deteriorate or run down the germ asserts itself in some form, and not till then does the patient know that he is a victim of tuberculosis.

The disease itself is not hereditary, but the weakness for, or predisposition to take it, is. In certain families the chests are poorly developed and their power of resistance low. In such cases the only remedy is to isolate either the well or sick one, in which case theer is no danger of the well one contracting the disease. The Doctor referred to an entire family of 15 having passed away with the exception of one, and that one had been saved owing to the fact that he had always lived away from home.

Then there are certain diseases which, as it were, prepare the ground, or pave the way, for tuberculosis. Such are pneumonia, la grippe, measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, influenza asthma, bronchitis and pleurisy, the worst being measles and pleurisy. Of course, it does not necessarily follow that anyone afflicted with any of these ailments will at once develop tuberculosis, but they leave the body in such a condition that the tubercular germ has an excellent chance to develop and multiply.

Other agencies that tend to help along the dread disease are dissipation, use of alcohol, overwork, improper or poor feeding, and unsanitary or poor feeding, and unsanitary environments, such as darkness, foul air, dust, and above all careless habits of fellow employees who expectorate around on the floors.

To impress the value of fresh air, the Doctor referred to an experiment that was made on a number of rabbits at the Sanatorium at Saranac Lake. All were inoculated with the Sputum (or spit) from tubercular patients. All the rabbits showed signs of tuberculosis. Half were put on an island off which they could no get and were out in the air and sunlight all the time. The other half were put in a dark cellar. All those on the island lived and recovered, while those in the cellar quickly died.

Underfeeding is one of the chief agencies that help the disease. This is most noticeable in children who are apt to be fussy about what they eat, and often go to school without their breakfast.

The chief symptoms are: Fatigue near the middle of the day; irritability of the patient; loss of appetite; decrease in weight; night sweats; and a general feeling of being "always tired."

Sixty to seventy per cent. of those cases which are discovered early can be cured; about 35 per cent. of the more advanced cases can be cured; while only five per cent. of those in last stages can be successfully treated. All of which goes to prove that people should always be alert to discover a case in time, and have the patient properly looked after.

There are several ways in which we may avoid this loathsome malady. Prevention is better than a cure at any time. The best way to prevent it is to keep the bodies up to the highest point of efficiency, by eating plenty of good food, breathing an abundance of fresh air by night and day, by avoiding overwork or fatigue, and by never partaking of alcohol or other form of dissipation. Above all keep the mind optimistic, cheerful and hopeful. Nothing helps the disease more than occasional fits of the "blues."

Too much attention cannot be given to the matter of diet, particularly that of milk to children. Nearly all milk contains the tubercular germ, which comes from cattle affected with tuberculosis. To render it safe it should be properly sterilized. There is not the same danger with meat as it is always cooked or otherwise treated before eating.

The greatest factor in spreading the disease from man to man is the filthy, careless habit of spitting on the floors of the house, workroom or sidewalk.

If the patient had been taught to properly dispose of his sputum, and takes the precaution to cover his mouth when he coughs or sneezes there is no danger whatever in being in his company. Above all, he should not be treated as if he were an outcast, for he too often receives the cold shoulder from people who should know better, and there is no person so sensitive as a consumptive.

WHEN BLOOD IS POISON

The blood must be filtered, otherwise you are poisoned. If the kidneys fail the liver is overworked, and becomes torpid. By using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you get both these filtering organs working right, and also secure healthful action of the bowels. For this reason these pills are an ideal family medicine. They cure biliousness, constipation, chronic indigestion and kidney disease.

SOCIAL EVENING AT MURRAY STREET

One of the most successful events of the season in connection with Murray Street Baptist Church transpired last evening in the form of an "At Home," given by the Willing Workers. The large Sunday school room, which had been transformed into a drawing room for the occasion, was beautifully decorated, the drawing room effect being obtained by the judicious use of drapery, festooned with ribbons. Flowers also played a conspicuous part in the decorations.

Dr. Mann, convenes of the Social Committee, occupied the chair during the dispensation of the following excellent programme:

Vocal duet, Mr. Hayzlett and Mr. Bollard.

Reading, Mrs. Pettit.

Solo, Mr. Hayzlett.

Instrumental duet, Miss Childs and Miss Elcock.

Instrumental duet, Miss Quinn and Mr. Hayzlett.

The excellence of the numbers was in every detail worthy of the occasion, and the committee in charge deserve to be congratulated on its eminent success.

The enjoyment of the evening was further augmented by a choice programme of music, supplied by Cunningham's Orchestra. A portion of the evening was also devoted to the playing of games, which also served to accentuate the social aspect of the occasion and make the evening the more enjoyable to the two hundred people who took part in the festivities.

CONNECTION OF CRIME

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Your account of the conviction and sentence of the two vagrants on Thursday and the $5 fine of the youths for burglary discloses a superficial understanding of the true wants of the community and of the relationship between crime and its official corrective.

What would defensive partisanship be? It would be difficult at election time for any man to avoid taking sides, and, although the choice of two evils frequently, so he ought to. —Yours, etc.,

W. A. Bailey.

FRIENDS

It takes an alarm clock to get the attention of some people. There are others who can "hear a dollar bill drop." If a dollar bill should drop at your feet, it would be less important to you than the reading of this "ad." Just imagine we are looking you square in the eye. We want to say a few words to you straight from the heart. You are anxious to get the most actual value possible to secure for every dollar you spend for Clothes. That's why you should investigate the extraordinary values we are now offering. You like to buy goods you can depend upon—the kind you know are right in style, right in quality and right in price. You will find only that sort of Clothes here. We are determined that we will gain for this store a host of new customers this season by the giving of exceptional values. We are succeeding. We are doing the largest business in the history of this store. An investigation will prove to you that this store is giving better values for the same money or the same values for less money than any other store. You certainly cannot afford to buy a dollar's worth of clothes before you see what we offer. It is better to find out about these values before you buy, than later to wish you had. Drop in to-day, to-morrow, in fact any time. We'll be just as glad to see you if you come simply to look as though you came to buy. Let be sure and give us a call.
